SENATE

TUESDAY, APRIL 18, 1961.

The Senate met at 2:00 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Joseph D. Ripp) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. PETER CHRISAFIDEIS, Pastor of the Greek Orthodox Church, "Ypapanti," of East Pittsburgh, offered the following prayer:

In the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit.

O Master, Lord our God, the Source of life and immortality, the Author of all things, both visible and invisible, Who hast placed all seasons and years in Thy power and directs all things with Thy bounties, which Thou hast poured upon us during our life which is past, we entreat Thee, O all bountiful Lord, to grant wisdom to these men assembled here to undertake the duties of the Legislature. Endow them with the right understanding of Thy will and the many needs of this great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Guide and direct these men in their deliberations. Give them a keen sense of discernment. Strengthen and encourage them in the performance of the task which Thou hast planned for them. Grant them wisdom and knowledge that they may wisely undertake the affairs of the State in such a way as to bring to us the best leadership. Assist them to avoid any selfish purposes; use their talents and abilities to bring the greatest possible blessings.

O Lord Almighty, be present with us this day. For Thine is the Kingdom and the power and the glory of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, Amen.

GUESTS OF SENATOR HARRY E. SEYLER PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, we have present with us today, in the balcony, a group of youngsters from the York City Schools. As a matter of fact, they are junior high school students from the Edgar Fahs Smith Junior High School Civics Class. They are here today under the sponsorship of two of my professional colleagues and good friends from York; namely, Mr. Richard Jacobs and Mr. Leonard Bernhardt.

I wish that the Chair would recognize their presence.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Thank you, Senator Seyler, for calling our attention to the fact that so many students are here from the York City Schools, under the supervision of the two gentlemen designated by you.

Students, we are happy to have you here. If you will be kind enough to rise, we will give you the warm welcome of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Please rise.

We trust you will spend some time with us and see how your government is in operation.

GUESTS OF SENATOR JOHN T. VAN SANT PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, last week, I was afforded the great pleasure of introducing the Fifth Grade Opportunity Class from the Jefferson School, in Allentown. They consisted of a group of outstanding students which I told you more about.

Today, Mr. President, we have the Sixth Grade Opportunity Class from Jefferson School, in Allentown. Here, again, are a group of gifted children who are reaping the harvest of the great educational system of our city and of our Commonwealth.

It is my pleasure to present to you, Mr. President, the Sixth Grade Opportunity Students. They are here under the supervision of their teachers, Mrs. Stone and Mr. O'Brien, and their school principal, Mr. Robert Unser.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Thank you, Senator Van Sant.

On behalf of the Senate, the Chair welcomes the Sixth Grade Opportunity Class of the Jefferson School, in Allentown.

If the group, seated in the balcony, will be kind enough to rise, again, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will be happy to welcome you.

We also hope you will spend some time with us and watch your Senators as they discuss various bills and debate them.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WEINER and Mr. MCGINNIS, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

HOUSE MESSAGES

Welcoming former President and Mrs. Eisenhower to Pennsylvania.

He also presented for concurrence HB 892, which was referred to the Committee on Highways.

He also presented for concurrence HB 936, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented for concurrence HB 953, which was referred to the Committee on Local Government.

PENN STATE GLEE CLUB PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I have the privilege at this time to present the Penn State Glee Club.

I might say that they have been rehearsing in the House for the past half-hour. They, therefore, should be pretty sharp when they perform before the Senate. I think this group represents each and every Senatorial District, perhaps, in Pennsylvania. I might also say that if Penn, Temple and Pitt want equal time, I will vote equal time to them, I would be in favor of such a motion.

Mr. PRESIDENT, it is now my privilege to present the Leader of the Penn State Glee Club, Mr. Frank Gallu.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the leader of the group please come forward? You may come in with your entire ensemble.

RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease at this time for the purpose of hearing the Penn State Glee Club. I understand their performance will take about one-half hour. The Chair, therefore, declares a recess until the performance of the Glee Club is concluded.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

May the Chair, on behalf of the Senate, thank the Penn State Glee Club for a joyous afternoon of music? Things in the world, such as events in Cuba and Laos, all of which do not smack of harmony, are in contrast with the type of harmony that prevailed in the halls of this Senate today. It is trusted that some of this harmony will continue to prevail in the Senate as the various bills come up for discussion and debate.

Thank you again for being with us and bringing this musical treat to us.

SENATE RESOLUTION

SENATE COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER NECESSARY LEGISLATION REQUIRED TO SOLVE THE SCHOOL PROBLEMS, AS SET FORTH IN THE REPORT OF THE GOVERNOR'S COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION

Mr. WEINER, on behalf of the Democratic Caucus, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 41), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, April 18, 1961.

Whereas, The report of the Governor's Committee on Education sets forth the various problems presently facing the schools of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, The solution of some of these school problems requires legislation; that is, some legislation in the general field of education and some legislation in the field of taxation; and

Whereas, The legislative process takes time and thought, consideration and debate in order to arrive at the finished product of a law; and

Whereas, The earlier the Senate can take up these problems, the sooner their legislative solution can be arrived at; therefore be it

Resolved, That the President pro tempore of the Senate appoint a Senate Committee of four members of the Democratic Party and four members of the Republican Party to consider the necessary legislation required to solve the school problems as set forth in the Report of the Governor's Committee on Education; and be it further

Resolved, That the said Senate Committee shall, from time to time, meet with a similarly constituted committee of the House of Representatives so that they may jointly determine the legislative program which, in their opinion, will constitute the legislative goals of this Session in the field of school legislation.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, not in any way criticizing the resolution, I believe, however, it does take some time and thought—this, among other things.

For that reason, I suggest that this resolution be referred to the Rules Committee so it may be considered in that committee.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Potter, Senator Berger.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Berger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BERGER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman please advise the Members of the Senate if he is objecting to the four members who are to be appointed?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I certainly would not object to anyone in this room being appointed to any committee. I believe, however, this is a matter that will require some consideration and the taking under advisement of whether or not a special committee should be appointed to do this work or whether or not it might safely be left to the regularly constituted Committees on Education in both the Senate and the House.

I am not stating any opinion at this time, and that is the reason I would request that the bill be sent to the Rules Committee.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if I accede to his wish that we do not act on this resolution today, is it all right of we allow this measure to lie on the table, so if they decide to name four members, I might have the names of the four members whom they wish to name to this committee from the Republican side?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, there appears to be a suggestion on this side that the resolution go to the Rules Committee or a committee as may be selected by the Chair.

Mr. WEINER. I yield to Senator Hays, Mr. President.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the Majority Leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HAYS. Senator Weiner, would you tell us when you plan to call a Rules Committee Meeting to act on this resolution? I think this is a matter of urgency, myself.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I can only answer that question in this vein. We feel this bipartisan report on education which was handed down should have action. We feel the Governor's suggestion that there be a bipartisan committee to work on this matter should have immediate attention. I cannot and I will not say to my colleagues on the other side that the four members are so-and-so or have the President pro tempore name the members without their suggestion. All I am asking in this resolution is that they give us the names of four of their colleagues whom they would like to serve on this bipartisan committee, dealing with the education program.

I feel the Rules Committee could meet today, tomorrow, Monday or within a few minutes, if that would be helpful.

My concern is, even if we report this resolution from committee and put it on the Calendar, that no one is forced into doing this. If it is the suggestion of the gentlemen on the other side that they do not wish to go along with this resolution or do not wish to take a position on this matter, I would rather let it rest there.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would inquire of the Majority Leader whether or not this is an indication that you would have other matters of extreme importance on legislation referred to bipartisan committees?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I think for all practical purposes that is exactly what does happen. Since the Senate is divided twenty-five to twenty-five, I think that is the way we usually work on these issues. Without the cooperation of the gentlemen on the other side, I cannot pass any legislation, as you well know.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, may I inquire of the Majority Leader whether or not, in view of his statement just now, he intends to give equal representation on all committees?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if the issues that come before us are as nonpartisan as this is, I will be very happy to do that.

Here is an opportunity, Senator, to take advantage of a situation which gives you bipartisan representation. I do not understand why you will not take advantage of it. However, if, for reasons best known to yourself, you decide not to do that, I will be happy to go along with that.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, would the gentleman care to answer the question I propounded? Are you now prepared to give equal representation on all committees?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I will give the same kind of representation that has always existed in this Senate I think from the day of its inception. On a nonpartisan or bipartisan matter, I certainly hope that we will get bipartisan support.

I say here, as an addenda to what we have been talking about, that I do not think I ever got on the same level when I was in a similar position as the gentleman is now. I would have been happy to have that kind of an offer made to me, but it never was forthcoming. It ill-behooves us to overlook this kind of generosity at this stage of the game when we are dealing with a nonpartisan or bipartisan matter.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Gentlemen, in order to keep the business of the Senate moving orderly, the Chair thinks you are both going far afield, and unless Senator Hays has something to say, the Chair will refer the matter. Do you have something to say about this matter, Senator Hays?

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I would like to thank the Majority Leader for his answer. As the Chairman of the Education Committee, I would like to respectfully urge that he call a meeting of the Rules Committee today or tomorrow so we may get on with the work at hand on the Governor's Report.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. In order that the Majority Leader can call a proper meeting, the Chair will accordingly refer this resolution to the Committee on Rules.

MEMBERS OF THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I spent a very stimulating hour and a half at lunch time, an experience which I think was shared by many of my colleagues in the Senate, as I lunched with the representation from my county of the League of Women Voters.

The members of the delegation from York County are now seated in the balcony, and I would like the Presiding Officer to recognize them. As I look around, I gather there are many members of that League from other parts of the Commonwealth, and I would suggest that at the same time the President give recognition to these ladies.

I would say that this is an organization which is nonpartisan in nature and which provides support for many of the issues in the Commonwealth which I consider to be in the interest of good government. As a group of Senators, I know we are interested in furnishing that kind of legislation. Therefore, Mr. President, I feel it would be very fitting if you, at this time, would invite the members of that organization to rise and receive recognition from this Body.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Thank you, Senator Seyler, for calling our attention to the women who are her from the League of Women Voters. If the women from the organization will please rise, we will give you the warm welcome of the Senate of this Commonwealth.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, before doing that, a number of these groups come from various counties, and I would suggest that I would call the names of the counties and have the Senator rise on this side who might represent them, and the same be done by the Senators on the other side. I have the list here, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. You may proceed, Senator Berger.

Mr. BERGER. Will the Senators representing these groups rise as the groups rise and when the applause is given, the Senators may join so that there will be no mistake that they are included themselves.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator Berger, the Chair asks that you withhold for one moment.

You realize that yesterday, a specific time and hour was fixed for a Special Order of Business. Under the rules of the Senate, a motion must be made to postpone the consideration of that Special Order. Otherwise, we must proceed with dispatch. The hour was fixed at 3:00 o'clock. May the Chair hear a motion that we change the hour for the consideration of the Special Order of Business? Otherwise, according to the clock, we will have to consider that particular item.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I do not care to make such a motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Chair hear a second?

Mr. WEINER. There is no motion, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Therefore, according to the Calendar, we will proceed with the Special Order of Business.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I ask for a minute for the opportunity to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman, at this moment, is out of order. We will come back to it later. Because of the rule laid down yesterday, we will proceed according to the clock.

CONSIDERATION OF SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS ON HOUSE BILL NO. 132, PRINTER'S NO. 686, ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 132—Read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

AMENDMENTS TAKEN FROM THE TABLE AND WITHDRAWN

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I call from the table the amendments to House Bill No. 132, and yield to Senator Stroup.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if I am incorrect, please correct me. However, I believe the gentleman has offered his amendments. We were going through them because they are three pages long. I believe he might coordinate them with the Library Bill, itself.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. In order to assure the orderly process of business, Senator Weiner, do you desire to have the amendments read or re-read?

We will be at ease for a moment.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair previously recognized Senator Weiner and asked him whether he wanted the amendments read.

Mr. WEINER. No, sir. Originally, I believe the Chair recognized Senator Stroup when he offered his amendments. I believe he is going to make some comments on the amendments.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I request unanimous consent of the Senate to withdraw the amendments as submitted yesterday, for the purpose of submitting other amendments which may be more in conformity with the wishes of the entire Body.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, unanimous consent is granted to the request and the amendments are accordingly withdrawn.

I might say to the visitors in the gallery, who were about to be introduced, that yesterday a Special Order of Business came up. We, therefore, fixed the hour for considering that order of business for 3:00 p.m. Under our rules, we must consider this business at the hour fixed. I regret, exceedingly, the inability to introduce you. However, if time permits, we will come back to you.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, may we be at ease for just a moment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease for a moment.

(The Senate was at ease.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments to House Bill No. 132.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I did not receive a copy of these amendments. I only received the three pages of amendments. Are these the same as yesterday.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I suggested, when I withdrew the former amendments of yesterday, that I would submit other amendments which, perhaps, would be more palatable to the gentlemen on the other side. As a consequence, these are the amendments which I have just recently received from the Legislative Reference Bureau.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. I notice that Senator Seyler is standing there and I see he does not have a copy of the amendments. I am sure he would like a copy.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, may we be at ease for a moment, before we proceed with the reading of the amendments?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, it might be easier to follow the amendments if we took one section at a time and worked on it, rather than go through the entire bill and work on that. May we please proceed with the first one?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, does the Majority Leader desire me to explain the amendments as they now appear in the bill?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Let us have the Clerk read the amendment and then we will do our explaining.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe if we took them up one at a time, we would be able to follow this a little bit better.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, Senator Stroup, you may proceed.

Mr. STROUP, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 102, page 3, lines 7, 8 and 9 by striking out "of coordinating the services of all local" in line 7, all of line 8 and "library center system" in line 9.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, this was the amendment which we had time to debate yesterday and on which we had extensive interrogation. It is still in the same position and I would imagine, since this is submitted in the new amendment, it still applies. From my point of view, therefore, I would suggest that we proceed to the next amendment.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, before we proceed to the next amendment, I would desire to interrogate the gentleman from Somerset, Senator Stroup.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Stroup, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STROUP. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman explain to us that if he strikes out the words "of coordinating the services of all local libraries within the district which by contract become part of the district library center system," is this not tearing out the very heart or the very essence of this bill?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, it is not tearing out the heart or the essence of the bill in any way whatsoever.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman then explain, if we remove this feature of the bill, how will the State Librarian set up minimum standards, for personnel, books and other materials, location, type of building and hours of service? How will he do that?

Mr. STROUP. The State Librarian can still, and will, under the bill, set up those standards and formulate them and introduce them to the local libraries with suggestions in reference to them, in order for the local libraries to attempt to meet those standards and qualify, if they see fit.

All this amendment does under this particular section—Subsection 3—is take out the superimposed supervision of coordinating all the libraries in a district library center. This could very well result in a local library or a county library, not wishing to be a member of the district library center system, being compelled to become a member of such a system in order to receive State-aid.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman please refer to page 3, Subsection 3 of this bill, as written here, under Section 102, "Definitions"? We are dealing with subsection 3, entitled: "District Library Center." It states very clearly what the district library center shall be, what it shall do and what the State Librarian's function therein is. If you take out of that, by striking out, the words "of coordinating the services of all local libraries within the district" and so on and so forth, which is a part of the district library center system, how will the State Librarian be able to set up minimum standards or personnel which are required? In other words, if I understand the word "coordinating," then you have to have something to coordinate. If you remove that which is going to be coordinated, it makes no difference whether you do have this program or not. We might as well just keep what we have.

Mr. STROUP. I must respectfully disagree, Mr. President.

The State Library, with the standards which the Librarian will set, can very well deal directly with the county libraries on the local libraries under the traditional system, with a recommendation for standards.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman please advise us whether he feels, by just putting up this money, that is enough, without having the coordination or the State Librarian set up a system which is adequate for everyone in this Commonwealth?

Mr. STROUP. The State Librarian will set up a system that is adequate for the Commonwealth, under this bill, as the amendments are submitted and, if they are adopted, purely from the standpoint of a recommendation and suggestion. With reference to the local libraries, we are removing, by these amendments, the compulsory element of this bill upon local and county libraries.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if we adopt the gentleman's amendments, what will be left of this bill?

Mr. STROUP. As a consequence of the adoption of the amendments, you will have a tremendous amount of local effort if the local districts see fit to do so. As a consequence, the libraries will receive State-aid as set forth under the bill.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, how does that differ from what we now have?

Mr. STROUP. It goes much further, Mr. President, from what we now have.

Mr. WEINER. Would you please explain how, sir?

Mr. STROUP. It gives them local effort on the basis of one-quarter mill for the first year and from the Commonwealth, about twenty-five cents per capita for each local library or for each county library. It also includes the continuance of the county library, with its appropriations, and the possibility of receiving from the Commonwealth upward of anywhere from twenty-five to 100 per cent of State-aid for that library.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, is it a fair statement to say that all we are doing here, if the gentleman's amendments are adopted, is merely giving money to these libraries without doing anything else, such as setting up standards, setting up minimum requirements and making sure that there are adequate library facilities?

It is not a fact, Mr. President, that all the gentleman is actually doing here is giving the same libraries, which are in existence today, additional money?

Mr. STROUP. No, Mr. President, that is not true.

The bill with the amendments, if adopted, would implement throughout the Commonwealth an effort by local libraries and county libraries everywhere to respond to certain pressures, let us say, at the local level, and certain requests at the local level for increased library aid.

The only thing which the amendments do—and now we get to the crux of this entire problem—is remove the indirect compulsion to which the local libraries must submit. One must remember, Mr. President, that under this bill, the money which is going to be raised, a great amount of it comes from the local level. There must be an increase of millage on real estate and upon homes, which already are tremendously overburdened. As a consequence, if the local libraries see fit to so perform, they receive the State-aid as set forth in the bill. However, we do not want to have the local and county libraries be denied State-aid when they make the local effort because they do not come up to the particular standards which are recommended or determined by the State Librarian, who then become a dictator of the entire system.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman please explain to us who is going to set up these standards, if he is removing the coordinating feature from this bill? Would he also explain to us how this money is going to help this situation if they make the local effort, but do not do anything further about improving the facilities which are now available to them and which, apparently, have not been improved over the years? This is one of the reasons why we have House Bill No. 132 here before us today.

If we follow through with the amendments submitted by the gentleman, is it not true that nothing will be left of this bill except a mere shell? The only thing left in it would be to give these local areas money, whether or not they meet the need of the communities or the requirements.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I think the best answer to the gentleman's question is that if the bill were to be adopted as it is presently written, without amendments, there would be little effort on the part of local citizens or local groups to comply with the requests in the bill. Local and county libraries must surrender their autonomy for a minimum amount of State-aid. They have the burden of raising a great majority of the funds, themselves.

In the long run, therefore, what do your local and rural libraries, particularly, receive as a consequence of the legislation as it is presently written? They receive nothing but a superimposed element of control from the State Librarian and the Advisory Council. They surrender that which they already have, thereby making the bill become a nullity. There is little or no incentive whatsoever for local groups.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman please advise me where in the bill it shows that the State Librarian would superimpose his power or become a dictator? Will he also show me where the word "control" appears in the bill?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I call to the attention of the gentleman Section 303 and Section 304. Before that, I call his attention to Section 201 and the responsibility, let us call it, is set forth in those sections for the State Librarian to exercise.

They provide that the State Librarian shall coordinate a State-wide system of local libraries and counsel local libraries on minimum standards for number, quality of library staff, resources of books and other materials, and even location of new local libraries, hours and physical facilities. That is the power of the State Librarian. The implementation and explanation of that power is found in Sections 303 and 304.

Mr. President, if the gentleman will refer to those particular sections, he will find, in the first place, in Section 303—

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, would the gentleman please yield for just one moment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. STROUP. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to ask just one question. It might clarify this for me. Mr. President, will the gentleman advise me or give me an example where the State Librarian might act in a manner that might be distasteful to the local area? Maybe that would clarify it for me.

Mr. STROUP. The State Librarian?

Mr. WEINER. Under this bill.

Mr. STROUP. The State Librarian, under this bill, has the authority to move in and counsel or make recommendations to the local library boards. As a consequence, under Section 303 and Section 304, if those minimum standards which the State Librarian sets up are not met, then the local area does not receive any State-aid.

These amendments are designed to make it possible for the local districts to comply with the requests and suggestions in the bill by imposing taxation at the local level in order to improve the libraries and then, after having done that, to receive State-aid, but not to be denied State-aid when they reach the local effort requirement because they do not come up to certain regulations and requirements which the State Librarian might lay down.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman please advise us how recommending or counseling would result in dictatorship? Will he please give us a specific example that would be distasteful to the local areas about which he is so concerned? Where could the State Librarian even act in an arbitrary manner which would have the effect of hurting the local effort? I would appreciate a specific example, even as to the location, if it puts it in that locality that makes it more available to the people who live in the community.

This is what is before us in these amendments, which, I think, seem to tear out the very heart of this bill.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I think you will find that the bill specifies that all funds, both local and State, will be controlled by the State because a plan for the use of the funds—and I emphasize that—must be submitted which will move the local library up to minimum standards.

Now that just does not mean State-aid funds, nor is it spelled out in the bill as presently written. It means local funds also. Therefore, when they have all of the funds that are raised by local effort and by the State, a plan for the use of the funds must be submitted to the State Librarian. If the plan, as submitted for the use of the funds, is not approved by the State Librarian, then State-aid can be removed.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I know I am being repetitious and I hope the gentleman will forgive me. It is just that I have difficulty in understanding things.

Would you give me a concrete example, Senator, of where this would be difficult? Would you just reduce it down, so that even I could understand it, to some concrete example or specific example where this type of operation, either counseling or recommendation by the State Librarian, would have the effect of making it distasteful to the local people?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, all funds, both on the local and the State level, must be used to meet the requirements of the State Librarian in so far as the number and quality of staff is concerned, which indirectly means the salary paid to the staff. The libraries are required to submit plans as to the resources of books, of other materials, data of library management and details on that management. I think the rules and regulations that the State Librarian will set down are contained in Section 201, Subsection 15. Therein is contained the entire part of the indirect control. When State-aid can be removed, then certainly the local library must comply or they do not receive State-aid.

That, Mr. President, is exactly what these particular amendments do. They permit us to receive the aid. They permit us to receive the aid. They permit us to handle the local effort and raise our funds, but we do not lose

State-aid if we just do not comply with what the State tells us we must do.

These amendments, Mr. President, are designed to continue our full faith and confidence in the operation of our local municipalities and in the personnel that makes up the library boards. We feel quite confident that it is not necessary to submit ourselves to this type of control by the State on the local level of our public libraries.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman please advise us whether he is satisfied with the present library system that we have?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I am unsatisfied with it for the simple reason that it does not make enough provision for our increased local effort and increased State-aid, and that is what we get through this bill.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, does the gentleman feel that we ought to give State-aid without setting any minimum standards as to personnel or as to requirements of what these libraries contain?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, it is not necessary to set minimum standards that must be met in order to receive State-aid. It is merely necessary to advise, counsel and assist local library groups and local library boards.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman advise, under the Constitution of the State, how we can give any money without setting any standards or how we can pass any legislation that gives any money without setting any standards or any requirements?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, as I understand the Constitution of the State, at least I know of no constitutional prohibition in the Constitution which would make it impossible for our Legislature to grant State-aid without insisting upon and compelling that certain requirements be met. State-aid can be given and granted. I think it could very well be legally interpreted as being possible to give State-aid under the Constitution without setting up a compulsion of compliance.

Mr. WEINER. Senator, would you be in favor of giving State-aid promiscuously without any requirements or any standards being set?

Mr. STROUP. I am in favor, as the amendments will show, Mr. President, of giving State-aid under requirements which are recommended and suggested without denying that aid if those particular standards are not met.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, have I understood the gentleman correctly? Please correct me if I am in error. You say that you are in favor of setting up standards and certain requirements, but you are not in favor of withdrawing the money if these standards and requirements are not met.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, not as long as local effort is continued.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I do not wish to interrogate the gentleman any further on this. I want to thank him for his remarks and also for bringing me up-to-date on how this problem should be handled.

I would like to say on behalf of myself and my colleagues that this will tear out the very heart of the bill and the very purpose of it. The reason for this bill is, as was stated here yesterday, that there are many, many, many areas in this State—too many areas in this State—which do not have adequate library facilities. There are over 50,000,000 people in this Country who are denied adequate library facilities. We have an opportunity to take care of some of those people right in our own State, and the first chance that we have to do anything about it, the best that we are met with are amendments to tear out the heart of this bill and leave a mere shell.

The gentleman is in favor of giving this money—I am quoting him and if I am incorrect, I wish he would correct me—to these people and he wants them to have this money and make the local effort, but he certainly does not want to set any requirements for it. However, if he does set requirements for it and they do not meet them, he is perfectly willing for them to still have the money and will not take it away if they do not meet the requirements.

If that is logic, I have difficulty understanding it. It might be just me, Senator. However, I think some of my colleagues have difficulty understanding it, as do some other people.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, it had been my intention not to make any further remarks on this particular section. However, in the exchange between the Majority Leader and the Senator offering the amendment, some points developed which I do not think I can allow to pass without attempting to controvert.

This is the section, I would remind everyone, which specifically does one thing. It removes from the bill the possibility of coordinating services of local libraries within the district which, by contract, become part of the district library center system. This is specifically what this amendment does. In other words, it takes from the bill the coordinating function of the bill. It says, in effect: "We will give you money if you raise some local money. We will give you some additional money to operate your libraries. However, there shall be no coordination."

If we do that, then we are saying to each library that we will give them more money and they can go ahead as they please.

I respectfully submit to the gentleman who is offering the amendments, and all other Senators who are interested in achieving the aims of this bill, that taking out this particular section will mean that we will be putting in more money and encouraging local districts to put more money into libraries without achieving the purpose we are seeking.

I think—and I understood from the gentleman's remarks yesterday that he agreed—that the aim of this bill is to provide adequate library services to any citizen of this Commonwealth no matter where he lives, because under our present situation, we have magnificent libraries in some parts of our Commonwealth and we have practically none in other parts of our Commonwealth.

If it is true that our aim is to make adequate library service available to all citizens, then we should include in this bill those measures which are likely to do that. I respectfully submit that it is not possible to let each local library within its own orbit, even if it has more money, furnish the kind of service we are talking about.

For example, in a given district, if a library has more money, it buys more books. However, that library is never going to be able to afford to have on its shelves all of the books that may be in demand by some of the individuals in that district. It can have a good fiction selection, yes. However, I am talking about books which only a few people in that area may want but which, if they need as citizens, they are entitled to have just as the citizens of any other part of the Commonwealth are entitled to have them.

What the bill suggests here is that the services of these libraries over the State shall be coordinated. I do not know that there is anything frightening about coordinating something. By coordinating services, we simply mean that libraries which have other resources will supply them upon demand by requests from libraries which do not have those resources. That is all coordination means. I see nothing frightening in the idea. I see, as a matter of fact, that if we are going to do anything with the additional money that we are asking the Commonwealth and local districts to furnish, we must have some coordination. Each little library by itself cannot possibly develop the kind of services that are needed.

The gentleman has, in a number of his remarks, inferred that he is afraid of this item and several others which he is attempting to amend in this bill because of the question of home rule. He is afraid that local units are going to somehow be dominated by powers above them which will make unreasonable demands upon them. I would suggest to him that if he is really interested in home rule, the thing that needs to be done is to see to it that you have adequate local units which will be able to furnish the services people need, because the surest way to destroy local initiative and local units of service, and have people calling upon the State or the Federal Government to do it, is to have those local units become so ineffective that they cannot supply the services which people need. I say that the best way to support home rule and to see that your local library does exist as a local library, and does meet the need, is to make it strong enough and, by coordination, to make the facilities of the other great libraries in our State accessible to it so that it will be able to meet the demand and so that the people will not need to appeal to the State to take over a function that local units—in this case, local libraries—are no longer able to supply.

Several other terms have come up in addition to coordination. If the gentleman is afraid of coordination, he says he is also afraid of recommendation. He finds something very tyrannical and very authoritarian in recommending something. He is afraid of the term counseling. My impression of counseling is that people sit down together and try to work out a good solution. These are not authoritarian words. Coordination is not an authoritarian word.

I would remind the gentleman again that no library needs to go under this system. This section would only apply to those libraries which are willing, by contract, to become part of the district library system. We have in view, and I am sure it will be supported on both sides, an amendment which will say that no district will receive any less funds as a result of their not participating in this bill than they did before. With that precaution, I do not see where the gentleman's problem is. No one is being forced or coerced to do anything.

I think the basic problem involved here is the fact that little libraries existing by themselves, regardless of how much money they are able to raise and how much the State is able to give them, are never, without coordination with the library system of our State, going to be able to bring to the people the service which they need and deserve.

Mr. WARE. Mr. President, I think at the outset, both Senator Weiner and Senator Seyler were concerned with the problem of coordination. I would like to point out that I served for a quarter of a century as a trustee of a library which has been coordinating throughout all of those years with public school libraries, university libraries and other libraries. We expect to continue to do so. I feel there is no need for any legislation in the Senate of this Commonwealth to try to force people to coordinate or to prevent them from coordinating. They are perfectly free to do so at any time under the present laws of the Commonwealth.

I would add further that no amount of amendments—or no amount of legislation—to House Bill No. 132 or any other bill are going to bring that about, except to the extent that the people in these local units want service of that type.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, the gentleman from York has entirely missed the point concerning the amendments and the purpose of the amendments.

Certainly, it is true that the district library center has the power to enter into contracts with other local libraries to produce a coordinated system. They have the power. The question is, basically, if a local library or a county library does not wish to enter into such a contract and participate in the coordination of the system, then they lose State-aid. That is one of the regulations which would be imposed upon them. If not, then amend it accordingly and say they would not. Can they preserve the local autonomy otherwise? Under this bill, they cannot.

Mr. President, in all the discussion which we had here this afternoon and yesterday on this bill, there is a divergence of philosophy concerning everything which has been remarked, it seems to me, by the Majority Leader and by the distinguished gentleman from York. They are insisting upon State control. Certainly, under Sections 303 and 304—interpreted as you must interpret them from the language which is set forth there—and from the authority which is granted to the State Librarian in Section 201, State-aid can be shut off. It surely will be shut off, even though local effort is carried on by the local libraries. As a consequence, there is no use and no incentive for the local groups to surrender their autonomy in order to receive questionable State-aid.

That is the position of these amendments, Mr. President. The more the gentlemen from the opposition to these amendments continue to vehemently protest against them, the more they subscribe to the fact that they want to raise a hierarchy—a word which is used in the Library Commission's report—on the State level and impose their regulations and their requirements, without law, upon the local districts. If the local districts do not comply, then, of course, there are no funds.

Give us a bill, Mr. President, as these amendments ask—and I am speaking on the amendments—whereby we can go out and work for our libraries under responsible people on the local level and receive suggestions, recommendations and counseling from the State Librarian, without the onus and the burden of losing State-aid if we do not exactly jump through the hoop when we are asked to.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Somerset, Senator Stroup.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Stroup, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STROUP. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, suppose this were a welfare bill and we were giving State-aid under the Assistance Program. Would the gentleman then want a standard to be set in order for people to qualify, or would he go along with the very poor and needy receiving it and those people who have lots of money, who want to receive it, also getting it?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, the gentleman has hit me in a very sore spot with this question.

I would recommend that the Department of Public Assistance facilities might be better, more efficiently and more capably administered on the local level than on the State level as is now done.

That is the best answer I can give the gentleman.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I do not want the gentleman to completely evade the issue.

Suppose we take the matter of the school subsidy. Perhaps that issue does not hit him as hard where he lives. Suppose we set no standards there. Would the gentleman be just as happy without regulations and standards dealing with that problem?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, the analogy between the school system and public education in the Commonwealth, as compared to that of the public libraries, is, of course, not completely sustained. I would consider the analogy irrelevant and, certainly, rather incompetent on this situation. Nevertheless, since the gentleman brings this matter to our attention, one of the great difficulties that we are experiencing in public education is that due to the standards—I do not say it is wrong and, therefore, do not misunderstand me—set by the Department of Public Instruction, local boards have been compelled to raise so much money until now they are so extremely overburdened, they do not know where to turn. Real estate, in so far as its tax millage is concerned, has reached the point of no return. That is a good example, in so far as State control is concerned.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, still continuing the debate on the amendment, I wish to reply to a few remarks made by Senator Stroup which repeat something which he said yesterday.

I wish to repeat to the gentleman that neither I nor anyone in this Senate who is battling for this bill, in any way, are opposed to home rule or believe in State control or believe in a hierarchy which would put undue pressure on local districts. I do not think the following organizations are opposed to home rule or want to be destructive to the local libraries: The distinguished committee which drew this bill, after several years of work, all of which were composed on a nonpartisan basis of lay people, who I am sure have the welfare of the Commonwealth at heart and would abhor a destructive bureaucracy; the State Organization of the Parent-Teachers' Association, which has carefully studied this bill and endorsed it as it stands, without amendments; the League of Women Voters, a letter from whose President I have received, endorsing the bill as it stands, without amendments. None of those organizations, I would remind the gentleman, has any desire in any way to limit home rule or to be destructive to local libraries.

There was one organization—another distinguished organization of ladies, I understand—which had certain objections to this bill. Amendments were made in the House which, I understand, met their objections and they have been removed.

I do not know at the present moment of any group in the Commonwealth, many of whom have given intensive study to this because this is a matter of tremendous importance to people who are interested in public education, in the literacy of our people and in having good citizens who are informed and able to participate as citizens, which has taken a position against this bill as it stands without the amendments.

There is no question here of trying to be destructive to local initiative. In fact, the effort here is to make local units capable, by receiving State help and by working with each other through coordination, of offering the kind of services which are needed.

I cannot without correction let the gentleman's statement stand that such an insidious and sinister motive exists in the minds of the thousands of good people in the Commonwealth who have supported this bill and are in favor of this bill without amendments.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to point out to Senator Stroup the meaning of "coordinating" in Webster's Dictionary, which I hope he will accept. It usually means harmonious and equal. It means an operation where people are partners and try to get their work together in sort of an equal and harmonious adjustment. Equal usually means partners, and harmonious relations usually mean the type where one person is not trying to dominate the other or trying to dictate, push or press anyone in any area. I think that is hardly what you have in mind, Senator.

I think this is the point that you are completely missing by substituting the word "dictating" for the word "coordinating," Senator. I think the two are not even close to each other.

Also, Senator, if you wipe this part out of the bill, how will you have the libraries lend each other books or cross-lend to borrowers who might live in one area and who might go down to another area? How would you allow for that?

Would you not, Senator, have duplication of effort when all you are doing is pouring more money into the already bad system that exists? It is bad in the sense that there is not adequate service for everyone in the Commonwealth.

Senator, I do not know that I should be particularly complaining because we have a very adequate library system in my area of the State. At the other end of the State, this is also true. However, I am not sure that it is true in your area of the State and the areas of some of the other gentlemen. I think they are inadequate in the sense that you do not have the books. I am sure that you have proper personnel, but you do not have the kind of material that the people in your communities would like to have in their libraries.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I do not wish to unduly delay the voting on this amendment. However, I must answer certain allegations that have been presented by the gentleman from York and also by the Majority Leader.

First of all, as to the shades of meaning and nuance to be found in the word "coordination," while it does mean harmonious participation, it also requires, in this instance, a district library center which will be under the supervision of the State Librarian who will, in fact, be responsible for the coordination of the services and, therefore, require a complete compliance with such services or State-aid would be denied. That would be one of the rules and regulations under Section 201, Subsection 15, as I cited before.

Now as to the basic question concerning this problem of control, I cannot conscientiously or sincerely see what particular basis the gentlemen of the opposition, who so vehemently oppose these amendments, find to take issue with. If they do take issue with them, then they are asking for control. They are asking for supervision and they are asking for requirements to be met, and if the requirements are not met, then the libraries do not receive State-aid. The local effort, therefore, which the bill would imply and require in order to get that State-aid, would be unnecessary.

I submit to you, Mr. President, and to all of the gentlemen here, that these amendments make a good bill of that which is otherwise a very onerous and burdensome bill at the local level.

As to the fact that there are people who are not asking for amendments and that there are so many organizations, as the gentleman cites, who want this bill as it is, at first blush when one looks at it, it is a popular bill. It is the type of legislation which window dresses everything, with which we are becoming so familiar. It offers so much at the front, but when you get down deep into a study of it, and a scrutiny and analysis of it section by section, you find what we find in this bill: an imposition of State attitudes and State control on the local level.

We who sponsored these amendments yesterday, and others on this side I believe who are in harmonious thinking with us, are of the opinion that we can have an excellent library system with this bill if the amendments should be adopted. We rely upon the fiduciary relationship of our municipalities, who will participate in setting up the local effort of the libraries, and on our trustees or our responsible citizens to cooperate and to work with us, but not to have it said unto them: "Do this or you do not receive State-aid from us." That is the fault of the bill.

I, in my own area, I assure the gentlemen of the Senate, Mr. President, have found that reaction throughout the three counties that I represent. For that reason, I sponsored these amendments because I found out from my people that they do not want this type of legislation foisted upon them by this Senate.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I want to reply to a few statements made by the gentleman in his last remarks.

First of all, he asked why are we opposing the amendments to the bill unless we are in favor of a tight State control. I can answer him in this way. We are against the amendments because we are convinced that these amendments, in substance, would make the bill an ineffective one. They would eviscerate and, in effect, kill the bill. The people who are favoring the bill are against passing a bill which will be a cheat and defraudment upon the people.

If we are going to have a bill which is effective, let us keep the provisions which make it effective. Merely to supply more money to ineffective libraries, which will spend more money and still be ineffective, is not the purpose of this bill. We are opposed to the amendments because we are honestly convinced that these amendments, in substance, will kill the bill as far as any effectiveness is concerned.

I, personally, would consider that a vote for these amendments would be just the same as a vote to kill the bill.

Secondly, it seems to me the gentleman insults many good people in the Commonwealth when he insinuates that they have only looked at the title of this bill. As he put it, the face of it promises well and the idea is good.

I do not think the people who have endorsed this bill have done so without giving the matter serious thought. I know that the P.T.A. had a Legislative Committee which spent a lot of time on analysis of this bill. I would suspect that the League of Women Voters is another organization which would not give a superficial scrutiny and recommend something which would make for bad government in this Commonwealth. I think it is an insult to the kind of people that I cited to say that they would give such a superficial examination that they would endorse something without knowing what is in it. I believe they have considered it. I believe they know what the issues are. I think they realize that what is in the bill needs to remain in the bill if we are going to have an effective law.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, the insult which is being given is more likely to be given, if at all,—certainly not intentionally, I am sure, by any of us—by the gentleman from York who insults the integrity, the capacity and the ability of our local librarians, of our local library groups and our boards of trustees to handle their own affairs, and to tell them that they cannot do this properly unless we set up for them a State library and we will shut off their State-aid if they do not comply with what we tell them to do.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Let us keep the debate to a minimum.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I just wish to make one short statement in answer to that, and that is to point out to the gentleman that the Library Association, which is an association of the libraries in this state, and which I am presumably insulting, has endorsed this bill. It is in favor of this bill as it is now without amendments.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I would like to comment briefly and congratulate Senator Stroup on making what sounds like a wonderful argument on a very weak case.

As far as I am concerned, and I am sure any layman would agree, the word "coordinating services" do not mean and never will mean dictation.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, I read from a Pittsburgh Post-Gazette editorial of Wednesday, March 8, 1961. The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette supports this bill and gives many reasons why, but some of these organizations who are supporting it were not mentioned here today.

"Gov. Lawrence's plan has been endorsed by the Pennsylvania Library Assn., the Pennsylvania Federation of Women's Clubs, the Pennsylvania Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Pennsylvania Council of Teachers of English, the State Junior Chamber of Commerce, and many individual library boards and citizens' groups."

The Harrisburg Patriot, supporting this bill in a vigorous editorial, exposes the opponents of this bill.

The most outstanding one is Mrs. Katharine B. Martindale, Chairman of the Council of Republican Women's Legislative Advisory Committee. The editorial reads as follows:

"Perhaps the most glaring weakness in Mrs. Martindale's report to her Council members and to legislators is the contention that Pennsylvania can cure its library ills through 'traditional methods' of support. State-aid now goes to only 8 per cent of our libraries—those set up as county libraries. It does not go to the great bulk of the State's patchwork system of libraries. And because of a lack of sufficient tax base, incentives and general public interest, these libraries simply aren't providing the information services that Pennsylvanians need."

In the Valley Independent of Charleroi and Donora, the Republican Party is accused of obstructing this bill:

"Some Republican leaders in Pennsylvania seem to want to go out of their way to enhance the reputation of the GOP as a party of obstruction and reaction. And in so doing, they often play squarely into the hands of their Democratic opponents."

"This time the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women has done it by coming out against a carefully developed program to improve public library service throughout the State."

"This program grew out of a detailed study made by a bipartisan commission of distinguished citizens originally appointed by ex-Gov. Leader and continued by Gov. Lawrence . . ."

Continuing further, the newspaper states that:

"HB 132 strikes us as a modest program, yet one which can gradually correct a serious deficiency in many communities of Pennsylvania. We earnestly hope the legislature agrees."

In the Center Daily Times, this well-known newspaper editorializes again. All of the editorials point out—including the Philadelphia Inquirer—that other States, especially to the northeast of us, have very excellent library systems. New York spends about six times as much as Pennsylvania whereas the States to the south of us—especially the deep South—spend very little or nothing on public libraries.

These editorials, in my opinion, are indicative of the support of the people of Pennsylvania in favor of this bill without amendment. I believe the opinion of the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should prevail in this body.

Mr. HAWBAKER. Mr. President, I would just like to remind the gentleman who just spoke that not one word of opposition has been voiced on this side of the aisle against this bill. We have not taken any position opposing House Bill No. 132. We are simply trying to improve this bill and make a better bill out of it.

Those of us who are fighting for these amendments are doing so only in order to make this bill more palatable and more acceptable to the people we represent.

I can understand the position of the people who represent the large metropolitan areas which have large libraries. This bill is tailor-made for them. I can well understand that they support the position of our illustrious Governor who seems to be intent upon raising money by taxing rural areas and spending that money in the big cities. This is precisely what this bill is designed to do because, as the Majority Leader has pointed out, the people in the rural areas who feel they cannot comply with the requirements are perfectly free to go right on paying their taxes to support this bill while, at the same time, receiving absolutely no benefits.

As to being obstructionists, I would like to point out to Senator Mullin that what the gentlemen on the other side are proposing—indeed, the very issue before this Senate at this moment—is exactly the same issue that faced our Nation 160 years ago when The Honorable Thomas Jefferson was opposing the Federalists. The Federalists insisted that only the elite were capable of governing; that the rank and file were incapable of governing themselves, and the local districts must be supervised by the Federal Government.

If this is what you call progress,—taking us back to the philosophy of 160 years ago and if progress is reverting back to eighteenth century techniques—then, gentlemen, I am happy to be classed in the category of obstructionist.

Mr. SESLER. Mr. President, with due respect to the gentleman from Franklin, I would like to take exception to his remarks. I believe, first of all, that the discussion on this amendment revolves around two or three crucial points.

Behind the arguments we have heard today rests the proposition and the ancient fear that government encroaches upon individual liberties. To this end, the proponents of this amendment believe that no control or coordination should be made with the local libraries on how our State funds are to be spent.

At the risk of being redundant, let us look at the first point. The first point is this: Shall we be prepared to spend the money collected from all the people throughout this Commonwealth and give this money to local libraries without having any coordination being made by trained librarians who can assist, particularly the rural areas, in formulating a library program that will be an improvement over our present system?

This is not designed simply for urban libraries. In fact, I think that a history of this bill would indicate that this first study was made because of the inadequacies of our rural libraries. It is these libraries that I sincerely believe will be benefitted by these amendments.

However, I believe the analogies that have been made as to the use of school funds, for example, are indeed relevant, because I think that all of us would agree here that we could not spend large sums of money and give this money to local districts without some form of coordination to insure that it is being spent in those ways that people who are trained to study this subject believe are proper. This is only common sense.

The rural areas are those areas which lack trained librarians and trained technicians who can give this supervision. In the local, rural areas they do lack this type of science. That is the reason, ladies and gentlemen, that library science is becoming a science.

I would like to indicate to you that in a democracy, we continue to say that because we shall attempt to limit this aid, we shall not set forth any form of coordination or control. This is a mistake in this day and age of increasingly large bodies of knowledge being collected. We all know that the human race marches forward, and as we do, vast bodies of human knowledge are being collected.

As an example of comparison, I would like to read to you a statement from the Library Journal of January 15, 1961. This is a statement made by Doctor Thomas Dreier, who is Chairman of the Florida State Library Commission. This information was quite shocking to me and it might be of interest to you.

Doctor Dreier states that Doctor E. Feisly Carter, of Stanford Research Institute, made a study of certain aspects of the Russian library system.

For example, there is in Russia at the present time an institute known as the All-Union Institute of Science and Technical Information. This staff has at its disposal 2,500 full time technicians and approximately 10,000 to 20,000 part time translators. This institute at the present time, it is estimated, translates approximately 11,000 technical and scientific journals from all over the world, with the idea in mind of having at their disposal all known scientific information available.

I would like to ask the gentleman this. Do you know how many technical periodicals are being translated by the Library of Congress today? I will tell you; 250. This is the estimate by the best known librarian-scientist we have in the United States today.

What is the net result of this? I can tell you as an example, that there was one company in the United States which spent $250,000 on basic research, and when they had spent the money, they found out that all of the work had already been done in Russia and it would have been available to them if they had these periodicals at their disposal.

This is not to say that we are going to change this situation by our library bill. However, our State is only an indicia of this backwardness that exists throughout the United States. I am sorry to say that in many respects, Pennsylvania is behind other States. This is indicated, for example, in our per capita expenditure for library purposes.

There is another interesting figure which I found very shocking. During World War II, approximately one-half of the libraries in Russia were destroyed, and it is estimated that at the end of the war they had 44,300 libraries. Today it is estimated, by the best experts now available, that there are 394,000 libraries in Russia, with volumes of books totaling 1.5 billion or approximately 700 books for every 100 inhabitants.

Do you know how many libraries there are in the United States? The total of public, private and institutional libraries is 25,000, of which 7,000 are truly free public libraries. This is the estimate today; 25,000 libraries in the United States and 394,000 in the Soviet Union.

This comparison itself means nothing. However, if we are to preserve our democratic ideals and if we are to realize, for example, that we must have an educated electorate if we are to maintain and preserve our democratic principles, then let us not, in the name of democracy and in terms of preserving and being afraid we are going to impose controls, end up with a mutilated type of program whereby we do not have an adequate, coordinated system, dedicated to improving and giving us those libraries that this State needs.

Mr. HAWBAKER. Mr. President, I would just like to say, in reply to what the distinguished gentleman from Erie has just said, that if we are going to use the standards of libraries in Russia as a criterion for progress in libraries in the United States, again, I am happy to be classed in the category of obstructionist. I see no reason why it is necessary for us, in order to have progress in these United States, to adopt the techniques and the methods of Russia. I think this is a very, very weak argument.

I would further point out that again this issue which is before us at this moment is exactly the same issue that divides the civilized world; that issue being, shall people control government or shall government control people?

I wish to reply to another statement which was just made by the gentleman from Erie, in which he indicated that the hearts of the gentlemen from the big cities bleed for the libraries in rural areas. These gentlemen insist that they best know what should be done for local, rural libraries. They are not willing to allow the people in these local areas to decide for themselves what is best for local, rural libraries. They are not even willing to accept the judgment of Senators in this Senate who represent rural, local people. They adhere to the philosophy that only the elite, only those people who are privileged to happen to be residents of large metropolitan areas, are capable and sufficiently intelligent to dictate policy for this entire Commonwealth.

I submit, Mr. President, that there are people just as intelligent in the smallest communities of Pennsylvania, and just as capable of managing their own affairs, as anyone in any large city. I resent the implication that rural people are incapable of managing their own affairs and the rural Senators are incapable of reflecting those sentiments in this Senate.

Mr. SESLER. Mr. President, I would like to dispel an allusion which has been made by the gentleman from Franklin that we are speaking on behalf of urban libraries. I, for one, represent more rural libraries in my district than I do urban libraries. We only have possibly one so-called urban library and that is in the city of Erie, which certainly should not be classified as a large city.

Secondly, no one on this side of the aisle has ever made any inference that we are going to force the rural libraries to do what they do not wish to do. Let us remember that, first of all, this is an optional program. It need not be accepted. Let us remember that.

I am sure that in the course of this discussion, we will consider the possibility of providing an amendment whereby the local libraries can choose to receive a sum similar to that which they are now receiving. We will not increase it or change it in the scope of this bill, but we will not deflect from that. This is simply a reasonable alternative. If you choose to seek help and guidance, along with the State funds, then we ask that you do counsel with the State Librarian. If you do not choose to, then that will be up to the trustees and the directors of those local libraries which are concerned.

However, Mr. President, let us emphasize this important fact. They do need help in this sense. I do not, for example, hold myself out as an expert on missiles. If we were going to build a missile in order to defend this Country, we would turn to those men who are technicians. The art of collecting, filing and disseminating information, and to control and coordinate the vast amount of printed material that we have today, requires more often the use of people who have studied and who have attempted to correlate, design and develop systems which are adequate. I think, like any other science, the science of libraries does require specialized training and knowledge. It is true that in many things, common sense can prevail, but there is certainly nothing wrong with asking for the counsel and advice of people who are experts. To refuse to do so would be foolhardy, particularly in this day and age.

Mr. WARE. Mr. President, I think we might set the record straight in one or two instances here. Some reference has been made to the nature of this erstwhile and outstanding committee which studied this matter; namely, a Subcommittee on Library Services, appointed by Governor Leader. If you will look at the personnel of that committee, on page 3 of Volume 1, as I have just done, you will find that seventeen of those people are professional library people and that there are two of these so-called outstanding laymen—two trustees. Thirteen of them are professional librarians and four of them are professionals of the Department of Public Instruction.

Again, as a matter of record, some indication has been given as to the support of a number of organizations, such as Parent-Teachers' Associations and Library Associations. Let me say that those associations are in favor of better libraries, as is everyone in this Chamber. Let me add that none of those people had an opportunity to consider this matter in their local groups, nor did they see copies of the bill, nor did they read the forty-five pages of House Bill No. 132. At least I speak for my own District, where a check of the libraries and Parent-Teachers' Associations revealed that fact. This support has come—presumably, if it does—from certain officers of certain associations who elect to speak for the majority or all of their constituents.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I have before me a letter from the President of the Pennsylvania Congress of Parents and Teachers, Incorporated. Interestingly enough, the officers of this organization are from such large cities as Wesleyville,—with due respect to these towns—New Wilmington, Erie, Towanda and Honesdale. The President of this organization wrote to me as follows:

"The Pennsylvania Congress of Parents and Teachers is tremendously interested in the Library Bill, H. B. 132 (Printer's Number 686). The members of our organization in all areas of the Commonwealth favor extended and improved public library services in their communities.

"Our leaders and members have studied H. B. 132. They feel that this bipartisan measure will transform our public libraries into a source of pride rather than embarrassment.

"I, personally, was pleased that this measure passed in the House on March 6, by a vote of 146 to 45. I urge you to support this measure in the Senate. I cannot emphasize too greatly how interested the 580,000 members of the Pennsylvania Congress are in this important bill and that they look forward to its passage very soon."

I am sure that the Senator does not mean to cast any reflection on Mrs. Moore, the President of this organization.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I have been listening very patiently to all the comments which have been made here. I think the record should be set straight.

The gentleman from Franklin, Senator Hawbaker, was quite concerned about taxes being put on the rural people in order to take care of the cities. If we go into the record of this, I will be very happy, at this point, to exchange with the gentleman, right now, the amount of State-aid received by the city of Philadelphia. Just to name a few, would you like to begin with the school subsidy program, the highway program, the refund of gasoline taxes or the refund to farmers? We can proceed on from that point.

I do not think any area has been more discriminated against than the city of Philadelphia. I do not think any area has suffered as badly under the highway program and under the subsidies from the State. Yet, by the same token, the city of Philadelphia has been the greatest supplier of money by way of the sales tax, the gasoline tax and all the other fields which provide income to the Commonwealth.

I think the exceptions and the comments which have been made regarding this bill are poorly taken. If we follow through on the gentleman's comments which were made regarding these amendments—I am now speaking on the amendments offered by Senator Stroup—I think the only things which the libraries would contain would be paperback books, such as comic books, instead of the kind of books that we are trying to put in, such as encyclopedia, science books and books which deal with the things which are now of great moment to us in the very fact that the Country, whose ideology opposes us, has put a man into space. We do not have the scientific know-how. We are trying to provide this for the people. The best reading matter they will have will be comic books. I am sure they will meet the standard which is being set up under this bill.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, the fact that the gentleman said he is speaking on the amendments does not mean that any remarks which he makes on any subject are germane to the amendments.

We certainly do not wish to limit the debate on this matter or any other matter in this Senate. However, I question very much whether further discussion of collateral matters is going to change anybody's view as to their support or disapproval of these particular amendments. If the debaters will confine themselves to the language of the amendments and the effect of the amendments, we can reach a vote a much more reasonable time.

Mr. President, I believe we have now reached the point where we could well vote upon these amendments.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe the gentleman's point is well taken, even though it is a little belated. I was merely answering the statements which were made here.

I would like to speak further on these amendments and try to point out to Senator Stroup, the sponsor of these amendments, that I do not see any difference between the amendments today and the amendments of yesterday. They cover the same area and cut the heart out of this bill, as was stated earlier. If the gentleman is anxious for the people in these various areas, who have inadequate library facilities, to only refer to the paperback and comic books or the Bobbys Twins,—because this is all they are going to be permitted to have if we continue in this vein—I think his purpose will be well achieved by this measure.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, justifying my remarks on the amendment, I would say that I am replying to a statement made by Senator Ware. If his remarks were on the amendment, then my answer to him must, of necessity, be on the amendment.

Senator Ware is an admirable sort because he always wants to have the record straight. I would like to set it straight because I think he has it a little crooked. He said that the committee which worked on this bill was entirely composed of professional librarians. Such is not the case, Mr. President. The committee appointed by Governor Lawrence, which drew up these amendments, was a lay committee. The committee to which Senator Ware had reference was a subcommittee, appointed by the Pennsylvania Library Association to study this problem. I think even Senator Ware will concede that if the Library Association wishes to set up a committee which will then issue an independent report and which is not directly related or in any way officially connected with the report of the Governor's Committee, it has the right to put librarians on it if it wishes to.

In view of the discussion of this bill entirely being devised by big city slickers to defraud the honest farmers of Franklin County, it is interesting to know who was on these committees. Let me give you an idea of who was on the Library Association's Committee. In addition to those people from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, who formed four members of this committee, I find the Librarian from the Zelienople Public Library. I do not know where Zelienople is, but it is in some county. I was just informed that it is in Senator Pechan's county, the county of Butler. This is hardly to be listed as a big city representative. I find Mrs. Hoyle, of the Warren Library Association. I do not think the gentleman from Franklin will contend that Warren is a huge community. I find the Free Library Association of Montrose recommended. I am sorry, but I do not know what county Montrose is in. Again, I was just informed that it is in Susquehanna County, which is hardly a large urban area. I find the librarian from York is on this list, and I assure you that York has no pretensions of being a great metropolitan center. I find the Mifflin County Library, from Lewistown. I have been in Lewistown and I fail to see any metropolitan area there. The Abington Library Association, in Jenkintown, again, it seems to me, is less than a great urban area. Norristown, Monessen and Harrisburg are also listed.

The same thing is true of the Governor's Committee. There is no stacked committee here. This was an attempt, in its initial phase, to meet needs which are not being met. Let me assure you that the facilities of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh are magnificent, as far as libraries are concerned. They have the greatest libraries in the Commonwealth and they rate among the greatest libraries in the world.

The thing which led to this bill was the desire to provide library service in those areas which do not have library service.

Now having said that and having set I believe the record straight, I yield to Senator Ware.

Mr. WARE. Thank you, Senator Seyler.

Mr. President, I guess there is no virtue in brevity. I thought I said that this was a subcommittee appointed during the Leader Administration. I did not mean to infer that the committee to which Senator Seyler is referring was Governor Lawrence's committee, nor am I—

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from York, Mr. Seyler, will state it.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, may I, at this time, make a short interrogation of the gentleman—one question?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Chester, Mr. Ware, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WARE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I would ask the gentleman if he did not mean the inference, with this sentence, that the committee he was referring to was a governmental committee appointed by Governor Leader. At least, that was the impression he left with me and I believe with the majority of the Senators.

Mr. WARE. Mr. President, I referred, I thought, to a subcommittee. I did not mean any inference in the nature that you indicated. I was going to say if I did infer that, I will apologize to you. I pointed out that it was on page 3, of Volume I, which you can refer to. I think that is what you just read, as a matter of fact.

The point which I endeavored to make, on which I failed so miserably, was that the support of the Library Association and the P.T.A. came not from the membership of those associations. I think that in reference to Senator Hays' letter, I made mention of certain officers and leaders. I can tell you that in my own community, the P.T.A. did not vote on it. I happen to be a member of it. I was not asked to express my viewpoint. However, I think we are talking about two different records. I would like to say that the record I tried to make is, in my opinion, still correct.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I must just take a few moments to correct an impression left by Senator Weiner, and that is to the effect that there is no difference between the amendments offered today and those offered yesterday.

For the information of the Members of the Senate, the amendments offered have kept, in this bill, the library training feature, have kept in the bill all the features concerning certification of library personnel on page 6 and page 7, and have kept in the bill all of the reference to library trainees in Section 205, Section 207 and Section 208. In other words, these amendments only correct the situation in so far as the denial of State-aid is concerned for not meeting the requirements set up by the State Librarian.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from Potter, Mr. Berger, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, in view of the explanation just given by Senator Stroup and the indication by the Chair that each one of these line amendments was about to be voted on in order and singly, I might suggest to the Chair and to the Majority Leader that we could, under those circumstances, proceed with the amendments covering each section and vote upon the entire set of amendments relating to those sections at one time rather than to vote upon each line amendment. Does that seem acceptable to the Chair and to the Majority Leader?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the Majority Leader and the Minority Leader please approach the rostrum?

The Senate will be at ease a moment.

(The Senate was at ease.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I request a roll call on the amendment to this section.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SEYLER, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—25

So the question was determined in the affirmative, and the amendment was adopted.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

Mr. STROUP, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 201, page 5, lines 4 to 12 by striking out all of lines 4 to 11 and "(6)" in line 12 and inserting: (5).

Amend Sec. 201, page 5, lines 17, 18 and 19 by striking out all of said lines.

Amend Sec. 201, page 6, line 1 by striking out "(8)" and inserting: (6).

Amend Sec. 201, page 7, line 13 by striking out "(15)" and inserting: (13).

Amend Sec. 201, page 7, line 14 by striking out "libraries" and inserting: the State Library and Regional Library Resource Centers.

Amend Sec. 201, page 8, line 4 by string out "(16)" and inserting: (14).

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I am going to address my remarks to the amendment amending page 5, which eliminates lines 4 to 11. I would like to interrogate the sponsor, if I may, about this section.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There are various sponsors. Whom do you wish to interrogate?

Mr. SEYLER. Senator Stroup, I believe is the sponsor of the amendments.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Bedford, Mr. Stroup, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STROUP. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman to explain the significance of these amendments and why he offered them.

Mr. STROUP. The significance of these amendments, Mr. President, is to eliminate the authority of the State Librarian which he can exercise upon local libraries and county libraries. Subsection 5, of this Section, must be read in conjunction, however, Senator Seyler, with Section 303 and Section 304, which set forth the power of the Librarian and the Advisory Council to eliminate State-aid in the event that "what" is suggested and recommended and required by the State Librarian is not lived up to by the local libraries.

For that reason, we are taking this out in order to give the local libraries the privilege of receiving under Subsection 6—right below, Senator Seyler—the advice and counsel of the Librarian and the Advisory Council by all municipalities and groups which establish libraries in the selection of books, cataloging and so forth. In other words, we take out the burden and the imposition of influence and control and the refusal of State-aid, and allow them to ask to be given assistance and the privilege of receiving their suggestions in the section below.

Mr. SEYLER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. President, does the gentleman object to the word "counseling"?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I do not object to the word "counseling," if it is not used in connection with Section 303 and Section 304. However, when you tie them together, then you find counseling becomes mandatory, and when the counseling is not accepted and the minimum standards are not set up, then under Section 303 and Section 304 State-aid can be refused.

I might add that we have counseling and the privilege of counsel in the following section which we leave in the bill. This gives us that privilege and that right.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, line 5 provides that he shall counsel the library on minimum standards. The term "minimum standards" suggests to me, and I think would suggest to any reasonable minded person, the establishment of such standards which would be met by any library which is, in effect, a library.

It is possible that a group of people could come to Harrisburg and ask for State funds by maintaining they had a library. They could start one in the back room of a poolroom. They could start one in the basement of somebody's home. They could maintain that because they had their own lending library in a department store, they would be entitled to support under this bill. Would the gentleman tell us, if we are to have no minimum standards, how would he suggest we shall determine, upon application under this bill, whether there is, in effect, a library entitled to State-aid?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, the gentleman's effort to reduce the matter to an absurdity certainly cannot be very valid. He puts very little, shall we say, credit, faith or confidence in our local library boards. To intimate that some group might try to create a library or to have a library in the back room of a poolroom or something of that nature is going too far, much too far afield.

As a matter of fact, minimum standards are recommended and counseled in the section just below the section which is being taken out of the bill by these amendments. We have the privilege, on the local level, of receiving all of the advice, counsel and suggestion with full reference to the certification of librarians and librarian trainees as the bill would stand with these amendments.

However, we do not lose the right to our State-aid if we do not achieve the standards that are set up for us. Per se, it may take us some time and it gives us some time to get some place in doing the job. I think you will find, Mr. President, that this is the section that is very acceptable to many of those on the local level.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I did not suggest that local library boards might do the things I have indicated. I see no where in this bill or any place else, if we cut out the ability to have a minimum standards, any requirement that there shall be a local board. Will the gentleman point out to me where there is such a requirement? It might not just be one of the minimum standards that you require; namely, that there be a local board.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I will just answer briefly. Then I shall yield.

There has been nothing done in this bill to take out the local board, and its authority and its control over its own destiny. It is retained in the bill, and I think the gentleman is well aware of that. Whether it is the board of a local library, a merged county and local library, or whether it is a board of municipal representation, in so far as the officers are concerned, still that local board is there and in full control.

I now yield to Senator Hawbaker.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I think I still have the floor. I am conducting an interrogation, and I do not care to yield at the moment. I will be very glad to yield to Senator Hawbaker at the appropriate time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. You have the floor. You may proceed, Senator Seyler.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, may I continue the interrogation? I do not know whether the gentleman's remark indicated that he is tired of replying. However, I would like to continue.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator Stroup, will you permit yourself to be further interrogated?

Mr. STROUP. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator whether he would consider a minimum requirement that there be a library board before a library could come to Harrisburg and ask for State-aid?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, that is in the bill beyond any question.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, would the gentleman consider it a reasonable minimum standard that there be a librarian engaged, with the qualifications of a librarian, in order to come to the Commonwealth and ask for State-aid?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, we now get down to an absurdity again. It is absurd to think that the people on the local level are going to ask for State-aid and are going to go out and impose taxes upon their people without qualifying as a library that the people will accept.

First of all, you must exercise your local effort. You must tax your people. You cannot believe that the people of any locality are going to submit to taxation, for goodness sake, if they do not have a library or a library board.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, there is nothing in the bill, as I see it, that requires municipal taxation. Municipal taxation is suggested as one means of raising the necessary local support in order to qualify. However, it is conceivable that a library would have an endowment and the local support could be met without taxation.

I will continue the interrogation, however. Would the gentleman consider it a reasonable minimum standard that the library be required to have books on its shelves in an amount indicating that it was a library?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, we are now getting into one of the sleepers in the bill, you see.

At the present time, we have thirty-four county libraries. These county libraries are locally autonomous, receiving aid under the old Public Library Act. That Public Library Act has been included within the purview of the present bill, which is before us. However, under the purview of the present bill, that county library must submit to all of the burden of control or suggested control—the indirect control that is in this bill—from the State Librarian and thereby losing their local autonomy. It is these thirty-four county libraries, for example, and it is the needs of some 387 libraries all over the State which we are trying to protect, in so far as the deletion of this particular section is concerned in the bill.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I reject the idea which the gentleman advances that local libraries will lose their autonomy. Repeating the question I asked him, would he consider it a reasonable minimum requirement set by the State if there were a requirement that a library should have books in a certain number in order to receive State-aid?

I would point out to the gentleman that this might well be one of the minimum standards which he is cutting out of the bill.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, the gentleman needlessly labors the subject. I have already answered his question heretofore. In reply, I stated that it is inconceivable that local effort would be imposed upon local citizens by any group, if there were not a library going to become, in fact, a library and if there were not personnel and books upon the shelves and if there were not a locality.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, the gentleman inferred, in his earlier answer as a defense against my question, that under the terms of the present law there are, in effect, standards. I hope the gentleman realizes that if this bill is passed with his amendments, or without his amendments, that law is repealed.

Now the question comes as to what kind of standards are we going to have for the submission of an application to receive State funds for libraries. I do not think he answered the question. However, I will pass and ask him another one.

Does the gentleman feel that it would be a reasonable minimum requirement or standard to say that the library must have its books and its library facilities housed in a building accessible to the public?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, there is no question about that. That is a standard and it would be impossible to do otherwise under this bill.

I repeat my previous reply. It is purely redundant I think. Taxes will be levied on the local level for a library which must be, in fact, a library. Those standards are the basis of the local library at the present time.

In reply to another question the Senator from York asked, we presently have our county libraries and those county libraries are functioning under the present Library Act. They are functioning as such and we are keeping them in this bill. By these amendments, we are deleting the requirement of either meeting minimum standards or losing State-aid in this bill.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, the gentleman is correct, but he has overlooked the fact that if this bill repeals the present law under which the county libraries now function, and his amendments to the present bill pass, then we are making it impossible for anyone, as far as I can see, and we will be in the position where no one is going to be able to pass on whether a library is a library as such and entitled to receive State-aid.

As I understand the answers to my questions over-all, I understand he is saying that all of the things which I mentioned are reasonable minimum standards.

Now I ask him, if the suggestions I made are reasonable minimum standards and if this bill passes, who in State Government is to make the decision as to whether a library has those very elemental and basic aspects which I mentioned as minimum standards, in the event his amendments pass?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, local libraries and county libraries are defined in the bill. The definitions have not been amended out of the bill. I think that is the answer to that question.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, a local library can be a library which is brand-new at the beginning of this bill, and in the event that they come to Harrisburg and ask for State-aid, who is to make the decision as to whether they merit the State-aid as being an adequate library?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, the State-aid will be merited by the local group because they levy taxes on the local level to comply with the local effort and, as a consequence of raising the money with the local effort, they, therefore, can get the State-aid.

Mr. SEYLER. Whether they have books or not?

Mr. STROUP. No.

Mr. SEYLER. Whether they have a library or not?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, they must already comply with the definitions of a county library or a local library. As I said before, there are 387 of these libraries in the State and there are 34 county libraries presently existing. They are functioning quite well. They need increased State-aid. We are giving them that authority. We are giving them the privilege of receiving suggestions and recommendations by the State Librarian, but no denial of State-aid if they do not meet the particular standards which may be set up.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman for his answers, and now advise him that I do not intend to ask any more questions but will conclude with a few remarks so that he may have some well-deserved relaxation.

Mr. President, the main point, as I see it, to these amendments is to cut out any possibility on the part of anyone on the State level to see to it that adequate libraries are maintained in return for State funds.

I do not believe the people of this Commonwealth would agree that they are willing to pay taxes for libraries which are libraries in name only. I do not believe the distribution of funds should go to anybody who comes to Harrisburg and says they have a library.

I believe, in all common sense, you have to have some standards in order to reimburse people. You cannot hand out money to just anyone who comes in. There have to be standards and if there have to be standards, they have to be set by someone, and someone has to oversee them.

If the gentleman is afraid of the word "coordinate," again, or the word "counsel," I think we have gone through that and I will not bring any more changes on that.

However, I would remind him that these are the terms that are used to imply a relationship between the local library and the State Librarian which is not authoritarian, but which is advice, which is counsel and which is recommendation.

The very fact that the local librarians over the State have agreed that this is a good bill indicates that they are not concerned about this relationship. They would realize that minimum standards are desirable. They would not want to pour the money of the Commonwealth down the drain. They realize that coordination—the very first or second word in this bill—is necessary. They are not the people who have these fears.

I do not know Senator Stroup's profession. I do not know whether he is an attorney or not. However, it seems to me that there is a question here of attempting to represent a group which does not ask for representation. He speaks a great deal about the local libraries and how they will be hampered. Yet, it is the local librarians who have pushed this, have urged it, and are now supporting it. I do not know whether a lawyer would consider it ethical to go into court and represent a person who has not appealed to him for help. Doctors, I understand, are a little touchy on a subject like this. They want to be requested. Here we have a case, it seems to me, where clients are being served who have no desire for representation.

I do not think the point of these amendments is well-taken. I say again, it would cripple the bill. It would make the bill ineffective.

Referring to the earlier remarks of the Senator from Franklin, I would say that when he says he is in favor of the bill but the fact that he is supporting these amendments has no effect on whether he is in favor of it, most of the people who are within his hearing, and most of the people who are interested in this bill, are sophisticated enough to know that there is more than one way of killing a piece of legislation. One way is to vote it down. Another way is to so eviscerate and cripple it that when you get finished with it, the poor thing cannot get up and crawl away.

I suggest to the gentlemen that perhaps the latter tactic is being used here. However, nonetheless, the victim is going to be just as dead when they are finished with it.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, having been in the hall of the Senate and not having heard my name called, I desire to be recorded as voting "no" on these amendments.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "no."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

The roll was called and resulted as follows:

So the question was determined in the affirmative, and the amendments were adopted.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

Mr. STROUP, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 211, page 13, line 3 by striking out "system of such district."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to point out to the Members of the Senate that the amendment that is being made here deals with district library centers, and the duties of the State Librarian in designating these district library centers.

I would like the sponsor of this amendment to look at this part of the bill very carefully. It says: "... any local library which wishes thereby to become part of the District Library Center . . ." Then his amendment strikes out the words: "system of such district."

I do not think this fits in too well with what he might have in mind. I do not think this amendment fits into what he is trying to do.

I would respectfully ask him to look at this and see what he has in mind; whether this fits what he has been talking about.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I will answer the question.

The words "system of such district" are being stricken from the bill to leave solely a district library center which will be the center to service the area in which it exists, on a voluntary operation and consent with the libraries in that particular center. We do not create a system of district library centers. We merely create a library center and eliminate the system. The reason for that is that failure to enter the system under contract could very well deny State-aid.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Bedford, Senator Stroup.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Bedford, Mr. Stroup, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STROUP. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman explain to us, if the district library center is at such a distance that the people who live in that area cannot get to it, what he has accomplished?

Mr. STROUP. The people in each particular library, Mr. President, through their district center, can function just as well with the other libraries around the area without coming under the library center itself or without being part of that system. They can coordinate themselves without the imposition of State Library control.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, will state it.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I think I heard the gentleman say "coordinate," and I think we just struck that out of the bill. I do not think we ought to get into that because we have been through that. I wish he would leave that word out of his remarks because I am abiding by the amendments made to this bill. I think the word "coordinate" is in bad taste, Senator.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will request the Senator to adopt a synonym.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I will substitute the word "cooperate."

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman please advise us if he has in mind what the distance of these library centers will be from these other areas, as long as there is no system created? What does he have in mind? In other words, where will these library centers be created, and how far will they be from the farthest person in the area?

Mr. STROUP. It may be some distance, Mr. President. The district library center—if there are thirty of them created within this State—will be some distance from the local library. That is quite true. The creation of a system, however, is not going to change the distance from the library center. The cooperation of the local library, through the suggestions and the references of the State Librarian and the Advisory Council, can very well be implemented by the libraries on the local level without becoming members of the system.

This amendment does not make it impossible, on a voluntary basis, Mr. President, for the local library or the county library to contract with other libraries in the area to receive the service of the district library center. However, if there is a compulsion element, as one sees in the following sections, then it may fail to contract and can be denied State-aid.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman please advise me that if the thirty library centers set up as designated in this bill must, perforce, be a great distance from each other, and also perhaps from the people living in the area, how will the setting up of a library system—which obviates the distance that you are going to create by the setting up of these single centers, and set up a network of libraries—avoid bringing this library system closer to the people by setting up these centers? In other words, if you set up the centers, you have made a center that everybody must go to and it may be some distance. If you set up a system, you are now bringing the library system closer to the people.

If your idea or view, as you stated earlier, was that the library system be improved so that everyone will have better library service as a result of this bill and that this bill was desirable, then here you are avoiding that and going out of your way to do away with it.

If what you want to carry out is indicated by this amendment, we can very simply do away with this bill and continue with the present system by providing more money at the local level and additional State money. Would that not accomplish the same purpose and accomplish what you are seeking to do here?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I believe the most effective answer to the interrogation is that the word "system" does not change the mileage that exists from the library center to the local libraries. Also, local libraries can very well cooperate among themselves in the area where the district library center may be located.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman advise us what he thinks the word "system" means?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, "system," as I understand it in my limited knowledge,—and I certainly would not allegate unto myself more knowledge in the interpretation of language than the distinguished Senator—would mean a group of libraries which work together.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if the gentleman will not leave the microphone, unless he does not want me to interrogate him any further, I will appreciate it.

Senator, if I follow your definition correctly, you are talking about a group of libraries, which are in addition to the district library center. Is that correct?

Mr. STROUP. That is correct.

Mr. WEINER. Then if we have a district library center and we have a group of libraries with them, we do have a network of libraries, about which we were speaking, which puts the library system closer to the people. Is that correct?

Mr. STROUP. That is correct.

Mr. WEINER. Therefore, if we have the district library center and the network of libraries which is closer to the people, and you strike out this network of libraries or group, as you stated, then you are taking the libraries away from the people. Is that correct?

Mr. STROUP. The gentleman's conclusion is incorrect.

Mr. WEINER. Will the gentleman explain why?

Mr. STROUP. It does not do anything of the kind. We are taking out the word "system" because if a library enters into a contract with a district library center system, as such, it must do so in order to receive State-aid. If it does not desire to do so then, of course, it loses its State-aid. Where we have a district library center, the libraries in that particular center can cooperatively work together with the district library center and receive State-aid, and not lose it if they do not enter into the system, as such.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman please advise us then if you remove the system and leave the center alone, you have taken the libraries away from the people? Is that correct?

Mr. STROUP. That is not correct, Mr. President. We have not taken the libraries away from the people at all. As a matter of fact, we have kept the libraries closer to the people. We give them their own voluntary procedures to follow in order to have the benefit of the books, the resources, the counsel and the advice of the center.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I want to thank the gentleman.

Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I believe just by following this type of even circuitous reasoning, you will see that if you leave the center without the system in operation, you have taken libraries away from the people instead of bringing them closer. You have already ripped out of the bill the ability to give them the kind of books, encyclopedias and scientific training they need. I think this also is taking something away from the people.

However, if you persist in introducing these amendments and ripping this bill to pieces, there is nothing I can do except to alert you and warn you that you are making a very grave error.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I have only a very brief remark to make on this point.

From listening to the gentleman in his interrogation, it seems to me that he was not opposed really to the substance, but to the name. This indicates that the gentleman is extraordinarily sensitive to certain words, such as co-ordinate and, now, system. I would like to suggest to him that we talk about our school system with great pride; we talk about our railroad system; we talk about the free enterprise system. I just wondered whether the gentleman thought that all of these were equally authoritarian.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

So the question was determined in the affirmative, and the amendment was adopted.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

Mr. STROUP, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 303, page 14, lines 14 to 18 by striking out all of lines 14 to 17 and "leading to the achievement of such standards and" in line 18.

Amend Sec. 303, page 17, line 14 by striking out "and the State Librarian."

Amend Sec. 303, page 17, line 14 by inserting after "required": A copy of each report made to the county commissioners by a library receiving State-aid shall be sent to the State Library in Harrisburg.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I would just like to point out that the first part of these amendments, again, cuts out any possibility of having any standards when the Commonwealth grants reimbursement to local or county libraries. It also cuts out the requirement, which we will discuss later on, that the local libraries be asked to submit a plan. The word "plan" may be another of those authoritarian words which is feared by the gentleman. To my mind, a plan is sensible. Living from day to day and from hand to mouth, in our own private affairs, we would consider a reprehensible way of living. I think it is just as sensible that a library should have a plan.

Referring to page 17, I would like to ask the gentleman concerning the amendments at the bottom of that page, line 14.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Stroup, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STROUP. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, will the gentleman tell me what these amendments do and what are their purpose?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, the amendments pertain particularly to the county libraries, which you will note appear in Section 303, Subsection 2. They require, solely, that a report of expenditure of State money shall be made to the County Commissioners and do not require it to be made to the State Librarian in such form as may be required. However, the report shall be made to the County Commissioners by the library which receives State-aid and a copy shall be forwarded to the State Library in Harrisburg.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, will the gentleman tell me what is the purpose of the amendments?

Mr. STROUP. That is the purpose. The antonymy is the County Commissioners, and not the State Librarian. The library is to report expenditures to the County Commissioners and a copy of it then sent on to the State Library.

Mr. SEYLER. I would ask the gentleman whether he considers the County Commissioners or the State Librarian the most adequate judge of a library's expenditures.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, the County Commissioners remain, I believe, under our laws, very adequate judges in many instances of the expenditure of funds. I certainly cannot bring myself to the realization that they would not be adequate judges of the expenditures of funds of the State Library. The fact of the matter is, Mr. President, they are now making appropriations. They will continue making appropriations and they certainly will have to supervise the expenditure of funds as being proper through the auditors.

Mr. SEYLER. As far as the people of Bedford County getting their money's worth in library service for money spent, who would be the best judge of that question? Would it be the County Commissioners of Bedford County or the State Librarian?

Mr. STROUP. Thus far, Mr. President, I think the people of Bedford County are well satisfied with the functioning of the County Commissioners and the audit made of the accounts as to the proper expenditure of their funds.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I definitely wish to cast no aspersions on the County Commissioners of Bedford County. I am sure they are all well-qualified gentlemen and do a good job for county government. My suggestion is that we are not dealing here with county government. Therefore, I now ask the gentleman how many of the members of the present Board of Commissioners of Bedford County are qualified librarians?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, they are not qualified librarians. They rely upon the librarians whom they employ.

Mr. SEYLER. How many of the gentlemen have served on library boards?

Mr. STROUP. At the present time, I believe one has served on a library board for quite a number of years.

Mr. SEYLER. I would suggest then that there is one person there who would have some faint notion. However, does the gentleman realize that, in this event, he would be asking a County Commissioner to pass on a report made by an institution of which he is a member of the board?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, that is also submitted to the auditor, to be scrutinized after application. I might submit here that the library board of a county, which is appointed, is the one which makes the report. In conjunction therewith, they have a meeting with the County Commissioners and go over the report before it is officially adopted or submitted.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman.

Of course, my point is that the County Commissioners are certainly not the agency to specify what items shall be reported, if we are interested in seeing that the people's money, local as well as State, is spent to good effect in providing library services. I do not believe, generally speaking, that the commissioners are qualified. If, by some accident, there should be a librarian or a member of the Library Board who got elected to the County Commissioners, we would be doing that thing which, in all other areas of State and municipal government, we do not allow; namely, a person to pass on and audit that which is made by himself. This would certainly be bad practice. I would suggest that this is not a good procedure, if we are interested in the most effective use of the people's money to provide library services.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

So the question was determined in the affirmative, and the amendments were adopted.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

Mr. STROUP, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 304, page 24, line 8 by inserting after "Plans:" for Regional Library Resource Centers.

Amend Sec. 304, page 24, lines 8 and 9 by striking out "library desiring to receive" and inserting: Regional Library Resource Center receiving.

Amend Sec. 304, page 24, line 10 by striking out "the funds" and inserting: State-aid.

Amend Sec. 304, page 24, line 12 by striking out "a library" and inserting: such.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I would just like to point out that here again we are removing the possibility of having State libraries encouraged to make plans, to look ahead for more than the next week, or the next month or the next year, in deciding how the services of a library to the community shall be approved.

Mr. STROUP. I just have one comment, Mr. President.

This is one of the most important amendments in the bill. It provides that it will not be necessary to submit a plan to the Commonwealth in order to receive State-aid. Nor will it be necessary to submit to the State Librarian how local funds, in addition to State-aid funds, are going to be utilized.

Mr. SESLER. Mr. President, it would appear to me that if the gentleman was interested in preventing the State Librarian from becoming more or less a dictator, why did he not include a provision in here for allowing an appeal from any decision which was negative as to the use of the funds? Clearly, this is reasonable here. To simply say that you shall submit a plan which shall demonstrate to the State Librarian that you have thought out, considered and have established a reasonable plan for the use of the State-aid and, moreover, not to be relative to the use of local funds or applicable, since the provision will simply say "a plan for the use of State-aid," as amended by the gentleman from Bedford County, does not seem logical. It would seem, therefore, that the logical thing here, if they are concerned about the powers being delegated to the State Librarian, would be to provide for an appeal to the Advisory council or say that this had to be approved by the State Librarian, with the consent of the Advisory Council. If they feel that the advisory Council is too dictatorial, then consider some other changes.

Under this system, it is obviously inconsistent to require the regional library centers to submit plans for State-aid and not apply the same to the local libraries. This is another evidence of inconsistency in these amendments.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

The roll was called and resulted as follows:

So the question was determined in the affirmative, and the amendments were adopted.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

Mr. STROUP, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 413, page 34, line 10 by striking out "municipal."

Amend Sec. 413, page 34, line 12 by striking out "the" where it appears the first time and inserting: all.

Amend Sec. 413, page 34, line 12 by striking out "from the municipality."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate briefly the gentleman from Somerset, Senator Stroup.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Stroup, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STROUP. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, will the gentleman explain the purpose of the amendments to page 34, lines 10 to 12?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, in this particular section, we are referring to the board of control of any library established, as specified in Section 411. This, of course, is the qualification before State-aid may be received. It also refers to appropriations received; that is, appropriations, whether received from the municipal government or from State-aid. They shall be set forth in a report, made annually to the proper municipal authorities, of the moneys received by the library, regardless of from what source they come. Wherever the money comes from, they must make an annual report with reference to that money.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I would ask the gentleman whether he does not feel it is proper for the library to report to the Commonwealth, according to the State's terms, on the money which it receives from a county, as was indicated in the previous amendment? Why does he think this is proper that a library should report to municipal authorities an accounting of moneys they receive from the State?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, this refers to the board of control of local libraries. They are the ones who are responsible for the handling of their library funds. They are the ones who have raised the majority of the money on the local level and a report, covering all of it, is made to the local library. However, there is no restriction that a copy of the report cannot be sent to the State Librarian. I presume that such a report would be made available.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, is not the gentleman attacking the local control of the library by saying that it has to report to municipal authorities on an item which the municipal authorities have nothing to do with; namely, the moneys received from the State?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, under this bill, many of the local libraries, which are receiving local effort, will have upon their board representation from the municipality which raises the money for them. As a consequence, the report will be made out and submitted to that municipality which is levying the funds. It seems only duly and correctly proper that this should be done.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, does the gentleman think that such municipal authorities will be in any position to evaluate the expenditure of State funds toward the accomplishment of the aims expressed in this bill?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I think they certainly will. They evaluate the expenditure of many State funds on the local level at the present time.

Mr. SEYLER. On such municipal boards, would there likely to be trained librarians?

Mr. STROUP. I should imagine that is possible. We have very many people on the local level who have knowledge of the lending library field.

Mr. SEYLER. Would not this mean, in effect, if they are also on the local board, that again you are asking a body to evaluate and audit an account made by themselves?

Mr. STROUP. At the present time, Mr. President, many of the representatives of the local municipality which make appropriations, join with, sit in and discuss with the local library board many of their problems. They become quite familiar, therefore, with the problems on the local level.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman.

I would like to point out to the people who are interested in voting on these amendments that here again are amendments which are self-contradictory. We are asking a library, which is receiving money from the State and from the local municipality, to report to the local municipality on the funds it expends which are received from the Commonwealth. Again, we are not having any evaluation by anyone who is interested in the accomplishment of those ends which it seeks to achieve by State-aid.

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Amend Sec. 414, page 35, line 2 by inserting after "desirable": to the municipal officers.

Amend Sec. 414, page 35, line 3 by inserting after "officers": by a library receiving State-aid.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I just want to briefly point out to those people who are interested in voting on these amendments on their merits that here, again, you have the situation where you are asking libraries to report to people who have no way of evaluating the effectiveness, in library services, of the money supplied to them by the Commonwealth.

Mr. STROUP. I just have one statement to make, Mr. President, and that is that herein the annual report of State-aid money will be forwarded to the State Librarian. The local officers shall rely upon the suggestions and the counsel of the State Librarian.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, the gentleman is correct, of course, but the terms of the report shall be information and suggestions which seem desirable to the municipal officers.

So the question was determined in the affirmative, and the amendments were adopted.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

Mr. STROUP, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 417, page 36, lines 11, 12 and 13 by striking out "and which meets the minimum standards" in line 11, all of line 12 and "state-aid" in line 13.

Amend Sec. 417, page 37, lines 1 and 2 by striking out "and approved by the State Librarian."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I do not think that the gentleman from Bedford can possibly argue in this case that such libraries as are described here—namely, new local libraries—are subject to the terms applying to county libraries. I would say that here is an instance where you are allowing a local library, which is open to the use of all residents, with no other qualifications whatever and with no other standards whatever being set, to come to the Commonwealth and ask for money. There is nothing here about having a qualified librarian. There is nothing here about having books on the shelves, or how many. There is nothing here in regard to the building or to the accessibility of the site. You are giving a blank check here to any group of citizens, which comes to Harrisburg and designates themselves as a library, to receive funds with no criteria for anybody on the State level to decide whether they should receive State-aid or how much.

Mr. HAWBAKER. Mr. President, it becomes more and more obvious that the gentleman from York has not read Section 102, Subsection 1, of this bill. He continues to constantly refer to the fact that there is nothing in this bill to designate a library as a library. I would refer him to Section 102, Subsection 1, which very clearly de-finds what a local library actually is. In the event that he is unwilling to read it, I will read it for him as follows:

"Local Library" Any free public nonsectarian library whether established and maintained by a municipality or by a private association corporation or group which serves the informational educational and recreational needs of all the residents of the area for which its governing body is responsible by providing free access (including free lending and reference services) to an organized and currently useful collection of printed items and other materials and to the services of a staff trained to recognize and provide for these needs . . ."

This certainly should allay the gentleman's fears.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I ask the gentleman, who would make the decision as to whether they met those qualifications?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Hawbaker, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HAWBAKER. Mr. President, I would like to simply state that we are now in the process of a floor debate and not a committee hearing. I think all of this dialogue and cross-examination is highly improper and I am not going to answer the question.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman for his answer, such as it was. I hope he is not suggesting that the matter is so unimportant that it does not need the full consideration of this Senate. I hope he is not suggesting that the Members, both on this side and the other, who have spoken on the bill, have been doing anything improper under the tradition and rules of this Senate. As far as I can see, we have lived within—

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I raise the point of order that the remarks of the gentleman from York are out of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair believes they are in order. The gentleman from York, Mr. Seyler, may proceed.

Mr. SEYLER. Therefore, Mr. President, I do not consider the gentleman's answer as responsive. I am reminded that this is about where we came in a couple of days ago, when we had a similar amendment. Obviously, if you cut out the ability of the State Librarian, the Advisory Council and everybody else, you have no one who is in any position to make any decision in regard to this matter. I still suggest that the effect of these amendments will kill any effectiveness that this bill might have, if they are accepted and are continued in the bill.

So the question was determined in the affirmative, and the amendments were adopted.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

Messrs. BERGER and SEYLER, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 303, page 14, line 19 by inserting after "follows": except that no library receiving State-aid prior to and at time of the approval of this act, shall receive less State-aid as a result of the provisions hereof, notwithstanding that such library has not accepted the provisions of this act.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, this amendment is offered on behalf of Senator Seyler and myself.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does that indicate there will be no debate?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I do not rise to debate this amendment. However, I do rise to say that I believe the point in this amendment is a real point of consideration which has concerned many Members. Therefore, this spells out that factor and I believe it makes it a better bill.

Mr. President, at least, I hope that all the Members on this side, as well as the other, will vote "aye" on this amendment.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, may the Senate be at ease for a few moments?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, during the interim here, I would like to have the opportunity to make a committee report and I ask for unanimous consent at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Let us not get into that because there are many committee reports to be made. We have not as yet arrived at that order of business.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I am asking for unanimous consent and not for the Chair's decision.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. At the moment, we are dealing with House Bill No. 132 and the Senate is at ease.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, the Chair recognized me on the floor just a moment ago. Therefore, how can the Senate be at ease?

I would like to make a committee report while we have the opportunity. It is soon going to be midnight.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. I will say there are numerous committee reports to be made. We want to receive them all, but we also want to keep things in their logical sequence.

Mr. LANE. We have not done that so far today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. This was a Special Order of Business. I am sorry.

Mr. LANE. I know it was a Special Order of Business, but you interrupted Committee Reports.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. I did that at that particular time because the time was fixed. The Chair rules the gentleman out of order.

Mr. LANE. I know I am out of order now.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. I am sorry, sir.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, the paragraph which we desire to amend has already been amended once today. Therefore, we will have to withhold our amendments.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no further amendments to House Bill No. 132, Printer's No. 686, the bill, on third reading, will go over in its order, as amended.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe this concludes the Special Order of Business. Therefore, I would like to revert back to the regular order of business which, I believe, is Reports from Committees.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. We are now under the order of business known as Reports from Committees and, as a matter of courtesy, the Chair now recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Lane.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I am rather hesitant to infringe upon the dinner schedule of the Senate, but I have a very important resolution which I would like to present.

The Prime Minister of Canada, John G. Diefenbaker, tonight, in Philadelphia, is honoring one of our leading scholars, Doctor Abraham A. Neuman, President of The Dropsie College.

On behalf of the entire group of Senators from Philadelphia, and Senator Chapman, I am about to offer this resolution and ask for its immediate adoption.

SENATE RESOLUTION

EXTENDING FELICITATIONS OF THE SENATE TO DOCTOR ABRAHAM A. NEUMAN

Messrs. STIEFEL, DONOLOW, WEINER, DiSILVESTRO, McCREESH, SILVERT, MULLIN, CAMIEL, and CHAPMAN offered the following resolution (Serial No. 42), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, April 18, 1961.

Proudly appreciative of Pennsylvania's leadership in the vanguard of America's cultural advancement along ever-ascending paths of progress, the Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania pays herewith tribute, this eighteenth day of April 1961, to Doctor Abraham A. Neuman, President of The Dropsie College for Hebrew and Cognate Learning, on the occasion of the festal convocation that is being held today in Philadelphia to mark the completion of twenty years of inspiring and fruitful service by Dr. Abraham A. Neuman as President of this great American seat of learning.

An exclusively graduate institution, leading to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, Dropsie College is nonprofessional and nonsectarian, its sole aim being to advance knowledge and truth.

During an era which has marked the decline of humanistic studies in favor of the sciences which undergird the mechanistic structure of present-day civilization, The Dropsie College has developed those areas of study which gave the world religion, ethics and a way of life, rooted in faith, social justice and righteousness.

Founded by Moses Aaron Dropsie, an eminent citizen and lawyer, born and all his life a resident in the County of Philadelphia, Mayor of Northern Liberties, then a municipality in the County of Philadelphia, and one of the Lincoln-Electors, The Dropsie College was designated by him to be permanently situated in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and he furthermore directed "that in the admission of students there shall be no distinction on account of creed, color or sex."

During more than half a century of its chartered existence, The Dropsie College has gained renown throughout the world of scholarship and enhanced the scholarly fame and the cultural standards of our Commonwealth.

The Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania notes with particular interest and gratification the far-visioned policies of the Board of Governors and of the Faculty of The Dropsie College, under the leadership of Dr. Abraham A. Neuman, in pioneering through its Institute for Israel and the Middle East in the training of qualified personnel for United States Government Service, and for work in those countries in behalf of American social agencies, industry and commerce.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, That the Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania extend its felicitations to Dr. Abraham A. Neuman as a towering scholar, universally acclaimed in America and abroad, whose vast erudition and trenchant pen have enriched world historiography with several masterful classics and whose vision and creative leadership at the helm of Dropsie College made possible the emergence therefrom of many gifted teachers and eminent scholars, who continue to fructify learning everywhere, thus enhancing the cultural pursuits of our State and Nation and earning for the United States the good will of many Nations the world over.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Secretary of the Senate be directed hereby to send a copy of this Senate Resolution, upon its passage, to Dr. Abraham A. Neuman, President of Dropsie College, Broad and York Streets, Philadelphia and to the Honorable Horace Stern, former Chief Justice of Pennsylvania, President of the Board of Governors of Dropsie College.

BILL ON THIRD READING

SB 491—Read at length the third time and agreed to, On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, may the Senate be at ease for a moment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease. (The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, in the late 1920's, Professor Eliot wrote a book, entitled, "Mussolini, The Profit of Pragmatism." He also wrote a book entitled, "The Future of Pragmatism." It was a success because no one understood it at the time and they thought it could not happen. As the years go on, the wisdom of Eliot has been demonstrated on more than one occasion.

We find ourselves in this august Body, on many occasions, giving way to pragmatism. Pragmatism, as a form of government, is considered the most and least desirable of all governments. We have a government of law and a government of men. We are governed by a Constitution and that Constitution limits the property valuation to assessment. What we have attempted to do under this bill, and are attempting to run over very hurriedly, is to amend the Constitution of Pennsylvania, which limits you to two and four per cent of the assessed valuation or whatever the percentages are. We are now saying that the market value is going to be the guide.

How far can we go, Mr. President? Are we going to say, "The Supreme Court did it"? It was pragmatic when it approved the type of organization which we have, in order to avoid the debt limit. We formed corporations and said that does not count toward our debt limit. The Supreme Court looked at Authorities and said: "Here there is money coming from the Federal Government and we will do it." I can recite ten or twelve instances, even this year, where we have been pragmatic in our actions.

Either we are going to have constitutional government or government by the Legislature, just itself. If you are going to have this, let us get the mandate of the people that there is no limit upon what we can do in these Halls. Either the direction of the people is a mandate to us, and we have sworn to uphold that Constitution, or we are going to find ways about us to evade it.

Are we going to say that certain people want this who are in authority, and, therefore, we will give way to their pressure? We are here to represent and have sworn to uphold a form of government which is a democracy. In the democracy, we have established a Constitution which should be sacred to us. If we are to take every evasion, every possible way to avoid even the spirit, let alone the letter, of the Constitution, we will find ourselves eventually with a government where we are following the whims of chance. We will be pushed by the pressures of people who have power or, apparently, have political backing.

I do not rise here to oppose those who have attempted to get this bill through. However, Mr. President, I am opposing their method, a method which is a short cut amendment to the Constitution. Plainly, this is a bill which is unconstitutional on its face and morally wrong.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, probably I should again explain to the Senate the reason for Senate Bill No. 491, and the reason that we—the Local Government Commission—feel it is perfectly legal.

Sometime ago, the county governments of Pennsylvania requested the Commission to draft legislation, consolidating the institution districts with the General Fund. We were stymied when we came to the portion whereby the assessed valuation for the Institutional District Fund is two per cent, and the assessed valuation for the General Fund is two per cent. I am now talking about the borrowing capacity. Should we consolidate the two, it would mean there would be a loss of two per cent borrowing capacity for both funds.

Therefore, we talked with the Bureau of Municipal Affairs and the Attorney General. Mr. Bullis, of the Bureau of Municipal Affairs, met with the Local Government Commission, at which time he recommended that we draft this legislation. In addition, he had an opinion from the Attorney General of Pennsylvania which, incidentally, I inserted in the record several weeks ago.

We feel that this legislation is proper. We do not feel that we are circumventing the Constitution in any way at all. We feel this legislation should be passed. Once we pass this bill, then we will be in a position to pass Senate Bill No. 88, which has been on the Postponed Calendar for the past several weeks. We feel that we are on solid ground or, otherwise, we would not have taken this course. We have the opinion of the Attorney General of Pennsylvania which has been inserted in the record.

I feel this is good legislation, and I ask my colleagues to support this bill.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, because there is a doubt in the minds of some of the Senators, I wonder if the gentleman would object if I request that the bill go over in order?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, that is perfectly all right with me. However, I feel we should have this worked out by next week because we have all the other legislation ready to go. If this bill is disapproved by the Members of the Senate, we are going to have to recommit Senate Bill No. 88 which is now on the Second Reading Postponed Calendar.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I will request that the bill go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Let me ask you, sir, whether it is going over on Third Reading or on Final Passage?

Mr. BERGER. In whatever position it is at the present time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It is on Final Passage.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 491 go over in its order on Final Passage.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

HB 560—Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I request that House Bill No. 560 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I have spoken to both the Majority and Minority Leaders and I would like this bill to go over in its order. However, they both insist that we deal with it today.

I would like to point out some weaknesses in this legislation, much as I am reluctant to do it as this late hour, in view of our long standing, unwritten agreement that we would try to adjourn by 6:00 p.m. However, I assure the gentlemen, if they will be tolerant, I will hurry through it as quickly as possible, if there are objections to the bill going over in order, and I am told there are.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I must rise to object to this bill going over in its order. I do not like to do that, but I cannot possibly avoid doing so.

Mr. President, I believe this measure has been before us in previous Sessions and I think all of the inherent problems in it have been ironed out. I do not feel that by leaving it here another day or two is going to help the situation. I realize there are some Members here who feel strongly against this bill and, therefore, I think we should consider it and go on to other areas.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. In view of that statement, the Chair will call on Senator Wade. The bill is not going over in order.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, regarding the statement made by the gentleman that the bill has been before us before, it has come to the floor of the Senate, but I do not believe it has been before us. However, that makes no difference.

The bill is really a subterfuge. It is bait by the Federal Government, which collects the taxes and then promises to return them.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, has the bill been read for the third time?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill has not been read for the third time. The gentleman asked for the floor and the Chair was courteous enough to give it to him. Let us proceed accordingly.

HB 560—Read at length the third time and agreed to, On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I want to point out, in the briefest method possible, that this bill is purely a subterfuge on the part of the Federal Government. It is bait in order for us to put certain limitations on where they promise a return of some of our taxpayers' money.

This bill provides for the taking of a right from the landowners of Pennsylvania beyond the paid right-of-way. As of January 1961, there were 1,541 miles of Interstate and Defense Highways in Pennsylvania. That means that we have 3,082 front feet, so to speak, of highway frontage in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania on the Interstate and Defense Highway System. At one dollar per front foot, this would be over $16,000,000. If anyone is under the impression that the landowners of Pennsylvania will allow that right to be taken away from them, without compensation of some kind or another, they are certainly under a misapprehension. When you take a right from a landowner, it is the obligation of the Commonwealth to pay for that right.

Let me point out, in this $6,000,000 which is promised, that no State in the United States has ever received one penny of this so-called bonus. One State, however, entered into an agreement with the United States Government on January 18, 1961, whereby they would receive this money if and when appropriated by the Federal Government from the Highway Trust Fund into a fund which would be privileged to pay that State; namely, the State of Maryland. No less than six or seven States have attempted to pass legislation which would qualify for this bonus. None have qualified as yet, except for the State of Maryland. None have received any money. Maryland will never receive any money unless that money, I repeat, is appropriated out of the Highway Trust Fund into a fund for the purpose of paying this so-called bonus.

Let me make one other point clear, Mr. President. If this legislation is passed, then it is up to the Federal Government to enter into an agreement with this State, if the legislation qualifies, for the return of a portion of our money.

We appropriate millions of dollars to build industry in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Here we are passing legislation which would destroy or weaken an industry that spends, we are told, some $31,000,000 annually. The outdoor advertising business of the Commonwealth spends approximately $31,000,000 annually in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for supplies manufactured in Pennsylvania and for labor in Pennsylvania. We are now passing legislation to destroy or, at least, weaken that. I know there are competitors in this industry, the same as there are in any other industry.

For that reason, Mr. President, I am going to take the privilege—and with it I will conclude—to read a recent editorial from a Central Pennsylvania newspaper. It is entitled, "For The Sake Of What," and reads as follows:

"In recent weeks, we have had a vertiable flood of material from organizations and from State agencies calling for support of House Bill 560, the 'Roadside Protection Bill' which would outlaw billboards along many miles of the State's highways.

"The Federal Government has dangled some interesting bait for passage of the bill—an extra half of one per cent of Federal funds for Interstate highway construction.

"To a newspaper, the curtailment of the activities of a competitor with the possible result that we may get some of the advertising dollars that otherwise go into the 'boards' should be attractive.

"But we haven't hopped onto the band wagon. There are several reasons:

"If the purpose is to beautify our highways, there is much more than elimination of billboards needed. Scarcely an inch of the new four-lane roads can qualify as beautiful—this doesn't mean they are not useful. If beauty of scenery is the purpose, then there is much beautifying that the Department of Highways could and should do before it stumps for billboard control.

"If the purpose is in the name of good taste, then it would be well to examine whether billboards are more unseemly as part of the American landscape than some of the chrome-plated land palaces that burn up the road at such speeds as to make the scenery of little significance to the occupants.

"If the purpose is to get some extra Federal dollars, we're a little fed up with governmental agencies using the tax money we provide to buy our loyalties to causes.

"If the purpose is to end the abuse of the public domain,—or whatever the public owns in the way of a right to scan the countryside sans billboards—then similar controls are in order to end abuses by radio and television stations which continue to serve up large masses of tripe to the exclusion on all but a few occasions of quality programs.

"If the purpose is to end the advantage to private business of benefits from public expenditures, then similar benefits enjoyed by the publishing business—the Post Office Department loses millions of dollars each year handling some of the nation's top circulation magazines—are due for a searching re-examination.

"Anyway, we find the billboards quite useful. In addition to supplying us with information, they provide our youngsters with a game to while away the time on long trips. We'd sure miss them."

I repeat, Mr. President,—and with this I will conclude—that not one State, after almost four years of having this Federal legislation on the books, has ever received a dollar. If we were fortunate enough to qualify and, thereby, have a promise of the return of our money, it would only be paid over a period of twelve years. If we do not meet every qualification along the line, we will never receive that money. That is the bait which is held by the Federal Government. That is the purpose of this legislation, which is an attempt to weaken an industry in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania which reputedly pays in wages and materials in Pennsylvania some $31,000,000 a year.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, this bill has many worth-while features. I think after sufficient discussion, some of us who were a little bit leary of it or opposed to it might be persuaded to vote for it.

In addition to whatever good features it has,—such as an effort to rid Pennsylvania of a very definite eyesore, the billboard alleys—this bill is also a further encroachment by the Federal Government on the rights of the sovereign States. In a sense, the leak in the dike has steadily grown larger in the past generation. I am referring to the gradual assumption of the Federal Government over many of the powers of the individual States. This bill has in it authority for the Federal Government to make that leak in the dike much bigger. I think that the bill deserves more discussion than it can get now.

Let us be sensible. As I remember it, we adopted this so-called gentleman's rule to adjourn at 6:00 o'clock in the evening for dinner in the second year of the 1955 Session at the suggestion, I believe, of Senator Yosko. I believe on that day, there were ten of the fifty Members either in hospitals or sick and unable to attend the Session. All of us have gone through a very hard day, starting with Committee Meetings as early as 9:00 a.m. this morning.

We have all worked in one way or another down here for twelve hours, and to fully debate the bill at this hour would be a further imposition on those Members of the Senate who are under doctors' orders to eat and rest at regular hours. Therefore, I will vote against this bill because we have not had an opportunity to fully discuss it at this time.

Mr. President, I believe we could take some bills in place. There are some gentlemen who would like to introduce those, and I do not think that will interfere with the Committee Meeting.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I want to suggest, if it is agreeable to the Chair, that we proceed with the business and read, for the first time, the bills reported from committee while we are having the meeting.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. ROONEY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, before I introduce this bill, I would like to make a very brief statement.

Mr. President, the bill which I am going to introduce pertains to public utility companies in Pennsylvania. It will require public utility companies, who enter into contracts with outside contractors, to have outside contractors submit performance bonds.

I do not want to mention the company involved in a situation, but it involved one-half million dollars in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. This public utility company entered into a contract for over a half million dollars. The contractor was on the job only two months before he went bankrupt.

I called the counsel of the public utility company and asked why he did not have the outside contractor issue a performance bond. He said he could not get a performance bond because he had a contract with the United Gas Company in my District and with another utility company in New Jersey. I said: "He then was not the lowest responsible bidder."

However, nevertheless, this utility company issued the contract. Perhaps in the next year or so, the public utility company will go to the Public Utility Commission and ask for an increase in rates. I am going to oppose it. In the meantime, I am going to introduce this piece of legislation which I hope will prohibit a recurrence of this unfortunate situation.

SENATE RESOLUTION

DIRECTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT
COMMISSION TO MAKE A STUDY OF THE MENTAL HEALTH PROGRAM IN PENNSYLVANIA

Mr. YATRON, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 43), which was read and referred to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare:

In the Senate, April 18, 1961.

It has come to the attention of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the mental health problem is fast becoming one of vast importance to this State. Not only from the older citizens whose problems increase with their aging years, but also with the brain injured defective children who are ever increasing the burdens of the officials in charge of this phase of our social structure.

It is only fair to state that the reorganized Department of Mental Health is trying to do a superior job in getting patients into the right facilities. To do this a new method of screening by a super agency has been devised under the direction of the State Department. It may be that this method is professionally sound, but practically inadequate since patients in many cases are not screened for a period of six to eight months after application.

In many instances within the past few months mentally defective children have been found guilty of serious sex crimes of various descriptions. In many instances these crimes have stimulated waves of terror in many of the communities; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to make a complete study of the mental health program of the Commonwealth; this study to include laws, rules and regulations as to entrance to mental institutions; the adequacy of these institutions; and make recommendations as to the laws covering the mental health programs for the aging, and the younger people as well as mentally defective children. This commission will report to this body as soon as possible the results of its studies and recommendations.

NAYS—1

Murphy,

NOT VOTING—10

Blair,	Murray,	Renwick,	Steckel,
Goldstein, M. H.,	Needham,	Stank,	Wescott,
Jenkins,	Price,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 985, entitled:

An Act relating to the effect and priority of liens for taxes and municipal or other claims in cities of the first class.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, rise?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Morley, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MORLEY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, as I read this bill, it provides that any person liable to pay any municipal tax or other claim and refusing to do so, when that claim is entered and docketed of record by the prothonotary, it shall constitute a lien in favor of the municipality against the real and personal property of the person who is liable.

That being so, I am wondering whether or not there has to be a writ of execution issued and a levy made on the personal property of that person before the lien will attach on his personal property.

Mr. MORLEY. The way I understand it, the bill will have the same effect as the present procedure, except it will eliminate one step. It will make the lien the final instrument and will affect the property involved in the same fashion as does the act passed in the last session that applies to the sales tax.

It will also give these liens priority to Federal liens, which at the present time have priority over these municipal liens due to the fact that they are considered completed instruments.

Mr. McCORMACK. Since this is essentially a legal question, I was wondering whether or not Mr. Lee would permit himself to be interrogated because it involves a legal problem.

Mr. MORLEY. Probably the gentleman should apply to the courts.

Mr. McCORMACK. To the what?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. A. M. LEE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. The question that concerns me in this bill, Mr. Speaker, is the language in here creating a lien against the personal property of an individual, not after a writ of execution has been issued and a levy made on the personal property, but at the time that the claim is entered of record and docketed by the prothonotary. That is the way I read the bill, and, if that is correct, I will put a hypothetical question and ask you what your legal conclusion would be.

Suppose that I, as a delinquent taxpayer, own an automobile and I sell that automobile to another individual. At the time I sell that automobile there has been a tax claim entered of record and docketed, but there has been no writ of execution nor levy made against that automobile. Would I then get a title that is at least clouded, or would the person to whom I sold the automobile get a title that is clouded?

Mr. A. M. LEE. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman's inquiry, it would be my opinion from reading the bill that as far as the lien is concerned, upon filing, it would constitute a lien upon the real and personal property of the debtor, and therefore if the property were sold, in all probability it would be sold subject to that lien.

Mr. McCORMACK. So, then I should not buy a car from a delinquent taxpayer unless I had the record searched and made sure that there was no tax claim docketed, is that correct?

Mr. A. M. LEE. Unless the delinquent taxpayer happened to be in the automobile business and held the automobile as part of his goods, wares and merchandise under the terms of the bill. That would be my understanding. May I also say in further clarification, Mr. Speaker, that this, as I understand it, is part of the city of Philadelphia's legislative program, and while I will be glad to answer all the questions I can in connection with the bill, there may be others on your side of the House who would have even more information.

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, I will ask you one more question. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman, as an attorney, say that this is a good piece of legislation?

Mr. A. M. LEE. In my opinion, I think it is a good piece of legislation. It is the same type of lien which the Federal Government now has for Federal taxes under the Federal law.

In other words, it attaches to the real and personal property of the taxpayer as long as the obligation is concerned, it is my opinion that they have considerable difficulty in the collection of a lot of these delinquent tax claims, and as far as I am concerned, being a taxpayer, if we can properly help the city in collecting from those who do not pay, I think it is good legislation.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to say, very briefly, that I hate to disagree with the city of Philadelphia in its legislative program, but, nevertheless, I personally believe that this is a bad piece of legislation. Although I am in sympathy with the municipality in its attempt to use every means to collect delinquent tax money, at the same time I am concerned with the fact that the innocent purchaser of personal property from an individual delinquent taxpayer has no protection. If I buy anything from an individual not in business, I am purchasing that at the risk that the municipality might have a lien outstanding by virtue of entering that claim of record. The ordinary procedure, and the proper procedure, would be for the municipality that has that claim to issue a writ of execution and to make a levy on that property. But here it is not required and, as a consequence, no one can be safe who purchases personal property from individuals. For that reason, unless I am not reading the bill correctly, I am going to have to vote against the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority whip, Mr. Eilberg.

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, I disagree with the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack. On page 2, lines 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9, "The lien shall have no effect . . . until a writ of execution has been entered and a levy made." I think this answers the gentleman's question.

I cannot let this opportunity go by without expressing to the House, particularly, our admiration for Representative Lee of the opposite party who gets up and speaks in favor of the bill because he thinks it is the right thing to do. At this time I ask that all the members vote for the bill.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Eilberg?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Eilberg, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EILBERG. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Are you saying, from the language that you just quoted that it would affect in any way the hypothetical proposition that I put to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee?

Mr. EILBERG. I do.

Mr. McCORMACK. Where do you get that language?

Mr. EILBERG. I just read it, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, it says, "in the ordinary course of business." That assumes a situation, does it not, where a person is in that business and sells his goods, his wares, his merchandise in that business to somebody. Does it not assume that?

Mr. EILBERG. I disagree with the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, what does saying "in the ordinary course of business" mean?

Mr. EILBERG. The gentleman is talking as a lawyer. I think the term "in the ordinary course of business" speaks for itself.

Mr. McCORMACK. Speaks for itself?

Mr. Speaker, that is all of my interrogation. It seems to me that there can be no disagreement—whether I am a Philadelphia lawyer or not—on the language of the bill. I will ask any other lawyer here if he will contradict me when I say that this language, "The lien shall have no effect upon any stock of goods wares or merchandise regularly sold or leased in the ordinary course of business . . .", means that a person who is in that business sells his wares, or goods, or merchandise, but it does not apply to an individual taxpayer who is delinquent and who wants to sell a piece of his personal property such as an item of furniture or an automobile? Now, I am not here in opposition to the great leadership in the city of Philadelphia or anything else, but I say that this does not protect a bona fide purchase from an individual. I am going to vote against it and I do not care how outstanding the other Philadelphia lawyers are. I think it is a bad bill.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I am not a Philadelphia lawyer, but I would like to say that I agree 100 percent with what the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, has said concerning this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am a Philadelphia lawyer and I agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack. I do not think there is any question about the language of this bill. I do not think there is any measure of protection for an innocent purchaser for value for the purchaser other than of goods in the ordinary course of business. Since I do come from Philadelphia, I am, of course, concerned with facilitating the collection procedures of the city of Philadelphia, and we all want to get the moneys that are properly due to any municipality from its taxpayers, but it has to be done in a manner that will accord to innocent people no injustices, and I think that as the bill is presently constituted it constitutes an injustice on an innocent purchaser, and I, for one, am going to vote against this bill.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. LAMB. Mr. Speaker, I, too, am concerned about the effect of this bill. As I read it, and I feel that I am correct, this is going to make a drastic change in the law of liens with respect to real property.

I do not think that is the intent, and I know it only applies to Philadelphia, but I do not feel that it was ever the intent that the bill would be this broad. So on that line, I am going to move that the bill be recommitted for further study.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The motion is in order.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will ask the gentleman from Allegheny to withdraw his motion for the purpose of placing the bill on the final passage postponed calendar for the purpose of study and possible amendment to clarify the points in lines 3, 4, 5, and 6. I so move and hope the gentleman will withdraw his motion.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

Mr. LAMB. I shall withdraw my motion.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. McCANN. Mr. SPEAKER, I move that the bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 987, entitled:

An Act authorizing minor spouses to join with their adult spouse in the conveyance or mortgaging of their real estate and to execute bonds or other obligations in connection therewith and validating such actions heretofore taken.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Which sponsor would you care to interrogate?

Mr. GAILEY. It is immaterial. I see Mr. Kramer is rising from his seat. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kramer.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kramer, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KRAMER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Allegheny advise the House as to whether or not this act affects deeds and mortgages which have already been executed, in other words, those which have been executed in the past by minor spouses. I call the gentleman's attention to line 6 on page 2, and let me read the following: "and any such deed heretofore made shall be valid as if such minor spouse had at the time been of lawful age and such minor spouse shall be liable on a bond or other obligation executed," et cetera.

Mr. KRAMER. In answer to the gentleman's question, it was not intended that deeds or mortgages filed before the effective date of this act would be affected by the act. I call to the gentleman's attention that this bill was copied from another bill which is already on the books, and the only change that was made in the existing law was the addition of the word "mortgaging," and that is all.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, if this is an addition to existing law, the bill certainly does not indicate it, and it looks as if it is all brand new law. Is the gentleman advising me that presently we have an act on our books validating deeds executed by minor spouses?

Mr. KRAMER. Yes, Mr. Speaker, we do. The purpose of this particular bill was to allow a minor spouse above the age of 17, when she is joined in with her adult spouse, to allow such people to mortgage their properties.

The specific instance is that sort of case such as I had just this past summer, where I had an adult male husband, who was 23 years of age, and a minor wife, 20 years of age. They had three children. A piece of real estate was given to them by her parents. After all this was concluded, they came to me with some papers that they wanted to execute with the contractor to build a home for themselves and their children. We found that no bank or building and loan would loan any money because the wife was a minor.

In checking the law, I found that a minor spouse above the age of 17, joined in with her adult spouse, could convey property, but that she could not mortgage property with her adult spouse. So, the people caught in this situation, with children, had a very difficult time trying to find an apartment and the wherewithal to build a home, and the law prohibited them from doing so. That was the purpose behind this bill.

Mr. GAILEY. Well, Mr. Speaker, I am not out of sympathy with the general purpose of the bill for a minor who has married, but do I understand the gentleman to say that if this act passes and is signed by the Governor, that his particular minor spouse with whom he had difficulty—I do not mean his own minor spouse, I am sure, but his client who was a minor spouse—could then execute a mortgage, that she could execute a mortgage in the future, is that correct?

Mr. KRAMER. That is correct.

Mr. GAILEY. Now, are you saying, therefore, that this bill does not pretend to validate any mortgage signed by her in the past?

Mr. KRAMER. For example, if that intent was taken from this act, that would be an ex post facto law.

Mr. GAILEY. That is the point I am trying to make, Mr. Speaker. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I am certainly in sympathy with the intent of this act which will validate, which will allow, minors to join in with their spouses, married minors to join with their spouses, in executed bonds, mortgages, and deeds, as the need may be, if we do not have such a law on the books already, but it seems to me that the language of the act as it is now drawn clearly looks back toward validating prior action. There is no separability clause in the act. It seems to me, therefore, that this act would, in fact, be unconstitutional since it constitutes an ex post facto law, and I am just afraid that if we pass this we are going to, by virtue of the unconstitutionality of the ex post facto part of this law, render the whole act invalid and it will not have the effect the gentleman is trying to achieve.

MOTION TO POSTPONE

Mr. KRAMER. Mr. Speaker, if it is in order, I would like to move that this bill be laid over on the postponed calendar so the gentleman and myself can get together and work out an amendment.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I do not agree with the legal conclusions of the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman yield for a moment? ..

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. I shall. I would like to be heard on a legal question if the minority leader will yield to me for one second I may cover the same subject matter.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I will yield to Mr. Goldstein because I have the same idea in mind that he has, that I can see no reason for placing this bill on any calendar other than today's to vote on it now.

MOTION TO POSTPONE WITHDRAWN

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman yield for a moment, please?

A motion has been made to postpone. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kramer, withdraw his motion temporarily?

The gentleman withdraws his motion temporarily.

The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, has the floor.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, validating acts of this character have been passed since time immemorial in this Commonwealth. The action of the minor spouse was merely a voidable act and could become a legal act by affirmance upon majority, so there is nothing in the Constitution which would make this an ex post facto act and which would make it unconstitutional. We see nothing improper about the act. It is sound, and we are only doing what we did in many instances before. I say we should vote upon this legislation which is remedial and pass it without delay.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to add the same words Mr. Goldstein said. I think the bill is in order and should be voted on. I think it is a very fine, commendable piece of legislation and is much needed in this State.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kramer, desire to make his motion?

Mr. KRAMER. No, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Heffner.

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Speaker, I must agree with the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey. This is more than a validating act. This would actually be extinguishing a right which a minor, who in the past signed a mortgage and who now has a right to void. If this act were passed, you would be extinguishing a property right they have, the right to void.

I agree with the philosophy behind this bill, that perhaps we should let minors who have adult spouses enter into mortgages, but I do not believe that we should pass a law today to extinguish these contract rights which they now have, and that is what you will be doing by this legislation. It just is not—it is something more than—a validating act.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Schaaf.

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, I do not know if maybe I am a little confused here, but it seems to me that I agree with what Mr. Heffner, the gentleman from Schuylkill, said. You are concerned with something basic here. Traditionally in Pennsylvania, people have been considered minors until they reach the age of 21 years. I can see where it may be desirable to permit a minor spouse to join in the conveyance of real estate, but it seems to me when she makes herself, or himself, as the case may be, jointly or severally liable on a bond as secured by a mortgage, you are departing to a great extent from what has been traditional here in Pennsylvania.

I do not say that we should be bound at all times by tradition, but I do suggest that this is a serious piece of legislation. I admit that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kramer, may have had a problem, but could not the same problem be overcome in this particular case he cited by securing the appointment of a guardian through the local Orphans court? I think that is a reasonable approach which has been used in other counties of this State, and I think this bill will have serious consequences, not simply from the standpoint of conveying money, but from taking a minor person—although the age is 17 years—and incurring a substantial obligation. I question whether it is wise.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, there are some practical aspects to the bill that I think we should keep in mind. I do not imagine that in the course of the last 10 years throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that there are more than, perhaps, 100 mortgages that have been executed by any minor without that mortgage having been uninsured. No mortgagee permits an instrument to be executed by a minor unless the mortgagee is properly protected, and they are protected principally by a title insurance policy either issued by an attorney or by a title company. If the mortgagor is a minor, the mortgagor if he or she is going to execute the instrument, will have to secure the appointment of a guardian in Orphans Court. Generally what happens is that the title is taken in the name of the adult spouse, and the mortgage is not executed by the minor spouse whatsoever. Let me say this, if persons are old enough to be married, I think they are old enough to sign an instrument of conveyance, a mortgage instrument, knowing full well what they are doing. The possibility of voiding or striking out the availability to minors of the disavowment of any mortgage that they might heretofore have executed is so remote, so removed, that it should not play any part in our consideration of this bill. This is a bill that has tremendous merit and will facilitate the purchase of homes by young people. It is the kind of instrument that we should have authorized, the type of transaction we should have authorized, many years ago, particularly since the advent of GI mortgage financing. We have found many young people who have entered into contracts to be wed and in the ordinary course of events seek to buy their homes without the young wife being able to purchase a home. This will facilitate that type of purchase. I think we should vote favorably on it.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, I agree 100 percent with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, in the laudable purpose of this bill. I think it will be helpful, however, and I think the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Heffner, has phrased it much more felicitously than I. We are here taking away a vested property right, or we pretend to do that. We take away the right of a minor to make a valid contract. This right is vested in these minors and we are attempting, by legislation, to impair these contractual rights, and I think it is purely unconstitutional. I would like to see a bill passed in order to do this in the future, but I do not think we can do it in the past.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

MOTION TO POSTPONE

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, in the interest of the pending legislation of this sort, I move that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar for further study and possible amendment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the proponents of the bill have asked that I vote the bill, and I would ask Mr. Gailey to withdraw his motion for that purpose. If they desire to vote against the bill, they can vote either way.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, if there are enough of those of us here who feel the way Mr. Heffner does, and I know there are, I think to put it on the postponed calendar would help the bill. If we just vote "no" and it is subsequently determined, we will have to go through the process of bringing it back. I would therefore respectfully request that the motion to place it on the postponed calendar be voted and if that fails, then to vote the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Kistler.

Mr. KISTLER. Mr. Speaker, can we have a roll call?

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, to pass on this legislation at this time, in light of the debate which has occurred here, is a travesty on the legislative process. We have respected members of the Bar on both sides of this House contesting the intent, the constitutionality, and the meaning of this legislation. We are going to by-pass these men, qualified in their field, who disagree and say we are going to pass legislation today come willy-nilly whether we know what it says, whether we know or believe that is constitutional. I do not propose to debate the merits of the legislation. I have a very definite opinion, as the other attorneys have here, as to whether this bill is sound or not sound, but to pass upon this bill today, I repeat, is a travesty upon the legislative process.

BILL LAID ON TABLE

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be laid upon the table.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is out of order. There is a motion.

Mr. McCANN. I am speaking on the motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. You are not entitled to speak on a motion. The motion is not debatable. The question is on a motion.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. The Chair wants to congratulate the members of the House for the clarity and the decorum of the debate upon the legal questions that faced the House. I am not a lawyer and I am not testifying to the validity of the various contentions, but it was skillful, tactfully done and with great decorum. It reflected credit upon the membership of this House, particularly upon some of the new members who are very welcome additions to our membership.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1200, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (P. L. 1959), entitled "An act fixing the salaries and compensation of the Chief Justice and judges of the Supreme Court * * * and the salary and expenses of the members of the General Assembly * * *" fixing the allowance of members of the General Assembly for clerical assistance and other expenses.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 2, last line of Title, by inserting after "expenses"; "declaring the office of Senator and member of the House of Representatives to be incompatible with any appointive office under any county, city, borough, town or township; requiring reemployment of members of the Senate and House of Representatives by counties, cities, boroughs, towns and townships by which formerly employed, and defining their State, county, city, borough, town or township retirement rights."

Amend Bill, page 4, by inserting between lines 7 and 8 Section 2. The act is amended by adding, after section 14, two new sections to read:

Section 14.1 No member of the Senate or House of Representatives of Pennsylvania shall, during the time for which he shall have been elected, be appointed to any office under any county, city, borough, town or township of this Commonwealth.

Section 14.2 Any member of the Senate or House of Representatives of Pennsylvania who at the time of his election to the Senate or House of Representatives was an employe of any county, city, borough, town or township of this Commonwealth, shall be restored to his position or to a position of like seniority, status, pension rights and pay: Provided, That said member of the Senate or House of Representatives shall make application for such reemployment by writing, delivered to the officials of the county, city, borough, town or township within ninety days after the expiration of his service as a member of the Senate or House of Representatives.

Any member of the Senate or House of Representatives of Pennsylvania who, at the time of his election to such Senate or House of Representatives was an employe of any county, city, borough, town or township of the Commonwealth and who then was a member of any pension plan of such county, city, borough, town or township shall have the right to elect to continue as a member of such pension plan during the time that he is a member of the Senate or House of Representatives and for ninety days thereafter. Said election shall be exercised by the member by writing, delivered to the officials of the appropriate pension plan within ninety days after the commencement of his term as a member of the Senate or House of Representatives and he shall continue as a member until ninety days after the termination of his service as a member of the Senate or House of Representatives. If he elects to continue as a member of the pension plan of the county, city, borough, town or township, he shall be entitled to all the privileges and obligated to make all payments as if he were an employe of the county, city, borough, town or township: Provided, That if he so elects, the member of the Senate or House of Representatives shall not be entitled to become a member of the State Employees' Retirement Fund.

Section 3. The provisions of sections 14.1 and 14.2 of this act shall not apply to any person holding the office of Senator or member of the House of Representatives on the effective date of this act until the day following the expiration of the term for which such person was elected.

Amend Sec. 2, page 4, line 8, by striking out "2" and inserting 4.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I will explain the amendments in full.

These amendments are introduced in order to make certain that the standard of the General Assembly would be increased in the public eye.

By House bill 1200 the legislature proposes to re-enact an expense allowance of $3,000, which will make the take-home pay of the legislators, for all practical purposes, subject to expenses in the sum of $9,000 annually.

Now, what is the purpose of this amendment? The purpose of this amendment is to provide that in these days of unemployment dual office holding shall be curtailed. If you examine the statute books of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, you will find many statutes that provide that certain offices are incompatible with the office of being a House member or a member of the State Senate.

This amendment provides that no member of the General Assembly shall be permitted to have an appointive job under any city, county, borough or township. I submit that the amendment is in the public interest for these reasons:

Firstly, it provides against dual office holding.

Secondly, it prevents legislators from being the errand boys of the public officials by whom they are employed.

When I say that I want to prevent this, I also want to make it possible that any man who works in public employment, be it city, county, borough, or township, shall have the opportunity of being a member of the State legislature.

So a section of this bill provides that if you are a policeman or a fireman and desire to run for the State legislature and win then you can come down to Harrisburg and serve as long as your constituents say you have done a good job. Then if you retire, voluntarily or otherwise, within 60 days after that separation from the State as a legislator, you have a right to return to your city, county, borough, or township job.

In addition, it protects these members who are elected from city offices in their pension rights.

Now, I have not examined in detail the fiscal amounts which various members on both sides of the aisle obtain by virtue of being employed in two capacities, but I would say that they would run anywhere from six to nine thousand dollars annually. Do you say that it is in the public interest that members of the State legislature should draw from fifteen to twenty thousand dollars each year as salary, which is equal to the salary of cabinet officers?

Therefore, I say if we want to elevate ourselves in the eyes of the public, let us establish standards. We now say we need more money because of the fact that our duties are more onerous and because we have annual sessions. If our duties are so tremendous, then how can we be on two payrolls at the same time?

This particular legislation is something that I did not conceive within the last couple of months. I have been in favor of such legislation for many, many years. This is the first time I have had the opportunity of getting it on the floor of the House so the members of the House, both Republican and Democratic, can be recorded on this issue.

I, therefore, ask for a roll call on these amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Gibbons.

Mr. GIBBONS. Mr. Speaker, I request to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GIBBONS. According to these amendments, Mr. Speaker, would a member of the House of Representatives be prohibited from serving in a non-paying, appointive office in a township or borough?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. In my opinion, he or she would be so prohibited, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GIBBONS. Would a member of the House of Representatives be, then, prohibited from serving on a zoning board of adjustment?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. He would.

Mr. GIBBONS. Would he be prohibited from serving on a planning commission?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. He would.

Mr. GIBBONS. Would a member of the House of Representatives be prohibited from serving as a solicitor to a township, borough, or county?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. In my opinion, he would and that would be my intent. And I introduce legislation to regulate the squires, and I happen to be an attorney, and we also want to regulate the attorneys.

Now, the most important feature about this item is this, when we are in the legislature we have duties which might involve conflict of interests. Parenthetically, I am asking Mr. McCann and Mr. McCormack to get House bill 330 on the floor so we can carry out the administration program.

Mr. GIBBONS. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, in many areas, communities, townships, and boroughs, there is great difficulty in obtaining men to serve on a voluntary basis for both planning commissions and zoning boards of adjustment, men who have skill. We find that members of the House of Representatives serving in our communities very often are men who have had experience in various other capacities. I think this amendment would deprive the communities of a very great wealth of talent by prohibiting these men from serving without any pay in an area where they are very much needed.

Thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as it is the gentleman's intention to have these amendments eliminate conflict of interests, I would also think that he should next prepare and submit amendments that would prevent any attorney from operating a private law office, and any person who works for any firm, corporation, insurance company, who is also a member of this legislature, must also give up his private occupation when he comes here. If he is going to single out persons who want to serve on local school boards, local planning commissions, and so forth, he should also carry it further.

Thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. The argument of the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy, is rather specious. The thing that I am concerned about is the dual job, office-holding in a public capacity. I want to impress upon the gentleman from Washington that I have no objection to voting for a bill which involves conflict of interests on my part as an attorney. I have had many opportunities to appear before the Board of Pardons. I have rejected those opportunities. I think that members of the legislature who are attorneys sometimes have an open door because of the fact that they are in the legislature and pass upon the legislation which affects various departments. This, I believe, is unsound. But if you want to act as a private attorney, there is a great deal of distinction, and I am certain the gentleman from Washington recognizes that.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

NOT VOTING—7

Elvey,	Musto,	Price,	Walsh,
Murray,	Needham,	Steckel,

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the membership of this House is going to vote in a minute on House bill 1200. There is no question that there has been considerable discussion of House bill 1200 in various circles and in various publications in this Commonwealth.

The people of Pennsylvania, by proper voting, declared a change in our Constitution which directs annual sessions of this General Assembly shall be held. Beginning with the current year, we have a general session and then a fiscal session in the even-numbered year. There is no question that we, as Representatives, and those who will serve after us in both the House and the Senate, are expected, and certainly will, as we have done in the past, work at this job continually, day in and day out, week in and week out.

In this Commonwealth we have no statutory nor constitutional amendments which limit the length of sessions. In Pennsylvania the only limit to a session is for adjournment when House or Senate complete its work or upon the first Monday of the following year at 12 o'clock noon when the new session convenes.

There is no question, we are talking about an expense account for the members of the General Assembly. In this United States, there are many States that far exceeds, in both salary and expenses, this great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, New York, California, and various other states, who by their constitutions or laws limit the length of the sessions of their respective States.

For example, New York's members receive at the present time a salary of $10,000 per member, plus $5,000 in expenses, plus other incidentals. Such legislation was passed in the present session of the State of New York, which added an additional $2,500 to expenses. In the State of California, something that Pennsylvania has long needed and some day hopes to accomplish, they have a salary, a telephone allowance, a postage allowance, allowance for operation of district offices, a secretarial service, an office for every member, a per diem allowance payable weekly during session, per diem allowance during interim periods up to 40 days for attendance at committee meetings, 20 additional days' allowance for attendance at joint committee meetings, adding up to an average of about $12,000 to $15,000 per member. These are facts.

In many other States the representative is a part-time representative or senator where by their Constitution they are limited to 60, 90 or 120 days. In that period of time, according to the state involved, they handle the fiscal matters or general budget for the entire program.

Here in Pennsylvania we say, and we are in this legislation proposing to the people of Pennsylvania, that we are representatives and senators elected by the people, both Republican and Democratic, elected by both parties, that we handle and work with the programs dealing with all the people, that we do it in a business-like manner, and that we demand of these representatives and senators that they serve here and serve longer than the mere duration of the session. The session on the floor is the smallest part of a representative's total work. With that we say that we believe this legislation is certainly warranted, that it will help to make better bodies of the House and Senate, representatives who will be able to continue to work on these various legislative problems and to enact the legislation according to the wishes of our constituents.

Mr. Speaker, I do not know if we in Pennsylvania would be in any position to say to anyone, except ourselves, that our form of government and under our Constitution no one can vote for these bills but the elected representatives and the elected senators. We can vote for every piece of legislation which pertains to every other single group, municipality or community, and, yet, when we vote on this, because of our position, only you can vote on these measures that pertain to yourself.

I have tried in a short, humble way to point out to this membership the reasons why you should support this legislation, to enact it and to pass it here in the House today. I hope that the membership will agree with the views and the comments that I have expressed about House bill 1200.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I certainly want to compliment the majority leader on the very able speech that he has made in defense of this expense allowance for the members of the General Assembly.

There is not too much that I can add, only to say that the modern-day General Assembly of Pennsylvania is virtually a full-time job. It started in 1955 when we had a 17-month session; in 1959 we were in session for the entire year; we were in being during the entire year of 1960. Goodness knows where this session is going to go. Since I am here, of course, as the Minority floor leader, I am here a day or two extra every week. I have observed a large number of members who are here after the session ends. They have many errands to do which they must do for their constituents who keep them in the State Capitol, and generally a day a week or once or twice in the month they stay over.

But the average member is like me, when he gets home over the week end, his phone starts to ring, people worrying about having lost their driver's license, municipalities about to organize an authority that want help with the Secretary of the Commonwealth in organizing the authority, delivering the papers to Harrisburg for them. Maybe your school district should have a new school. The lawyer for the school district in question calls the State representative. "Will you call Captain Bartman for me?" "Will you call Mr. Klinger?" "Will you call Dr. Boehm?" Will you come to Harrisburg with us when we try to get the money or the allocation for the new school? Or, if it is the day that the bids are opened down at the Public School Building Authority, they will ask the legislator to come along with them to help when they open the bids on the new school. When your borough wants some streets taken over and put on the State system, they call up the legislator. "Would you call the district highway office in Clearfield?" "Will you send a man here to come and look over these roads? Or, your township will call you and say "We want roads put on the omnibus bill, we want you to come out and look this road over, we want to convince you why the State should take over this road, or why the State should give us back this or that road."

When it comes time for elections they want to know how the absentee ballot works and you have to call Mr. Eberman over in the Secretary of State's office as to the voting rights of the people. Candidates for office want you to file their nominating petitions in Harrisburg for them, and you might even advance the money for them, which is repaid, of course, but it must be a money order. You deliver the papers for them in Harrisburg.

Really, there is no end to the work that a member of the General Assembly does for his constituents in every conceivable facet of life in this great Commonwealth of ours. We have what you would call "a reservoir of power" that is conferred on us by our Constitution, and we work within that area. We cover practically every phase of human life in this Commonwealth and we are called upon to assist our constituents in that particular phase.

When the session is over you think, well, now I can settle down and take a vacation from my duties. But, no, the work, the business of the Commonwealth goes on, as the gentleman from Delaware said. Matters about voting, matters about highways and schools, doctors having trouble with their licenses with the Department of Public Instruction, undertakers and engineers who want advice on how to process their applications for license to become a qualified engineer. I could go on, but many members of this legislature know that all year long we are called upon to do all these manifold things and to make trips to Harrisburg with our constituents to help them out in that regard.

I say it is becoming a full-time job. I said on television the other night that I hate to see these young lawyers come to the legislature. It is wonderful that we are attracting such fine young people, young school teachers, people with college degrees, and people who have made a great name for themselves in government back home, it is wonderful that they come here, but those who are in the professions do not realize when they come down here that they are becoming the servants of the people of the Commonwealth and their business will suffer, and after they have been here 8 or 10 years they find that their law practice is confined to representing a few school boards and a few school districts. They will find their law practice is an avocation with them, and being in the General Assembly is a vocation.

Believe me, I can speak from experience. I have been here 16 years and, if it was not for the love of my clients for myself and the people who like me as an individual who have stuck by me all these years, my law practice would not amount to anything. But it is because of that love for me by the people back home, because they wait for me until I get there, that I am able to carry on at all. As I say, it is getting to be a full-time job and in the future it is going to get worse. The problem of education, highways, mental health, and all the things that are being laid in the lap of this General Assembly will grow, and grow and grow, as we go into the future. With the inflationary spiral getting greater, I would say that the members of this great General Assembly are entitled to a decent stipend to the extent of the expenses that they have incurred.

Mr. McCANN. When including New York State expenses, the present bill provides for $2,500 expenses, I understood that I used an incorrect figure.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Well, as I sat here and listened for the last few minutes, I wondered whether we are just possibly errand boys. I am frankly concerned about many things that I see happen here and I wonder why the members of this House should be so opposed to Mr. Goldstein's amendment if they spend so much time here that they have no time to do anything at home. There are several stories here that seem to conflict with one another. It certainly is not any pleasure for me to stand up here and oppose something that so many people here seem to be in favor of, but I feel I would be neglecting my duty if I sat idly by and said nothing. I am just going to mention a few of the things, reasons why I feel that this is a bad bill and uncalled for.

In the first place, we are going to call upon a lot of people to pay more taxes who are not now making a very good living. With the thousands of people throughout this State who are out of work, on relief and without any method by which they can find some relief for themselves and their families, I question that we are here putting more tax on them and still not willing to set it up in such a way that a man may hold two jobs and keep some other person out of work back home.

Now who should have more expense money? The committee members who have the additional work to do, who have the additional meetings to attend. Provision has been made for them to be paid and they are getting it now, and this will be in addition to it. The Members who are in leadership positions throughout this House are getting additional money. What for? To take care of those necessary expenses that they have and, in some cases, to entertain their friends.

I do not see why we have been hurt so badly. In 1960 we had, I believe, 27 days of session. For that we received $6,000. That is not bad. I think we can stand a few extra chores with those few days of session. And in this session, if we had been working at it instead of coming here on Monday and working about two hours and, in many cases, going home on Tuesday after working a couple of hours, if we had been coming here and working at the job instead of simply putting in time when it cost the taxpayers of this State $7,000, approximately, each week to come here, we would be finished.

I think some people here ought to search their consciences a little before they vote on this bill. It has been brought out here, I think, from some things that have been said, that if you take inventory of both Houses, you will find that a very large majority of the members in both Houses have their own occupations of some sort, or income, and from some things I see here this one here seems to be secondary. I think it is about time that the members of both Houses start thinking about the people they represent, and I hope and trust that the members of this House will think of their positions of public trust and work for the good of the general public and not merely the means of their own financial gains.

Mr. STITELER. Mr. Speaker, I believe I have the right to be heard. I shall not be intimidated by the gentleman who passed through the aisle saying that someone wants headlines when he speaks his mind, which he has the right to do. I should like to say that I have tremendous respect for the majority leader, for the minority leader, for the caucus chairman, and I should like to say that I believe that the majority leader's office and the minority leader's office should be compensated at least by twice the salary they are now receiving. I am also of the belief that committee chairmen should receive more salary. I have observed, Mr. Speaker, there is never any dearth of candidates. I believe, Mr. Speaker, that this is a patriotic service. I believe that patriotism has no price and that is the reason I must vote "no."

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

COMMUNICATION

The SPEAKER. At this time, the Chair desires to read a communication from the International Roll Call Corporation. It shall be entered upon the record and then referred to the Rules Committee. I will read the whole thing:

Legislative Roll-Call and Sound Systems

International ROLL-CALL
Corporation
3114 W. Marshall Street
RICHMOND 21, VIRGINIA

April 14, 1961.

Hon. Hiram G. Andrews, Speaker,
House of Representatives
Capitol Building
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Mr. Speaker:

We feel that some of the difficulties experienced there with our equipment are operational rather than mechanical, and can be traced back to excessive use of the functions of CONTINUOUS TOTALS and CONTINUOUS RECORDS.

Most States using our system, except on highly controversial bills, do not use CONTINUOUS TOTALS at all, unless asked for; and make only one Record, unless additional copies are asked for. This method is much faster, saves wear and tear, and brings to a minimum the possibility of errors and faults of the human equation.

If the functions of CONTINUOUS TOTALS and CONTINUOUS RECORDS are to be used at all, we suggest that the following instructions be read to the Members, and then printed in the Journal:

- 1: Between votes, a Member may push his toggle handle to either side, and hold it there, for the purpose of seeking Recognition.
- 2: When the switch is used as a voting switch however,—and especially during the functions of CONTINUOUS TOTALS and CONTINUOUS RECORDS,—the Member must not hold the toggle handle at all. To do so may cause lost reset impulses, or even lost voting impulses.

The proper procedure for voting is, when the bell rings, for the Member to push the toggle handle to the YEA or NAY side firmly to the limit of travel, whereupon the handle is automatically latched and locked in that position, and the vote will be properly tabulated. The Member must however always push the handle to the limit of travel, and then remove his hand immediately, and let the machine take care of the recording of the vote.

In addition to here recommending that these instructions be read and printed in the Journal; we further hope that it will be found possible to give some consideration to reducing the use of the functions of CONTINUOUS TOTALS and CONTINUOUS RECORDS, to conform with standard operating procedure, wherein these functions are used only when asked for.

MFT.1s

Sincerely,

cc:
Mr. Ominsky

INTERNATIONAL ROLL-CALL
CORPORATION,
Marshall F. Thompson

The SPEAKER. This communication will be recorded in the Journal and referred to the Rules Committee.

The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have permission of the House to change our schedule here. We were going to caucus at a certain point here. It is 10 after 4. We have approximately 40 more bills that we can vote on today in order on the calendar, cleared. If we vote on bills steadily from now and debate them until 6, at 6 o'clock we will roughly cease to have roll calls, but finish up our amendments and recommitments that are agreed to. That would give us an opportunity to change our schedule tomorrow, if this would be agreeable. Both sides would caucus before we come to session and then tomorrow work on the other heavy items, because there are a considerable number of bills coming out of committee today and bills that came out and that also will be considered by committees tomorrow. It will place us in a position also to carry through and get much more done here than breaking for caucus today. If this is acceptable with the minority, although we had talked about going to caucus roughly at 4:30, I will ask that we change our plans and go steadily on the 40 bills in order.

Mr. HELM IN THE CHAIR

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, that arrangement is perfectly agreeable to us. We had a full and complete caucus on Monday for two hours. We caucused on practically every bill remaining on the calendar from this point on, and, therefore, I would like to suggest that on the Republican side we caucus tomorrow between the hours of 1 and 2, if you are going to call the session at 2 o'clock.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows:

Mr. Tompkins for Mr. ODORISIO of remainder of today's session.

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

Mr. GOODRICH asked and obtained unanimous consent to add additional sponsors to a bill to be introduced by him.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 995, entitled:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1048, entitled:

An Act amending the "Liquor Code" approved April 12, 1951 (P. L. 90) further regulating the procedure for the revocation and suspension of licenses.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have one of the sponsors explain this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, desires to interrogate one of the sponsors to explain the bill. The Chair will recognize the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Schaaf.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, either Mr. Schaaf or Mr. Tomascik.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Schaaf, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SCHAAF. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I believe the only change in the bill is on page 3, where you cross out the first "nor more than fifteen" days, is that correct?

Mr. SCHAAF. That is correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. What does that do now to the procedure for hearings in the event of a citation for violation of your liquor laws?

Mr. SCHAAF. As I understand it, Mr. Speaker, under existing law the hearing must be held not less than ten days following issuance of the citation nor more than fifteen days following issuance of the citation. This, I think, would enlarge the rights of the licensee because, while there is no change in the requirements that the hearing be held sooner than ten days, the board could give a longer period following issuance of the citation during which the hearing on the citation could be heard. It would give, I would think, the licensee a more adequate and fuller time to prepare his defense to the citation, if such he had.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. In other words, you cannot have a hearing sooner than ten days, but the hearing could be held into the future in practically an interminable period, depending on the whim of the liquor board and depending on who the licensee might be, for instance?

Mr. SCHAAF. Well, Mr. Speaker, I do not think that is the intention of the liquor board.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. But, Mr. Speaker, that could be the intention, could it not? Would the bill not be better if it fixed a time limit rather than making it unlimited, rather than taking out the 15-day limitation, that they say in 30 days or 35 days or 40 days?

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, I can conceive of cases where a much longer time than even 30 or 35 days following issuance of the citation would be necessary in order to compile records and information sufficient to make a defense to such a charge.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, many of us on this side of the House feel that by removing the 15-day limitation it opens the door to possible chicanery—not that any would occur—but the present law is a pretty good safeguard that the hearings are held promptly and expeditiously, and I ask the members on this side to vote against the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

Mr. ANDREWS. A number of years ago, quite a good many years ago, a small group of members of this House, the gentleman from Armstrong, Mrs. Helm, the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Mihm, the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, the gentleman from Northumberland, Mr. Bower, and the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood, committed themselves to the accomplishment of a program. That program included the remodeling of this chamber, part of which has been done; the installation of an electric roll call, which has been done; better retirement provisions for the members of this House, which today, as far as the House is concerned, has been done; adequate compensation for the members of this House, which, as far as the members of this House are concerned, has been done; adequate space and proper recognition of our committees, a project upon which we are working. When we have activated the committee on space allocation, the program outlined will have been completed.

So far as your Speaker is concerned, he can say, let your servant depart in peace.

BIRTHDAY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has also been informed that we are celebrating today the birthday of a very prominent member of the minority side of the House, the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Fetterolf. Today is his natal day and we will recognize the music master of the House.

Dr. DENGLER. Mr. Speaker, let's all sing "Happy Birthday, dear Morton."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair extends happy birthday wishes to the gentleman and recognizes the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Fetterolf.

Mr. FETTEROLF. Mr. Speaker, members of the House, thank you very much. I want to bring to your attention the fact that today is the fifth time that I have celebrated my 35th birthday here in the House. I have become one year older than my compatriot from Montgomery, the Honorable Evelyn Henzel. Thank you very much.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 292, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 3, 1937 (P. L. 1225) entitled "The Game Law" extending the hours for hunting woodchucks to include the month of June.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL RECOMMENDED

Mr. CURWOOD. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Game and Conservation.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 314, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 3, 1937 (P. L. 1225) entitled "The Game Law" permitting unnaturalized foreign-born residents to possess or control dogs.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate Mr. Curwood or somebody familiar with this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Curwood, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CURWOOD. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides that they strike out the right of a foreign-born person to own dogs, is that right?

Mr. CURWOOD. That is right.

Mr. TOMPKINS. That leaves a meaning in the bill then that all shotguns, rifles, pistols, and firearms found in the possession or under control of an unnaturalized, foreign-born resident shall, upon conviction, and so forth, be forfeited to the Commonwealth. My inquiry is, how do we square this bill against one previously passed by this House granting hunting licenses to non-residents of the United States?

Mr. CURWOOD. Mr. Speaker, what do you mean, how do you square it with that bill?

Mr. TOMPKINS. I didn't hear the answer, I'm sorry.

Mr. CURWOOD. Mr. Speaker, this bill, I am not going back on any other bill, but this bill gives the foreigner a chance to have a dog and own a dog and can run a dog and hunt with a dog. That is all this bill does.

Mr. TOMPKINS. The copy of the bill I have has brackets around "dog," which means a strike-out, an elimination, in printer's No. 331.

Mr. CURWOOD. That is right. All this does is strike the dogs out.

Mr. TOMPKINS. But it still leaves as a part of the law the fact that unnaturalized, foreign-born residents must forfeit, dare not possess, firearms.

Mr. CURWOOD. Mr. Speaker, the last bill struck out that they dare not to have firearms, and they did not dare to have dogs before but now they dare.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I do not think the gentleman understands. How can we pass a law authorizing a person to hunt, which gives them the right to possess a firearm, then we turn around here and re-enact a bill forbidding them to do so?

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from Luzerne to yield while I explain the bill?

Mr. CURWOOD. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Curwood, yields to the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth, for the purpose of answering the interrogation.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman from Cameron permit me to say a few words, or does he want to ask questions. He asked for clarification on the bill.

Mr. TOMPKINS. That is right. That is what I am asking for, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, back in 1957 the game code was amended in Section 1002 which permitted aliens to own dogs. However, that bill failed to amend Sections 1003, 1004, and 1005, and to be consistent and avoid confusion, Senate bill 314 now, by eliminating dogs from Section 1005, will make the game law consistent with the amendment passed in 1957 amending 1002. There is nothing to it.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I agree with the gentleman in connection with the particular amendment to this bill. I merely raise the inconsistency of legislation to pass a bill of this kind after we have previously passed a bill authorizing aliens to possess firearms.

Mr. BRETH. Will you thank the gentleman for me, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. LAMB. Mr. Speaker, I think the inconsistency can be answered this way. This bill applies to foreign-born residents, whereas the bill we passed a few weeks ago did not apply to residents. It only allowed people who were in the country for a short time on visits the right to go hunting. I think that is the answer for the gentleman.

Mr. WILLARD. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Lamb, the gentleman from Allegheny County, brought out the point that I wanted to get across to Mr. Tompkins and exactly as I saw the bill.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. HAYS, from the Committee on Education, reported, as committed, HB 568.

REPORT OF SENATE COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE ALLEGED ELECTION IRREGULARITIES

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, during the 1960 Session of the General Assembly, a bipartisan committee of this Senate was appointed to investigate certain alleged election irregularities in the city of Philadelphia.

This committee has made that investigation and is now prepared to present its report to the Senate of Pennsylvania.

I realize, Mr. President, that there has been some criticism on the delay in presenting this report to the Senate. However, I would like to point out to the Members of the Senate, and to the citizens of Pennsylvania at large, that this Senate Committee has operated under very difficult handicaps.

First of all, during the course of its investigation last fall, the committee was retarded in carrying out this investigation by certain court proceedings. Those court proceedings delayed for a few months the conduct of the investigation, and resulted in a legal case going all the way to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania before the issue was decided.

I would also like to point out, Mr. President, that this committee has been handicapped because of the lack of staff of any nature whatsoever, and that the committee has had to do the work completely by itself.

I want to assure the Members of the Senate, and the citizens of Pennsylvania, that there has been absolutely no stalling in the preparation and the presentation of this report. This has been a very hard Session of the Legislature. We all have been working on many, many problems. It has been a time consuming Session of the General Assembly. This is the first possible opportunity this committee has had to make this report.

I would further like to point out to our colleagues in the Senate of Pennsylvania, Mr. President, the very fine spirit of cooperation which was given to me as Chairman of this Committee by all of the members of this very fine Investigating Committee. I particularly want to commend Senator Fleming and Senator Van Sant, on this side of the aisle, and Senator Mahady and Senator Lane, on the other side of the aisle, for the bipartisan spirit with which they entered into this investigation, the way we conducted the investigation, and the spirit entered into in actually writing the report.

Therefore, Mr. President, I would like at this time to present the notes of transcript of the hearings that were conducted by this committee and also the Report of the Investigating Committee.

I would like to say, Mr. President, that there are a number of recommendations in this report, and those recommendations will be followed by actual legislation to be introduced to the Senate of Pennsylvania the beginning of next week. I have copies of the Committee's Report for all of the Members of the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The report of the committee will be noted in the Journal and printed in the Appendix thereto.

INTERROGATION

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, under the order of business of Committee Reports, I would like to interrogate the Majority Whip.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Lane, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LANE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HAYS. Senator Lane, yesterday what I considered a rather important resolution was introduced on the floor of this Senate and referred to the Rules Committee. Since the Majority Leader, I note, is not present at this particular time, I wonder if you could inform the Senate whether the Rules Committee has acted on this resolution.

Mr. LANE. In reply to the gentleman's question, Mr. President, the committee has not met and has not acted on the resolution, although we anticipate action on it next week.

Mr. HAYS. Thank you, Senator Lane.

Mr. President, may I have unanimous consent to make a very brief statement?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair hears no objection. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I wish to urge upon the members of the Rules Committee early action on this resolution. A committee of thirty-two citizens of Pennsylvania worked for a year studying Pennsylvania education and, while they had hoped to complete the report sooner than they did, I think each of these people senses a great urgency in these problems. Many of them feel that we should have faced up to them five or ten years ago.

Therefore, I am hoping that the members of the Rules Committee will act soon on this resolution so that we may know the direction that we should take as far as the Report of the Governor's Committee is concerned.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THE GOVERNOR TO NAME STATE HIGHWAY No. 104 AS THE 104TH INFANTRY "TIMBERWOLF" DIVISION HIGHWAY

Messrs. WADE, BELL, WARE and DiSILVESTRO offered the following resolution (Serial No. 44), which was read and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs and Aeronautics:

In the Senate, April 19, 1961.

Approximately 4,000 men from Pennsylvania were members of the 104th Infantry Division of the United States Army during World War II. This division became known as the "Timberwolf" Division because the shoulder patch denotes a howling wolf. Many young men from Pennsylvania died while members of this division during World War II.

It seems fitting and proper that a State highway should be named in honor of those who made the supreme sacrifice and gave their lives in defense of our Country and also as a memorial to those who served in this division during World War II from the State of Pennsylvania; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania request the Governor of Pennsylvania to name State Highway No. 104, which runs from Mifflinburg, Pennsylvania to its intersection with U. S. Highways Nos. 11 and 15 as the 104th Infantry "Timberwolf" Division Highway; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Department of Highways shall erect along this highway suitable tablets and markers but shall not replace the officially designated route number of the highway, hereby designated as the 104th Infantry "Timberwolf" Division Highway; and be it further

RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be sent to the Governor and the Secretary of the Highway Department.

SENATE RESOLUTION

COMMENDING THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Messrs. STEVENSON, PROPERT, CONFAIR, DiSILVESTRO, WEINER and KROMER, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 45), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, April 19, 1961.

Whereas, The economic welfare of the Commonwealth is a matter of continuing concern to industry, labor and government alike;

Whereas, Ways must be found to provide more and better job opportunities so that the vast reservoir of skill and man-power represented by Pennsylvania workers can be fully utilized, to the end that the standard of living—material and non-material—of all Pennsylvanians can be continuously bettered and shared by all areas of the Commonwealth.

Whereas, Pennsylvania stands second to no State in the advantages it has for business and industry, and the promise it holds for its people;

Whereas, These advantages must be made known to industry and business both without and within the State so that they will become influential factors in location decisions, providing wider opportunities for the people of Pennsylvania to grow and prosper;

Whereas, The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania vividly depicts the economic, social, cultural and physical advantages of the Commonwealth in a color motion picture titled "Pennsylvania—Keystone of the Nation";

Whereas, The image of Pennsylvania projected by this motion picture will lend powerful support to the Commonwealth's and Local Governments' efforts to persuade new industry to settle here and existing industry to expand within the State rather than elsewhere; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania expresses its appreciation to The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania for an outstanding act in the public interest, characteristic of the best in corporate citizenship; and be it further Resolved, That the Honorable David L. Lawrence, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and Mr. W. D. Gillen, President of The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania be sent copies of this resolution.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (Anthony J. DiSilvestro) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend Truman A. Crist, D.D., president of the Lancaster Synod of the United Church of Christ, Harrisburg, Dauphin County, guest Chaplain and guest of the House Chaplain, offered the following prayer:

O Lord, our God, how excellent is Thy name in all the earth, how wonderful are Thy ways with men, how bountiful the supply of all Thy good gifts to Thy people. Make us truly grateful for the goodness with which Thou dost visit us, and help us to show forth our praise, not only with our lips, but with lives dedicated to Thy purposes. We thank Thee that Thou hast called these Thy servants to special places of privilege and power. Remind them daily of the importance of the work they do; how in their keeping Thou hast placed the welfare of the people of this Commonwealth; how Thou hast made them to be the guardian of Democracy, the agents of the people in maintaining order and equity, respect and decency. Let them be guided as they do their work, not by considerations of what is expedient or mercenary, but by loyalty to goodness and right.

We pray Thy blessing upon the President of our beloved Country, and on the Governor of our great State, and upon all who are in positions of privileged leadership and responsibility. Protect with Thy might the frontiers of faith and freedom, and inspire all the citizens of State and Nation to true patriotism, noble charity, and dedicated purpose, so that, keeping to the road of high ideals, we fail not man or Thee. Amen.

They are the guests of the gentlemen from Lancaster, Messrs. Eshleman, Royer, and Wood. Will the delegation rise in their places?

THE SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR.

The SPEAKER. The Chair presents his apologies to the gentlemen of the press. They sent the Chair a communication about their annual Gridiron Dinner and I mislaid it and did not read it as I should. The secretaries were hiding it on me, apparently. I asked them to write me another one but they were too busy, so I wrote one myself.

The Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents' biennial gridiron dinner and show will be held May 3 at the Penn-Harris Hotel in the ballroom and from past experience I can tell you it will be a very good show. All the people you do not like will get roasted, and all the people you like will get roasted. It is something to turn out for, to look forward to. Tickets are available through the newsroom supervisor, Mr. Morris Swartz, Room 524 on E Floor, at a cost of $13 each. The tickets include the dinner, a souvenir program, and the show, and I guarantee it will be a very good show.

Mr. HAMILTON IN THE CHAIR.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 413, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 26, 1931 (P. L. 1379), entitled "An act creating in counties of the third class a board for the assessment and revision of taxes ***" providing for and regulating appeals from valuations and assessments of real property the first year any county makes a complete reassessment of real property in conjunction with a permanent system of records.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, is the bill in position for debate?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The bill is in position for debate.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have no particular quarrel with this piece of legislation. However, I want again to call to the attention of the majority leader, as I have previously called to his attention, the last paragraph of the new material found on page 4 of the bill which I consider to make the bill unconstitutional. This section says that no other appeals shall be allowed that year from assessments of real property made upon valuations referred to in this section notwithstanding any contrary provisions of the act herein amended.

In my opinion, to deny a person the right of appeal from any assessment, whether it be a new assessment under this provision of the fourth to eighth class county assessment law, or any other assessment law, to deny that person the right to appeal on the grounds of lack of uniformity as required by the Constitution makes the bill unconstitutional. Therefore, unless this particular clause is removed from the bill, I will be forced to vote against it as in my opinion it is unconstitutional.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo, rise?

Mr. FILO. I rise to a question of personal privilege, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to warn the members of the House to beware of Greeks bearing gifts.

On our side of the House they are passing around beautiful covered chocolates, and after we were through eating them we discovered they were chocolate-covered ants, caterpillars, baby bees, and grasshoppers!

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The members understand that if they start jumping out of their seats we will grab them.

I would like to suggest that you send some to the Chair. I would like to try one.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House bill No. 428, printer's No. 1506, was passed over temporarily at the request of Mr. A. W. JOHNSON.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, it is my understanding that the reason House bill 428, printer's No. 1506, was passed over was because it was not in print. I have checked and I find that it is in print, is that correct?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair does not know the reason. We have been following the markings on the calendar.

Mr. McCANN. The Republican floor leader indicated to me that they could not act on this bill because it was not in print, they could not caucus on it. I was told that by Mr. Tompkins. I checked and I was informed that it is here in print. I want to know if that is so.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we did not say it was not in print. When we were caucusing on it, we did not have it available in our caucus; we could not find the bill. That was the reason for it. We just could not find it. It is in print but we did not have it upstairs, and in the rush of the caucus, trying to get through with as much work as we could, we did not delay to go out and get the bill. We went on to the next bill.

Mr. Speaker, could I tell a little story about eating these ants, and so forth. They claim that they have found Patrice Lumumba by x-raying Kasavubu.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. What is to be done about the bill?

Mr. McCANN. It will have to go over then at their request.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection the bill will be passed over temporarily. The Chair hears no objection.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 454, entitled:

An Act amending "The Administrative Code of 1929" approved April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177) waiving the requirement of competitive bidding for contracts and leases for mining or removal of minerals under State forest land when the Commonwealth owns only a fractional interest in such minerals.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

POINT OF ORDER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, rise?

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have found that on several occasions the members of this House have been engaging in conduct that I think is not exactly in keeping with the integrity and the decorum that should be maintained in this House.

I do not know if what they are doing is being prompted by a spirit of mischievousness or by a spirit to deceive. I have found that they will cast their ballot one way, and when the respective floor leaders have made a decision based on what they see on these boards, they then change their vote. I do not think that is good ethical practice, and I do not think the members of this House should engage in it.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would inform the gentleman that each member is in control of his own vote.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 850, entitled:

An Act amending "The Game Law" approved June 3,

1937 (P. L. 1225), permitting for a period of two years the purchase and sale of the flesh of raccoons.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I want to say a few words about this particular bill. I do not know where the original sponsorship of this came from, whether it was the Game Commission, or the biologists, or some group of individuals, but, if it is a bill aimed at managing game, it is a bad bill.

It took, probably, a generation since the Game Commission was formed in 1895 to outlaw the sale of game meat. This bill would reverse the work that has been done for many years in setting up game as sporting meat instead of saleable meat.

If the Game Commission thinks there are too many of these animals, certainly trying to have them killed off and sold in the open market would be the poorest kind of game management. I do not think that any coon hunter or coon hunting organization would favor this particular bill. I do know, too, that in controlling such situations on a surplus of any kind of animal, it can be done in other ways. For instance, in the west they have ways of taking care of their surplus rodents. When the stockmen and the sheepmen of the west are plagued with too many coyotes or too many mountain lions, the United States Fish and Wild Life Service goes in there with a plan and a program and controls the animals.

This is a very peculiar bill. I cannot understand it. Therefore, I do not believe that it should be passed. I think the coon hunters and the coon hunters' organizations deserve the same consideration as the deer hunters. I believe that if this bill were to be passed—why should not the doe hunter be permitted to sell the deer meat when he kills a deer. In other words, this is a backward step, I believe, in good game management and conservation, and, therefore, I personally oppose this measure.

Mr. YETTER. Mr. Speaker, the reason for this legislation is because the coon population in the State has gotten so great that they are a menace to the farmer, the home gardener and to other game. House bill 850 was introduced with the approval of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, Pennsylvania Trappers' Association, and the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

Due to a radical change in fur styles, the furs of long-haired wild animals are no longer popular. The demand has declined so that a prime number one raccoon hide is bringing approximately one dollar on the market. This has resulted in a decided lack of interest on the part of the raccoon hunters and trappers. Passage of this bill would create added incentive to raccoon hunters and trappers, and it is my understanding that a potential market for raccoon carasses is developing in the more densely populated areas of Pennsylvania. A decided increase in the raccoon population has been detrimental to ground nesting birds of all species, particularly wild turkeys, ruffed grouse and bobwhite quail, and also to the farmers trying to raise sweet corn and other crops. For that reason I ask support for this bill.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the position of the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth. I think if we open the door to the sale of game meat, we do not know where it is going to stop.

Heretofore, in trying to control an over-population of game they have done it by offering bounties and I do not know why they could not do it in this particular instance.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Maxwell.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, you should stop to realize under what conditions these raccoons are killed and under what conditions this meat will be transported. Any time you offer meat for sale on the open market it has to be killed in a certain manner under sanitary conditions; it has to be wrapped, packaged, and well taken care of. If people are going to go out and sell somebody raccoon meat that is infected—you know raccoons do become infected, they become infected by rabies, many of them have tularemia, they are infected with round worms and with tapeworms, they are also susceptible to hookworm, any kind of disease that a ground animal picks up. If you are going to allow irresponsible people to peddle this meat to the public without any inspection, I think it is wrong, and from a health standpoint and to protect the people of this Commonwealth in that respect, I think this bill should be voted down.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I agree wholeheartedly with what the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Maxwell, said. I think it is dangerous to allow this kind of a bill to go through. So far as the remarks of the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Yetter, are concerned, the information that I have is that the Game Commission is not in favor of this bill. However, if I am wrong in that information, then I would definitely say that the Game Commission is wrong in favoring such legislation. I have always tried to support the Game Commission in whatever their concept and precept of good hunting and fishing throughout the Commonwealth. I believe too that to open up this bill, as the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth, said, would very materially hurt the whole concept of selling wild game in Pennsylvania, things that we have been striving for and striving against for years and years and years. I think if we vote for such a bill as this—I know that two hunters in the State are against it—I think we would be making a very, very grave mistake from all standpoints.

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I want to endorse the position the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Yetter, has taken. Agriculture has suffered tremendous losses because of the tremendous raccoon population. I have asked the game commission to consider a bounty system or some method of control, and they inform me that it is not practical. Perhaps they have much merit in what they say, I agree with them, but this would be some method of control. It would be an encouragement for the hunters to go out and as far as the House measure is concerned those who are doubtful as to whether they have something undesirable in them or not, they do not have to buy this product if they do not want to. There are a lot of people who do want to buy it and unless they can provide an alternative where the farmer is paid for the crop damage, I think we should have this until such time as that method can be found.

Thank you.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House bill No. 32, printer's No. 517,
House bill No. 216, printer's No. 1340,
House bill No. 245, printer's No. 887,
House bill No. 278, printer's No. 303,
House bill No. 313, printer's No. 1434,
House bill No. 319, printer's No. 348 and
House bill No. 320, printer's No. 1471

were passed over at the request of Mr. McCANN.

Mr. McCANN. I would like to call up on page 15, House bill 359, printer's No. 396.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 359, entitled:

An Act authorizing cities to authorize or provide for the destruction or killing of unowned pigeons by humane means.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, a great number of the members do not have the revised calendar and this bill appears on page 14 of the original calendar distributed for today.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair informed the House that they should be using a calendar marked "reprint."

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, it is immaterial. It is House bill 359 on page 14 of the old calendar, page 15 of the new calendar; it is the same bill.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, we are not objecting to the bill being called up. What we are saying is this: When you call up a bill on a certain page on the new calendar—the revised calendar—the members are not able to find it on the old calendar.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would advise the gentleman that the bills follow in order even on the calendar before it was reprinted.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Perry, Mr. Holman, rise?

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. HOLMAN. Is there a rule of this House which prohibits voting on a bill when the bill is not on the member's desk?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Rule of the House is that the bill must be in print.

Mr. HOLMAN. I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. I am sorry—and on the members' desks. The rule reads that the bill shall be in print and on the members' desks.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I do not have this bill, nor do I have a number of other bills that were voted on today, including the auctioneer bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. If the gentleman will advise the bill he does not have, we will certainly see that he gets a copy of it. The chief clerk will see that the member is supplied with a copy of the bill.

POINT OF ORDER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker, rise?

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order, I suppose you would call it.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, we are getting to the point where we are having a lot of complaints about these bills and calendars and so forth not being properly distributed. It seems to me there is plenty of help around this House that we are paying for, that these things ought not to occur.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take a moment of time. Of course the ones who do these are these young pages. It is very possible to skip one bill here and one there. They may have missed some, but they will immediately get the bill if it is missing from your particular book.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 362, entitled:

An Act requiring common carriers by railroad to furnish flag protection to all trains occupying the main tracks imposing duties on the Public Utility Commission and providing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I rise to speak on House bill 362. This bill could be debated in a number of ways. There might be certain political recriminations that might be raised, because certainly this bill has some political implications. On the other hand, I propose, instead, to deal with it solely on its merits, its effect upon an industry in the State of Pennsylvania, its effect upon the State and the citizens of the State.

Let me just say briefly, the bill itself is uncomplicated. It merely provides that on trains operated over the main tracks of a railroad within the limits of the Commonwealth there must be a flagman stationed at or near the rear end of the train for the purpose of furnishing flag protection.

Let me say, also, Mr. Speaker, that it provides penalties if this flagman is not so stationed. Let me call to your attention that the argument will be made, as far as this bill is concerned, that it is a safety measure. However, the bill itself does not require in any way that this flagman actually furnish flag protection; it merely says that he must be stationed in this position on the train.

I also call to your attention the fact that if it were determined to be necessary on certain railroads in the Commonwealth that a flagman be so stationed on the railroad train, it is my understanding of the present law that the Public Utility Commission would have the power to make a rule or regulation which would require this to be done.

May I also say that under the work rules which are in force—at least, on The Pennsylvania Railroad, that is the one with which I am familiar—it is provided that flag protection shall be furnished under certain circumstances where the train might be overtaken by a following train. However, the work rules which are approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission relieve the railroad of the responsibility for furnishing this flag protection if they have a system of automatic block signals which furnish proper protection as far as the train being overtaken from the rear.

Now, the practical difficulty with this bill is that requiring this man to be at or near the end of the train is an unreasonable burden upon the railroads. At the present time the rules are adequate to provide that under the proper circumstances the flag protection must be provided, and there are on the trains operated today people who are qualified to furnish this protection.

The only thing is that on many trains these people have other duties. They may be walking up and down the train taking tickets or performing other duties. However, if the train does stop, they are certainly in a position to get out to the rear of the train and provide the protection which may be necessary as far as lives and property are concerned.

I want to say just a few other things about this bill. One of the most important things about it has to do with the question of the business climate in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. We have heard a lot of talk about that in recent years because we certainly do have depressed areas in this State. All of us want to attract business and industry to the Commonwealth because that business and industry can provide the jobs and payrolls that the people in the State of Pennsylvania need.

Now, there is more to business climate than merely taxes. There have been certain things done in the field of taxation which have made the climate a little more attractive as far as business and industry are concerned. However, I ask you, Mr. Speaker, as to the attitude of a potential employer from outside the State when he sees a bill such as this on our calendar, a bill which will penalize an industry now employing somewhat less than 100,000 employees in the State of Pennsylvania. How are we and our chambers of commerce and our industrial development authorities to go and sell people on the proposition of coming into this State to do business here when we treat such a large employer in the fashion we propose to under this legislation?

May I also say, turning specifically to the city of Philadelphia, that at the present time we are engaged in an experiment down there on the problem of commuter transportation, and this bill would affect the commuter lines. At the present time the city of Philadelphia is paying each year hundreds of thousands of dollars in subsidies to the railroads to operate commuter service and to provide low fares to the people of the city of Philadelphia.

If this bill is passed, it will place a tremendous burden on those commuter railroads and just run them much further into the red, and somebody is going to have to make up that deficit.

May I also point out, Mr. Speaker, in conclusion, that if we pass this legislation and it does require an extra man to be placed on these railroad trains, it will be a tremendous burden upon this industry. At the present time there is a presidential commission which was started under the last Administration and is being continued under this Administration, with equal representation from labor, industry and the public, considering the whole problem of work rules all over the country. If we pass this legislation and if that commission makes recommendations which run counter to this particular legislation, we here in Pennsylvania will not be able to put that into effect.

I say, Mr. Speaker, that by the passage of this bill we are striking a blow not only against an ailing industry, but also against the people of this Commonwealth, because it will hurt us tremendously in our efforts to convince people elsewhere that we have a favorable tax and business climate here in the Commonwealth.

I would ask that this bill be voted down.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Taylor.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. A. M. LEE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman ever work for a railroad company at any time during his career?

Mr. A. M. LEE. No, I did not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TAYLOR. Well, the gentleman seems to have Rule 99 broken up pretty well there. In other words, you did not say anything about a human life when you quoted Rule 99 or part of it.

Mr. A. M. LEE. I did not understand the gentleman's statement about what I quoted.

Mr. TAYLOR. Well, some person has given you an idea of Rule 99, and that is the railroad rule adopted by the American Railroad Association itself for the protection of human life.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Yes, sir. It is my understanding, also, that those rules are filed with the I. C. C. and approved by them.

Mr. TAYLOR. Well, they strictly do not live up to it. In other words, every railroad in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, lives up to it but one.

Mr. A. M. LEE. I am not informed as to that, Mr. Speaker. I only know I have Rule 99 before me, and I certainly believe that what I said in connection with Rule 99 was a fair representation of what the rule provides.

If the gentleman wishes me to read it, I will be glad to do so.

Mr. TAYLOR. I wish he would. In fact, I have to recite it when I go to work on the railroad.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Do I understand the gentleman wishes me to read it? I do not think it has any particular reference to this particular bill; that is, I do not think it will shed any further light on it. On the other hand, I will read it if the gentleman so requests.

Mr. TAYLOR. I sure do request it because I have heard it for about ten years. When I recited it here just two years ago, the following day we had the Bryn Mawr wreck.

Mr. A. M. LEE. I merely suggest that if the gentleman knows it by heart, perhaps he would like to recite it. I will check him on the rule.

Mr. TAYLOR. Do you not have a rule book there?

Mr. A. M. LEE. I do, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TAYLOR. Why do you not read the rule? Do you want me to recite it for you?

Mr. A. M. LEE. Sure.

Mr. TAYLOR. All right.

When a train is stopped or overtaken by another train, the flagman must go out immediately with sufficient distance to insure full protection to the train. When recalled he must place two torpedoes or flares at night when required.

Mr. A. M. LEE. The gentleman knows his rules.

Mr. TAYLOR. Well, I have railroaded enough and I had to learn it before I got the job, and I had 444 rules to recite.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Has the gentleman completed his interrogation?

Mr. TAYLOR. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, in order to try to clarify what has been said, I do not think that Mr. Taylor's remarks need any further clarification. He knows the rules; he has been living by them for many, many years.

I would like to say, however, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee, is wrong when he says the bill does not state the purpose of safety. I call his attention to lines 6, 7 and 8, where it says, "for the purpose of providing flag protection when the train or locomotive is stopped or delayed under such circumstances that it may be overtaken by a following train or locomotive."

This bill does not provide for any additional employees on trains or locomotives. We commonly point our fingers at it and say, this is a featherbedding bill, and so forth. This provides that some member of the train crew, all members presumably being qualified flagmen, some member of the train crew shall be stationed at or near the rear of the train so that he may provide the safety measures necessary.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to show the gentleman from Philadelphia various photographs showing rear-end collisions that have happened here in Pennsylvania in recent years. These are, of course, necessarily from cars that lack proper signalling of an oncoming train, of a train or caboose or engine that was already on the track. It is a necessity to have a flagman at or near the rear-end of the train to get these signals out in time. We are not asking that any additional employees be placed on a train, but that one of the existing train crewmen be placed in that position so that he may flag them down.

To further qualify this rule 99, I wonder if the gentleman from Philadelphia knows that only the Pennsylvania Railroad has Rule 93B, which specifically exempts Rule 99 from the superintendent's call, so that Rule 99 shall not be applied. Right now all we are asking concerning Rule 99, which every railroad in the nation has requiring a flagman to be at the rear, is that we remove the obstructions that the Pennsylvania Railroad has sought to place into the rule, that is, if they do not see fit on a particular train to have that flagman there that they may abrogate or throw out Rule 99. We are merely asking that the Pennsylvania Railroad, and all other railroads, should adopt Rule 99, the rule they have professed to have adopted, and place it into law.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, it is with some hesitation, possibly I should say, that I arise to speak against—I think you would call this a—so-called labor bill. In the first place, I wanted to endorse, and I had intended to speak along those lines, everything that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee, has said. I want to say that in my opinion this kind of legislation is very seriously going to hurt and hamper and cripple the attempt to get industry to expand in Pennsylvania and to draw new industry into Pennsylvania. That, to my mind, is the most dire need in Pennsylvania today, more employment.

Now, Mr. Speaker, to clarify this bill. Let me read into the record section 1189 of the Public Utility Commission Act, and possibly comment on it in some small way. This is what the act says, and I hope you will all pay attention: "After reasonable notice, and hearing upon its own notice, or upon complaint, the Commission may by order require any common carrier"—any common carrier—"to employ such number of men upon any of its facilities as in the judgment of the Commission is requisite for the safe and efficient operation of such facilities."

Now, if that section means anything, it means that anytime a safety question arises as to the operation of railroads regarding human life, all that needs to be done is a complaint to be made under existing law as we have it now, and a hearing be had and the Public Utility Commission can make such order as they see fit to make upon the testimony rendered. As a matter of fact they have already done that in requiring an extra crewman on the Pennsylvania Railroad between Gallitzin and Altoona, and it did not require any special act to do that and that was done, and possibly rightfully done. As I see it, there is absolutely no use for this bill being out on the calendar. We have existing law that in every way, shape and form meets the requirements that the proponents of this bill say it is to meet—existing law. And to pass this bill would be adding new protections in it, and it certainly is absolutely unnecessary and would probably do a great deal of harm to our economy here in Pennsylvania which we are all concerned in trying to build up.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to reiterate for one moment, no statistics have been given by any opponents of this particular measure as to any financial statistics or cost upon the railroad. We are not trying to be unduly hard on any industry, but these figures are notably absent. They have not been provided; they have not been cited here on the floor of the House; they have not been adequately quoted even in the newspapers. There is hardly a financial consideration or an economic consideration involved in 362. I would again like to bring that point out. If they have such statistics we should certainly like to hear them.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Goodrich, desire to be recognized?

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MURPHY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, I think most of the debate is pertaining to the larger railroads. I would like to ask the gentleman—I am a little bit embarrassed in this—but we have short line railroads in the northern tier, and they have only one train, one engine, and they do some business. Now according to the order here, would this require those trains to have flagmen?

Mr. MURPHY. Yes, it would, near the end of their train.

Mr. GOODRICH. Well, what is going to run into those trains, I wonder?

Mr. MURPHY. I do not know of any railroad up there that has a single engine.

Mr. GOODRICH. I could probably name several.

Mr. MURPHY. Would the gentleman do that?

Mr. GOODRICH. Yes, I would. The Coudersport and Port Allegheny Railroad, the Lake Erie Special in Clarion, probably several railroads have maybe two engines, one not in use. When we see railroads such as these which operate only one train, I think it is a little ridiculous to require such railroads to have flagmen. I would not object to it too much either if the railroads were prosperous, but these particular railroads that I am speaking about are on the verge of bankruptcy. I happen to know that in the northern tier individuals and industries there often contribute out of their own pockets to maintain these railroads. I do not see how we can force them to have flagmen on the rear of their trains under the conditions that there are no other trains on the track.

Would you have an answer to that?

Mr. MURPHY. First of all, I have been informed, I would say reliably so, that these firms that you mention do have more than one engine. I might suggest they be recounted. I might also say that these particular railroads that you have mentioned are already fully complying with Rule 99. This law will not injuriously affect them. We are just putting into law what is already a practice with them.

I wonder by whom the gentleman was informed, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOODRICH. By the legislative chairman of the Railroad Brotherhood and Mr. Taylor.

I am not a railroad man and I will tell Mr. Taylor that too, that I have never worked on the railroad, but I do know that the railroads in our area do not run a crew of five but probably three. I am not positive of that. I do know that a flagman is required and I understand from you, and I want to clear this point up, it does not require an additional employee on the railroad?

Mr. MURPHY. That is right. It merely requires one of the members of the crew to be stationed at the rear. You are not going to try to run a railroad train or a freight train with a one-man crew?

Mr. GOODRICH. I do not believe that they do that.

Mr. MURPHY. Well, that is what we are trying to avoid at some points.

Mr. GOODRICH. No.

Mr. MURPHY. Yes.

Mr. GOODRICH. You are probably not aware of the type of railroads that we have. We even use steam sometimes.

I would like to inform the gentleman that I am a former employe of the Monessen Southwestern, of which you probably have not heard. We had more than one engine. I have also worked with the Donora Southern Railroad which is a short line. We had more than one engine. And I am also a former employe of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad.

Mr. MURPHY. I congratulate the gentleman.

Mr. GOODRICH. May I have permission to ask the gentleman one question about the next bill which pertains to this matter?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I did not know that I had been released.

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, in House bill 353, as I read the bill, it would require five on the crew—

Mr. MURPHY. I would like to call the gentleman's attention to the fact that we will get to 353 next. We would like to finish 362, if the Speaker will permit.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is correct. We are now debating House bill 352.

Mr. GOODRICH. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MURPHY. Members of the House, vote against the bill. The gentleman has informed me that the railroads in the northern tier, in my area, do comply with the regulations in this bill. I am not sure of that. I do know that the conditions of a number of railroads in the northern tier are very hazardous and any burden that is placed upon them could very well deny, not only the railroad, but the employees of the railroad, the people of the northern tier, the service they need.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Just a brief further word, Mr. Speaker, in connection with that bill.

That bill is advertised as a safety measure and the gentleman from Washington has read the language of the bill. This language, and we ought to get a firm grip on this and all understand it, this language merely requires that the flagman be at or near the end of the train. It does not require that the flag protection be furnished. Therefore, if he is seeking to implement rule 99, he is not going about it in the proper way with this particular piece of legislation. I say again, Mr. Speaker, if we pass this type of legislation and even its mere presence on the calendar is giving the business climate in Pennsylvania a black eye.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NOT VOTING—8

Marsh,	Murray,	O'Dell,	Steckel,
Mihm,	Needham,	Price,	Walsh,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 363, entitled:

An Act requiring common carriers by railroad to man locomotives and trains with competent employes providing for the minimum number and qualifications of men so employed and providing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, as everybody knows, I have been a Member of this General Assembly now eight terms. During my career in this legislature I have tried to be a party to voting measures which would promote the great State of Pennsylvania. I know you people on the other side are saying "Now we brag about that great business climate in Pennsylvania and you are trying to take credit for it," and I say that in my career and the career of many on this side of the House, we have stood up here and fought the measures within the field of a sales tax, within the field of capital stock tax, and safety measures, and all that, to try to bring industry into this State. Now what are we saying here today? We are saying to industry in Pennsylvania, to our railroads, "We got you here now. You are a captive bunch and now that we got you here we are really going to put it to you." We are going to pass a bill on this calendar which is going to say that you have to have a five-man crew whether you want it or not, whether you need it or not. That is the effect of the bill that you have on this calendar.

I am sure that Governor Lawrence in his office right now is wondering what are we doing to the people of Pennsylvania in the State in this House of Representatives this afternoon. The Governor was down to Washington, D.C., not long ago and pleaded with President Kennedy and his cohorts to do something for Pennsylvania. Our steel industry is down to 47%. People are sitting on the benches up in Carbon County. We want business. We want you to put plants up in the coal regions around where great unemployment exists. What is he thinking when here in this legislature you people are asking us to put on the railroads a measure which will cost anywhere from $5 million to $10 million a year, depending on the business activity of the railroads.

Now, again, this bill does not say anything about it being a safety measure. The Act of 1937, the Full Crew Law, which was declared unconstitutional, by the way, by the Supreme Court, said it was a measure to promote the safety of the people, of the workers and passengers of railroads. That was the preamble and title of that bill. This bill does not say that. It simply says that this is a bill to compel the railroads to have a competent crew of five people, or whatever it is. We do not object to that word "competent." If all the bill does is to require the railroads to have a competent crew, that would be all right, because the members of the union are all competent men and they are competent members of the working force of the railroad. But, no, the bill says you have to have a competent crew of five. In other words, the bill does not recite any relation between the police power of this State with respect to this particular measure. Why have you omitted that in this bill I do not know. Why don't you set it out with particularity? What safety requirements are you supposed to meet with this bill?

Now, I sent to the National Safety Foundation to get a copy of the accident records of the steam railroads, of this Nation. Now, you might be amazed at these figures. They go back to 1918. We will just talk about deaths on Class 1 Railroads. In 1918 the deaths were 3,048 and the injuries 149,469. The deaths had dropped in 1958 from 3,048 to 199. Injuries had dropped from 149,469 to 12,357 on our steam railroads. In other words, I am quoting these figures to you so that if the purpose of this bill is not a make-work bill but a safety measure, the figures do belie your argument, because of the tremendous drop in the number of people killed or injured on railroads.

Now, what is Pennsylvania's safety record with respect to the accidents on the railroad employees? It has also improved tremendously in Pennsylvania. Do you know why I remember this? Because we are a great railroading State, we are practically the mother of the great railroads in the United States today; they started right here in Pennsylvania. In 1936, on an average of 26 to 30 employees were killed of 167 per year. In 1959, 14 were killed in Pennsylvania. The accident record is about the same in Pennsylvania and shows a similar drop. The P. U. C. adopted figures from a survey and the figures for injuries in Pennsylvania—pardon me a minute, I thought I had the figures. I will not take the time now, but the deaths as I quoted were only 14, and I believe the injuries were 955 in Pennsylvania during 1959. In other words, the accident safety record of the railroads is improving every year. How is it improving? By better trains, better tracks, better safety devices, better electronic devices, the use of radar, and the use of signalling. That is right, there is some radar used on the railroads, there is no question about it. The use of electronic devices, I say, to signal two or three miles to another train, to the approaching of a train. So I say, there is no reasonable relation between this bill and safety on the railroads. I do not see how you can possibly argue that.

The Supreme Court in declaring the Full Crew bill in 1937 unconstitutional said that it is predicated on safety and they turned the bill down on grounds that because of the tremendous drag, even at that point, having been made on the railroads, the police power was not involved, and they declared the act unconstitutional. As Austin Lee said, recently the New York State Public Utility Commission made a study of the Full Crew Bill in New York State and felt that there was no reasonable relation between that bill and the safety of the workers. Maybe you can show me some figures where it is.

Now, I will tell you why you want this bill. I do not blame the unions for wanting it. Why, because in 1929 there were 1,687,000 railroad employees. In 1950 the number had dropped to 1,220,000. Last December there were only 734,585 railroad employees in this country. Think of that tremendous drop from 1,600,000 down to 734,000, the lowest number of railroad employees in our entire railroad history.

All right, so it happened to the railroads. Here is what is wrong. In 1917 the railroad had 100% of the inter-city freight; it dropped in 1946 to only 67% of the inter-city freight. In 1960 the railroads had only 44% of the inter-city freight of this nation. Where is it going? It is going to the trucks, it is going to the airplanes and to the autos and to other vital means of transportation. The railroads just cannot keep pace with the competition that the other industry provides.

Now, what about the profit of the railroads? You say that the railroads can afford this in Pennsylvania. Do you know that one of our large carriers, the largest one in this State, lost, I believe it was, $8 million in January and February of this year, the largest loss in its entire history. At random we picked out two clippings from the Wall Street Journal last week and they said that Erie-Lackawanna sees a deficit of $12 to $15 million in 1961. Here is the American Association of Railroads say the nation's railroads had a net loss of $20 million in February. That is quite a loss, a lot of red ink, compared with a net income of $25 million in February of 1960 and $22 million in 1959. The Smathers' report, as you know, of 1954 I believe it was, pointed out the plight of the railroads and the necessity of our Federal Government as a matter of expediency to preserve our railroads, to have them in times of national defense. We must have the railroads in time of national defense. They are our first line of defense, you might say. We must protect the railroads and that is why our Federal Government feels that they should help to subsidize the railroads, and here we are today mandating on the railroads that they have this five-man crew. I say that many railroads have a five-man crew. Many of them have sat down at the bargaining table with the unions and they have agreed on a five-man crew. That is the American way. The P. U. C. in this State could say to the railroads, in the interest of safety on this railroad you must have a five-man crew. I do not think that this Legislature should mandate to the railroads that no matter what happens, no matter what your problem is, no matter what your costs are, no matter how much money you are losing, no matter what you state your argument is, no matter what happens, you have to have a five-man crew. I say that is wrong and believe me you are not sounding a cry in Pennsylvania to welcome industry into this State. If I were someone over in Ohio and read what was going on in Pennsylvania today and I had a big plant to locate here and, in view of bill 888 on this calendar, I would be sure to go to some other place. I hope you will all vote "no" on this bill.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman familiar with the Federal Liability Act?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I did not understand the question.

Mr. TAYLOR. Is the gentleman personally familiar with the Federal Liability Act?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I know that the act provides for comparative negligence, yes. The FELP it is called. It is a very strong act and is very favorable to railroad employees in that it has a doctrine of comparative negligence in it. That is right.

Mr. TAYLOR. Does the gentleman know that railroad labor organization is interested in this bill to protect their insurance and accident insurance just the same as the railroad companies are?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I am sorry, I did not understand the question. I believe you were too close to the microphone.

Mr. TAYLOR. Do you know that the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and all railroad labor organizations are particularly interested in this bill for safety so they can save some of their money in insurance where they pay accident claims and insurance to those who have probably been killed?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. That would probably be a very meritorious desire on their part, to cut down—to make safety better, that is right.

Mr. TAYLOR. Did these railroad companies give the information on how much money they have lost during the last year through the Federal Liability Act?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, anybody injured on a railroad—we are talking now about those who are injured on the trains by reason of not having a five-man crew.

Mr. TAYLOR. That is right.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I do not have the figures on what they are, but if anybody is injured within this narrow sphere of injury it has been boiled down through the years—I think it is a wonderful safety record—if anybody is injured after the railroads have taken all these precautions, they should get compensation under the FELP Act, that is right.

Mr. TAYLOR. The Brotherhood organization itself, and the labor organizations are interested particularly in this bill to protect their own claims and money, so, therefore, I will ask each and every one in this House to vote for the bill.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, may I reply to that?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Personally, if you want to know, I have worked on the railroad; I have worked on the section. I have worked between what they call the four, eight and a half. I have the highest regard for railroad workers. The way we vote will put more people to work on the railroads in this State and cut down on this 734,000 so it does not drop any more and bring more industry into Pennsylvania. Hold out a helping hand to industry, and say, come on into Pennsylvania we have a good climate here, we have a friendly legislature, we are doing everything we can to bring you in here, and if you can show me that there is any reasonable relation between this bill and safety which is not in the act—I will say this, when you get up to the Supreme Court with this bill if it should pass, and there is no indication of why it was passed—all it says is that you must employ five people—how are you going to stand up before court when you do not have a preamble here saying, in order to promote safety, and how you are going to do it? The act is silent on it. Whether you have done it purposely, I do not know. I know you are going to say that the brakeman is one to watch the back end of a train and imply that it is for safety, but I cannot find the word "safety" in reading the four corners of this bill. I am for the railroad people. I wish that we could employ the 1.6 million, but I do not think this is the way to do it. Do it by bringing industry into the coal regions, getting the steel mills back to 90 percent, getting more industry here in Harrisburg and around this great railroad center we have here. That is the way to do it.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Taylor.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, my remarks concern themselves with the accuracy of the statements made by Mr. Johnson, particularly relative to the question of safety. For that purpose, I wonder if the gentleman would be kind enough to permit himself to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FINEMAN. Do I understand, Mr. Speaker, that you distinguish the act of 1937 from this proposed bill in one respect, in that the act of 1937 contains a preamble specifically referring to the safety factor?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. No, I have the act in front of me. The title says "to promote safety of railroad employes and passengers."

Mr. FINEMAN. There is no preamble in that act, though, is there?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. No, there is no preamble to that act.

Mr. FINEMAN. As a matter of fact, the language of this bill we have before us, insofar as the early paragraphs, early sections, of the bill are nearly identical to the 1937 act, is it not?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. It is identical with the exception, as I say, the title of the act of 1937 says that the bill is about the safety of employes plus passengers, that is right. But the Supreme Court, I believe in 1937, said that the argument of safety being the police power invoked was not the sole argument, as I understand and remember the case.

Mr. FINEMAN. Do you make a distinction?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Do you have another question?

Mr. FINEMAN. Yes, if you do not mind, sir.

Do you make a distinction then between the failure of the bill to have a preamble when you compare this with the 1937 act?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I realize we are engaging in legal niceties. I think probably this bill, if it goes up to the Supreme Court, even without a recitation in it about what particular phase of the police power is being invoked, I believe that the lawyers in arguing about the bill would go all over the lot to try to find out what particular police power it involved. In the 1937 act the Supreme Court stuck to the safety angle because the title said to promote safety, so even though the bill does not recite the police power, the particular phase of it hold the safety of all people, I believe the question could be raised. I believe that is right. It is noticeably absent in this bill and I am asking why.

Mr. FINEMAN. Therefore, it is not a shortcoming that there is no preamble to that effect, is there? It is not a shortcoming in this will that there is not a preamble since there was no preamble in the 1937 act? In other words, the question could go either way if the Supreme Court found a reasonable relationship between the requirements of the bill and safety, the fact that the word "safety" is not contained in the title or in the preamble would not invalidate the bill, would it?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. My answer to that is that in the 1937 act the Court construed, apparently, the title of the act and the nature of the preamble and predicated its decision on the safety angle, and my answer to your question is, yes, I think if this bill would go to the Supreme Court without any reference to any relation to the police power of the State, it would be raised, no question about it, by either party.

Mr. FINEMAN. I raise the point only because you stated that this bill brazenly sets forth allegedly a mandate as to the number of employes and you distinguish this bill in that respect from the act of 1937 and the distinguishment is not a valid one.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. In answer to your question, I do believe that the bill is brazen in this respect, that it tells the railroad, you must have competent men and five. It does not say why. Now we are in this legislature today and, in view of the increased safety of the railroads and the job they are doing in the field of safety and statistics showing how they are going down, the accidents and the deaths, I think if the bill is going to be predicated on safety, it should say it. If it is predicated on safety, it should say it. If it is predicated on health, it ought to say it. If it is predicated on morals, it ought to say it. That is my opinion.

Mr. FINEMAN. Well, that may be so, and I do not disagree with that. The only point I wish to make is to refute the allegation or the assertion to the effect that this is a brazen attempt to pass legislation and on that basis you distinguish it from the act of 1937 when such distinguishment does not exist.

I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McINROY. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to interrogate someone on the other side on this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Whom does the gentleman desire to interrogate? The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Taylor, says that he will permit himself to be interrogated. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. McINROY. One railroad man interrogating another one.

Mr. TAYLOR. That is right. The gentleman should know.

Mr. McINROY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if this also applies to industrial tracks?

Mr. TAYLOR. Well, that does not pertain to this bill; that is 888.

Mr. McINROY. Does it have any limitation to the number of cars on the railroad? For instance, would this apply to a train of five cars?

Mr. TAYLOR. Well, in the heyday of the railroad, we had what they called a Full Crew bill. That Full Crew bill said you must have a conductor, a brakeman, and you must have no more than 28 cars. But in 1928 that bill was repealed. At the present time we have three types of crews, bob-tail crew, a minimum crew, and a full crew. So right at the present time the Full Crew bill being repealed, that wipes that out and leaves Pennsylvania strictly with a bob-tail crew. If this bill should pass; it gives them a minimum crew.

Mr. McINROY. In other words, as I understand it, Mr. Speaker, a train going out with one car or two cars will have to have a minimum crew of five men, is that right.

Mr. TAYLOR. Right now the railroad companies, as the gentleman knows, require a telegraph operator, and he knows that when they pass you, they pass you with anywhere up to 180 cars of 12,640 tons, and you will find in the rear of the train they do not have a man sometimes.

Mr. McINROY. Now, Mr. Speaker, I do not want to interrogate the gentleman any longer, but there might be an argument here if the train had 100 cars or over, but what I was trying to bring out was that if the train goes with one, two, three, four, five or any small number of cars, the question is whether it is necessary to have a crew of five men on board. As my colleague, Mr. Goodrich, brought out with the Coundersport and Port Allegheny Railroad which runs through his town, which, by the way, in case some of you do not know, is one of those short-line railroads. We happen to have another one running through the town where I work called the Wellsville and Addison railroad. Although I do not work on that; I work on the New York Central. The New York Central does have a crew of five men, but roads like those that go through Mr. Goodrich's town and the other short railroads in Pennsylvania definitely will be harmed by this act.

I do not think I will interrogate the gentleman again, but do we put any restrictions like that on truckers, that all trucks must have two, three, four or five men on them? Are there any restrictions like that on the competition of railroads? Do we say to the ships that carry considerable good to Pennsylvania and nearby States, you must carry a crew of so many men? Do we say to the airplanes, you must carry a crew of so many people?

Now the question is, as has already been brought up, is it going to be constitutional to single out the railroad and say to them you must have a minimum crew of five, six, seven, or whatever it might be. On that ground it was declared unconstitutional in Pennsylvania, and again I say, I am not pleading for my railroad, because it does not affect my railroad.

I would like to call attention to one other fact. If you add men in a certain department, the railroads, by necessity, will have to cut out men in other departments. I happen to be working in a place right now, Elkland, Pennsylvania, where in the next town, Knoxville, Pennsylvania, the agency had to be discontinued in the interest of economy, and we have lost dozens of stations in Pennsylvania because the railroads just could not put them on. We have lost trackmen, we have lost other railroad workers because of lack of money, and it seems to me that if we are going to force on labor that we could force it on perhaps in a place where they would do more good, perhaps in fixing up the track or something else, rather than forcing them to put on a minimum crew of five men in places where they are not needed. Therefore, I think we should vote it down.

Mr. MURPHY. As the gentleman from McKean stated, there is an old slogan in Pennsylvania, we must protect our railroads, which has been our cry for over a century, and that we should not mandate safety to railroads. These are exempt from our safety rules and regulations. We may impose safety regulations on trucks, personal cars; we may impose safety regulations on every farm, corporation and individual in the Commonwealth, but we must protect our railroads.

I hate to prolong this day's session or debate any longer, but I would like to dispose systematically of the objections that have been raised on the other side systematically.

First of all, the provisions in House bill 363, which is not on the calendar, would not be declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, not at any time, not in 1937 nor in 1958 when the case was reviewed.

Section 3 of the act of 1937 was not ruled upon by the Court, and today's bill is section 3 of that act.

The Supreme Court decision in 1937, which was handed down in 1940, ruled unconstitutional 6 of the 15 provisions in that original act, consequently the remaining 9 provisions were constitutional. On a bill of review of 1958 it was held that it was too late to attack the provisions of that act at that time, and further that the provisions were probably not severable. We have stricken all these old provisions that were declared unconstitutional from the provisions in this act today. We do not want anything any more unconstitutional than any other member of this House does. Therefore, we have stricken the unconstitutional provisions, as ruled by Justice Kephart. We have retained and reframed into a new bill the provisions that were not ruled unconstitutional. Now we want them enacted into legislation and presume that they will be all right. So much for the legality of this measure.

As far as the safety factor, Mr. Taylor has pointed out the various safety factors. You want a reason. The most that this bill requires is a five-man crew for a railroad train in Pennsylvania. Most of our railroads, and probably with only one exception, comply with this today. Is it unreasonable to ask, for safety's sake, that a railroad train of 70, 80, or 90 cars be operated by 5 men?

The gentleman from the other side, and I do not know which one it was mentioned it, asks what do we compel planes and trucks to do?

A truck, which is a single box car, must have one man. An airplane, under Federal regulations, must have three men. Now, all we are asking for is a safety regulation that there be two men in the cab and five men on the entire 80-car train, or a train of 10 cars, 50 cars, or 100 cars.

I had a court case very recently in Washington County where a railroad engineer testified under oath, "No, I could not see the left side of the crossing. My fireman watches that side of the crossing." He did not see the lady whose car he struck on the crossing; his fireman was supposed to have seen that lady. That is what the Pennsylvania Railroad engineer testified to.

We are asking for two brakemen who may alternate between being brakemen or flagmen, and we are asking, of course, for a conductor who will manage the operation of the train; five men to operate this train. I certainly think that is a reasonable safety regulation. I might say, that even though Justice Kephart bent over backwards to declare this Act of 1937 unconstitutional, he did not attack section 3, which is what we have before us today. So much for the safety.

Now we come down to crying "poor mouth," financial statistics, unemployment, featherbedding. We have heard figures of $5 million, $10 million, $20 million net drops, and so forth. I would like to quote something prepared by Mr. Spencer G. Hall of the law firm of Nauman, Smith, Shissler & Hall, who represent the Pennsylvania Railroad and so represented them in a review of the Act of 1937 before the Supreme Court. Paragraph 31 of their brief on page 40A states, "If this Court were to impose these requirements," speaking of section 3, "the Pennsylvania Railroad would be forced to undergo an unnecessary additional expense of approximately $300,000." Three hundred thousand is a far cry from $5 million, $20 million, and the other figures that have been loosely thrown around.

Let us also take the picture of employment up and down the line between operational staff and management was quite startling to me. We heard of the serious drop-off that the gentleman from McKean mentioned. Sure, the unions want it because they have suffered so much unemployment, so many of their folks have been furloughed and laid off the railroads. Let us take the year 1957, executive and staff assistants of the Pennsylvania Railroad comprised 881 men. In 1959, 308 men, a very slight drop.

Let us take, however, the train and engine service, from 26,000 down to 21,000. Transportation, train and engine other than the yard, 12,000 down to 10,000. The percentages of operational employes on the Pennsylvania Railroad is going steadily downhill and the percentage of executives and staff assistants is going uphill on the percentage of their overall employment.

Now, who is featherbedding? Is it the executive or is it the trainmen? We have a recent clipping from a Pittsburgh paper which cites the Union Railroad saying that it is going to cost them a great deal of money. The Union Railroad, as you know—I did not, but I do now—is a railroad 99 per cent of whose stock is owned by the United States Steel Corporation and a few shares of stock are owned by various individuals. The Union Railroad, who are claiming, how much this bill is going to cost them, were capitalized for a total capital sum of $5 million. During the years 1957, 1958 and 1959 the Union Railroad made a net profit which exceeded their total original capitalization. These profits have completely paid back the investment and they are crying about how much this is going to cost them.

At the same time, in the year 1957, they spent $47,000 for lobbying and representatives in various legislatures and places where they could have their views pointed out.

In each one of those years, we can see, when they have exceeded their net capital gain, they certainly were not a poor railroad, as they would have the Pittsburgh paper believe.

These figures could go on and on. We read recently where they have found other ways of cutting down expenses and employment on railroads. We do not feel that this is featherbedding, these are necessary safety measures and can be afforded without detriment to industry in Pennsylvania.

Mr. HOLLIDAY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Washington County, Mr. Murphy.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Washington County, Mr. Murphy, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MURPHY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOLLIDAY. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has read a lot of statistics, and so forth, about the executives dropping slightly and the laboring people of the railroad dropping considerably more and insinuating that the executives should drop in proportion. That, I do not believe, is the true picture of the facts because, take this House, the gentlemen up there in the front would still have to be here whether we only had 50 percent of the members here. It still takes an executive, a certain number of executives, to operate the various railroads in the country regardless of how many men are working.

Would you answer this: As I understand it, you believe this bill will put men to work, is that correct?

Mr. MURPHY. Well, in answer to the gentleman's first statement, it may be true, sir, that we would have to have one man as a Speaker to operate the House, but I am sure that several years ago, many, many years ago, when there were only 50 or 60 members of this House the total administrative payroll and staff was much, much less than it is with 210 members. So, we can see, as our membership has increased throughout the years, so must our administrative staff, and, if we should decrease in number, so should our administrative staff in this House, or on a railroad, or any other firm.

Mr. HOLLIDAY. Not necessarily. Will the gentleman please answer my other question? You believe this is a "make-work" bill?

Mr. MURPHY. I do not believe it is a "make-work" bill.

Mr. HOLLIDAY. Well, it could put men to work.

Mr. MURPHY. In certain instances, on certain railroads in the Commonwealth, it would provide an extra train crewman, but, in many, many instances, it would not, because many of our railroads already have a five-man crew. When they take a 70-car run up to Altoona, or to Galitzin, or somewhere else, they have five men and they would fully meet the provisions of this act.

Mr. HOLLIDAY. Do you think the Pennsylvania Railroad now meets the provisions of this act without putting on any more men?

Mr. MURPHY. In certain instances, sir, they do not.

Mr. HOLLIDAY. They do not. Then, you know what would happen, providing you would put more men on, a brakeman, a fireman, or what-not, the financial position of the Pennsylvania is such today that within a week's time after those men were put on you would be furloughing men in the shops and the other trade industries. In Altoona we know what furloughing means. When the statement comes out from the Pennsylvania Railroad that they have lost so much money during the previous month, and so forth, immediately we have furloughed men. You will have a great many more men furloughed than you will put to work under this bill. In the Altoona shops a few years ago they employed 14,000 men. Today in the shops they employ less than 5,000 men. A lot of that was not due to anything but the modernization of their equipment. We used to have the largest steam engine shops in the world where they repaired and built steam locomotives. When they dieselized, a lot of this equipment was put out of business and, consequently, there were less jobs in the shops. This bill, instead of putting men to work, Mr. Speaker, would put men out of work.

Mr. MURPHY. In answer to the gentleman, I might say that he seems to be offering the same type of language that Justice Kephart offered when he ruled on this decision and stated that a profitable return on the investment would be jeopardized. Competition from different modes of transportation has resulted in a depletion of revenue of rail carriers. My friends, we cannot be concerned with the protection of one investor's purchase over the safety of the men who are working on that line. They owe an obligation to their employees. They have been in business for a long, long time in Pennsylvania and they owe an obligation to these men, as well as the men to the Company. I am not here to promote more work necessarily for railroaders, but when a train moves, they move with a proper crew and they do not try to operate a train with one or two men, thus jeopardizing the entire safety of the public and every other employee of the line.

Mr. HOLLIDAY. Mr. Speaker, I think that possibly I could lay claim to being the oldest railroad man in this House. The gentleman, Mr. Taylor, spoke about working for Pittsburgh and West Virginia. I might say that I was an engineer when that railroad was built into Pittsburgh and went out with the first train to St. Louis.

My whole family were railroaders. The first job I ever had was in the master mechanic's office, in the Bellwood

Shop. I have had charge of 200 miles of main line in a western railroad. I have worked as a maintenance man and I have been able to pull the throttle on a locomotive. So I am not unknown to railroads and what the railroad business means.

You talked about the duty of The Pennsylvania Railroad to look after the safety of its employees. I know of no railroad in the country or in the world that has put a larger interest in the welfare of its employees.

Thank you.

Mr. BOIES. Mr. Speaker, I believe that I am the only member on the floor of this House that voted for this bill in 1937. I do not pretend to be a railroad expert, but I am hearing the same arguments today that we heard in 1937, and not only in 1937 but every other session that this bill has been up.

Mr. Speaker, I submit, that although all this oratory is very informative, I do not think we are changing a single vote, and I suggest that we take the roll.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I will just take a minute. I just want to say that the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy, is consistent. He was fuzzy on the flagman bill and he is a little fuzzy on this bill, as to what it does.

Now you want to get a firm grip on this one, too, because he talked about the 70-car train and the 100-car train and a five-man crew. But, also, this bill will require that if you have no locomotive and one car, you have to have five men on it, in addition to which, if you have a switching engine, which is engaged in transferring cars, you are going to have to have five men on that locomotive and that one car. So you have to keep that in mind, too, because, in my opinion, putting that many people on a train as small as that has absolutely and positively no relation to safety.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 24 of today's calendar, Senate bill No. 79.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 79, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), entitled "The Vehicle Code" authorizing the use of radio-microwave equipment in timing speed, further regulating convictions prescribing powers and duties of the Secretary of Revenue and the Secreary of Highways and prescribing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Lippincott, rise?

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state his point of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. What is the order of the day at the present time?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The order of the day is bills on third reading and final passage.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Is there an understanding that we are to adjourn at 6 o'clock? I thought that was the agreement. We have been here, including caucus, since 1 o'clock this afternoon. I know a number of the members feel that it would be in order to adjourn now. In other words, I am asking that question and I will direct it to the majority leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, this is the last bill and I must run this to a test tonight, because there are amendments being offered to the bill at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, rise?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the majority leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Why is it imperative that you run this test tonight? Do you mean you want to run a test on the amendments, or on the bill, or do you have a pistol at your head that we do not know about?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I have no pistol at my head under any condition.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Then what is the imperative need to have a test on this bill tonight? We might have lost members that might be for you, I do not know.

Mr. McCANN. I hope we have not lost anyone, but when you call up a bill should not the amendments be in the bill? Naturally the bill would have to be reprinted with the amendments in it to be in a position to be voted tomorrow. If not, the bill would be in a position to be voted today.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, if the bill were amended tomorrow, it would be on the calendar next Monday. It is not a bill that has such a tremendous national or state interest that we must pass it forthwith, does it?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am sure the bill has interest statewide; it has interest in this House and there are those who oppose it. Today we went long over our caucus time on this bill. I think this bill we can finish in an hour or in 45 minutes and be done.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, may I further interrogate the gentleman?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. If the amendments fail, do you plan to try to—

Mr. McCANN. Should the amendments fail, we would be in a position to vote on the bill and we would vote on it.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. That is tonight, and debate it.

Mr. McCANN. That would be up for vote because you did not caucus on the companion bills with this, but they will be passed over and will not be called.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Well, Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether there is any particular order of the day on today that we must quit at 6 o'clock, but I believe the members would look with greater favor upon your proposition on on perhaps another day. Of course, if you want to run it tonight, that is your business, I do not know that I will move that we adjourn. You go right ahead.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Kistler. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. KISTLER. To move that we adjourn and ask for a roll call.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The motion to adjourn is in order. A motion to adjourn is always in order. Does the gentleman insist upon his motion?

Is the motion seconded?

The motion is seconded by the gentleman from Bedford, Mr. Foor, and others.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I ask the membership on both sides of the House to vote "no" on the motion to adjourn.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would like to inform the gentleman from Cumberland that in his motion he has not given this House any time that we should adjourn to.

Mr. KISTLER. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the House adjourns to April 20, at 10 a.m.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. KISTLER and FOOR and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. SHERMAN and HARTLEY asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman advise the Chair which set of amendments he wishes to have considered first?

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask that all three be read at one time. My speech will be in reference to all three and then will be taken up seriatim.

The SPEAKER pro tempore.

The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 1, fourth line of Title, by inserting after "tractors" limiting the duration of certain operators license suspensions

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 1, by striking out "Section 1002" and inserting:

Subsection (e) of section 618

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 2 and 3, by striking out "by adding after subsection (d) a new subsection"

Amend Bill, page 2, by inserting between lines 3 and 4:

Section 618. Suspension of Licenses or Operating Privileges.

(e) The secretary is hereby authorized after a hearing before the secretary or his representative, or upon failure of the said person to appear at such hearing, to suspend the operator's license or learner's permit of any person licensed in this Commonwealth, upon receiving notice of the conviction of such person in another state of an offense therein which, if committed in this Commonwealth, would be grounds for the suspension or revocation of the license of an operator, but if the operator's privileges of such person has been suspended in the other state, then such suspension by the other state and no part of the suspension ordered by the secretary shall be served after the expiration of the suspension imposed by the other state.

* * *

Section 2. Section 1002 of the act is amended by adding, after subsection (d), a new section to read:

Amend Bill, page 3, by inserting after line 20

Section 2. The provisions of this act shall apply only to violations occurring on or after the effective date of this act.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1002), page 2, by inserting between lines 17 and 18

(iv) the speed recorded is six or more miles per hour in excess of the legal speed limit.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sherman.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, there are three sets of amendments. Briefly, they are as follows:

No. 1, that one should be punished for violations prior to the effective date of the act.

The second amendment states that violations and punishment as a result thereof should run concurrently and not consecutively.

The effect of the third amendment is to allow a five-mile tolerance for any of those who shall exceed what someone says is the speed limit.

Mr. Speaker, it took a lot out of me to propose and insist upon these three amendments. I have had personal experience with each one of the three and what I have to say is a result of a survey and is a result of some contact with the Motor Vehicle Department and is the result of actual experience by those who are close to me.

It is very easy for some to say that safety is an all-important factor and, therefore, let us agree to radar without amendments. But it is also more difficult to say you can have safety, yes, but let us get rid of all the automobiles and you will have real safety, let us go back to the horse and buggy days. But I say, let us see what has happened from a practical standpoint, let us see what has actually happened in the enforcement of the law.

I am not speaking against any particular man, whether it is Shipley or anyone else, in proposing my amendments.

Now, with reference to anything that occurs prior to the effective date of the act, this should not need much explanation. I do not think anyone should be against anything like that. We want to offer a more or less clarifying amendment that any violation that occurs prior to the effective date of this act should not apply under the law.

We do not want any hearing taking place where any policeman or any official can say radar may have been effective in that State, or another State, or partially recognized prior to the effective date of the act, therefore, you should have no complaint to the fact that you are charged with radar at the present time as far as any punishment or suspension which would run concurrent, and should not run consecutively.

What I have to say is based on writing, a written memorandum signed by Simonetta of the Motor Vehicle Department. It is all right for McCartney, or anyone else of the police department or the State Police, to say we will recognize the five-mile tolerance, but I assure you that I have in my possession in writing that the regulation is mandatory and not regulatory, and is recognized as mandatory by the Motor Vehicle Department and stated so by Simonetta in behalf of the Motor Vehicle Department.

If any violation occurs in another State, for example, at 55 miles an hour—and this has actually happened—Simonetta has definitely stated that it is mandatory to recognize that violation in this State, and a suspension, if effective under ordinary circumstances, must take place. There are no two ways about it. I would like to see McCartney or anyone else recognize any effectiveness from another State.

I also say this, I have been in conversation with the powers in the Motor Vehicle Department and others in higher authority, and I say this, I have seen the reciprocity clause and statements signed between Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, if properly interpreted, has no right and New Jersey has no right to have dual suspensions under the reciprocity clause. I say again, what I have seen, I have seen in writing. I am not taking hearsay testimony. I defy the front office, or anyone in the State of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, or any other State which has a reciprocity agreement with Pennsylvania, to shows that they have a right to dual suspensions in the State of Pennsylvania. The reciprocity agreement itself should recognize the fact that no violation shall be considered as running consecutive rather than concurrent.

Also, you say here that the State Police have a right to enforce it today. What is going to happen two or three years from now, when every county in the State goes ahead and tries to enforce radar, unless these amendments are passed?

I also say that we have statements from the other equal body that perhaps we would go along without any amendment of a five-mile tolerance because the State Police have stated they will recognize the five-mile tolerance. But I say, get your house in order, get your one department to agree with the other. I say that I have seen in writing that they have changed what is called the regulations and say we will not only recognize the regulations, we have deemed the same mandatory. I say the State of Pennsylvania will not recognize the five-mile tolerance. They will go ahead and suspend you and, after you are suspended in another state and have your license taken away for 30 days, you will get an additional 30 days because McCartney has nothing to do with it and Simonetta has stated to me in writing that that is the law. I defy them to say otherwise.

POINT OF ORDER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Allegheny rise?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. I rise to a point of order, Mr. speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. May I suggest that the amendments now being presented by the gentleman from Philadelphia are not germane to the bill. The only issue involved is radar. He is talking about penalties and tolerance and concurrent items. That is covered by separate sections of the Motor Vehicle Code.

I ask for a ruling.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For the information of the gentleman from Allegheny, the presiding officer can decide, but this is a question the House should itself decide by its vote on the amendments.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Then I appeal from the decision of the Chair and ask for a roll call vote on the point of order.

Am I privileged to argue the matter, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman may not debate the point of order. He may debate the amendments.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I shall only be two minutes. I shall not repeat anything that Mr. Goldstein objected to heretofore,

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman yield until we have this point cleared up?

Does the gentleman from Allegheny desire to debate the amendments?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. I do not desire to debate the amendments. I want to have parliamentary order here and I would like to have my point of order voted on.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has ruled on the point of order and it is up to this House to decide as to whether or not the amendments are germane to the question. It is not a question the Chair should decide. The Chair has so ruled.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sherman.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, how many of you have ever tested or had your speedometer checked to see whether it is correct, whether it is two miles over the State limit or not? I think you will agree that no one—or perhaps only two or three—of the entire 210 members that are here have ever had their speedometers checked.

Do you realize that statistics show and surveys by the biggest corporations in the country, who have charge of speedometers in the State of Pennsylvania and other States, have shown that no speedometer is accurate, that it may be the driving components, maybe it is the tire size, maybe it is the inflation they carry, or change of tire, or an automobile that could have 5,000 miles or so, will change the speedometer reading. I have statistics from the Stewart-Warner Corporation on speedometers. That is one of the main dealers throughout the country.

But rather than waste any further time on the part of this House, in conclusion I wish to say this, if you are interested in checking your gears, keeping your tires inflated right, considering extreme temperatures, and even tire wear, all of which components have to do with the accuracy of the speedometer and whether the tolerance should be allowed or not. You are still living in a fool's paradise and at the same time may find yourself arguing with the State Police.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, for my purpose would you take amendment number one, the tolerance amendment?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will read the amendments that we are going to consider as the first order of business?

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1002), page 2, by inserting between lines 17 and 18 (iv) the speed recorded is six or more miles per hour in excess of the legal speed limit.

This is the first set of amendments that will be considered by this House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, on the first set of amendments proposed, I am going to ask for a roll call and a test on those amendments. I am rising to oppose the insertion of these amendments into Senate bill 79, based on the very fact that—and I am not going to try to deviate from the bill—there is another piece of legislation which, when enacted into law, would give the Secretary of Highways the right that many of us have argued for, changing the speed on various roads. That is another bill right below this, but we are not debating that bill. With these amendments inserted in the bill, Senate bill 79 would provide for a tolerance that is there by law. The tolerance is there now and the tolerance will be there. There is no question that in opposing these I am running into very difficult situations with those who support these amendments, but I ask this House to vote on this amendment and I ask that the membership vote nay in opposition to amendment number one, and I ask for a roll call.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the amendments. I have been reliably informed that presently there is a tolerance of 10 percent being allowed by the State Police because of the fact, as Mr. Sherman mentioned, that speedometers can be inaccurate and the motorist does not necessarily intend to violate the law. I think it is a fair and reasonable amendment and I ask the members to support the amendment.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, I would like to address my comments to this amendment also. I speak in favor of the amendments.

Every now and then along the pike we have a new nostrum, a new panacea, and, if we endeavor to do anything about questioning it, we subject ourselves to all sorts of criticism. However, in this instance I think it is incumbent upon all of us to look into the accuracy and infallibility of the radar instrument.

I have taken the trouble to communicate with several of the states that do have this instrument and I have received communications from any number of them. I do not want to go into the merits of the bill, as such, but I would like to speak about this tolerance amendment.

I have a commentary from the State of Connecticut which has long used radar, and this is a statement that comes from the State of Connecticut, Department of State Police, discussing the accuracy of radar. It says,

"Questions of interference are sometimes raised. The equipment is subject to interference of several types. Fluorescent lighting for example—this type of light has a long electric arc and radiates energy that in turn causes fluorescent materials to glow. If the equipment is used near such lighting, it will read a steady six to ten miles per hour," regardless of what else is on the highway. "The same holds for neon tube lighting. Another type of interference is that of random motion such as tree limbs or bushes within the radiated beam. Close to the transmitter they will cause the needle to 'float' or show erratic speeds of as high as 15 miles per hour."

I have other statements from other magazine articles and from learned people who indicate noise will cause the needle to float. This means that the infallibility of radar is questioned almost to the extent of 15 miles per hour. Now requesting that there be a five-mile-per-hour tolerance on this instrument will only assist the motorist in a situation where there may be some question, because we know, and I believe it has been checked with the other States that utilize it, that once a radar test is introduced into court it prima facie is indicated as being infallible and the motorist is at a tremendous disadvantage if he endeavors to prove that there was any inaccuracy in the instrument itself.

To go even further, I wrote to the Commissioner of the Pennsylvania State Police, and he advised me that under certain circumstances the police will use their judgement. As a matter of fact, he said that where there are borderline infractions, the police do not make arrests in these cases. The policy, even with the enforcement of radar, would be continued.

Now we are a government of laws, not a government of men. Anything that this commissioner says is the policy may be changed by the next commissioner. I trust Commissioner McCartney. I think he is an honorable man, and I think the people who staff his police at the present time are all honorable men. But we know what happens with honorable men on occasions, and we also know that these people change in offices, they come and they go. If this is the law, the law must be enforced.

I think in order to protect the motorist and in order to protect the people on the highways we should vote for this amendment and permit the five-mile tolerance.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. SHERMAN and McCANN and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendments were agreed to.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair now lays before the House the other two sets of amendments.

Mr. McCANN. On the other two sets of amendments I request that the House do concur and adopt the amendments without a roll call.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendments?
They were agreed to.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, there will be no more roll calls. I request permission of this House now to amend bills that were agreed to, two or three. The membership will be free, but before they leave this House—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would like to inquire if the Chair is to recognize the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kramer, on a reconsideration?

Mr. McCANN. There is a reconsideration motion. I believe there are three sets of amendments and 1178 bill, which was agreed to and went up to third reading, and we want to bring it back to second reading and amend it so that it will be complete for print.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the majority leader inform the Chair as to whether he wants—

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. McCANN. I would like to inform the House about tomorrow's session. This House will convene tomorrow at 10 a. m. When it convenes tomorrow at 10 a. m., there will be a period in which both parties will go from the floor to caucus because bills have not been caucused dealing with voting on bills. The major piece of legislation to be voted tomorrow will be radar, Senate bill 79, as amended. If we work, we surely can finish up by 2 or 2:30 tomorrow, having completed a heavy week's schedule.

The following week's schedule, which will be announced tomorrow, shows we will only be able, at this point to work three days due to not having hotel rooms for the fourth day. But the announcements will be made as we go steadily on the weeks following that.

Mr. Speaker, the membership who have asked, because they wanted to go to various places, are excused as far as we are concerned except for those motions, reconsideration and amendments.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentlemen please remain in their seats for just a minute. We want to make some committee announcements before they leave. The Chair would like to commend the members of this House for their fine attention to their duties this afternoon. During the very fine debate we had this House was in as fine an order as I have ever seen it. I believe the membership is to be commended for their actions today.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

BOROUGHES, Mr. Filo, chairman, Room 324, Thursday, April 20, at 9:45 a.m.

LABOR RELATIONS, Mr. Wargo, chairman, Room 131-G, Thursday, April 20, at 9:45 a.m.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, on page 6, bills on second reading, House bill No. 1178, we would like to bring back to second reading to amend.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House bill No. 1178, entitled:

An Act fixing the salaries and Compensation of members of certain boards and commissions and repealing inconsistent acts.

NEWPORT ELEMENTARY SCHOOL WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair notes the presence in the gallery of 92 pupils from the Newport Elementary School, Newport, Pennsylvania, who are here with their teachers, Mrs. Beasom, Mrs. Hoke, Mr. Flickinger and Mr. Raffensperger, principal.

They are the guests of the gentleman from Perry, Mr. Holman.

BLOOMSBURG STATE COLLEGE STUDENTS WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair notes the presence in the gallery of students of the Laboratory School of Bloomsburg State College with their adviser, Mr. Johnson. The members of the delegation are the guests of the gentleman from Columbia, Mr. Strausser.

The SPEAKER. What is the pleasure of the majority leader?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Carbon wishes to speak before we go to caucus. The minority leader is not here yet. I am ready to go to caucus for the purpose of getting in position to vote on bills and on special order of business, radar.

The SPEAKER. We will consult the minority whip as to whether the gentleman from Carbon should be recognized at this time while awaiting the arrival of the minority leader. The Chair will observe the wishes of the minority whip.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from McKean is busily engaged trying to get the calendar ready for caucus, but from what the gentleman from Carbon just tells me, let him proceed.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. BONNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the minority whip for his kind consideration.

Yesterday I listened with great interest to the debate on House bill 363. I listened with greater interest when I heard the minority leader, Mr. Johnson, point out the chronic unemployment situation in Carbon County, that so many of our people were sitting on park benches. I want to thank the minority leader for taking time and effort to point out our chronic unemployment problems in Carbon County.

Our mines in the Panther Valley that formerly employed 6,000 miners are now all idle. Our railroads that carry the coal have suffered greatly on account of the mines closing down. In the other end of our county the zinc company had a business decline with the resultant unemployment.

Carbon County business leaders and people have tried their utmost to attract new industry. We have a great number of industrial commissions and planning boards.

The whole area and the whole county contributed to their success, but they only met with some measure of success. They are still working and striving to attract new industry.

Summit Hill, my beloved home town, had a population of 5,600 in 1950. Due to the unemployment situation, our population declined to 3,900 in 1960. There is not one of these 1,700 people who have left our borough who would not return if job opportunities were available.

Mr. Speaker, we here in this House have an opportunity to help the unemployment situation in Carbon County. I have a resolution that will help alleviate it. This resolution will have the Eastern Penitentiary in Philadelphia relocated in Carbon County. While this is not the most desirable kind of employment, we in Carbon County are in such dire straits that we would welcome it. When this resolution is introduced later today, I hope the members on both sides will give it serious consideration to help the people of Carbon County.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

DEMOCRAT AND REPUBLICAN CAUCUSES

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am going to request exactly a one-hour caucus. The bills agreed to be caucused on are marked on the respective calendars so we will have sufficient bills to caucus. When we return a special order of business will be the first thing, Senate bill 79, radar.

Upon yielding to the minority floor leader, I will then make a motion for a recess of one hour for the purpose of a caucus, and I ask that all the members proceed immediately to the caucus room and bring with them their House calendars.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority whip.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, we will also have a one-hour Republican caucus immediately upon recess. Please bring your calendars to caucus with you.

SENATE BILL No. 79 MADE A SPECIAL ORDER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that Senate bill No. 79, printer's No. 605, on page 12 of today's calendar, bills on final passage, be made a special order of business immediately.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of Senate bill No. 79, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58) entitled "The Vehicle Code" authorizing the use of radio-microwave equipment in timing speed further regulating convictions prescribing powers and duties of the Secretary of Highways and prescribing penalties.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, since a firm located in New York State is selling radar detectors, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania would be out of business as to the possibility of stopping the real speeders or highway cowboys if this bill becomes a law for the reason that these persons would purchase radar detectors and thereby drive lawfully or unlawfully depending upon whether the radar detector gives them the signal. Therefore, radar would only be effective against the innocent speeder.

Then, too, I have been informed that tin foil placed in the hub cap of an automobile will cause the radar needle to jump so that an accurate reading cannot be taken.

Third, I would like to read an objection raised by one of my constituents and I will read one paragraph from his letter, which states the following:

"I was planning to write to you about my opposition to the radar bill, especially without any tolerance being written into the bill. I was a radar technician in the Navy, and I know that resistors and capacitors, of which there are dozens in a radar set, are affected by heat, cold, moisture, and other factors, so that they are not necessarily accurate, despite what the manufacturers claim. They, of course, want to make this huge sale of equipment at the taxpayers' expense. I think there should be a 20 percent tolerance, but certainly at least 10 percent. In other words, if the radar says a motorist was going 70, there should be a provision in the radar bill that the motorist could be charged with going only 70 less 10 percent, or 63 miles an hour. Without such a tolerance, man is made the slave of a piece of lifeless equipment which is not necessarily accurate 100 percent. I don't believe the salesmen for this equipment would stake their lives on its 100 percent accuracy."

Now, Mr. Speaker, while I am for highway safety, I do not want an injustice upon the people of Pennsylvania, and I therefore ask the members of this House to vote against this radar bill.

Mr. KISTLER. Mr. Speaker, today, as part of our responsibilities to the people of Pennsylvania each of us in the House of Representatives is required to make a decision on a very important problem, namely, shall we, or shall we not, legalize the use of highway radar as a means of determining speed violations on our highways. Each of us must decide whether or not we will vote for or against Senate bill No. 79 requiring the courts to accept the testimony of State Police as to dial readings of high frequency radio waves taken in a split second, such testimony to be valid as evidence.

Each one of us, I am sure, is not opposed to those, per se, who would reduce or eliminate highway accidents and the tragic loss of life that daily occur in all parts of our Commonwealth. Each one of us realizes the tremendous task that we face in controlling traffic and reducing fatal accidents on the highways, especially in view of what appears to be an ever-increasing number of motor vehicles licensed each year.

Each one of us, I am sure, realizes that from the time we take the first breath of air and lustily announce our arrival into the world, until we make our exit, that there is an element of risk that is part of the nature of things and that cannot be legislated out of existence. But do we really believe this? I wonder! Let a calamitous accident occur on our highways, in the air, or where have you, and I will write the newspaper paragraph that follows with the constancy of the earth in its orbit. It is always, this bureau, that bureau, this agency or that agency plans to probe the accident. Now our newspaper reporters and editors know people. And they do not put this paragraph in their papers to use space or to use printer's ink, but rather to fill the natural appetite of their readers that something be done to correct error and, I sometimes suspect, as an opiate to the public's sense of communal guilt feeling. Show me a tragic accident or happenstance and I will show you a search for a whipping boy. Show me a deadly illness and I will show you a headlong rush for a panacea. Who of us has not heard the question asked, "Why doesn't the government take some of that foreign-aid money and cure cancer?" And which one of us does not know that there is no possibility of answer by government fiat. We would do well, Mr. Speaker, to solemnly apply this logic to our highway safety problems.

There has been a super-abundance of heat applied to this problem in the public press and elsewhere in recent months. What is needed is light, not heat. We need to be charitable with one another and with the motivating spirit that guides our thinking. It ill behooves any of us to climb the staircase to the ivy tower and demean the motives of another as being less than our own.

We desire to reduce accident and eliminate death on our highways. This is a noble pursuit. It is a worthy objective to which this assembly, with careful study and proper means, can make a significant contribution. But in like manner, by hasty and ill-considered action, by improper legislation we can administer medicine more lethal to our way of life than the accidents we are attempting to prevent.

If we believe in democratic government we must truly believe the end does not justify the means. This is a basic tenet in the philosophical development of our culture.

So basic, in fact, as to be in the nature of a conditioned reflex in every segment of our society. Only an inept, muddle-minded "do-gooder" could possibly believe that any kind of trick, any deceit, a lie or an erratic electronic gadget can be used if it will help attain high ideals and noble goals. If this century has taught mankind anything it is that "ends do not justify means!" And that no goal is good if evil is done to attain it!

Mr. Speaker, I believe that highway radar, in its present stage of development, is bad. And that its use would result in damage to our way of life more extensive in its devastation than the numbers by which it would allegedly reduce accidents by the wildest stretch of our imagination. Why do I believe this? How can I claim that the use of highway radar is bad? Let me count the ways.

1. In recent demonstrations under the most carefully controlled conditions, highway radar tests were admittedly inaccurate. Either this is the truth or those members of the State Police responsible for these staged exhibitions should be removed for gross negligence and incompetence. It does no justice to the moral law to say the error is always on the side of the "offender." An eighth grade pupil will tell you if the error is always thus, there would be no possible justification for it in a nation that has the technical know-how to circle the moon. Highway radar, even under the most rigidly controlled conditions, is unproven and inaccurate in determining motor vehicular speeds.

2. There is no experimental evidence offered by any reputable research organization to support the optimistic claims and fond hopes of those whose panacea for highway fatalities is highway radar. Those who know highway safety best, the automobile clubs of America and Pennsylvania do not support it as a device for reliably determining vehicular speed on our highways. No government agency or recognized technological institution has conducted any detailed study of the device from the viewpoint of scientific accuracy. Nor, to my knowledge, have the proponents of this "Dick Tracy" gadget offered any evidence of authoritative analysis produced by responsible national publications or scientific journals.

3. The first three paragraphs of the April 4 issue of your classic office organ titled "Dispelling the Fog," Mr. Speaker, succinctly sets forth the truth about highway radar in terms so concise, so clear and so eloquent that nothing I can say will add to it. Permit me to quote you, Mr. Speaker, if I may. And I quote, "Radar spots speed at a particular point. It cannot spot character! It cannot spot absence of moral responsibility. It cannot spot the reckless driver per se. It cannot spot the show-off. It cannot spot irresponsible youth. It can only spot one factor that contributes to highway accidents. It cannot spot the absence of discretion—discretion which is the sign manual of the safe driver." In other words, highway radar is not a panacea that will instantly stop the carnage on the highways!

What you say about "knowing people," in paragraph three, is the crux of my whole argument, Mr. Speaker. If, "bitter resentment and protest" have been generated "from every nook and corner of this Commonwealth," by what is thus far a theory, believe me, it would do all well who contemplate voting for this electronic misfit to ponder what will happen when and if it should become the device by which they and their constituents become entrapped.

But highway fatalities are a brutal fact of life! And it is not sufficient to throw our hands up in despair. They can be dealt with effectively in the highest American tradition by what was once, and can be again, the finest police service in the world, the Pennsylvania State Police.

According to the statistical abstract of Pennsylvania prepared by the Department of Internal Affairs, there were 2,582,715 licensed operators, operating 2,690,419 registered vehicles in Pennsylvania in 1937 when 2,564 persons were killed in vehicular accidents. In 1959, the most recent year reported in the abstract, there were 5,230,611 licensed operators, an increase of 2,647,896, or 103 percent, operating 4,507,262 registered vehicles, an increase of 1,906,843, or 67.5 percent. And there were 1,685 fatal accidents in 1959, a decrease of 879 over 1937, or 34 percent. I think it would be conservative to estimate that the average car traveled twice as many miles in 1959 as its counterpart traveled in 1937. If this be correct, the fatal accident ratio has been enormously reduced without radar and without an adequate number of State Police officers to police the highways.

Colonel McCartney advised Mr. Foor, Representative from Bedford County, and me in conference yesterday that the authorized strength of the Pennsylvania State Police as of April 17 was 2,021, less 90 cadets in training, or a net active number of State Police of 1,931. In order to arrive at a reasonable approximation of the number of troopers available for highway patrol, it is necessary to deduct the following, namely:

Committed for non-patrol duty:

Criminal .....	365
Garage Inspectors .....	54
Examiners .....	150
Commissioned Officers .....	64
First Sergeants .....	16
Desk Sergeant Duty .....	96
Academy Staff .....	35
Military Leave .....	18

A total of 820 to be deducted from the authorized strength of 2,021. This leaves 953 troopers available for patrol duty. From this figure of 953 must be deducted an unknown quantity of men assigned to serving warrants, attending court, attending hearings, services for other state departments, and so forth. In round figures, it could be estimated that a balance of 900 men would be available for patrol duty on a 24-hour schedule. The heavier assignments would be made to daylight patrol hours with approximately a maximum figure of 450 men. The balance of 450 men would be divided between the evening and night patrol shifts.

Mr. Speaker, it is simply a physical impossibility for 900 State Police to shepherd 11,000,000 Pennsylvanians and their guests over the 41,000 miles of highway system with which they are charged. As I look at the apotheosis behind your chair, Mr. Speaker, depicting in the lower left-hand corner the boys in blue marching off to war in the conflict between the States, I am reminded that our grandfathers were pretty good at deceiving the enemy as to their exact numbers by marching the troops around Little Round Top until reinforcements arrived. This was a military expedient of war! But there is no justification for our requiring the Pennsylvania State Police to flit furtively over the highways in unmarked cars as a psychological deterrent aimed at making the public believe the police are twice as numerous and twice as effective as they really are simply because we do not have the intestinal fortitude to face up to the facts and add the necessary police to do the job in well-marked cars in the American way.

The Pennsylvania State Police is a great organization with a splendid history of reliability, integrity, honor and deep commitment to a government of laws. Our people have never viewed the State Police as a secret service agency. Their methods of law enforcement have never been deceitful and hidden, as is the case in some foreign lands. They are no Russian OGPU or Gestapo. But the wide-spread use of highway radar that is not technologically developed to perfection will put the idea into the minds of good, honest citizens that they have been wrongfully accused and arrested. Do this, and we will start a disrespect and distrust of the State Police that will be disastrous.

A few years ago George Orwell wrote a famous novel titled "1984" that was built upon the idea of a completely organized and regimented society in which "Big Brother" with radar and closed-circuit television watched everyone. The people of Pennsylvania do not want "Big Brother" watching them by radar, by closed-circuit television, nor will they long countenance or tolerate an administration or legislators that inflict it upon them.

Americans believe in fair play. They will not underwrite "sneaky-Pete" methods, and there is simply no justification for them, especially when they are implemented with electronic gadgets that are not perfected and are still in the developmental stage.

As you have inferred, Mr. Speaker, the problem is not a technical one that can be garnered in books. It is a personal one that deals with people. We need to get the cooperation of the great host of Pennsylvanians by using orthodox methods in law enforcement and by making the violation of the speed laws taboo. When it is no longer smart or respectable to lose one's license, when we show some confidence in the public and win their cooperation by a proper, deserved respect for our enforcement officers, they will respond and the death tolls will drop to the point where the law of diminishing returns sets in.

For the few who cannot or will not be obedient to reason nor considerate of the welfare and well-being of themselves, their families and their neighbors, let us hit them "in the pocket book" with a $25 fine for the first speeding violation in any one year, a $50 fine for the second, and a $100 fine for the third, with jail sentence, if, in the opinion of the courts this is necessary.

No one has even seriously accused Americans of being poor businessmen. And when the State Police hands the "check" to a violator with his eye witness testimony behind it, we will pay for the additional police, we will approach the irreducible minimum in accidents and we will have done a public service by creating a new respect for law and order. Respect, without which, no democracy can efficiently function nor long endure. I thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the lady from Montgomery, Mrs. Henzel, and would beseech for her close attention on the part of the feminine part of the House.

Mrs. HENZEL. Thank you, sir. We have been speaking much about safety in relation to radar. A number of members have made the statement that if we can save one life with radar it should be of consideration.

I should like to insert into the record by means of a letter received from one of my constituents an aspect of safety that de-emphasizes the value of radar, and it reads thusly:

Since I am sure you and all the other legislators are interested in any danger from exposure to radar beams, I should like to quote from The New York Times. In the issue of Sunday, March 30, 1960, News Section, p. 88, c 2, there is an article summarizing the contents of a 32-page booklet distributed by the Transport Workers Union to its 12,000 members employed as airline ground attendants. It was prepared by the Union's air transport division in cooperation with the industrial union department of the AFL-CIO. I quote from the Times article:

Two possible radar hazards were also discussed. One was personal injury from radar beams, a subject about which little is known except that radar can have harmful effects. The union advised its men to stay away from and to avoid looking directly at radar antennae, including those in the nose of a plane.

The other possible radar hazard cited was in fueling operations. Weather radar devices in planes should be off and fueling should be conducted at least 500 feet from large airport radar machines, the report said.

The radar machines Governor Lawrence has ordered, costing about $1200 each, are not toys. They may not be as strong as those in planes, but when a police radar beam is pointed up a road, effective for a considerable distance, what danger do they present to persons walking across the road, say at night, within 100 feet? And assuming the body of a car shields the passengers, how about passengers in cars with the tops down, exposed to the beams only a few feet away and perhaps looking directly at the machine?

It is surely short-sighted to believe that if one doesn't drop dead on the spot from a disputed health hazard it is consequently safe. Long term effects of exhaust fumes and cigarette smoke are recognized. An article in The Evening Bulletin of March 14, 1960, states that six radar technicians were hospitalized after being exposed to unshielded radar rays. How about multiple exposures to the police radars to persons already in precarious health? Unless incontrovertible proof can be offered that these radar machines are safe even for cumulative short-range exposure, their use on public roads is morally indefensible.

Thank you.

Mr. PARLANTE. Mr. Speaker, we have before us for consideration Senate bill 79, the passage of which will permit the use by our State Police of certain radar devices to detect and apprehend motor vehicles exceeding speed limits on the highways of the Commonwealth.

I would like to go on record as being opposed to this pending legislation. Most important, I do not believe radar possesses the accuracy and precision which those in favor of it would like us to believe it possesses. Secondly, I believe that the present bill contains certain serious shortcomings which place our motorists in a very unfair position. I shall direct my attention to a discussion of the flaws contained in this bill.

My first objection to the bill as worded is the fact that it will permit the conviction of a motorist for speeding who may be unfortunate enough to have exceeded the speed limit only for the instant that his motor vehicle passes through the police radar beam. This is contrary to the better principle that only a sustained and willful violator should be punished. In fact, this idea is already contained in Section 1002 of the code wherein a motorist has to be clocked for at least one-eighth of a mile before he can be stopped for speeding in a business or residential area.

A second objection which I have to this bill is that it does not provide any leeway or margin of error that may be contained in the police radar set and, therefore, a motorist who is found to have exceeded the speed limit by even one mile per hour can be convicted under this act. Since no radar set is so perfect that it can clock speed perfectly, Senate bill 79 should have taken that fact into consideration.

My final objection, and by far the most important, is to the language contained in that part of the bill which says that an official certificate from an official inspection station showing that tests of the radar set have been made within the required time and that it shall be competent evidence not only that the certificate was issued by an official inspection station, but also that the set was accurate in every proceeding where an information is brought charging a violation of the section.

In other words, all the State policeman has to do at any hearing is to present this certificate and that will be enough to prove that the radar set was in good working order at the time the offense was supposed to have been committed.

Suppose there was something wrong with the set at the time the motorist was clocked by it? How can he prove that there was any defect in it when all the information is in the possession of the State Police and the manufacturer who made it?

The use of radar, therefore, will place an impossible burden on any motorists charged with speeding. This, in turn, becomes a very serious consideration in Pennsylvania because not only does a motorist have to pay a fine for such a violation, but, on top of that, he is subject to a loss of his operator's privilege—either by suspension or revocation.

It is for these reasons that I am opposed to Senate bill 79, and I urge my fellow members on both sides of the House to likewise oppose it.

Mr. MANBECK. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of this House, I believe that this is an issue that has become an issue of the people of the State of Pennsylvania and not a party issue.

The reason I am qualified to speak on this bill is because I have traveled the Turnpike and many of the other roads of Pennsylvania as much as probably any man in this House.

I live in Lebanon County. We speak of our highway safety. We have down there a school district that was organized and built a school building about five or six years ago. We came to Harrisburg to ask the Governor then, the chicken farmer from York County, for a safety bridge to be built across Route 22. He sent his delegation down there and told us that probably in 13 years from now we might have a bridge across this highway. To this day we still do not have a bridge, but we do every year have people killed at this intersection.

Just this past summer we had a lady with her sister and three children, traveling east on Route 22, come into this intersection with a truck traveling at about 40 miles an hour, going west on Route 22, and this lady without any indication made a left-hand turn in front of the truck, and all five were killed. And, of course, they are in the record as being safety fatalities of the State of Pennsylvania.

We have another intersection in the State of Pennsylvania that is just as dangerous, in the southern part of Route 322. We have tried to get the ordinary caution signs put up at this crossing without any success.

Traveling across the State roads of our Commonwealth, we have many roads that should be changed. I think that the speed laws should be changed in the State of Pennsylvania. If they should not, then I think many members of this House are wrong, because I travel on Route 22 and on many occasions, driving 60 miles an hour on Route 22, I have seen members of this House pass me in excess of 60 miles an hour. And I think they could very well be stopped by the radar device that they are talking about.

I have heard many discussions in the House that even a bird flying across the beam between the vehicle and the contraption that they call radar could cause this device to be inaccurate.

I could go on and on, but I do not think that I should waste the members' time to discuss this any further, and I ask that both sides of the House vote against Senate bill No. 79. Thank you.

Mr. McKEEVER. In order to clearly assert my objections, I would like to state that the type of radar used by State Police for the apprehension of speeders is not the same as that which is used in the military for war and national defense purposes.

Since State Police radar sets work on a principle of reflected radio waves, it follows that the frequency of these waves must be constantly maintained in order to insure a fair degree of accuracy. Therefore, any noises or sounds in the vicinity at the time the set is in operation will affect its velocity reading. For instance, the closing of the police car door, the adjustment of the trunk lid, or the waves emitted by the police radio can send the meter shooting up to the velocities in excess of the legal speed limit. Any other extraneous noises that should occur at the time of the reading would also produce the same effect.

Another problem which arises in the application of radar of any kind is that it can only show the gross outline of a large object. Therefore, when radar is applied in a multi-car and multi-lane traffic situation, it becomes nearly impossible to tell which car in which lane is in violation. Especially is this so when you consider that a car traveling 40 or 50 miles per hour remains only a few seconds in the path of the beam.

I would like now to discuss the practical application and effect of the use of radar evidence in courts. Up until now, all courts of various States employing radar have required that the prosecution lay a proper foundation before it is permitted to admit radar results into evidence. In addition, even where evidence of a speeding violation is obtained by use of radar, the question of guilt or innocence has always been submitted to the jury for its consideration, much the same as any other evidence.

However, Senate bill 79 will permit a complete reversal of this basically fair procedure, so that now the mere introduction of a certificate of inspection will constitute prima facie evidence of the speed of the particular motor vehicle involved. It offends me to think that a prima facie case on so important an issue can be made to depend on an instrument which is so vulnerable to error in operation.

In order for a motorist to obtain an acquittal, he would have to prove that the radar set employed in his detection was in excessive error and he would be required to reconstruct the entire roadway procedure, together with reproducing all the conditions of radar and radio wave reflection from moving and non-moving objects. He would have to establish identical placement and movement of all vehicles in the traffic situation that existed in the precise moment that the recording was made and then compare the recorded instrument velocity with the true velocity established by independent means at a completely controlled set of observations.

Mr. Speaker, I ask you, how can any motorist ever be expected to re-create the identical conditions that existed at the particular time and place of the alleged violation if he wishes to prove excessive error? Impossible to answer!

Once an instrument of this type is permitted to be employed as part of the highway safety program, the courts become more inclined to rely upon the validity of this mechanical instrument, so much so that conviction in every case is practically a certainty.

An illustration of this is the fact that about five years ago a study was conducted in Denver, Colorado, where radar was employed to detect speeders. It was shown that in a three-month period of time 1,600 motorists in Denver were caught by radar and fined $20 each. This produced a total revenue of $32,000, without one acquittal. Not only does this indicate that the revenue-producing power of radar might overshadow its safety features, but, on top of it all, it makes available to enforcement authorities and to our highway safety planners another device by which our motorists are not only fined, but, in addition, are deprived of their operating privileges. This is a harsh system made even more oppressive by the flagrant use of vulnerable electronic devices which masquerade on our highways and in our courts with the cloak of infallibility, when, in fact, it is not!

It is clear, then, that the use of radar on our highways will create more problems, difficulties and hardships than any benefits or advantages that we could hope to derive from its passage.

For these reasons, I am opposed to the bill. I also am opposed because I feel that it gives ammunition or more ammunition to the Highway Department to persecute the average motorist.

This, too, could extend, in a year or two year's time, not only to the State controlled highways, but also to our own cities and boroughs. I agree with my colleague, Mrs. Markley, when she said recently that at the present time it is either total or partial incompetency for our highway safety program. This, too, I feel will add to those problems.

Last year there were 625,000 violations issued in Philadelphia and sent to Harrisburg, and 160,000 to the State Police. This, to me, is an official glorified fining mill and I ask my colleagues on both sides to please vote against it.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I shall.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, it was reliably reported in the press sometime ago that the other house was invited to attend the demonstration of this magic box called radar. Is that correct, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I believe there were a total of three or four demonstrations that were provided for from Senate requests before Senate Bill 79 passed the Senate.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, is it the understanding of the majority leader that all fifty senators were invited to that demonstration?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I could not answer if all fifty were invited except on the first test and the repeat test. The Chairman of the Committee on Highways in the Senate, Senator Fred Rooney, did invite the Senate members to the test held at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, will the majority leader tell us whether or not there has been a demonstration of radar before the members of at least one committee of this House?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, there was one test held here at Harrisburg for the Motor Vehicles Committee of the House. There was one test held in the city of Pittsburgh through an Allegheny County request. There were House members invited to the test held at Coatesville, Pennsylvania, and some members were invited to the first and second tests held for the Senate here in Harrisburg.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, am I correct then in adding those figures up and saying that the twenty members of the Motor Vehicle Committee were invited to a demonstration, that the members from Allegheny County were invited to a demonstration, that certain Representatives within the vicinity of Coatesville, Pennsylvania, were invited to a demonstration? What would that total be of members of this House who were invited to a demonstration of radar?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am going to yield for a minute because I believe there were letters sent that invited many others but I want to be sure. I did not know I was going to be asked these questions on who had been invited, but I will temporarily yield. I believe the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, was in receipt of that communication.

Mr. McCormack. Mr. Speaker, to clarify Mr. McCann's answer to that question, I am not a member of the Motor Vehicles Committee nor is the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Lippincott, I believe. Oh, he is a member. But, I am not a member. When I heard something about it in the House, I checked with Commissioner McCartney and asked him when the demonstration was going to be given, and he told me when it would be out on Route 22 and he said it was perfectly all right for me to go along, so I took the trouble of coming up here early and went out to the demonstration. It was for everybody who was desirous of finding out more about radar.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I admire the initiative displayed by the gentleman from Philadelphia, but I do not believe that he has gone so far as to state that every member of this House was invited to that demonstration.

Mr. McCormack. I do not know about a formal invitation. I usually do not wait for those if I am interested.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I have concluded my interrogation of the majority leader and I thank the gentleman.

My point is simply this. I, too, do not need a formal invitation. A mere letter, a mere note, announcing that this demonstration is available to all of us, that we are eligible to come, ask questions, try to jingle keys, and try all these various things that we have been told by certain groups demonstrate the inaccuracy of radar.

I, frankly, am in a position, I call myself a mechanical idiot. Now, I do not understand radar. There are a lot of things I do not understand, including a lot about the operation of a motor vehicle as far as its mechanical operation. I think that it is difficult at all times for every member of this House to understand legislation, if it is not carefully considered in committee. However, we still have the facts, at least in printed words on our desk, and we can read it to the best of our ability and we can interpret what those words mean and what the effect of those words will be upon the law and upon the citizens of Pennsylvania.

Now in the case of Senate bill 79, the words are clear and I think I and every other member of this House understands it. However, those words say that this radar, this magic box, is going to become something that is going to be used by the State Police in Pennsylvania. Frankly, I do not understand radar. I have heard many eminent people, none of whom I believe, state on this floor that they consider themselves competent to testify as to the accuracy of radar. I think most of them will admit that they are saying what other people say about radar. Now I would have appreciated the opportunity to see this machine in operation. I could then go back to my own county and say that I saw it and it worked, or it did not work. At this moment I have never seen it. I do not personally know whether it works. I am being asked if I vote affirmatively on Senate bill 79 to buy "a pig in a poke," and I think that it is only fair to every member of this House that we be given a chance to vote intelligently on legislation. If I had the opportunity to have a demonstration of radar in my county, I would see that both the opponents and the proponents of radar were given an ample opportunity to demonstrate the defects or the accuracy of radar. I have not been given that opportunity. I have not had that chance. I have not had a chance to even see this thing work or not work. I cannot at this time, and I do not think that the vast majority of the members of this House can, in good conscience, pass judgment on Senate bill 79 because they have not seen this thing in operation and I think this is not the same as a normal bill where we merely read the words. You have to see this thing on the highway in operation. If you have not seen it, you are voting blindly and I hope you do not make that mistake. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy, desire to be recognized at this time?

Mr. MURPHY. Yes, I do, Mr. Speaker, very briefly.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington.

Mr. MURPHY. I might say that I am not opposed to the strict enforcement of the laws of this Commonwealth regardless of what laws they might be, nor do I fully agree with my good friend from Adams County that there are any innocent speeders. I think those speeders are guilty if they are violating the laws of our Commonwealth. However, we must realize that once this august body enacts a law or supplies a device, a measuring device or an electronic device, to law enforcement agencies, our jurists, the judges, and our jurors are very prone to accept those measuring devices as infallible. They believe that we have fully investigated the type of instrument that we are providing, that we have seen it tested time and time again and have not seen it fail. I am not sure. I have not had the opportunity nor an invitation nor have I opposed an invitation to see this instrument working. I will, of course, take those who have seen it at their word. However, I would like to read one or two paragraphs from a recent article in the Argosy Magazine with which I believe many of you are familiar. However, for those of you who have not had an opportunity to take the time to read it, very briefly, one paragraph says, "In Greenwich, Connecticut, Judge John P. Knox accidentally jingled a set of keys in his pocket and activated a radar unit in his courtroom." Another paragraph: "In New York a cop, thirty feet away, dangled a set of keys. The radar registered forty-five miles an hour without a car in sight." "At the factory, tuning forks held in front of the set, will produce readings of fifty to a hundred miles an hour." Another paragraph: "Radar cops have admitted that even operation of the police radio can cause readings of forty-five miles per hour. Interference from other radio channels, especially the amateur band, can also affect radar readings." Another paragraph: "If such nonrelated objects can cause radar interference, what happens when several cars come into the range at the same time?"

Yesterday, this very learned body recognized the infallibility of radar when it adopted, by a rather strong majority, the paragraph which causes that an arrest cannot be made unless the speed is in excess of the limit by six miles per hour. Are we sure that six miles per hour is enough? Are we sure that six miles per hour is not too much and that we are giving too much leniency? Are we sure that radar is infallible? We should be certain of that before we vote "yes" on this bill. Thank you.

Mr. MORLEY. I have listened to this discussion here and it seems to me that the major references have been on the violator, the gadget and the road conditions and various other, what I consider, incidentals. The problem facing us today in Pennsylvania as well as in the Nation is the loss of 35 to 40 thousand lives on the highways of our Nation, over 14 hundred of them here in Pennsylvania, and millions in serious injuries and accidents. That is our problem, and I think that we should concentrate on that. I am familiar with these other phases of this proposition. I am a politician. I have the same troubles and the same difficulties with stupid, arrogant law enforcement and I do not like it. But, this bill is not directed against any one man or against any office or against any group. This radar bill is designed to give to the law enforcement agencies of this State, or agency, which, incidentally, in my opinion is one of the most highly trained, intelligent, and fair-minded enforcement law agencies in this country, the Pennsylvania State Police, another tool to try to fight this problem, to which no man has the answer. These gentlemen have talked of infallibility and inaccuracy. If we listen to their arguments we would take that clock right off the balcony and throw it out the window. There is no such thing as an infallible device, and if anyone thinks there is an infallible person all he has to do is get up on the floor of this House.

We are dealing with people. We are dealing with souls. We are dealing with the law enforcement agent, enforcement agency, which has the judgment factor to apply. These people are trained men. They know all the things that have been pointed out here; that is part of their job. They are trained to make allowances for these things. They do it with speedometers. They have been doing it for years, and the speedometer is much less accurate than radar.

I am not a radar expert but I worked on the first radar, civilian's radar, that was ever built in this country in 1941, at Fort Hancock, New Jersey. The one outstanding feature of the whole exhibition was the accuracy of the radar beam. The Navy in 1942, the Admiral will tell you this, in the second battle of San Savo, the battleship South Dakota with a radar gun pointing at a range of 60 miles, bracketed a Japanese battleship with the first salvo and drove the second one home and knocked her out of action in 30 minutes, and that was with the ships on opposite courses at high speed, which the Admiral will tell you is the most difficult of possible conditions. This is no gimmick or no gadget. This is the gimmick or gadget that you trust your life to every time you fly in an airplane. And when the ILS, the instrument landing, fails and they cannot bring you down, they go to the radar boys and ask them to bring you in. I think we should stick to the essentials of this problem. The lady from Montgomery mentioned the possibilities of radiant energy burns and so forth. That is a remote possibility. The same thing applies to a television set. We use two or three million volts of Xrays right here in this Commonwealth. The Manhattan district handled thousands of tons of radio-active material and in four years did not have one serious burn. We have had very few in this State. Xrays have been in our hospitals for years. They have been in industrial plants. That is a problem that can be controlled. The important question here is, are we going to take this device which is reasonably accurate and which can make a contribution to this difficult and almost insolvable problem and put it in the hands of the agency that has the responsibility to do this job. I think as Members of this House we owe it to the people of Pennsylvania to give them this tool.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, apparently there was a list of members' names submitted. I am sorry I did not know about that or I would have submitted my name.

I did not intend to speak on this bill and it seems to me that for fear that it might be killed by talking it to death, I am going to be very brief.

It seems to me the popular position today among the members of the legislature, all of whom are politicians, is to be against the use of this device.

The SPEAKER. The Chair takes exception. He is a member of the House and never was a politician.

Mr. McCORMACK. The exception is not recognized.

Mr. Speaker, I think it has been demonstrated in all the literature we have perused, from people who desire to be for it, that there is a real relationship between speed and the high death and accident rate on the highways. Assuming that hypothesis to be correct, I think that the basic issue before this General Assembly today is whether or not we as the legislative masters of the people of Pennsylvania are willing to take a step to do something about it.

I have heard a lot of argument today about the inaccuracies in this device, and it is something that has troubled me. As I informed you before, in order to see whether or not accuracies could be demonstrated on the machine that is going to be used if this bill should become law, I did take the trouble to go out to Route 22 and to examine it myself. I am not familiar with electronic equipment, but nevertheless I believe what my eyes see. I think we have to be intellectually honest on an issue like this, and I am wondering whether everybody here who has raised objections to this with respect to its inaccuracy is being intellectually honest. I am wondering how many of these men who have set forth that proposition have requested from the proper authorities in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that they be given the opportunity of a demonstration to see for themselves whether or not there are any bugs in this machine. If I hear that there have been members who have been refused a test under reasonable conditions, then I certainly will be willing to go along and say that we should give them, each one of them, an opportunity. But as of this moment I have not heard of anyone saying that he has been so denied.

There have been statements made by different opponents of this bill about persecution of the motorist. I am judging my decision to vote in favor of this bill on common experience, and on the belief that I am a reasonable person, not perhaps like the majority of the members of this House. But I think it should be of particular significance that all the people who have ever been summoned by the police for speeding, as a result of radar detection, with whom I have come into contact, have never complained that they did not exceed the speed limit. I think we must bear this in mind because if people have been detected in the past, in other States, when they have not been in fact speeding, then I think there is a serious question as to whether or not we should pass this bill. But as I say, I have never once heard anyone say that he was unjustly cited. Maybe the penalty was severe, but the accuracy of the indicator was not questioned by those people.

I think too, that we ought to be realistic and think of the psychological effect that the use that these detection devices has on the average motorist. Again I take my own experience. When I drive to New Jersey where they use radar and they have properly posted signs, the automatic response to me is that I should watch my speedometer. I know there are members of this House, whom I will not mention by name, who are some of the worst speeders on the highways in Pennsylvania, and I know too that these very persons have been stopped on the turnpike and they have been warned and they have been allowed to go free without being fined. I ask you whether you are making any contribution to highway safety by speeding and by objecting to radar because of your desire to continue to speed and to violate the laws.

We are here to uphold the law and I think that you must examine your conscience carefully and come to the conclusion, finally, that this is a desirable measure in the interest of highway safety, that Governor Lawrence, when he advocated this measure and similar highway safety measures, has taken steps far beyond the imagination or the thinking of past administrations. I ask you not to get involved in any political discussions. This is above politics; it is in the interest of safety of the pedestrians and the traveling public that we need something like this, not as a fining mill, but to have the psychological effect on motorists to cause them to slow down. Believe me, there is a relationship between high speed and serious accidents.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, listening to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, who referred to the intellectual honesty of the opponents of this piece of legislation, I think my honesty on it will match the gentleman from Philadelphia. I will not pretend, nor attempt to pretend, that my intellectual capacity will match the learned Philadelphia attorney's capacity and I know I will not be able to match the flowery oratory of the majority leader who is going to conclude the debate on this, presumably in favor of it, but I would like to point out a few things.

Not very long ago we voted for and passed a billboard ban in order that we could secure additional, supplemental Federal funds to build an Interstate Highway System. We are building other thruways, turnpikes, speedways, call them what you will, to catch up with what I believe is the jet age. We lay out these fine roads and we beckon to the motorist to come onto it with these late-model, smooth-riding cars, and then he is suckered into a speed trap.

If this bill passes, the door will be open and the foot will be in, and it will only be a matter of time until this radar is extended to the political subdivisions throughout the Commonwealth, and the fine mills will be in a full bloom. There are many who agree that they are even now.

We have a snail's pace of 50 miles an hour for cars with a few exceptions on some four-lane highways, 40 miles an hour for trucks. I have heard that truck drivers have lost their licenses, have lost their jobs, adding to the already serious unemployment problem here in the Commonwealth, putting on the unemployment rolls additional recipients and further depleting a fund which I do not believe is in the healthiest condition at the present time.

If I were interested primarily in political expediency, I would be encouraging the Democrats to be united for this bill. But I am placing the welfare and the interest and the opinions of my constituents above political expediency and I urge and hope they have the independence and the courage to vote with the majority on this side whom I know are going to vote against the bill.

I feel that if the people do not have formulated opinions as to what these policies and programs are doing to them at the present time, that most certainly, by November of 1962, they will have formulated those opinions.

I urge the defeat of this piece of legislation. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, I presume much to the surprise of many people in this House, I am now going to speak in favor of this legislation.

It appalls me to see that people will discuss legislation without reading it, because I have heard some debate on the bill that we are now discussing which was not at all in keeping with what the legislation reads.

For instance, I have heard people discuss the fact that there are certain fallibilities in radar and there is required some tolerances as to its inaccuracies. Yet yesterday we sat here and amended this bill from the condition it was in yesterday to make sure that those inaccuracies would be remedied. As a matter of fact, to provide for the tolerances, we will allow a six-mile tolerance, which means that if a man is going 55 miles on the State highway which is being patrolled by radar, he will have to be registered at 61 before the information picked up by the radar device would be usable in court as a basis of suspending his license. Yet I heard people here discuss this legislation without considering at all the bill under consideration.

I also am appalled by the fact that people will talk about a piece of legislation without making any effort whatsoever to find out what experience exists in other States which utilize the instrument. I took the pains to write to every State in the Union in order to obtain the information that would assist me to vote intelligently upon this legislation. After having received the information, I was instrumental in introducing the amendments, because I knew that therein lies the defect in the bill, the fact that it did not provide for tolerances. But having made that amendment and having had it prevail and having it added to the legislation, it has now become a satisfactory, workable and usable instrument for highway safety and in order to assist in reducing the traffic fatalities upon our highways.

For instance, yesterday I read to you a statement from the State of Connecticut dealing with the inaccuracies that may exist in radar. However, in the same statement they also say that from the above discussion several questions might arise, the first being, what is the overall accuracy of the instrument? It is within plus or minus one mile per hour over the range of 10 to 100 miles per hour. And then it further says that the other factor lies in the angle of less than 20 degrees, that is, from placement on the side of the highway, and as the angle increases to 90 degrees the errors increase. From this, however, it is evident that the equipment cannot be utilized far off the highways, thereby making it a speed trap, because the error factor, if it were utilized in such manner, would make its error in favor of the motorist.

I have here statements which I could read from 47 states, all of which say the same thing. However, I would like to read some selected letters that I have gotten from various States which will confirm the fact that under proper circumstances the utilization of the device will act as a safety factor and act as a protective measure to be utilized on the highways.

For instance from the State of Iowa:

The State of Iowa has used radar speed meters to check highway speeds for the past five years.

We feel that the use of radar is essential in developing and maintaining proper control of vehicular traffic and that without this device we would be unable to keep traffic moving at a reasonable safe speed. The number of arrests made for exceeding the legal speed limit in Iowa during 1960 exceeded 19,000. While the use of radar is merely using a specialized instrument and is certainly not in itself a complete solution for enforcement problems, however, under present highway conditions it is almost impossible to check vehicle speeds by pacing cars with a patrol vehicle.

... We do feel that radar and other types of speed checking devices are essential in any successful enforcement program.

From the State of Delaware they say this:

In July 1956 radar teams were assigned throughout the State and these teams devoted their full time to radar operation.

Accidents had increased in 1955 and during the first seven months of 1956. After the radar teams were placed in operation the accidents leveled off and were actually reduced in several of the months during the balance of the year.

From the State of Oklahoma:

Radar has been used on a statewide basis since 1955. There is a substantial decrease in fatal accidents, where speed is a major contributing factor, since that time.

... The significance of the effect of radar lies in the fact that when it is used on a regular planned basis there is a very noticeable decrease in top speeds for this area, yet the motorist will increase his speed in another area on the same roadway where he has not seen radar.

From the State of Oregon:

We consider the use of such devices very effective.

From the State of South Dakota:

We consider radar devices effective. They are particularly effective ... because of the long straight stretches of highway which almost eliminate any possibility of making an arrest for speed by the use of a marked patrol car.

Our death rate shows a steady decline since the use of this device.

I could go on for State after State. The State of Utah is very interesting:

It is our opinion that this is a very effective means of helping to combat the problem of excessive speed. In 1954, the year prior to our utilization of radar, we had a mileage death rate of 7.4; in 1955 and 1956, our mileage death rate was reduced to 6.6; in 1957, it was decreased to 6.2 and in 1958 and 1959 to 5.2.

As I say, I could go through 47 States and read you the same information, all of which will indicate that radar when used properly, under good circumstances, will make a real contribution to a decrease in the death toll and our serious traffic fatalities, traffic injuries.

It is most interesting, also, with regard to the State of Pennsylvania. I also wrote to the Pennsylvania State Police on March 22nd requesting information pertaining to the use of radar on Pennsylvania highways. As you know, they are using it for study purpose and for notice purposes.

This is what I learned from Commissioner McCartney. He indicates to me where it has been used in other States, but he says:

On Route 30, between Gettysburg and Philadelphia, from July 1, 1959, to February 1, 1960, no radar was used and there were six motor vehicle traffic fatalities. From July 1, 1960, to February 1961, radar was used consistently on this stretch of highway for warning purposes and there was one motor vehicle fatality.

I bring this to your attention so you will have information that comes to me from other States of the Union. The information is available to any member of this House, and, as I say, all you have to do is make an effort to find out and you get the information.

As the bill was amended yesterday, it is a perfectly good, workable piece of legislation and it will make a real contribution to the reduction of highway slaughter in Pennsylvania. Therefore, I suggest that we vote for it.

Mr. KRAMER. Mr. Speaker, I venture to say that I have probably traveled faster than any member of this House, under my own volition. I was a carrier pilot in the United States Navy during the war and I traveled in fighter planes well up to 350 and 400 miles an hour, and I loved it. I love speed up in the air where there is nobody around.

I want to tell you, I have been challenged by somebody, a personal challenge, to speak and show the courage of my convictions and I am going to do that.

I travel roads in Pennsylvania. I travel in my car, I travel with my wife and six children, and I want to tell you that I get scared, I get very scared on our highways when I am traveling along and have someone pass me at 70 or 80 miles an hour. I want to stop it, because I do not want him ramming into my car and killing my children.

I went so far, Mr. Speaker, as to spend an extra $30 when I purchased my car to get a little device on there which tells me that I am going faster than the speed I have set on my speedometer. That is what I think of it. I will admit to anybody that I have exceeded the speed limits and, if I do that and get caught, then I ought to pay the penalty. You will find no one in this House more interested than I in the inequities that have been complained about on the floor of this House on suspensions, and I will back anybody in that fight.

What is the problem here? If there is a problem at all, it apparently is in the speed that this very House sets. Is 50 miles an hour too slow? Then this House has a right to raise it if it thinks that is too low. So, apparently, what the opponents of this bill are afraid of is getting caught. I say that anybody who speeds over the speed limits that we set should be caught.

The accuracy of radar has been brought up in this debate and I want to tell you this: I personally do not know how accurate this particular unit is that Pennsylvania proposes using, but I know from my experience that I would get away from the carrier some three or four hundred miles out over the ocean, with no landmarks, and radar brought me back. I will tell you this, I have bombed ships and installations with the use of radar miles away, not an eighth of a mile, or a half mile or a mile away. It was pretty accurate then and it saved a lot of our boys' lives.

Mr. Speaker, I say this is a good bill and I am in favor of it and I hope that all my colleagues on both sides of the aisle will vote for it.

Mr. HEAVEY. Mr. Speaker, I am going to vote for this bill because I figure it is a deterrent on speeders and speeders are no good for the safety of people on the highway.

His Excellency, the Governor, is very much in favor of this bill, and I feel that he is trying to do a wonderful job for this Commonwealth.

I would hate to see votes against this bill today, such votes as Mr. Williams who says that he has not seen the machine in operation. I would like to make a motion that we postpone action on this bill until every member of this House has seen a demonstration.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams, rise?

Mr. A.D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would happily second that motion.

The SPEAKER. No motion has been formally placed before the House.

Does any other member of the House desire to speak? Otherwise, the majority leader will close the debate.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Piper.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to comment on the remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny.

I believe he was speaking of a different type of radar. That which is in a ship is different from the type of radar that is being used on our highways today. I think there is a difference. I do not know that much about it.

I would also like to comment briefly on the amendments to this bill and the possible effect they may have. Specifically, I refer to the 5-mile tolerance amendment submitted yesterday by Mr. Sherman, the gentleman from Philadelphia.

In my opinion, while this amendment might have a beneficial effect to the motorists of this State, I feel it would weaken the basic structure of this bill by showing the courts of Pennsylvania that we, the legislature, had so little faith in what appears to be a primitive radar instrument that we had to make allowances for its accuracy.

I think we have with this amendment provided a serious loophole through which the whole purpose of the bill can now be circumvented. By admitting the need for a tolerance, or more accurately, an allowance for the accuracy of the radar unit, we are giving any appellant of a speeding citation the grounds on which any court in the State can sustain his appeal.

I am reminded that not too many years ago a similar allowance or tolerance provided the grounds for sustaining appeals from speeding convictions in my own county courts. At that time the Pennsylvania State Police used a speedometer certification form which proclaimed the tested speedometer of the State Police tracking car was accurate—and I quote—within a reasonable tolerance.

More than one speeder in Berks County appealed speeding citations and, when these appeals were heard by President Judge Warren K. Hess, he ruled that any allowance for any possible inaccuracy of a tested speedometer did not meet the letter of the law which cited that motorist on the basis of exceeding a pre-set speed limit. As a result of Judge Hess' rulings, the State Police have had to discard all of those old forms and have new certificates printed that showed the tested speedometer were accurate and needed no allowances for possible variations.

What we have done by adding this amendment is to provide a big loophole based on our lack of faith in the accuracy of radar—as we have seen it demonstrated. I do not feel we are accomplishing what we set out to do if we are going to enact a law that is not going to be effective.

I am not against radar as such, but are we sure our police will be using the most modern type of radar or an antiquated type? We have seen one type only. Should not other types be tried? I believe there are some types that take a picture of the speeding car. I believe the element of human error would enter into this picture by use of this type of radar with a needle showing the speed.

I am not casting any reflections on our State Police. They are the finest in the world and second to none.

It is a known fact that radar is not accurate in all cases. What about cars passing each other? Or a car passing a tractor-trailer rig? A test made by a public roads administrator indicates that traffic densities exceeding 1,000 cars per hour on multi-lane highways do not provide enough spacing between vehicles to make positive identification at all speeds. That would indicate to me that radar can only be used on open highways or on straightaways where there are not too many cars traveling at one time.

John S. Parker, an engineer associated with technical development of vehicle traffic penal systems since 1933, explains that with the transmitter-receiver located at the side of the road, cars in the nearest lanes can sometimes obscure cars in lanes further away, which would cause an unjust arrest. Also, cars going in the opposite direction passing at the same time may cause an unjust arrest.

On the Garden State Parkway in New Jersey officials maintain that speed is not necessarily a primary cause of accidents. It might contribute to the severity of these accidents.

Of the 16,280 motorists arrested last year, only 6,722, or a little more than 40 percent, were arrested for speeding. Most of the violators were stopped for weaving in and out or otherwise obstructing traffic.

Now the patrol cars are equipped with radar, but the officials contend that once a motorist is caught in or has passed a radar trap he is inclined to drive faster than he normally would even to the point of exceeding the speed limit.

I believe that this feature certainly helps to deter accidents and the resultant injuries and deaths. Also, I believe that the appearance of more police on our highways will help.

New Jersey Turnpike uses radar, but it has not reduced accidents. I have here a clipping from a newspaper that was just recently dated, April 11th, in which it says driving too close behind the cars ahead caused the accident. Twenty-two cars piled up at one time on the New Jersey Turnpike.

We should encourage more realistic speed limits, which I believe would make more respect for traffic regulations generally and facilitate stricter enforcement of speed laws.

Radar is not the answer. It is usually set up on a straightaway, in a dip, or in a place reasonably straightaway. This does not curb the driver who follows the car in front too closely, or who fails to be careful at an intersection, or a driver who cuts in and out of traffic, or a slow driver, or a drunken driver. We should probably set minimum speed limits regulating both the top and minimum speeds to reasonable and realistic limits as the key to the smooth flow that would provide safety as well as maximum use of our highways.

I would like to quote from an article where New York State has been conducting tests increasing their speed limits, and this is dated February 8, by Motor Vehicles Commissioner William S. Foucks: "They have raised the speed limits on 100 state highways so far. These realistic speed limits will contribute to highway safety by increasing the motorist's respect for traffic regulations generally and by facilitating stricter enforcement of speed laws.

"At the same time the program assures New York State motorists that the posted speed is the maximum safe speed under normal driving conditions. The State Traffic Commission's program, which is based on studies begun in 1959 by engineers under the direction of Lloyd A. Madar, Director of the Division of Traffic Engineering for the Department of Motor Vehicles, so far has accomplished 145 of the existing 1,200 state highway zones which are posted at less than the standard 50 miles per hour. In 61 of these zones, which vary in length, the limit has been raised by five miles per hour; in 25 it has been increased by 10; in 11 the boost has been 15; and in three the limit has been upped by 20 miles per hour. From the study it is also evident that existing limits should be retained on the other 45. There were no speed limit reductions. Signs indicating the new speed limits already have been installed in 46 zones, and others will follow, which would indicate that we should use radar, use it to test these roads, find out how fast the roads are capable of allowing drivers to travel on them, and then enforce the law."

Thank you.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I will be very brief, because I observe Mr. McCann is impatient there, as though a new baby were about to be born.

I believe that maybe a new baby, radar legislation, will be born in Pennsylvania through our votes in this House today.

It is a pleasure to see the members on both sides of the House debating an issue with such sincere arguments on both sides. I would be greatly gratified if in some other measures we would have the same type of debate. I hope this is not considered a Democratic measure nor a Republican measure. If there are some defections on the side of the Democrats, I hope that there are enough people who believe in highway safety on our side to make up those defections.

The SPEAKER. The Chair, with the understanding that the majority leader is to close the debate, now recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the membership of this House and I thank you for the opportunity you gave each person to discuss this bill, even though many of them went far astray of Senate bill 79.

The proponents of the bill have spoken in behalf of the bill; the opponents, who questioned certain things, have stated their reasons for opposing. I ask that you vote on this bill on the merits of the legislation, not for any other reason.

I, therefore, at this point see no further advantage in debating and I ask for a roll call and I urge the membership to vote "aye."

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. HOLMAN filed the following reasons for his vote on Senate bill No. 79.

Mr. Speaker, I submit herewith my reasons for voting against Senate bill No. 79, commonly referred to as the Radar Bill.

First, the reports of experts, as well as the State police tests conducted under the most rigidly controlled circumstances, have shown that highway radar has not progressed to the point where its accuracy is indisputable; therefore, to permit its use as legal evidence will deny to the victims of any such inaccuracy, the right to a defense. For such legislation will impose on many people criminal liability without fault. Mr. Speaker, to impose criminal liability without fault on any person is unforgivable.

Second, to operate highway radar requires at least three, and usually four, State Troopers, plus at least two cruisers. There are at the present time less than 900 state troopers patrolling 41,000 miles of highway in our Commonwealth. To legalize such a device as is before us today would remove more men and equipment from highway patrol. Is this wise? Do we need more troopers on the highway enforcing all motor vehicle laws?

Third, realistic speed laws—adequately enforced—are what the Commonwealth needs, not radar.

Mr. Speaker, I am not an opponent of highway safety. I have just concluded that radar is not what this Commonwealth needs and will not promote safety on the highways.

(During Roll Call on Senate bill No. 79:)

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I know that nothing is in order but a roll call, but I insist that every member sitting in his seat answer to his name or vote by the mechanism.

The SPEAKER. Such is the rule of the House. Every member present in the hall of the House votes on the pending measures as they come and go.

The Chair, of course, cannot spot the places where there are members, but, where there is no record on the board, that is a matter for the respective whips of the House, to see that all the members on the respective sides vote.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to compliment the members of the House. The debate and the decorum today was in keeping with the best of all possible parliamentary traditions. You can actually be proud of yourselves. The debate today would have been a credit to the members serving us at Washington on the floor of the national House of Representatives. We do not say that by way of flattery; we say it as a matter of fact.

The Chair requests the gentleman from Armstrong to preside.

Mr. HELM IN THE CHAIR

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I request permission to call up Senate bill 104, printer's No. 483.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I regret to say that as hard as we worked in caucus to try to get the bills so we could do business here today, we took 79 because it was on the final passage calendar, but we did not go back to the last page and take 104. I did not realize you wanted to run it today. We have not caucused on it and, if there is no objection on our side of the House, I do not object to rolling it, but we have a firm rule that we do not roll bills that we have not caucused on.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 278, entitled:

An Act amending "The Borough Code" approved May 4, 1927 (P. L. 519) authorizing the reassessment of certain property and imposing liability for borough taxes upon the owners thereof.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the majority leader one question.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, this bill gives the boroughs of Pennsylvania certain powers. Is it intended to have a bill come out of committee that gives the townships the same power?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will try to answer that. Where we try to do one thing in one code, we try to do it in the other so it will be uniform, the first class, second class, boroughs and cities.

It is up to the committee, but I would hope that they would follow and keep it uniform in that manner.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 323, entitled:

An Act amending "The Fourth to Eighth Class County Assessment Law" approved May 21, 1943 (P. L. 571) specifically exempting from taxation all property used for limited access highways.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will one of the sponsors of the bill permit himself to be interrogated? Will the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Horst, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HORST. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman explain to this House the purpose of this bill?

Mr. HORST. Mr. Speaker, in our State we have township roads, county roads, superhighways, and now we are going to have limited access highways. In Cumberland Valley they are building a limited access highway from the Mason-Dixon line through to Harrisburg. Eventually it will go on parallel to US 11. They took three farms which have about 12½ acres of land. These farms lose the use of this land for a limited access highway. Under the present law, all roads, township, and highways are measured in, and taken out of the party's farm, and taxed. Along this limited access highway you dare not build, or have any selling frontage on it. Therefore, the people who lost this 10 or 12 acres of land went to the commissioners and they discovered in the county code there was no provision where they could be tax exempt for this land used for limited access highways. The solicitor from Franklin County and several farmers approached me about it and that is why this bill was presented.

Mr. GAILEY. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, it seems to me however, that this bill would have a more far-reaching purpose than perhaps the purpose for which the gentleman from Franklin intends. I think this bill would force county commissioners to remove from the tax rolls any land which the State presently has an easement over for highway purposes.

As we all know, in many cases, the owners of the land have a use for it. In other words, they can grow crops on it, they can farm it, if it is still productive. Under these circumstances it seems to me that this land should be taxed.

The second argument that I would level against this is that you do have a right of recourse to your board of assessment for the revision of taxes in your county when the value of land has been diminished. If the value of the land is diminished because of some easement or rights over it asserted by either State or local governments, the county commissioners probably can be forced to make the change in the assessment.

I suggest to the members, therefore, while it may be helpful, the purpose that the gentleman has eluded to would be very limited and generally harmful for our State, and I ask all members on both sides of the House to vote against it.

Mr. HORST. Mr. Speaker, I am not a lawyer, I am a farmer and a businessman and a merchant. When this bill was presented, this proposition was presented and I did some inquiring.

I agree with the gentleman, the bill originally was to exempt all highways. I had the bill amended to exempt only limited access highways. On a regular highway, I or anyone else owning land along that highway can sell frontage, but on a limited access highway, which is something that has just started in this State in the past few years, I am not allowed to sell any land, any frontage, on that highway and I have no right of egress or regress along said highway. They come to your land, take a width of 100 or 200 feet or take out a cloverleaf. That land is gone as long as it is used for a limited access highway. Therefore I say that those people owning that land should be tax exempt, period.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to belabor the point. I know we all want to finish up here and go home, but I suggest that the gentleman is mistaken in what he thinks the impact of this will be. The owner does have the right of recourse through the county commissioner's office and the reassessment of this land, and I suggest once again, that despite the fact it is limited to limited access highways it is still bad legislation.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Horst.

Mr. HORST. Mr. Speaker, I am not here to disagree with the eminent lawyer from York. I am only here trying to point out that the land and roads being occupied by limited access highways, which have gone out of cultivation—if I own a barn and house along this road, the State builds me a road to the nearest macadamized highway but if I sell a piece of land along this road I, or the person who buys it, has to build his own road to the nearest macadam or nearest township road. This road is only tax exempt once it is being used and occupied for a highway. If it is staked off and not put in use it does not go out of taxation. As for the valuation of the farm, that is another proposition. I am only asking, under this bill, take out the X amount of acres of ground which is occupied by a limited access highway from tax purposes. If he takes 5, 10, 15, 20, or however many acres off your farm or my farm or anyone else's farm in this Commonwealth, I say that should be tax free for a limited access highway.

While I am on the subject, so no one gets anything started, myself or any of my family have no limited access highways going to any of the farms at the present time. This is just to get the record straight.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey, has a misunderstanding concerning this bill.

I understood him to say, and I may be incorrect, but I thought he said that in some instances these people still had the right to use the land and therefore it should be taxed. This bill says that the limited access highway must actually be installed; in other words, the land used for the highway. It seems to me that it is a very reasonable thing to exempt that land from taxation. I also believe that it is technical correction to the tax assessment law because the county solicitor has ruled in that county that it cannot be taken off because there is no authority. I ask the members to vote for the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The PRESIDENT. Would the members of Boy Scout Troop No. 51 please rise?

The Chair presents Troop No. 51, of Williamsport, to the Senate of Pennsylvania. We are very glad to have you with us. We hope that some day you will have an ambition to join the ranks of the Members of the Senate right on the Senate floor, by being elected to that august office.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. CONFAIR asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. CONFAIR. Mr. President, rather than wait for the bill which I am about to introduce to be reported from committee, I think I should say something now about it.

This bill is intended to eliminate something in government which we do not need and something which, recently, has not done anything for us, namely, the Boxing Commission. This bill recommends that the powers of the present Boxing Commission be eliminated and one commissioner be placed in the Department of State.

There are quite a few reasons why this Commission should be eliminated. Right after the first World War, when there was plenty of boxing in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and throughout the United States, this Commission was a profitable Commission and made plenty of money. It made so much money that it paid for markers to be put on the graves of those who were killed in Europe, after World War I. However, Mr. President, recently, boxing has fallen off throughout the Country and, especially, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Therefore, that is why I ask that this Commission be eliminated.

I would like to show you what has happened to this Commission financially. By the way, I had a difficult time in finding out about this Commission, financially. It seems that the Athletic Commission makes no financial reports. Even the Auditor General did not have a report on this. This, however, was not his fault because we did not require a report. During the last biennium, 1959-1960, the total expenditure for this Commission was $123,381.33. However, think of it, Mr. President; they only took in $74,658.07, leaving an operating loss of $53,723.

I would like to point out one section in particular, and that is Scranton. Remember, they have a Commissioner in Scranton to whom we pay $7,000, in addition to an office and office expenses. The total income for the Scranton location was $1,541.63. For the biennium, it was $5,007.36, to have a Commissioner and an office operating such as that.

As to the number of fights, in Pittsburgh we had 298 shows in two years; in Philadelphia, we had 194 shows in two years; in Scranton, we had 67 shows or 41 in 1959 and 26 in 1960. There is one unusual thing about all these shows which they have been holding. It depends on what kind of shows they have been having. For instance, in so far as professional boxing is concerned in Pennsylvania, they only had 55 professional boxing shows, 142 wrestling shows, and 55 amateur boxing shows.

I do not believe we should have a Commission to take care of professional wrestling. They advertise it as exhibitions. It is a fraud and, therefore, why should we hire a Commission to take care of a fraud? I say we should entirely eliminate it. As for amateur boxing, we do not need a Boxing Commission. We have the Amateur Athletic Union which takes care of amateur boxing.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am about to present this bill to eliminate this Commission which I think is unnecessary. We are going to need millions of dollars for education, and I really believe that we should save this money and apply it toward education rather than give it to a wasteful Boxing Commission.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MAHADY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, I do not want to be impetuous, but time is of the essence. The owners of the various professional football clubs are gathered together in California. They will decide tomorrow where the National Football Hall of Fame will be located. It is now narrowed down between two contestants, Canton, Ohio and Latrobe, Pennsylvania.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am offering this resolution and ask for its immediate adoption.

SENATE RESOLUTION

URGING THE LOCATION OF THE PROFESSIONAL FOOTBALL HALL OF FAME IN LATROBE, PENNSYLVANIA

Mr. MAHADY, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 46), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, April 24, 1961.

At the 1961 Spring Meeting of the National Football League, being held in San Francisco, the location of the Professional Football Hall of Fame is scheduled to be determined.

We, in Pennsylvania, feel that the proper location for the Professional Football Hall of Fame is Latrobe, Pennsylvania. It was in Latrobe, on September 3, 1895, that the first man received payment for playing football, and by 1897 all of the players on the Latrobe team were being paid. Continuously since that time Pennsylvania has been outstanding for its professional football teams and individual players; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate, on behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, hereby extends an invitation to the National Football League owners to recognize Latrobe, Pennsylvania, as the home of Professional Football, by approving it as the site for the Professional Football Hall of Fame; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Mr. Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers Football Club, 139 Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, to be submitted by him to the National Football League owners, in order to make known to them the invitation hereby extended for location of the Professional Football Hall of Fame in Latrobe, Pennsylvania.

SENATE RESOLUTION

TRIBUTE TO THE BUCKTAIL REGIMENT OF THE 13th PENNSYLVANIA RESERVE CORPS — CIVIL WAR

Messrs. BERGER, STEVENSON and STIEFEL offered the following resolution (Serial No. 47), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, April 24, 1961.

WHEREAS, On April 17, 1861, Thomas L. Kane, of Smethport, McKean County, Pennsylvania, issued a call by authority of Governor Curtin for volunteer rifles and marksmen "prepared to take up arms immediately, to support the Constitution of the United States and defend the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania;" and

WHEREAS, James Landregan, while lounging in front of the Smethport headquarters, spied a deer hide hanging outside the butcher shop across the street. Noticing that the tail was somewhat larger than the average he cut it off and stuck it in his hat, little dreaming that he was about to give an entire regiment its distinctive insignia. Thomas Kane thought that there could not be a more appropriate name for an outfit from the mountains of Northern Pennsylvania since deer abounded upon every hillside. Kane decided immediately that it would be the "Bucktails," and

WHEREAS, Volunteers from McKean, Elk and Cameron Counties responded and converged upon the town of Driftwood, Cameron County, Pennsylvania, from where, on April 27, 1861, the Cameron County Rifles under the Command of John A. Eldred, afterwards Company "C" Bucktails, mustered in June 1, 1861, mustered out June 11, 1864; the Elk County Rifles under the Command of Captain Thomas B. Winslow, afterwards Company "G" Bucktails, mustered in May 29, 1861, mustered out June 11, 1864; and the McKean County Rifles under the Command of Captain William T. Blanchard, afterwards Company "I" Bucktails, mustered in May 30, 1861, mustered out June 11, 1864; all under the leadership of Thomas L. Kane, afterwards Commanding Officer of the Regiment and later a Major General, embarked upon four rafts for Harrisburg, where they were mustered into service of the State and formed the nucleus about which the Bucktail Regiment of the 13th Pennsylvania Reserve Corps, the 42nd Pennsylvania Volunteers was organized, which, during the term of service, was almost continuously attached to the Army of the Potomac.

During their service, they participated and were engaged in the following campaigns and battles: Danesville, Mechanicsville, Gaines Mills, New Market Cross Roads, Malvern Hill, Harrisonburg, Cross Keys, Catlett's Station, Groveton, Second Bull Run, South Mountain, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Gettysburg, Wilderness, Spottsylvania Court House, North Anna and Bethesda Church; and

WHEREAS, On April 27, 1903, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania caused to be erected at Driftwood an appropriate monument to the valor and glory of this patriotic regiment; and

WHEREAS, The Historical Societies of McKean, Elk and Cameron Counties are meeting at Driftwood on April 27, 1961, to mark the centennial of the departure of this colorful outfit for enlistment in the service of their country; and

WHEREAS, On May 30, 1961, the present Veterans' Organizations of McKean, Elk and Cameron Counties, together with descendants of this famous Regiment, will gather at the Bucktail Monument at Driftwood to commemorate the centennial of the departure of these volunteer rifles and marksmen for the war between the States; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pays tribute to these valiant men who constituted the volunteer rifles and marksmen who became known as the "Bucktails"; and be it further

RESOLVED, That we commend the Historical Societies of McKean, Elk and Cameron Counties, and the Veterans' Organizations of said Counties, for commemorating this centennial event, and for carrying on the spirit, the courage, the faith and the patriotism of such worthy and hardy men; and be it further

RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be sent to the Historical Societies of McKean, Elk and Cameron Counties.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, before putting the question, I know there are several Senators who would desire to become cosponsors of this resolution. I ask that you permit them to step to the desk and affix their names.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair will be very happy to have any of the gentlemen step forward.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I hope Senator Stiefel heard that because I am sure he might like to do so.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair would expect Senator Stiefel to be in the foreground.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, am I to say a word about this resolution?

The PRESIDENT. We would like to have your name on the resolution, Senator.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I will add my name at any time. What the Senator just did is something which has been delayed for a long time because Pennsylvania was overly slow in joining other States in preparing for the Centennial of the Civil War. Time is running out.

Senator Berger deserves all the commendations for taking this initial step. Therefore, I will add my name to anything which has to do with the celebration of the Centennial.

Mr. BERGER. Thank you, Senator.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The resolution was adopted.

FINAL PASSAGE CALENDAR

HB 70—Upon motion of Mr. WEINER, seconded by Mr. LANE, and agreed to, the bill was rereferred to the Committee on State Government.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

SB 491—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, the other day when we were discussing this bill, there were two questions raised. One question was that there was a letter of opinion, issued by the Attorney General, stating that this bill was constitutional.

I have in my hand a memorandum from Raymond C. Miller, Deputy Attorney General of the Department of Justice. I will not read the whole thing. However, the last sentence sums it all up. It says: "This bill is in proper form." It does not pass on its constitutionality nor does it go into it.

I also draw your attention to the fact that people have said to me: "I will vote for this bill merely because it enables many municipalities to finance needed municipal projects on which they are now forced to use Authority methods because of their valuation being based on valuations less than the market value as the standard. It might also help school districts," they said.

Mr. President, I draw your attention to the fact that we stand in front of a mural painting which says: "Let us raise a standard to which wise and honest men can repair." This faces us each and every day of the week.

I was faced, when I was a freshman in college, with Taussig's two volumes of Elementary Economics, and I wondered why it was two volumes when most of the others were but one. In that book, he dedicated nine chapters to "the problem of the standard." Summing up those nine chapters, he said that without a standard, a man is like a ship without a rudder. Without a Constitution and constitutional provisions, which are followed by all those sworn servants of the Constitution, whether they live under it or whether they legislate under it, we would be a ship without a rudder.

I say to you that this day, if we pass this bill, we have crossed the Rubicon. What is the Rubicon? We have heard of it through the centuries. It is analogous to the Constitution, which is a piece of paper. If you go to Europe, you will see that the river Rubicon would be called a brook in Pennsylvania. That which stands out, stood out and has been quoted for centuries, is a mere little brook. Yet, it is an outstanding symbol.

The guide will tell you the story that when Caesar stood at this little brook, called the Rubicon, it was as a mighty river and it moved on in history as a mighty river because the laws of Italy of that day, which then had the name of Rome, stated that anyone who crossed that brook carrying arms was an enemy of the state. On the mere crossing of that river, when Caesar stood on its shores, in fear and trepidation as to whether his decision was a good one, they tell the following fable:

There came and appeared a character—a shade, if you would use the words of the poet—"of fine mien"; a man very distinct and beautiful, who was playing a flute which made music. All of a sudden, the Nervii trumpeter came up. He grabbed a trumpet, blew it, and crossed the river. Caesar said, "It is done; the die is cast," and followed. What did the crossing the river mean? It meant the fall of the greatest republic the world had ever known up to that time. It was followed by a thousand years, plus a half a thousand years, in which there was nothing but monarchy and dictatorship.

That is the same thing you are doing when you flaunt the Constitution. You are crossing the Rubicon, and you are saying to our children's children: "We shall have what Rome had and what Caesar began. Caesar followed the ghost of the shade."

What shade or ghost do we now follow? Where are we going? I do not know what shade we are following today. What pulls us on? When they say, "We need it," if need is the criteria, then constitutions will be scraped. We do not need any. All we need is legislation. That is the type of decision you are making here today, which is a pragmatic one. The need is here and we are going to do it anyhow, even if we know better. The rule of law has now passed. Take down Washington's mural and erect one to expediency.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I certainly did enjoy the learned gentleman's speech. However, I think all of us must be very practical, especially when it comes to the enactment of legislation here in the Senate of Pennsylvania.

I think, Mr. President, that we Members of the Senate are really on solid ground since the Attorney General of Pennsylvania reviewed this legislation and gave us an opinion. In my opinion, as a layman, I think this legislation is constitutional. I think it is a great forward step for the political subdivisions of Pennsylvania. I believe by the passage of Senate Bill No. 491, the political subdivisions and county governments will have the opportunity to operate properly without using the Authority device, which has been abused over the years.

I believe that almost every Member of this Senate will agree with me that all we are doing here is trying to help the political subdivisions to do a proper job of financing.

Actually, Mr. President, what brought about the drafting of Senate Bill No. 491 was our problem with Senate Bill No. 88, whereby we are trying to consolidate the Institution Districts with the General Fund as a matter of efficiency and economy. We were confronted with the borrowing capacity of the General Fund in conjunction with the borrowing capacity of the Institution Districts. Very frankly, I believe that every member of the Local Government Commission was just about ready to give up because we realized that county governments would lose that two percent borrowing capacity which they have at the present time under the provisions of the General Fund duplicate.

However, after going into detail with reference to this constitutional provision, the Bureau of Municipal Affairs did a considerable amount of research with reference to this particular problem. Mr. Bullis, who represents the bureau, talked with the Attorney General and secured the opinion. Now the gentleman from Westmoreland feels this is not an opinion. However, the Attorney General did say that it was in proper form. I feel quite confident that if she thought for one moment that we were doing anything unconstitutional, she would certainly have let us know.

Therefore, Mr. President, I believe that the Members of the Senate should support Senate Bill No. 491, Printer's No. 536. It is not political in any sense of the word. I do believe, Mr. President, that it will be a step in the right direction because it will give us the opportunity to bring about a great economy throughout the sixty-six counties of Pennsylvania by eliminating these duplicate budgets which are so unnecessary in this particular day and age.

All this legislation does is change the feature from assessed value to market value. In most cases, that will give county governments and political subdivisions a borrowing capacity of approximately three or four times their present borrowing needs.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I have been very much disturbed concerning House Bill No. 491. Although I am in favor of the spirit of it, and I recognize the very vital need to change this provision in the Constitution by a legislative act, I cannot possibly bring myself to find any criteria, whatsoever, which would establish it as being fit and proper and within constitutional provisions, whereby this Legislature can step around Article IX, Section 8, of the Constitution, within the purview of its own responsibilities to its citizens. I think the only way in which this particular section of the Constitution can be altered is by amendment to the Constitution.

Therefore, Mr. President, I believe that if this Legislature should enact this bill, it will enact a law which is unconstitutional.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I back up my colleague, Senator Stroup, in this debate. In the Constitution, we have a debt limitation which is based on assessed valuation. I believe it was only two years ago that we went to the people, with a vote on a constitutional amendment, asking them to raise the debt limitation. They did not approve of this as a constitutional amendment. Thus, we are trying to do by an end-run what we could not do face-on. We are trying to rephrase the meaning of the words "assessed valuation" to mean "market value." This is opening the door and, perhaps, the next step will be to levy taxes on market value.

Mr. President, I do not concur with the Attorney General's interpretation of what is constitutional and what is not constitutional. Her interpretation is not binding on this Senate. For that reason, I ask that we search deeply into our thinking and vote on this matter on the merits of the bill and not on what the Attorney General said. Therefore, Mr. President, I urge everyone to vote against this bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, not having answered to my name, I desire to be recorded as voting "aye".

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

THIRD READING CALENDAR

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 63—Read at length the third time and agreed to,
On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I think this bill has a very desirable purpose and a very desirable end. It deals with some very unfortunate people. I think if these people require additional funds to be properly and adequately supported, we should, by increasing present veterans' benefits, pensions and so on, make it possible for them to have an adequate living. However, I think the means used here—namely, to exempt, by constitutional amendment, certain people from personal property taxation—is a step which would, it seems to me, be doing a disservice to the local communities of this Commonwealth and to the home rule, in which we all believe or, at least, give lip service.

In other words, Mr. President, I think it would be a very poor precedent. For that reason, I am persuaded to vote "no" on this bill, even though, as I said, I think the end is very desirable and I would cheerfully support any legislation which would increase benefits to the unfortunate people who are mentioned in the current bill.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 197—Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 197 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, might I point out to the gentleman that this is a Senate Bill and there is an appropriation in it. It deals with migratory labor. If there is an amendment desired to this bill, I will have no objection if it is offered on Third Reading. However, I believe we must permit the school districts to know that there is some money to hire teachers and to prepare for a summer session which will begin sometime about May 1, 1961. As we are heading toward the end of April, I think they should, at least, know the intention of the Legislature to support this measure.

Therefore, Mr. President, if the gentleman has no objection, I respectfully ask that this measure be moved up to Third Reading and we can amend it at that time.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I very much dislike to refuse to accede to the courteous request made by the Majority Leader. This is the first time this has appeared on the Calendar. Certain amendments are indicated to this bill and, as one of the sponsors, I feel that I could ask to have it go over in order for the amendments which I desire to put in, which I have done.

In so far as the necessity of commencing this May 1, Mr. President, under the present law I believe these children can enter school. I am also quite certain there are not going to be very many of them around on May 1. There may be some who will appear somewhere around that end of May, but as of right now there is no urgency for this bill at all.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I do not want to get into a debate on this matter, but I think we should, as expeditiously as possible, move this measure. I would appreciate it if the amendments could be put in this week so we can act on this measure in order to move it along.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

BILL OVER IN ORDER TEMPORARILY

SB 432—The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 432 be recommitted to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, I object to having this bill go back to committee. It seems to me that it is a very important measure for getting employment and keeping business in Pennsylvania. I do not have any objection to the bill going over in order for today, but I do not like to see it going back to committee.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I made my motion and Senator Lane seconded the motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It has been duly moved by Senator Weiner, and seconded by Senator Lane, that Senate Bill No. 432, Printer's No. 467, be recommitted to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I rise to object to this bill being recommitted to the Committee on Highways. It is a very fine piece of legislation to improve the economy of our Commonwealth. In the areas which I represent, we have hundreds and hundreds of employees who are employed by interstate carriers that have relay systems which have large payrolls who need this type of legislation very much to improve the economy of our section of Pennsylvania. It also is valuable to other sections of the Commonwealth. I know I should not debate the merits of the bill, but I do want to say that I cannot understand why it should be recommitted. I think it should go over in order, thereby giving everybody an opportunity to study the bill thoroughly and raise their objections to it. The bill, in itself, makes a substantial change and improvement in the Motor Vehicle Code.

Therefore, Mr. President, I ask all of my colleagues on this side of the Senate, and those who are in favor of the bill on the other side of the Senate, to vote against the recommitment.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may we be at ease?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.
(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I want to state for the record that this bill is not being sent back to committee in order to kill it, but merely to iron out the problems and differences that exist in this measure and which cannot be done on the floor of the Senate.

There are numerous amendments and problems connected with this matter and I believe, in all fairness, it should be recommitted in order to have those problems ironed out in committee.

Therefore, Mr. President, I again make the motion that the bill be recommitted.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, we have been informed and are satisfied with the statement of the Majority Leader that this bill will not be permanently buried in committee, but will again appear. Consequently, I believe we will withdraw the objection to it being recommitted. Am I correct, Senator Weiner?

Mr. WEINER. You are correct, Senator Berger.

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, do I understand that Senator Weiner is saying that this bill will come out of committee with various amendments?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, desire to answer the question?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I will answer the question directly by saying that this bill is going back to committee so that the problems involved can be ironed out in committee. I believe that should happen as expeditiously as possible. Even though I am not a member of that committee, when that happens, I will be glad to go into this matter further.

Mr. KESSLER. Thank you.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, my understanding of the Majority Leader's statement is to the effect that the bill will be sent back to committee. However, I was guaranteed that it would be brought out of committee again. Now from the statement which he made on the floor, I have no assurance of that situation. I merely know that it will go to committee and it may stay there forever.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I am not a Member of the Highways Committee. However, I will be very happy to discuss this matter with the people who are confronted with the problems which are involved in it. I am sure that the people on the Highways Committee will bring this measure out of committee, once these problems are ironed out. I will assure the gentleman that once the committee sits down and discusses these problems and gets them into line, we will get this bill back on the Calendar.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, does the gentleman speak for Senator Rooney, who is absent from the Senate today? Mr. WEINER. No, Mr. President. I would not speak for Senator Rooney or any other Senator here. I think they are all capable of doing that for themselves.

Mr. PECHAN. Then, Mr. President, I would suggest that the bill go over in order and we wait until Senator Rooney is here. The bill is not that important. Since the Majority Leader cannot speak for Senator Rooney, I would suggest that the bill go over in order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. I heard the Minority Leader state that all objections were withdrawn. I could be wrong, however.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I cannot withdraw the objections which were made by Senator Kessler and Senator Stroup.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I request a roll call.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may the Senate be at ease for a few moments?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.
(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I withdraw my motion to recommit Senate Bill No. 432.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I withdraw my second to the motion.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order temporarily at the request of Mr. WEINER.

SENATE RESOLUTION, SERIAL NO. 17, CALLED UP

Mr. WEINER, without objection, called up from page 17 of the Calendar, Senate Resolution, Serial No. 17, entitled:

Commending Secretary of Highways Park H. Martin.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that Senate Resolution, Serial No. 17, be recommitted to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All those in favor, please give their consent by saying "aye."

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, in connection with Senate Resolution, Serial No. 17, I wish to be recorded as voting "no." Senator Rooney is not here in this Chamber. In deference to his position on the matter, as one of the authors of this resolution, I feel this action should be postponed.

I hope the Majority Leader will reconsider the situation.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, having deferred to my colleagues on the other side, I can do no less than defer to my colleagues on this side. I withdraw my motion that the resolution go back to committee, and ask that it remain on the Calendar.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I have no feeling whatsoever in the matter, although I voted in favor of the resolution being recommitted. However, I do wish to point out to the Chair that a vote was taken.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair did not announce the result, sir.

Mr. BERGER. Very well, then.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair did not announce the result, sir.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, may I respectfully ask that the reporter read back the record? I believe you did announce that the motion was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair asked all in favor to please say "aye," and Senator Stiefel interposed. You may read the record back.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, will state it.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may I point out to the present speaker, the gentleman from Allegheny County, that it is already past the hour of 6:00 o'clock, and I am sure he does not want me to take up valuable time on this important measure. I know there is other pressing business and I certainly do not want to keep anybody from that.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, may I appeal to the Majority Leader to withdraw this motion until tomorrow? There are certain basic principles which have always been underlying courtesies of the Senate, and I do not want those courtesies to be trampled. So as not to prolong the debate and give everybody a chance to pursue their gastronomical choices, I would appreciate it if this resolution would go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Let the Chair dispose of one thing. The Chair announced that the vote was not taken. Do you agree with me, Senator Fleming? Are you willing to drop your objection?

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, if we could settle it, I do not care one way or the other what you do with it. I would like the reporter to read exactly what the Chair said from the rostrum, if you will permit her. It will only take a second.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, in this Senate, as you know, we have a flexibility of rules on many occasions. Of course, I do not know just what the Chair said. However, in deference to my good friend, Senator Stiefel, otherwise known as the Jim Farley of the Senate, I feel we should respect his wishes since he is a cosponsor of this resolution.

Senator Stiefel, I know very well that you would never cosponsor any legislation unless it was important. Therefore, I am going to withdraw my second to the motion to recommit this resolution. I feel, gentlemen, in deference to Senator Stiefel, we should not argue about it. We will let Senator Stiefel look at it tomorrow, and probably we will recommit it tomorrow sometime.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, Senator Fleming has made a request that the record be read back. My recollection is that he is entirely correct. However, if Senator Weiner will move that the vote by which the motion passed be reconsidered, I will second the motion.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I so move.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Of course, you understand the Chair has already announced that there was no vote. The Chair is going to stick to that. There was no vote.

To keep the record straight, the Chair is going to rule you both out of order.

The Chair will now recognize Senator Weiner to withdraw his motion.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe that I moved that the motion be withdrawn.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It has been duly moved by Senator Weiner, and seconded by Senator Lane, that the motion to recommit this bill be withdrawn. All in favor, signify by saying "aye," and all opposed—

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I do not believe that was Senator Weiner's motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Yes, it was.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, it being late in the day and I do not have an opportunity to send for counsel, if the Gordian knot will become unknotted by my withdrawing the motion, I will do so. I believe Senator Lane has already withdrawn his second, whether I withdraw my motion or not. Therefore, I believe there is no longer a motion before you. It would mean a motion without a second. Not having a second, I withdraw my motion. I believe that ends this matter.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator Weiner, having moved that the motion to recommit be withdrawn, and Senator Lane, having withdrawn his second to the motion, the matter is accordingly dispensed with. The matter is not before the Senate.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, the motion that was last before the Chair was the motion which was made and seconded. If you care to rule that motion out of order, then Senator Fleming has requested that the record be referred to on the previous motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. This is what Shakespeare must have had in mind when he wrote "Much Ado About Nothing."

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may we be at ease for a moment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease for a moment.

(The Senate was at ease.)

SENATE RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 17, OVER IN ORDER

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I am now asking that this Senate Resolution go over in order.

I may say, however, that the speed with which we proceed when the magic hour of 6:00 p. m. comes near is sometimes so devastating that you cannot get up on your feet to object. I am not interested in the gastronomical delights of Harrisburg. For this reason, I can stay here until 9:00 p. m. Therefore, if the gentleman of the Senate want to forego their gastronomical arrangements, I am always happy to debate the practice of speeding at the end of the day.

Mr. President, so as to make gastronomy supreme, let us be expedient and allow this measure to go over in order until tomorrow.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the resolution will go over in its order.

SB 432 CALLED UP

SB 432—Without objection, the bill, which previously went over in its order temporarily, was called up, from page 12 of the Second Reading Calendar, by Mr. BERGER.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 432—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the first reading of all bills reported from committees for the first time at today's session.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.
The motion was agreed to.
The bills were as follows:

SB 65, HB 681, 682, 683, 715, 716, 1200 and 1252.
And said bills having been read at length for the first time,

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. BONNER. RESOLUTION No. 58.

In the House of Representatives, April 20, 1961.

Recent discussion of possible relocation of the Eastern State Correctional Institution has caused consideration of areas available in which to situate the new correctional facilities.

Carbon County offers an area in which such facilities could well be located. It is in the east-central part of the Commonwealth, and has vacant land which could be used without interfering with any existing industries or established businesses.

Carbon County is a distressed area, and the establishment of the Eastern State Correctional Institution within its boundaries would offer employment to its residents in furnishing the material and services needed in building and maintaining the institution. It would locate in Carbon County an institution which would give jobs to the residents of the county in a function which is necessary, and obviate the necessity of pouring funds into the area for a dole or unnecessary activities; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the executive branch of the State government is requested to give consideration to the possibility of locating the Eastern State Correctional Institution in Carbon County when a relocation of the institution is effected; and, be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Honorable David L. Lawrence Governor of Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. McCANN, GAILEY and BOWER.

RESOLUTION No. 59.

In the House of Representatives, April 20, 1961.

Resolved, That the House of Representatives direct the Joint State Government Commission to make a thorough study of municipal and county pension systems. This study to include but shall not be limited to an investigation and study as to:

1. The adequacy of the municipal and county pension systems.
2. The actuarial soundness of these pension systems.
3. The cost and coverage of the administration of these systems.

And be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report the result of its studies and make recommendations to the first session of the 1962 General Assembly.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE ON PART OF THE HOUSE TO LEGISLATIVE COMMISSION ON SPACE ALLOCATION

The SPEAKER. ### HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 53

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House resolution No. 53.

The resolution was read by the clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 5, 1961.

A National Civil War Centennial Commission to which Pennsylvania belongs has been appointed to supervise the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of that war.

The Commission has planned to meet in session at Charleston, South Carolina. This meeting originated at the invitation of the South Carolina unit of the Commission.

A member of the National Commission, Mrs. Madeline A. Williams, also a member of the Commission's New Jersey unit, is a negro. She was informed by a hotel in Charleston, South Carolina, that if she arrived with the other members of the Commission for the Charleston meeting on April 11 and 12, she could not stay at that hotel, which is to be headquarters for the National Commission, nor could she eat at the hotel dining room with the other members.

One hundred years after the onset of the Civil War some of the conditions still exist which led to that historic struggle which cost the lives of thousands of white and negro soldiers.

Pennsylvanians gave their lives in the struggle to unify this country. Pennsylvania was the battleground for part of this great war and Pennsylvania must not now participate in any activity which negates the very purposes for which the men died from 1861 to 1865; therefore be it

Resolved, That this House of Representatives hereby condemns the action of the Charleston, South Carolina, hotel in refusing its accommodations to Mrs. Williams; and be it further

Resolved, That this House of Representatives hereby requests the members of the Pennsylvania Unit of the National Civil War Centennial Commission to refuse to participate in any activities of the National Civil War Centennial Commission which involves discrimination against any one of its members; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to the Honorable David L. Lawrence, Governor of Pennsylvania, to the National Civil War Centennial Commission and to the Pennsylvania unit of that Commission.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

The SPEAKER. Does the Chair understand that the minority does not desire action upon this resolution at the present time?

It was reported from the rules committee and the Chair placed it before the House, but, if there is objection upon the part of the minority leader, the action will be deferred and it will be found on the calendar tomorrow.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, that is what we would like to do, have the resolutions printed and have them appear on the calendar for our caucus.

The SPEAKER. These resolutions have no legislative intent.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. McCANN asked and obtained unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of a resolution reported from Committee.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 12, 1961.

Saturday night, March 25, 1961 the Nanticoke High School basketball team won the State Championship in the Farm Show Building in Harrisburg, by defeating the Hickory Township Basketball team of Mercer County. The final record of these two teams was: Nanticoke won 25 and lost but 1 game. Hickory Township won 25 games and lost only 2.

The enthusiastic welcome received by the Nanticoke players upon their return home testifies to the high esteem by which this team is held in their home town. The people of Pennsylvania are proud of this team. The team represents an enormous amount of effort and work put forth by the Coach Sylvester Bozinski and the members of the team who put out the great efforts that resulted in the championship of the State of Pennsylvania.

The City of Nanticoke and Luzerne County are justifiably proud of this team, and the State of Pennsylvania takes this method through the House of Representatives to commend the basketball team of Nanticoke, the Coach, Sylvester Bozinski, the Principal of Nanticoke High School, Anthony Diksa, the Superintendent of Schools, Joseph Siesko, and the good people of Nanticoke and Luzerne County.

The Hickory Township Basketball Team of Mercer County is also to be commended, together with Francis Webster, the head coach, for the spirit of splendid sportsmanship shown in the playoff for the championship of the State in Harrisburg. Hickory Township and Mercer County are to be congratulated on the splendid record of this team and the championship caliber it evidenced in the final playoff.

The records of these two do not entirely indicate the full meaning of this victory. Basketball has become one of the outstanding sports in this State. Each area of the State has entered the competition with consummate zeal and a will to win. As a consequence, more than half the teams faced by the winners were of championship caliber. These young men who participated in these games have received valuable experience in true sportsmanship and life's stern battle of competition. The House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is proud to hail these young men as citizens of this State; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby commends and congratulates the Basketball Team of Nanticoke in winning the State Championship of Pennsylvania. We further congratulate Sylvester Bozinski, the coach of the team, Anthony Diksa, Principal of Nanticoke High School, and Joseph Siesko, Superintendent of School, for their efforts in producing a team of this caliber; and be it further Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to Sylvester Bozinski, Coach, Anthony Diksa, Principal of Nanticoke High School, Joseph Siesko, Superintendent of Schools in Nanticoke and to Francis Webster, Coach of Hickory Township, Mercer County.

RESOLUTION

NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Mr. JIM offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 24, 1961.

At the 1961 Spring Meeting of the National Football League, being held in San Francisco, the location of the Professional Football Hall of Fame is scheduled to be determined.

We, in Pennsylvania, feel that the proper location for the Professional Football Hall of Fame is Latrobe, Pennsylvania. It was in Latrobe, on September 3, 1895, that the first man received payment for playing football, and 1897 all of the players on the Latrobe team were being paid. Continuously since that time Pennsylvania has been outstanding for its professional football teams and individual players; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives, on behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, hereby extends an invitation to the National Football League owners to recognize Latrobe, Pennsylvania, as the home of Professional Football, by approving it as the site for the Professional Football Hall of Fame; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Mr. Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers Football Club, 139 Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, to be submitted by him to the National Football League owners, in order to make known to them the invitation hereby extended for location of the Professional Football Hall of Fame in Latrobe, Pennsylvania.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority whip, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dougherty.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I want to thank my colleagues on this side of the House for re-electing me and the members on both sides of the aisle for their great pleasure in having me back again. I am tickled to death to be here, believe me.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House bill No. 1163, printer's No. 1563 and

House bill No. 1165, printer's No. 1312,

were passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1169, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 29, 1956 (P. L. 1803), entitled "An act providing for the establishment of forestry conservation camps by the Department of Forests and Waters for the development and conservation of the forests of this Commonwealth and for the rehabilitation and training of male youth ****" further regulating the acceptance and transfer of campers and providing for the payment by counties of a part of the operating expenses.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman, rise?

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate one of the sponsors of this legislation.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Dauphin desires to interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Stone. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STONE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, could the gentleman advise me as to the per diem cost today of maintaining one of these juveniles in an institution as distinguished from a camp.

Mr. STONE. I do not have those figures, either. I believe I did supply to the other side of the House the amount these boys are paid per hour.

Mr. BOWMAN. That is in the bill. I am not inquiring about the amount the boys are paid.

Now, is it correct or not correct that these boys presently, if in an institution, are not paid any compensation for the work performed in the institution?

Mr. STONE. I am not in a position to answer that. I would judge, in making a reply to that question, that they are not paid now.

Mr. BOWMAN. Is it not one of the intents of this bill that these boys now be compensated at a per hour, per diem rate for work done if they are assigned to a camp?

Mr. STONE. That is right, 50 cents an hour, per diem $2.50.

Mr. BOWMAN. Is it not correct that the county will bear one-half of the cost of the per diem pay, which they presently do not bear?

Mr. STONE. No, that is not so. I think the county is already paying 50 percent reimbursement.

Mr. BOWMAN. If they are paying 50 percent of nothing, that is nothing. If I understood the gentleman correctly, he said they are not being paid a per diem rate for work in institutions and this bill provides that they be paid a per diem rate for work in the camps. That means that the county would bear one-half the cost, if I understand the bill correctly, of the per diem rate in the camp.

Mr. STONE. I am not sure that we are working on a premise that we agree upon, Mr. Speaker. I answered the question with a speculation on my part. I do know that the experience has been in this situation that there was $200,000 worth of work done in these youth camps.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman intends to debate the bill, I will be pleased to yield. I am merely interrogating the gentleman at this time.

Mr. STONE. Proceed.

Mr. BOWMAN. Does the gentleman wish to debate the bill at this time? I will yield.

Mr. STONE. I wish I could answer the questions, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BOWMAN. I wish the gentleman could, too, because I am neither for nor against this bill, but I certainly cannot pass on this legislation without the information I have requested. If the gentleman is unable to supply it to me and it is insisted that the bill be called today, I will be forced to vote against it.

I thank the gentleman.

Mr. STONE. Mr. Speaker, I will agree to have this put over and endeavor to supply the information.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. STONE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on final passage postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1172, entitled:

An Act amending the act of September 26, 1951 (P. L. 1536), entitled "An act providing for the licensure and regulation of commercial boarding homes for the aged * * *" redefining certain terms imposing powers and duties on the Department of Public Welfare and providing for provisional licenses.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Stone, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STONE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, am I correct in concluding that if this bill becomes law the Department of Public Welfare would no longer have jurisdiction over commercial boarding homes for the aged?

Mr. STONE. That is my understanding, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. And it would set up a special category of personal care homes for adults, is that correct?

Mr. STONE. That is correct.

Mr. McCORMACK. Then an elderly person in a boarding home who is ambulatory will not be covered, is that correct?

Mr. STONE. If what I think the gentleman is saying is what you did say, it would. In other words, we are adding one category. We already have the nursing homes licensed. We are going to be licensing actually personal home care for the aged. That adds a category and we would not be licensing under the Department of Public Welfare commercial boarding homes for the aged.

Mr. McCORMACK. This is a departmental bill, is it not?

Mr. STONE. It is.

Mr. McCORMACK. What is the reason why they want to take away from the Department of Public Welfare the right to license and control and regulate boarding homes for the aged.

Mr. STONE. As I understand their reasoning, Mr. Speaker, they feel that the present system of licensing commercial boarding homes for the aged has very little to do with welfare problems and they would rather license an institution that is providing personal care. In other words, commercial boarding homes for the aged could very easily be handled like our present hotel licensing. It is really not as much in their field as it should be.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether something is wrong with my hearing or with the amplification system, but it is rather difficult to hear some of these speakers. Can it be raised a little bit?

The SPEAKER. There is something wrong because the Chair cannot hear the gentleman from Philadelphia and certainly could not hear the gentleman from Beaver.

Do you want to try again? Start again and we will see. We will listen attentively. Maybe they have steamed up the apparatus.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman in a position to state the money that the department receives from licensing these commercial boarding homes for the aged?

Mr. STONE. No, I am not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Can the gentleman tell me whether or not there is enough money received in licensing fees to pay for the cost of administering these homes for the aged?

Mr. STONE. I would presume so but would not want to take a categorical position on that.

Mr. McCORMACK. That is all, thank you. Mr. Speaker, I am not too concerned with the figures, but I would like to briefly address myself to this bill on the merits.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in order.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, when this bill came out of the Committee on Professional Licensure, I viewed it with some misgiving because of the fact that we would be taking away from the department the right to regulate and control commercial boarding homes for the aged.

There are some who believe that such commercial boarding homes for the aged, where nursing care is not administered, are analogous to private hotels or rooming houses. I submit, based on the experience that I have had with commercial boarding homes for the aged, that to leave them free from the control of the Department of Public Welfare is a dangerous thing and it is not in the interest of the elderly people who reside therein. Despite the fact that a lot of these elderly people are not in need of medical attention, they are in a peculiar position by virtue of their age and physical condition of being preyed upon by unscrupulous owners of these homes and they are, as a fact, taken advantage of.

For that reason alone I think it would be unwise on the part of the House to remove the Department of Public Welfare from administering and controlling such operations. Until it can be demonstrated or explained to me the real necessity for suddenly changing a policy that we have established in this Commonwealth and which has been in effect for a good many years, I am going to have to vote against this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final postponed passage calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House bill No. 1773, printer's No. 1320,

House bill No. 1178, printer's No. 1579 and
House bill No. 1179, printer's No. 1326,
were passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1184, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 23, 1949 (P. L. 1669), entitled as amended "An Act to provide revenue for school districts of the first class by imposing a tax on persons engaging in certain businesses professions occupations trades vocations and commercial activities therein providing for its levy and collection conferring and imposing powers and duties on the Board of Public Education receiver of school taxes and school treasurer in such districts and prescribing penalties," further defining "receipts" to exclude fresh or frozen seafood shell-fish and fish making such definitions retroactive.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HEAVEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Eilberg.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Eilberg, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EILBERG. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HEAVEY. Mr. Speaker, has the board of education asked the gentleman to put this bill before this House?

Mr. EILBERG. The board of education did not, Mr. Speaker, but they have no objection to the passage of this bill.

Mr. HEAVEY. Mr. Speaker, I do not think we should pass any tax bills here for the board of education in Philadelphia unless they are in perfect agreement with it and they tell our members to put the bill in.

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, the board of education is aware of the contents of this bill. We have been in touch with them and they have no objections. We feel that this bill is necessary and we ask everyone to support the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, the vote shows me as not voting on bill No. 1184. My light was still on green prior to this vote. I voted "aye" on bill No. 1184 and I wish to be so recorded.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's remarks will be spread upon the record.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1185, entitled:

An Act amending "The County Code," approved August 9, 1955 (P. L. 323), further providing for the keeping of records and papers at the county seat.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Cioffi.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Cioffi, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CIOFFI. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides that all county offices shall have their offices in the county seat and that all their records be kept in the county seat.

This bill then provides that the records be kept in the county seat "except where by order of the court a person is permitted to remove said records or papers."

I should like to inquire as to the reason for that provision.

Mr. CIOFFI. Mr. Speaker, it is my understanding the purpose of this bill is that in many of these offices such records at times become piled up and the courts only can direct what papers can be removed or can be taken out of there in order to make room for additional papers.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I thank the gentleman.

If that is the purpose of this bill, we do not believe that it quite spells that out. It is rather ambiguous in that connection. It should then provide that these records may be removed to other buildings in the county seat, or other places in the county seat, for that purpose, in order to provide additional space where they are cluttered up.

We interpret this bill to mean that the courts may permit the removal of these records by anybody, temporarily or otherwise. We do not believe that such power should be granted to the courts to let anybody take official records out of their lodging place and their proper spot.

We have also passed legislation authorizing these things to be taken care of by microfilm. I think there was a bill passed earlier this session where papers could be taken out for historical exhibits, and so forth, but to generally give the court power, without confining them to what papers may be taken out, or what is to be done with them, we think is very bad legislation, because a case that might be of very great public interest might have a lot of papers involved in it and the court could make an order authorizing these papers to be taken. In many cases, without imputing any improper motives to anybody, these papers could very conveniently become lost, taken out of their place in the proper files in the county offices and so forth.

Unless this bill is confined to the purpose which has been explained, we on this side certainly will vote against this bill.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I would think, perhaps, as a suggestion to the sponsors of this bill that it should probably be amended to read during a certain time limit, or that they shall be microfilmed, or placed in some other place. I, this one time, agree with Mr. Tompkins. I would also be afraid that removal might mean destruction of the records, and that a public official who would want to collude with another public official might petition the court for the removal of certain records and then have them destroyed under the term "removal."

I would certainly not be in favor of voting for a bill to remove or destroy public records unless some time limit was placed that they were ancient records or unless some microfilming process were followed.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Gracious God, our Father in heaven, we thank Thee for another day and for the opportunities and responsibilities which Thou hast committed into our hands. We pray for Thy divine guidance and blessing.

Open, Thou, the eyes of these legislators to human need wherever it is. May they extend the merciful hands of our great Commonwealth to lift and to labor for the redemption of men. Make our minds keen, our hearts loving and our hands tender. Keep us ever conscious that whatever we do unto one of Thy children, even unto the least, we do unto Thee. Help us always to follow the way of right, even though it may not be the way of expediency, knowing that in Thy divine providence right makes might.

We pray Thy divine blessing upon the families of these Members and the sacrifices that they make on behalf of our Commonwealth. To wives and children, may they know that by their sacrifices, our days are prospered and our Commonwealth is blessed.

Fulfill Thy promise to us that Thou art with us this day and even unto the end of the world. Hear our prayer and do Thou for us that which is best for us and most for Thy glory, for the sake of Jesus Christ, our Saviour, Amen.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MAHADY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, the resolution I am about to offer, calling for a study, is of the utmost importance to education in Pennsylvania. Education in Pennsylvania has been aimed primarily at high school education for many years. We have, in the western part of the State, one of the outstanding technical schools of the Country in Carnegie Tech.

However, it is the feeling that a study should be made, asking for the establishment of an institution of scientific learning in the eastern part of the State. It is felt, in this nuclear age and in this age of scientific discovery, that a State University should be founded.

We have no State institution as such. We have a land-grant college and colleges that receive aid from the State. We feel that in this scientific age, the State should have a scientific institution equal to, at least, Carnegie Tech and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Therefore, on behalf of Senator McCreesh and myself, I am offering this resolution and ask for its immediate adoption.

SENATE RESOLUTION

DIRECTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO STUDY THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A STATE TECHNICAL INSTITUTION FOR THE EASTERN HALF OF THE COMMONWEALTH

Messrs. MAHADY and McCREESH, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 48), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, April 25, 1961.

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission is directed to make a study of the feasibility and desirability of the establishment of a State Technical Institution for the eastern half of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. It is felt that a study of this kind may result in the establishment of an institution of scientific learning that would be of significant importance in our modern world of nuclear physics and scientific application. Further, that the Joint State Government Commission make a study as to the necessity of having a scientific school of this nature. Further, the study should include a suitable location as well as a study of modern facilities for an institution of this nature; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission make recommendations for proper legislation for the establishment of a school of this type as well as recommendations as to its financing; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report to this body as soon as possible.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I am in complete sympathy with the subject matter of this resolution, and I am sure everyone else is very interested in it. However, it calls for a study by the Joint State Government Commission. I believe it is customary to refer such resolutions to committee and then they are taken up in committee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. This resolution is referred to the Committee on Education.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. McCREESH asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, in West Philadelphia, there is a hospital called the Rush Hospital. It is a private institution which has served the people of this community for over seventy years. Located in the heart of University City, this hospital is about to close its doors because of a lack of tubercular patients and a lack of operating funds.

To allow this State-aided institution to shut down would be a tragedy to this redevelopment area, especially today when the State is desperately in search of hospital beds for its citizens and facilities for treating their ailments.

To prevent this unfortunate loss to this community, Mr. President, and to prevent unemployment for some seventy-five people employed at this hospital, I am about to introduce a bill providing for the purchase of this hospital and its facilities by the State and to have it converted to an institution, to be known as The West Philadelphia Home for the Aged.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. McCREESH presented to the Chair SB 561, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Public Welfare to purchase the Rush Hospital in Philadelphia and to convert the same into a home for the aged.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

Messrs. SEYLER, FLACK, HAYS, KALMAN and WAGNER presented to the Chair SB 562, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," further providing for supplemental payments by the Commonwealth on account of kindergartens.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

RECESS

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request a half-hour recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a Republican Caucus.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I also request a half-hour recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a Democratic Caucus.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a half-hour recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

STUDENTS WELCOMED TO THE SENATE

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, during the past several weeks, it has been my pleasure to present to the Senate several groups of students from Lehigh County. As a matter of fact, it has become such a regular habit that one of our Senate employees made the comment, "Don't they ever go to school in Lehigh County?" They do. They are such good students that they are afforded extra days off in order to come to Harrisburg and learn more about their State Government.

Today, we have a very fine group with us from the Borough of Emmaus. They are students from the East Penn Union School District. Accompanying them is their head teacher, Mr. Albert K. Deischer, and Mr. Charles T. Treichler. They are sixth graders from the Washington School, in Emmaus.

They are interested in government and we are delighted to have them here today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair asks that the young citizens from Emmaus will please rise in order for the Senate to recognize them.

On behalf of the Members of the Senate, the Chair is happy to have you with us. We hope you will find this to be an interesting and instructive experience. The Chair should also say that the regular presiding Officer, the Lieutenant Governor, John Morgan Davis, is not in the Chair. I am a substitute. Some of you probably know what happens sometimes when a substitute teacher is present. However, we will do our best.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

SB 88—Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 88 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, with reference to Senate Bill No. 88, this bill has been on the Calendar for, I would say, several weeks. I believe that the bill is now in proper order. I have received communications from quite a number of county solicitors, whereby they feel that the bill should now be passed in this Senate.

I understand there is some question as to the opinion about which we talked yesterday. However, I do feel that that opinion, being inserted in the record, indicates the legislative intent of this legislation. If there is any question as to whether or not this opinion is in proper order, I think it could be determined over in the House where they can hold the bills. If possible, Mr. President, I would like to move this whole package because it is very important that we arrive at a definite conclusion.

I would appreciate it if Senator Berger would withdraw his request for this bill to go over in order. Let us pass it today and send it over to the House. They can hold it and then, of course, if there is any question over there or here in the Senate, you can then take it up with the Attorney General.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I certainly have no objection to the subject matter of this bill. There is a real question, however, as to the constitutionality of another bill which, I think, has to key in with it. It is quite possible that we will be able to get that question resolved at the Session next week.

It does not seem to me to be the best policy to pass this bill and then inquire as to the constitutionality of a supporting measure after the bill is passed. I think we might determine that before we pass it and then act with that guidance when it comes time to vote on the bill. I am in sympathy with Senator Lane's attitude, but I feel it should not go over in order until next week so that we can determine whether or not it is going to be supported by the other legislation.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Potter, Senator Berger.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Berger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BERGER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. LANE. Senator Berger, in your last statement, you said that you people were going to determine whether or not Senate Bill No. 491 is constitutional. How do you propose to do that?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I fear the gentleman misunderstood me. He suggested that the bill be passed and sent over to the House. Then, if there was any question as to the constitutionality of the supporting legislation, it could be determined after it got over there. I suggested that we retain the bill and that the constitutionality of the other legislation be determined or, rather, that we receive advice on it before we pass it.

I would say further, Mr. President, that the gentleman on the other side, Senator Lane, might take it upon himself to obtain that intelligence so we could then pass the bill.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, if my memory serves me correctly and if my ears are in proper order, I thought Senator Berger said that his side was going to determine whether or not the bill was constitutional. This does not pertain particularly to Senate Bill No. 88, but it does to Senate Bill No. 491, which changes the borrowing capacity of the institution and General Fund by changing the assessed value to market value.

If the gentleman on the other side will take the intelligence which I received from the Attorney General, I will be very happy to go over there immediately after the Session and ask the Attorney General for an opinion. If you gentlemen will accept it, then, of course, we will pass it sometime next week. Is that all right with the gentleman from Potter, Senator Berger?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, that certainly is all right with me. However, reverting to what the gentleman said beforehand, I think I used the generic term "we" which would include us and the other gentlemen of the Senate also, as to getting the question disposed of prior to passage of the legislation.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I do not wish to prolong this rather asinine argument which we are having here today. However, I do not believe our intelligence is going to be any better next week than what it is this week. I anticipate that probably this is a left-handed way of killing this legislation. If so, it certainly is a lot of wasted effort on our part.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I wish to take some exception to that statement. Certainly, if we do not receive any intelligence concerning the constitutionality of that bill, it will not be our fault at all. I expect that Senator Lane will do just as he suggested; namely, try to get that opinion after this Session.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

HB 95—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

SB 156—Read at length the third time and agreed to,
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?
Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, I want to say at this time that this bill is not a matter which was put on here lightly. It missed the Omnibus Bill two years ago. It concerns a high school jointure which was a new building, which is just about complete, and will be used in September.
This bill appears on the Calendar at the request of the school authorities to try to get this through, because part of the route that will be fixed by the State is township and it must go into the complete whole. In other words, the State does not have jurisdiction over the road that runs down almost to it, and the rest of the way is State road where a new State road will be built.

For this reason, it was decided by the powers that be that we need legislation, and this is what they are waiting for. This is the reason I requested that the bill be placed on the Calendar.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I want to make one brief comment. I might say, with reference to the passage of Senate Bill No. 203, Printer's No. 209, that I have endeavored to have this legislation passed for the past twelve years. I was fortunate in this Session to have the legislation passed in the Senate, and I hope I am just as successful in the House of Representatives.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I just want to add an addendum. This just shows you what these fellows will do after they get to know you.

BILL OVER IN ORDER TEMPORARILY

SB 294—Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 294 go over in its order.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?
Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I wonder if the gentleman would allow this bill to go over temporarily. I understand that the Chairman of the Highways Committee has some amendments for this bill which he is getting now from his desk, and he has not returned to the floor.
Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, certainly. That is the only reason I requested that the bill go over in its order.

SENATE RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 17, CALLED UP

Mr. WEINER, without objection, called up from page 14 of the Calendar, Senate Resolution, Serial No. 17, entitled:

Commending Secretary of Highways Park H. Martin.

RESOLUTION RECOMMITTED

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that Senate Resolution, Serial No. 17, be recommitted to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All those in favor of the motion, give their consent by saying "aye"; those opposed, "no."

(A voice vote was then taken.)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The "ayes" have it and the motion is agreed to.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I want to say a few words about this resolution.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes Senator Stiefel and apologizes.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I am not going to stand in the way of the Senate in connection with this motion to recommit because I feel that the resolution, as it stands now, is not paying enough of a tribute to Secretary Park Martin. He deserves even more commendatory words.

Therefore, in the meeting of the committee some people wanted to tone it down and some people wanted to add to it, and in order not to block the resolution so it could be brought to the floor of the Senate, I went along.

I feel that Park Martin has done a great service for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. He is a man of great vision and great courage. He is a man in whose hands you can entrust the Department of Highways. In all, the Department of Highways is an empire unto itself, and putting at the head of it a man of such caliber as Park Martin, I believe involved the finest decision of Governor Lawrence.

Time and again I have risen to the floor of this Senate and did not speak in flowery terms about an empress. We have an emperor at the head of one department and an empress at the head of another big department here on Capitol Hill. I wish I could speak about her in similar terms, but I cannot.

Therefore, I am not going to object to this resolution because I feel that the committee, under its capable chairman, assisted by Senator Kalman and myself who are members—his lieutenants—will add to the glory of Park Martin instead of detracting. I feel we owe him a great debt of gratitude for the work he is doing now in Pennsylvania.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, because it is always a pleasure to listen to the words of Senator Stiefel, I did not raise a point of order. However, I would suggest that when the remarks were made, they are out of order for the reason that nothing was before the Senate except the announcement of the vote on the motion.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I wish to make a few comments on the resolution before us.

Mr. President, I want to laud the gentleman from Philadelphia for the high tribute he has paid to practically the only Republican in this Democratic Administration, since Mr. Martin retains his Republican registration. I think, too, that he is doing a good job. However, I certainly do not hope that Senator Stiefel means to imply that his predecessors, Mr. Joseph Lawler and Mr. Lewis Stevens, did not do a good job. I hope that was not written between the lines.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, by praising one man, you do not necessarily lower the prestige of another man. Probably I was amiss in my duty when I did not praise the great Mr. Lawler, from Lackawanna, and the other man, Lewis Steven, from Philadelphia. I should have done it long ago. I should even have praised the Colonel or General who was head of the Department of Highways and who was from Shenandoah. He was not only the head of the Department of Highways, but he was a prominent manufacturer and he did a good job.

Pennsylvania is fortunate in having good Secretaries of Highways. However, this time I awoke, and as a result of my awakening, I am standing here singing the praises of Park Martin.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, in order to augment the words of one of the deans of the Senate, Senator Stiefel, I would like to inform the distinguished gentleman from the other side of the river, Senator Wade, that all Democratic Secretaries of Highways have always been great men and great administrators.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I could make a comment, but it would violate what I am about to suggest to the Chair, and that is that I will now raise the point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from Potter, Mr. Berger, will state it.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, there is nothing before the Senate except the announcement of the vote on the motion.

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, I would like to voice my objection to this resolution being sent back to committee.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, will the Chair rule upon my point of order?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Berger, restate his point of order?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, there is nothing before the Senate except the announcement of the vote on the motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair thought he had announced the vote on the motion before Senator Stiefel spoke.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, then the gentleman is out of order speaking on it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. In the opinion of the Chair, Senator Berger, the gentleman was giving his reasons for voting "no".

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I will not appeal that ruling.

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, I wholeheartedly concur with the remarks made by my distinguished colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Stiefel, about the manner in which the Secretary of Highways, Park H. Martin, has conducted himself as Secretary of Highways of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Recently, I believe my colleague, Senator Wade, attended a convention of the Pennsylvania Road Constructors, in Atlantic City. Mr. Martin was praised by every member of that organization for the outstanding job he has done during his tenure as Secretary of Highways. As public officials, I cannot understand why we will not support this type of a resolution. It is a mere piece of parchment, saying something good about a man who has been subjected to so much criticism for such a long period of time.

We, as State Senators, receive letters daily condemning us for certain actions we take in this Senate. Very seldom do we receive a thank-you letter. This resolution merely bestows praise upon a gentleman who has done a great job. If this resolution goes back to committee, I can assure you it will be reported out as soon as possible.

Mr. MCGINNIS. Mr. President, Park Martin comes from Pittsburgh. Pittsburgh is a rebuilt city. If there is one man who did more than any other man to rebuild the city of Pittsburgh, it is Park Martin.

I am glad that our Governor, when he sees a good Republican, puts him in an important office.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, referred to the remarks made by the good Senator from Allegheny, I heard, in 1958, that it was the Governor who is responsible for Pittsburgh.

SENATE RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 41, CALLED UP

Mr. WEINER, without objection, called up from page 14 of the Calendar, Senate Resolution, Serial No. 41, entitled:

Senate Committee to Consider Necessary Legislation Required to Solve the School Problems, as Set Forth in the Report of the Governor's Committee on Education.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I have heard no motion that the resolution be adopted.

SENATE RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 41, DEFEATED

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do adopt this resolution.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, this resolution is the one which was introduced to provide for the appointment of a committee to study and to solve the school problems, as set forth in the Report of the Governor's Committee on Education. Mr. President, as I recall it, this was proposed in a Joint Session, when the Governor stated that he would like to have a bipartisan committee appointed to do this work.

When this resolution was introduced and the motion was made for its immediate adoption, I objected and stated my reasons. I will not go over them at length, but I simply will say that they are the same today as they were then. Mr. President, this proposes that a committee be appointed, equally divided between both parties, to solve the school problems. What that implies, I cannot say. However, I am sure that it means to consider proposed legislation and, probably, to make a report.

Mr. President, we have in the Senate and in the House, in accordance with the rules of the Senate and House, Committees on Education which are set up to do this very thing. Also, in conformity with the rules, those committees are appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House and are dominated by the Majority Parties in the House and the Senate. Mr. President, I see no reason whatever to deviate from that practice and to appoint a committee for this special purpose, when the Standing Committees are perfectly capable, composed of both Members of the Democratic Party and the Republican Party and people who have had experience and are able in that respect to take care of educational matters. Consequently, Mr. President, I will ask my colleagues to vote "no" on this resolution.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, in order that we understand exactly what we are discussing, this resolution only asks that Members on both sides of the aisle provide four Members to serve on this committee. I was hopeful that the two Members who served on the Governor's Bipartisan Committee might also serve on this committee. I am referring to—and if I am incorrect, I hope I will be corrected—Senator Wagner, who is the ranking Member on the Education Committee and who, for many years, was Chairman of the Education Committee, and Senator Shafer. I believe they would have a great deal to add and could contribute much to this committee. On our side of the aisle, we have Senator Hays and Senator Seyler. Senator Hays is the Chairman of the Education Committee and Senator Seyler is the Vice-Chairman. Both of these men have a background in the educational field.

We felt we should put people on this committee, as well, who are Members of the Finance Committee and the Appropriations Committee in order to round it out. If the House followed what we were doing, we would then have sixteen members to deal with, which is not an unwieldy group. I had hoped that when the bills are ready, which is supposed to be sometime next week, to send these bills to this sixteen-man committee and have them make recommendations so that we would know, when the bills appeared on our Calendar, they would pass. These bills immediately would then be taken up and be handled in the usual fashion in which we handle any special order of business, like we did here on the Library Bill and other measures of that nature.

We did not ask that these members, appointed to this committee, be prejudiced either in favor of education or against education. We asked that they be appointed to deal with these measures. If they saw fit, in their wisdom, not to deal with these matters or ask that this Legislature not deal with them, that would be the end of it. If we could ostensibly have from the middle of May until the Legislature adjourns sine die,—which we hope will be approximately June 1 or June 15—or one solid month of work on these problems, we could resolve this matter. There are not that many measures which have to be worked on. If there were a program that had to go with it to provide the money, this would also be thrown on the table and either they would agree or disagree at that point to either work on it or not work on it. We would then be able to set our sights and see exactly where we are going in the field of education. We could say to the public at large that either the Legislature is attuned to these matters or it feels that they are not worthy to be handled or we cannot get an agreement on them.

I feel that education is not a problem which happens to be Republican or Democratic in nature. I think the children who go to school and the people who take higher education are not necessarily there because of their political affiliations. I think we should deal with this matter primarily as the Governor's Committee did, in a bipartisan fashion.

I am not saying that if you approve this resolution, you are approving the report. I am not saying that if you disapprove this resolution, you are disapproving the report. However, I think the record will show that if you are not willing to go along and even appoint a bipartisan committee to look into this matter, I think you are basically saying that you are not interested in the educational problems and that the committee which is going to handle them is set up on a partisan basis, and that the measures they are going to bring out are partisan in nature. I do not think that is the manner in which we want to handle this matter. I do not think we should deal with it in that manner.

There has been some talk here that there should be a Special Session of the Legislature to deal with this. What is wrong with dealing with it in this Session? What is wrong with spending one month on it with people who are devoted to it? As long as the committee will consist of Members from the House and Senate,—and the Senate Members will make up one-half of the group— they will be in a better position to bring to the general committee and to the Legislature their views on this matter.

We are merely asking that you give us the names of four Members. If you refuse to do that,—and you gentlemen seem to be in the position that you do not want to go along with this and you do not want to give us any Members to serve—the only conclusion I can come to is that we are not going to deal with this matter on a bipartisan vein. We are going to throw the bills in committee and deal with them like we do with any other measure, in which event some of these measures will not pass. I certainly do not think that is indicated. It might be there are some measures that the committee is asking for which perhaps we cannot deal with during this Session. However, I will have the basis of their thinking and so will everyone else before the matter comes before us here on this floor. Either you will or will not give us the votes to pass them. At that time, we will know. Other than that, we will have no indication as to just what the general feeling is on this matter and what we should do to plan ahead for the next ten years.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am asking my colleagues to vote "aye" on this resolution. I certainly hope that my friends on the other side of the aisle will do likewise. We are merely asking that a bipartisan committee deal with this very, very important problem. As you can see, it is not limited to Pennsylvania. It is related to the entire world, where the Russians are making great advances into space. They have a man who has gone into space and who has orbited the earth. Perhaps we are behind because some of us do not have the technological advances. Perhaps many good minds are going by the board because they do not have the opportunity to have this kind of education. I think we can no longer afford the luxury of overlooking these matters and deal with them when we get ready to. I think they are here before us now.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I was very much afraid for a moment there that the Majority Leader was not going to get out of orbit.

I want to say, Mr. President, that the distinguished gentleman who presently occupies the Chair in this Senate is the Chairman of the Education Committee, and there is nothing that I know of to prevent him from appointing a subcommittee, composed of the same number of people as called for by this resolution, to study this problem of education and the Governor's Committee Report. Then, Mr. President, the bills can be reported, if they are approved, in the same manner that all bills are reported from committee.

There is nothing very obscure about this. What is intended by this resolution is apparently the ducking of responsibility or the creation of a sort of coalition government. If that is the case, I suggested before that we will be glad to accept equal representation on all committees which deal with important legislation. If the Majority Leader cares to do that, we will await his decision, and that of the President pro tempore, and we will be glad to accept our responsibility as equal members of the committees.

However, at the present time, Mr. President, this Education Committee is composed of eleven Democratic Members and seven Republican Members. There are four Republicans available for a subcommittee and four Democrats available for a subcommittee to do this very thing. It does not require the creation of a special committee to make this study or to do this work.

Mr. President, as far as doing this in the present Session and going right along with our other work, I am sure that practically every Member of this Senate is aware of the fact that with all of the other distractions and all of the other things that we have to do here, it would be almost physically impossible to take the recommendations, study them, prepare legislation and make recommendations to this Senate, or to do the same thing in the House, while we are in regular Session.

Mr. President, I submit that the only proper and sensible way to do this is to have a Special Session, when all other considerations are out of the way, and deal with this problem as it should be dealt with, without distractions or any kind of thing that would prevent us from doing a full job.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, with reference to this resolution, I might say that the Republicans on the other side should have considered their position. I imagine some Republicans turned this microphone around because they possibly did not want to hear me. It is probably sabotage.

In cases like this, Mr. President, where you make excuses, it is an indication that a major political party is trying to evade a responsibility that is really here today.

Let me say, Mr. President, the problem of education is not just an ordinary problem. We have worked over the years trying to work out a bona fide setup as far as education is concerned. I recommended many, many times that there should be a Constitutional amendment passed, earmarking certain revenues to finance education here in Pennsylvania.

Now we are more or less at the crossroads, and we know very well that the Republicans on the other side are not going to assume their proportionate share of responsibility, due to the evasive tactics of the Minority Leader. Therefore, there is only one thing we can do, and that is take it from here.

Last week, when they took action against this resolution and placed it in the Rules Committee, it was indicative that they wanted nothing to do with a bipartisan setup.

Mr. President, I think that the people of Pennsylvania should know today just what is going on. The people of Pennsylvania assume that this is a Democratic Administration, with Democratic majorities in the House and in the Senate. However, gentlemen of the Senate, you know that is not true. You know very well that we cannot pass any legislation without support from your side. You know very well, too, that you should participate in this program. If you did not intend to participate in this program and work with us on a bipartisan basis, you should not have accepted appointments on the Governor's Committee to start with.

So, you have changed the rules again. You are using fast footwork. What you want to do is evade this. You are afraid taxes are going to be levied. You do not want to participate in this because you feel you will be part and parcel of the entire program.

Let us be very honest about the thing. That is really the trouble. I stated in the Governor's Office—and my statement was entirely correct—several months ago that we, in the Democratic Party, are going to have to assume all responsibility. We are going to take that responsibility. We are the Administration. The Republicans do have control, actually, because they always have more votes over there than we do, due to circumstances beyond our control. They are the ones who are going to sit by and they are going to say to us, like they used to say during the Leader Administration: "You pass a tax program in the House, send it over to the Senate, and we will look it over. If we like it, we will accept it and, if not, we will veto it." It used to be the Molotov veto. We sent program after program over here. I think those tax programs are actually what killed off George Leader politically. You people really did the job. I must say that you did a very good job, too.

Again, we are confronted with the same thing. There are going to be taxes. The Ways and Means Committee of the House will bring over a program and you people will say: "We do not like that. We cannot go for that." Therefore, we will be here all year. You will not accept a bipartisan setup, although you know—you gentlemen are all intelligent and very able persons—very well that we are really confronted with a crisis when it comes to the problem of education. But you will not help. I say that you will not. I do not anticipate any help at all. I anticipate, Mr. President, that we will probably be here the rest of this year.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, that is one of the finest expositions on the evasion of responsibility that has come to my ears in many, many years.

Mr. President, perhaps the gentleman did not hear what I said before. If he did not, I will be very glad to repeat it. I said that the Chairman of the Education Committee—the gentleman who is at the moment presiding over this Senate—may appoint a subcommittee, composed of the same number as required by this resolution, and they can do exactly the same work that this resolution provides.

Mr. President, the bills, if any, will then be handled in the ordinary and customary manner and it will not require the addication of the majority status by the Members on the other side.

It is just that simple, Mr. President. It is not quite susceptible to the same explanation in the House, however, where I understand a similar resolution is being introduced. They do not have a situation where the vote is tied. They can assume the responsibility in the regular course of affairs in the House of Representatives. But, no; what they are doing is asking that a similar committee be set up in the House where the Democrats have clear majority. Still they wish to avoid and evade the responsibility which is rightfully theirs.

Mr. President, when we were in the majority, we accepted and were very glad to have the responsibility for these things, and we will be glad to accept it again anytime. Meanwhile, if you wish to have equal representation on other committees, we will be glad to accept it and will accept it on this one as well.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I think no one here should underestimate the interest throughout the Commonwealth in the report of this committee and what might happen to it.

From its inception, the committee was conceived as a nonpartisan committee. It had bipartisan appointments. Today, there are five members of the committee present in this Chamber and there is one member of the staff of the committee present in this Chamber. I believe all six of those persons would agree that in the deliberations of the committee, there was not a partisan division, but rather all these matters were considered on a nonpartisan basis.

I think the Governor, having received the report, very sincerely desired to continue this kind of an approach to the problem; that is, to have the consideration in this Legislature on a bipartisan basis. Perhaps the Party which is apparently going to oppose this resolution, as a unit, has the feeling that at this point bipartisanship should stop.

If that is their opinion, then, of course, that is their opinion and I regret it. When we talk about responsibility, as the Minority Leader has, this immediately puts the matter on a Party basis. If you say a Party has the responsibility to take these bills and push them through, this makes an assumption that bipartisanship stops here and, from now on, we have Party politics as usual.

In my own opinion, I think this is unfortunate because I believe the people of the Commonwealth who are watching will ask what happened to this report. They are interested in seeing that the results which come out here are results which are arrived at on a nonpartisan basis.

However, Mr. President, regardless of what decision is made, whether we turn down the idea of bipartisan procedure here and proceed with our usual committee procedure or whatever technique we adopt, I hope we will not get into the position where we have bloc or Party voting on this matter. This is too important a matter, it seems to me, to have that kind of a position taken. Regardless of what kind of a decision we make here today, I would plead that all of us resolve to keep this matter a matter which we will vote on as concerning the welfare of all the citizens of the Commonwealth and not as an opportunity to make a Party record for or against, but rather to consider the good of the educational system of the Commonwealth.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, in the past, I have been accused of being starry-eyed and idealistic. I also want every Member of this Body to know that I do not want to change.

I say to them, in all sincerity, that this disagreement appears to be in a lack of vision as to what the committee is supposed to do. After all, we have a ten-year plan in general terms. We must first reduce the general terms to specifics and then we must make a timetable. There is nothing precluding this group. We talk about bills. I have heard talk about handling the bills. What bills? When? What is the plan? The plan which we have is in general terms over a ten-year period. As I see it, the purpose of this is that this group will get together and they will say: "Here is how we will implement the report. This is the timetable we will use."

This is not the time to talk about Special Sessions. It is a question of a study by this committee to say: "What shall we do and when shall we do it?" It requires that we do not make a political football out of it. There has been a suggestion made regarding a subcommittee. In there lies a great danger. The regular committee then may overrule or bottleneck what the subcommittee recommends.

The committee which is proposed is a policy committee. It is not an operational committee. It is the one which will determine how we will implement the report, and over what period of years we shall do what. You cannot make this report overnight and everybody admits that. You cannot put a ten-year plan into one. How shall we do it and when shall we do it? With that in mind, as I look at it, what is wrong with this resolution?

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, the Governor appointed a Committee on Education which came back with a report that has thrilled a great many people in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The report involves the future of our children. It involves the future of children of Democrats and Republicans.

Senator Berger has made the comment that someone is ducking responsibility. I raise the question as to which side here is ducking responsibility. Since when should the Republicans object to being given an equal voice in a matter of such wide importance? After all, let us look at the practical side of this plan.

Governor Lawrence, above all, is a practical man. He recommended this select committee, composed of equal numbers, because it is obvious that if we pass any legislation at all, in furtherance of the committee's plan, it will involve the expenditure of money. As a matter of fact, the report shows that it will cost the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to implement this report for the first thirteen months, the sum of $35,000,000.

We know that it is going to take taxes. We know that we do not have the majority here to pass those taxes. We know that it has to be done by consent of both Parties. Why the Republicans should reject an equal voice and equal responsibility in a problem which affects everyone equally, throughout the Commonwealth, is very hard to understand.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, it becomes very difficult to restrain one's self when one sees occurring in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania today not only evasion and not only ducking, but the abrogation of all leadership by the Party in power.

The Governor of this Commonwealth has had a committee. He has also received a report. What has occurred? He now sends it to the Legislature and, in effect, dumps it in the legislative lap. Well and good. I do not admire the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for abrogating his responsibility. He cannot avoid it by saying that this is nonpartisan.

If you go through your Capital Fund Budget or through your Motor License Fund, you will see that the Governor, at least, takes the authority there to recommend and implement certain programs. Why does this not apply to education? Is that in a class by itself? Is that something which the Governor does not want to do or does not understand? Why then have a study group in the first place? We could have done it ourselves.

Mr. President, I certainly agree that the Legislature, since the Governor has abrogated his responsibility, must do something about it and I think we should do it. However, it seems to me we should do it in accord with established practices and not to evade, to the contrary of what Senator Lane pointed out, the responsibility of the leadership of this Senate, for example. The Party in power is the Democratic Party, unfortunately. I am hopeful this will be changed two years hence. I believe, with the abrogation of leadership by the Democratic Party, that that will occur. I certainly re-echo again Senator Berger's remarks concerning the manner in which this should be done.

Mr. SESLER. Mr. President, I think there are a few points which should be brought out.

The gentleman from Lebanon said that we have refused to accept our responsibility, thereby emphasizing again that in all cases all issues should be political. I would like to point out at least two things that have not been said here. One, we are talking about an educational program which we hope to foresee and which we should undoubtedly plan for ten years. There certainly is not a business corporation in this Commonwealth or in this Country which does not make capital planning projects at least ten or more years into the future. It is only good business, it is only good government, and it is only common sense to try to project a program based on anticipated needs for years in the future. This committee was established to do that. You merely have to read this report to recognize some of the evils that we do have with us.

Therefore, Mr. President, does this mean then that we should say, "Let this Administration bring on its program and struggle through with whatever help it can get?" Then, for example, with a change in Administration, we will have a new program because we will have a new Party. That is another reason for this. I, for one, am learning a lot since I have been here. If we had twenty-eight or thirty Senators here, I would gladly say that we will take the leadership and we will lead it and make the program. However, the question is whether a program of education should be held in abeyance until there are adequate majorities or whether we are offering the hand of bipartisanship to work on this.

There is also another element. It has been suggested that we form subcommittees in the Senate and in the House. Let us recognize the basic fact, namely, that we have a limited amount of time. We hope, as a practical matter, to adjourn within a reasonable period of time. To have a joint committee, composed of House and Senate Members, would seem to me to be most expeditious. It actually is the same thing. They say we should have a subcommittee composed equally of Democrats and Republicans. What, basically, is the difference between that and the committee proposed by the resolution in question? I think there is no difference. I think if you really want to accept the program, this resolution should be favorably voted upon.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I do not think I can add a great deal to what has been said here. I think we have pretty well covered the ground. However, I would like to point out that it is not the Governor's program and it is not the Legislature's program. This is a bipartisan committee which has brought back a program and it is up to the Legislature to act on it. The Governor cannot pass any of this legislation unless the Legislature passes it and sends it on to him. The fact that the Governor does not do anything about it does not mean that he has abrogated his leadership. He has appointed this committee and he did not have to do that if he did not want to.

Therefore, Mr. President, this matter is now before us for us to act on it. If we do not act and if we do not handle this matter in an expeditious and nonpartisan manner, then I think the only thing left to do is to handle it in the usual course of events so that the gentlemen on the other side cannot complain about what happens.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, all I wish to do further in this debate is to propound a single question; that is, whether or not it is contemplated to introduce further resolutions whereby there will be equal representation upon the Appropriations Committee and upon the Finance Committee in the Senate.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I rose to reply to Senator Ehrgood. However, since Senator Berger has asked the question, I would say to him that most of the people who are concerned with this problem do not feel that the problem of public education in the next ten years is a problem which should be treated as politics-as-usual, but rather that it is a problem that should be approached in a distinctively new and nonpartisan method.

Replying to Senator Ehrgood, I do not feel that this resolution is any abrogation of responsibility, authority or anything else. I think it offers to the Minority Party and the Majority Party—it offers to both parties—an opportunity to rise to the level of statesmanship on a very important matter in this Commonwealth. Whether or not either Party will decline to rise to that level is, of course, up to them.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I am going to be very brief.

In answer to the Minority Leader's statements with reference to equal representation on committees, it is sort of silly. They are throwing up a smoke screen to try to justify the position they are taking, Mr. President.

Let me say further that the educational problems in Pennsylvania should be bipartisan. As a matter of fact, they are bipartisan, and everyone knows that. I do not believe that, politically, anyone is going to gain any votes or lose any votes with reference to positions taken here by the Minority Party. However, I want them to know that we have a moral responsibility as far as education is concerned. I feel they are making a mistake—and I believe they will realize that later—by taking the position that they are taking today, especially on this resolution which really does not amount to too much.

Therefore, it is indicative to me that if they vote "no" on this resolution, they have their minds made up.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. LANE and were as follows, viz:

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THE STATE ADMINISTRATION TO IMMEDIATELY IMPLEMENT THE KERR-MILLS ACT

Messrs. WADE, SCOTT, EHRGOOD, SHAFER, WARE, STROUP and VAN SANT, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 115), which was read and referred to the Committee on Constitutional Changes and Federal Relations:

In the Senate, April 25, 1961.

Whereas, The August 1960 Session of Congress passed the Kerr-Mills amendments to the Social Security Law providing a system of Federal-aid in the field of the medically needy senior citizens of the United States. The proposals of the current National administration in this field would take effect in October 1962, if enacted by Congress by such date; and

Whereas, Immediate action by the General Assembly to implement the provisions of current Federal law would bring prompt relief to our older citizens who are unable to afford medical care, our hospitals and Blue Cross programs. The State Administration to date has failed to act to this and to the detriment of our citizens; and

Whereas, The full cooperation of the State Department of Public Welfare, the Governor and other administration officials is required in the promotion of the necessary legislation; therefore, be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That the administration urgently is requested to immediately implement the Kerr-Mills Act, and submit legislation as soon as possible to this session of the General Assembly to accomplish such implementation;" and, be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Honorable David L. Lawrence, Governor of Pennsylvania, and the Honorable Ruth Grigg Horting, Secretary of Public Welfare.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WEINER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, there has been a great deal of to-do about this Kerr-Mills Act. I believe Senator Bell and I debated this once.

I would like to have the record state very clearly that we do not have to take any action on this matter until June of this year. I can assure the Members of the Senate that we will take action on this matter sometime in May, unless there would be some other Act passed in the Congress which would be more beneficial to us.

Although we appreciate the sentiment and we appreciate having this brought to our attention, please be advised that we are aware of this matter. It is constantly before us and we are constantly in touch with our Congressional Delegation, as well, to see if any other Acts are passed. If nothing else is passed, I assure you we will take action in some area to implement whatever legislation is on the books so that we get the full advantage of it.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I would like to have unanimous consent to make a very brief statement in so far as I heard my name being mentioned by the Majority Leader.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair hears no objection. You may proceed, Senator Bell.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, with respect to the Kerr-Mills Act, every month that passes without Pennsylvania's supplement is costing our hospitals real dollars. It has been costing one hospital in my district $3,000 a month. January, February, March, April, May, and now we hear June. That is $18,000 for one hospital.

I urge that we do not wait until June. I urge that we do something to help these hospitals now.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. STIEFEL, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 570, entitled:

An Act changing the name of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia to the County Court of Philadelphia.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, this morning, a public hearing was scheduled by the Chairman of the State Government Committee to study various bills that pertain to mental health. One of those bills happened to be a bill which I introduced in 1959 and reintroduced during this Session, along with a Republican colleague and four Democratic colleagues from the other side.

I look over this Chamber and see that Senator Mullin is not present. I was not even extended the courtesy yesterday of being notified that the meeting was called off. Physicians and interested people from all over Pennsylvania were here this morning and then we found out, at a late hour, that the hearing was called off.

I do not know whether there is a skeleton in the closet of Mrs. Horting and the Department of Public Welfare. I do not know for what reason the hearing was called off. I am wondering if my favorite "copart" on the other side, the Whip, would answer some questions. I wonder if Senator Lane will allow himself to be interrogated.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Lane, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LANE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. PECHAN. Senator Lane, can you tell the Senate why this hearing was so abruptly called off?

Mr. LANE. Senator Pechan, in reply to your interrogation, I cannot answer that question. I read about it in the newspapers. I cannot give you too much information. However, there must be extenuating circumstances because I believe that Senator Mullin is more or less on your team as far as your thinking is concerned.

Of course, I feel also that Mrs. Horting does not have a skeleton in her closet. I think that she will be able to take care of herself when we do have the public hearing because she appears to be quite efficient and vociferous in this particular field.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, when the bills were under study, I did not know that Senator Mullin was on my team. He must have joined since he went to Philadelphia today. He never played on my team before, believe me.

Mr. LANE. Senator, are you interrogating now or telling me?

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I am following the pattern of Senator Lane. I am speaking off-the-cuff, too, a little bit.

Thank you very much.

Mr. LANE. Thank you, Senator.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I am not finished.

Mr. LANE. I know, Mr. President, but I want to speak now.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator Pechan has the floor. Will you proceed, Senator Pechan?

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, the bills that were introduced were the result of a study that we made of the Public Welfare Department. We made these recommendations because of the condition in which mental health presently finds itself. We feel that the people who are in mental institutions are mentally ill and should not be under a custodial department, such as the jails and the various bureaus in the Department of Public Welfare.

I was one of those who helped to integrate the various bureaus and departments into one Department of Public Welfare. However, very shortly after that was done, we realized that we made a mistake. We made it for several reasons. It has been very difficult. I think Pennsylvania is tremendously fortunate in continuing to have the services of Doctor John Davis. I think Doctor John Davis is doing a remarkable job, under the circumstances.

I know that all of the psychiatric societies, from their presidents on down, and those who teach in our various schools in Pennsylvania, agree that we should have an autonomous department of Mental Health, such as they have in California, Connecticut and Massachusetts. We do not believe that the Director of Mental Health should be responsible to a lay person, such as Mrs. Horting, who does a very fine job—and I am not criticizing her—in the Department of Public Assistance, because it is certainly far removed from taking care of mental health.

We train people in Pennsylvania, and we find after we train them that they leave for other States because they are receiving better pay. We have attendants in zoos—zoo keepers—who make more money attending to animals than we pay our attendants in these mental institutions.

For that reason, I would like to have a public hearing. I think all of this should be aired.

Senator Rooney was on the committee last year when we investigated the Department of Public Welfare. Of course, we did not agree. I do not suppose he concurs in what I say to this day.

However, I do believe that we should have the Chairman of the Committee call another meeting and apologize to those people who did not know that the meeting was called off until this morning.

I could go on and give the various reasons why we should have a separate Mental Health Department. I am not going to go into it today, however. There will be another time when we can go into it.

I do hope that those of you who are the leaders on the other side will prevail upon your Chairman to call this public hearing and let us air this thing once and for all.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman whether he was in this Chamber yesterday. He does not have to answer me if he does not wish to. However, if he was, he would have heard the Secretary announce that the hearings had been called off. I might also point out to the gentleman that there were telegrams sent out last Wednesday and again on Thursday, and there was a release given to the newspapers on Thursday afternoon, stating that these hearings had been called off. It might have been Friday morning when this announcement appeared in the press.

If the gentleman will recall, when this matter was before us two or three years ago,—not only this matter, but the matter of amalgamating the Department of Welfare along with the Department of Public Assistance—I believe the gentleman from Armstrong is one of the people who attended the meetings and I also believe he is one of the people who spoke at one or two of these meetings. After what appeared to be general agreement that they should amalgamate the department, the next thing I found, along with all the other Members of the General Assembly, was that I was being beleaguered on all sides to take pieces or parts out of it. This is going to exist as long as we are Members of the General Assembly. We are always going to have people who think things should be done one way and after everybody conforms to that way of thinking and you finally do it, along comes another group which tells you that you did the thing absolutely insanely and we should take it apart and we then go along and do it. It is very much similar to the old Aesop fable of the man, the boy and the donkey. I hope you will forgive that reference; it is not partisan in nature. However, this is the kind of a situation in which we always find ourselves.

I received a letter, and I am sure that everyone here also did. It was a mimeographed letter and went into great detail about this being a Russian plot to get this Commissioner of Mental Health to be out there by himself. The letter went on to quote about what the Chief Officer of Russia, the late Mr. Beria, said. It went into great detail about how he was going to operate this procedure. It said that anyone who went into this thing must be communistically inspired and so on and so forth. Knowing how the gentleman feels about those situations, I felt that he would be somewhat moved by that reference. The letter also went into great detail to point out how it had been done in other areas and what they had suffered and what they had found by putting too much power in one man's hands.

I do not know whether this is a good or bad thing. I remember when Secretary Shapiro was trying to make these reforms and the great problems we had over here. Some of you gentlemen who are sitting on the other side, not being of the same political faith, were quite helpful to Secretary Shapiro in getting the department under way. However, it was not done overnight and it did not happen without a long harangue and battle, both in committee and on the floor of this Senate. I think we should go slowly on this matter. Let us live with it for a few more years and see where we are going and see whether people are being released from mental institutions or being cured, or living under this out-patient treatment, and see what kind of life they are finding. I am hopeful that perhaps we can arrive at an answer on this thing.

For the record, incidentally, Senator Mullin is in Harrisburg and he can be here within fifteen or twenty minutes. He was in this Chamber earlier. He had to step out for a moment on other business, but he will be back here very shortly. If you want to interrogate him, I will be happy to produce him for you. He did not leave and he is in the city of Harrisburg now.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, two years ago, I served on a committee on which three Republicans and two Democrats had to consider matters of the same kind. At that time, I took a different view. However, in fairness to Senator Pechan, I want to assure him that in the light of my experiences during the last year, if I were to serve again on the same committee, I would adhere to his views.

I pointed out to Senator Mullin the entire problem confronting us. I wish to say that I appeared before the Committee on State Government, although I am not a member. At that time, Senator Pechan was not here. I took the chance and I spoke, with the permission of Senator Mullin, in favor of these bills. However, action was postponed.

The entire problem of this situation is the fact that two years ago we had a brilliant administrator. I would say that the word "brilliant" does not even apply to him. You would have to say a super-brilliant administrator. He was a super-brilliant administrator, by the name of Harry Shapiro. This super-brilliant administrator was the cause of this amalgamation. Only a man of Harry Shapiro's brilliance, knowledge, energy and dedication could have attended to the sprawling empire. Today, the empire is gone; Mr. Shapiro is not here. Instead of the emperor, there is an empress. I doubt whether she is fit to be an empress. This is the reason why I am going to fight for these bills. Whatever was done before to suit the abilities of Mr. Shapiro should be taken apart and reduced to normalcy.

For this reason, Mr. President, I am going to appear before the Committee on State Government, and on the floor of this Senate, and fight to the last drop of blood for the passage of these bills.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I was a member of the Committee on State Government before which Senator Stiefel appeared. I was tremendously impressed with his argument. I think he is right. I believe we should have a public hearing, whether by the State Government Committee or by someone else, to determine whether or not the interest of the people of Pennsylvania in the Mental Health Program of Pennsylvania is not so important that it have a separate department.

I do not know whether Senator Stiefel was correct or not, but I think there is some fire behind the smoke here. I think the only way we can find out is by having a public hearing. I was disappointed when we did not have one. I am going to support Senator Stiefel in his endeavors to have a public hearing on whether or not there should be a Department of Mental Health in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I wish to make one further brief statement relative to this matter.

I think everybody knows who Charles H. Frazier is. He is the President of Pennsylvania Mental Health, Inc. Charlie Frazier and his group did a tremendous job in coordinating and helping to unify the Department of Welfare. I just want to read one paragraph from a letter that I received from Mr. Frazier since the department has been joined into one Department of Public Welfare. It reads as follows:

"I was instructed by the Executive Committee to transmit to you the enclosed statement which represents the position taken by our organization. The Executive Committee wishes to record its agreement with testimony presented to your Committee showing that present practices in the Department of Public Welfare with respect to mental health fall short of the intention and desires of the General Assembly and of the recommendations of the Governor's Committee on Merger of the Department of Welfare and Public Assistance."

I just wanted to point that out, Mr. President. If I may interrupt the conversation here between the three bigwigs, I would like to ask Senator Weiner, when he gets time, to read the trash from which he quoted just a little while ago. I received that thing and I threw it in my wastebasket, believe me.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to mention to the Senator that he would do well to read all of his mail because I am liable to write him about an important bill I would want him to favor, and I hope he does not give it the same kind of treatment.

However, I think it is important that all of these people take the time to write. Some of these people may not be too well when they write these things, but I think they are entitled to be heard. If someone takes the trouble to write your name on an envelope and put a stamp on it, I think they are entitled to have it read and the courtesy of a reply.

This person is one who took the time to send me a three or four page memorandum. I read it and I wanted to bring it to the attention of the Senator.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I had the same thing, but I threw it in the wastebasket.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I want to be very brief. I just want to make an observation, if I may.

I have always given Senator Pechan credit for having a lot of foresight. He has indicated today that he is greatly concerned about setting up an individual and separate mental health unit in Pennsylvania. I believe that is necessary because if we continue along as we are going now, there will probably be a lot of candidates from the Senate in there.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. DOWN, BLAIR, POLASKI,
VARNER and SCHAAF. RESOLUTION No. 60.

In the House of Representatives, April 24, 1961.

In 1957 the State Planning Board of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania conducted a study to determine the practicability of a canal joining Lake Erie and the Ohio River, and the effect of such a canal on the future economic status of the area it would serve. It was the conclusion of said report that the construction of such a canal was not practicable at that time.

For more than seventy-five years, the Federal Government has made numerous studies for a Lake Erie-Ohio River Canal. Once again, the Federal Government has made an allocation of funds for studying such a project.

In order that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania may be properly apprised of the impact a canal joining Lake Erie and the Ohio River would have on the economy of Western Pennsylvania and our State as a whole, particularly if the proposed Beaver-Mahoning Rivers Route is decided upon, it is important that the aforementioned study conducted by the State Planning Board be reactivated. We will then be in a better position to substantiate our position in relation to such a project; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby requests that the study and report of the practicability of a Lake Erie-Ohio River Canal be reactivated by the State Planning Board in order to determine if the conditions existing at the time of filing the original report in 1957, which report found that such a project would be detrimental to our Commonwealth, still exist; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the State Planning Board and to the Governor.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. McCANN. RESOLUTION No. 61.

In the House of Representatives, April 24, 1961.

Whereas, The Governor's Committee on Education sets forth the various problems presently facing the schools of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, The solution of some of these school problems require legislation, that is, some legislation in the general field of education and some legislation in the field of taxation; and

Whereas, The legislative process takes time and thought, consideration and debate in order to arrive at the finished product of a law; and

Whereas, The earlier the House of Representatives can take up these problems, the sooner their legislative solution can be arrived at; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint a House Committee of four members of the Democratic Party and four members of the Republican Party to consider the necessary legislation required to solve the school problems as set forth in the Report of the Governor's Committee on Education; and be it further

Resolved, That the said House Committee shall from time to time meet with a similarly constituted committee of the Senate so that they may jointly determine the legislative program which in their opinion will constitute the legislative goals of this session in the field of school legislation.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. McCANN. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 62.

In the House of Representatives, April 24, 1961.

Whereas, There has been introduced in the 87th Congress on January 3, 1961, The Equal Rights For Women Amendment which has been referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and

Whereas, This amendment reads as follows: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex," therefore be it

Resolved, (The Senate concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby memorialize the Congress of the United States to adopt the Equal Rights For Women Amendment, and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the presiding officers of each House of the Congress of the United States and to each member of the Senate and the House of Representatives from the State of Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. GAILEY, IRVIS, DONALDSON and HEFFNER. RESOLUTION No. 63.

In the House of Representatives, April 24, 1961.

Resolved, That the House of Representatives direct the Joint State Government Commission to make a study of all laws relating to criminal proceedings against juveniles; juvenile courts after commitment; length of sentence; rehabilitation process; and treatment of juveniles while under commitment. The study shall also include the constitutional rights of juveniles and whether or not these rights are being protected by the courts, under commitment and all related matters; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report with recommendations at the first session of the General Assembly in January 1962.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

BIRTHDAY

The SPEAKER. I understand that today is the birthday of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Taylor. Will Dr. Dengler swing into action and serenade the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Taylor.

Mr. DENGLE. Mr. Speaker, perhaps in this case instead of singing "Happy Birthday," we should sing, "I've Been Working on the Railroad" for Marty. But let us sing, "Happy Birthday, Dear Marty."

(Members joined in singing, "Happy Birthday.")

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I never knew anybody in the House knew I had a birthday except Charlie Smith and "Stu" Helm. In fact, I am a little bit surprised about it all. Of course, I know myself I am 67 years of age, and I hope that each and every member of this House lives to be 67 years old, or more, and that I live to bury them.

The SPEAKER. The man who took the picture of the House as a whole asks the Chair to say: "Would you make an announcement that I have the pictures in the lobby and they will not let us put them in the lockers. ### RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Mrs. S. A. ANDERSON and Mr. IRVIS offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 24, 1961.

Edward Stanley Temple, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Temple residing in Harrisburg, was born on September 20, 1927. He attended public schools in this city and graduated from John Harris High School in June of 1946. That same year he entered Tennessee A. and I. State University at Nashville on a work-aid scholarship from where he graduated in 1950.

He is married to the former Charlie B. Law and has two children, Lloyd Bernard and Edwina, aged seven and four respectively.

He became assistant women's track coach at A. and I. in 1950, and in 1951 a member of his track team won the 200 meter race in the Pan American Games at Buenos Aires. He later became head coach of the women's track team at A. and I.

In 1954 he produced winning teams placing sixth in the NAAU Outdoor Championships in Harrisburg. Again in 1955 he had winning teams and sent six members to the Pan-American Games in Mexico City. In the 1956 Olympics six of his proteges were on the U. S. teams. 1957, 1958 and 1959 his teams won the indoor and outdoor NAAU Championships. Also in 1958 seven of the members of the U. S. team competing in International matches in Europe were members of Temple's teams.

Edward Temple was selected head coach of the women's track team for the United States 1960 olympics. This team made history for the United States headed by Wilma Rudolph won victories in sprints, and relays and won for the United States of America three gold medals; therefore be it

Resolved, That it is both fitting and proper that the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should at this time, congratulate Edward Stanley Temple on his success and achievements as a coach. We commend him as a native son for the honor he brought not only to his native City of Harrisburg, but the entire Commonwealth of Pennsylvania also for the honor he brought to his school and to his adopted state, Tennessee as well as the entire nation; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to Edward Stanley Temple at Tennessee A. and I. State University in Nashville, Tennessee.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we would like to set up our plans at this time for our lunch and caucus and then proceed to work straight through to the closing of the session today.

I have been requested by others to go back to bills and reports of committees before we recess. I assume we must have missed some at one point.

STATEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, could I have a couple minutes for a statement before recess to help clear a bill that will be considered in caucus?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman knows that the two floor leaders are privileged to address the House at any time upon any subject of their choice.

The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, this last week end there was a newspaper story on the front page, the heading of which indicated, "Payment Held Up On Roadside Rest Costing $86,000." This was the story, and the reason I am speaking on it now is because we will be debating and voting on House bill 636 after caucuses today. This deals with roadside rests.

I do not know from what source they credit the information, indicating that the Deputy Auditor General released this information on a roadside rest costing $86,000.

This story deals with an area in Fulton County. The name of the people in the story are the same as in the papers I have here, Frederick R. Hocking and Julia Hocking, his wife. In Fulton County the road from Breezewood across, I think it is 126, was placed on and is part of the inter-state highway system. There is located in this county, in this area, alongside that road a motel with 4.5 acres of ground. The story indicates that $86,000 was paid for a roadside rest, when the story should have honestly said that the money is being paid to the owners of the property for condemnation, because a fence must be built, whenever you build an interstate road by which you cut off access to the road.

But the Department of Highways, in its wisdom and rightfully so, since it must pay for this property, decided that this property meets the specifications to make a roadside rest, not costing $86,000, but costing $7,000.

This is certainly much different from the story. The maps are here and the complete records are here, and I hope that the membership of this House when they will be debating House Bill 636, both in their caucuses and on the floor, will bear in mind the fact that there have not been any roadside rests built within this Commonwealth in excess of the present law and that this is the main reason not very many have been built.

I think the newspapers that wrote the story should also correct such misinformation, and the source from which it came should be checked to see that the proper information is given to the public and to the members of this House.

I have the complete file here in my possession, including the photographs, the highway maps, the ground involved, the Auditor General's report, the Department of Highway's report, the right-of-way division and the bureau of public roads' reports, the complete file, and there is no place in this file that an authorization was ever made for any such payment in any way, except for proper payment of right-of-way condemnation proceedings.

I hope the membership will bear that in mind when debating this important bill, which I believe is extremely important in construction of roadside rests in Pennsylvania in the future.

Mr. Speaker, I thank you.

The SPEAKER. Will either one of the gentlemen from Allegheny yield to the other one? The Chair does not like to distinguish between these two friends.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. I yield to the gentleman from Allegheny, Dr. Boies.

INTERROGATION

Mr. BOIES asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate the majority leader, Mr. McCANN.

Mr. BOIES. I would like to know if he is assuming the defense of the members of the House and the House itself and the administration all on his shoulders, in view of the Speaker's latest timely letter and the floor leader's remarks if we can depend on the floor leader to defend the members against misleading and fraudulent statements in the newspapers from here on?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, there is no question but that at any time I or anyone else certainly would do that whenever we have the information and the facts.

Mr. BOIES. Well, for my part, not speaking for myself but for some other members, I will put the burden on the floor leader's shoulders and call his attention to the fact that several editorials in the Pittsburgh papers in the last week come under that category and I would request that he look them over and see if they do not need a few remarks.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I shall be most pleased to do it. As you know, all the newspaper editorials of the major papers are clipped each day and I do get a chance to check them toward the end of each week.

INTERROGATION

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate the majority leader, Mr. McCann.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I have been informed, I do not know whether reliably or otherwise, that in connection with the roadside rests, there have been roadside rests already constructed in the Poconos in violation of the restrictions of the act of 1957. Before we have our debate on the amendments which I intend to present, will the majority leader get me reliable information as to whether or not that is factual?

Mr. McCANN. Will the gentleman repeat that? Is it in violation of the 1957 act that there have been roadside rests built in the Poconos in violation of that law, which is the present law? Is that the question?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. That is the question.

Mr. McCANN. All right. Does the question deal with the violation of the amount of money allowed to be spent under the law?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. No, the question deals with the prohibition against having a roadside rest adjacent to commercial enterprises.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will have that information for him within the matter of an hour.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Thank you.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am going to request a thirty-minute recess for lunch, from 1 to 1:30, a caucus of one hour to cover the bills, and then ask that this House will work from 2:30 to 6 or 6:30, voting until 6 o'clock, but cleaning up the desk after the last vote.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, there will also be a Republican caucus promptly at 1:30, and will the members please bring their calendars with them?

RECESS

The SPEAKER. There being no objection, the Chair declares a recess until 2:30.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired, the House was called to order.

Mr. HELM IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, who has asked for unanimous consent of the House to speak on the entire labor package.

The Chair hears no objection. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I am not going to speak specifically on any particular bill at this time, but I would just like to give the House a few observations as I view the action that is contemplated to be taken in the House today with respect to this package.

As you all know, two weeks ago the four labor leaders in the State, the major ones, proceeded to announce that they planned to meet with Governor Lawrence on that particular Monday to see whether the Governor is with us, whether he will be neutral, or whether he will oppose the program in this legislature.

As you know, the meeting was held, and I believe it was announced that the Governor was in full accord with the aims of the four labor leaders and that message was accordingly, as we understand it, conveyed. As a result of this meeting the green light was turned on, and we have on this calendar today the two full-crew bills and seven or eight other bills which we are terming the so-called labor package.

What does this mean to Pennsylvania?

I will give you some figures and let you draw your own conclusions. Do not get the idea that we are, any of us, against the laboring man or his aims, but we are trying to make Pennsylvania a greater and greater State. What is the situation in Pennsylvania today? I called the Department of Labor and Industry, the bureau of statistics over in employment security, and I questioned them on their bulletin of February 1961, when they said that the total unemployment in Pennsylvania was 504,000 people. Eleven percent of the working force is out of work. I asked them how that figure compared with today's figure. The figure is 505,000, according to the newest computations they have and, with respect to a new way of figuring it, there is 10.8 percent of the working force of Pennsylvania out of work. That is a huge number of unemployed persons in this great State of ours.

What should we be doing in this General Assembly? What should Governor Lawrence be doing? He should be straining his utmost to try to put this 504,000 or 505,000 people back to work. He should have called in the leaders of the four big industries in Pennsylvania, as well as the four big men of labor, and said to them, to the steel, to the railroads, to coal, and the other miscellaneous industries, there is a package of bills that is going to be put on the calendar, certain moves that are going to be made on the labor side of the picture. How will they affect you? How will it affect prospective manufacturers who intend to come into Pennsylvania? What can we, the Democratic Party, do to bring in more industry, employ more people, have bigger payrolls, create a favorable business climate in Pennsylvania?

No, there is not one line in the newspapers of any such conference in the Governor's office with the people in this State that would really put men back to work.

Now, I am not going to discuss the merits of these bills on this calendar today because we will talk about them as they come up, but every one of these bills has a certain deterrent to the businessman, be he in the State or be he out of the State, whether he plans to locate here or not.

I called the State Treasurer yesterday; I wanted to know how the unemployment compensation fund was. Bob Kent, a former member here, reported that there is $59,838,000 remaining in the unemployment compensation fund. There are 264,357 people drawing unemployment compensation. Last week they paid out $14 million; over a million dollars every day of the week is being paid out of that fund. They expect about $21 million to be paid into the fund when the payments come in in the middle of May, and, by fall, goodness knows what the effect on our unemployment compensation fund will be.

In other words, in that fund has been put $102 million of money borrowed from the Federal Government and, while we are all for these payments for unemployment compensation, it all points up the plight that industry is in in Pennsylvania today in this great State of ours with 264,000 people receiving unemployment compensation.

Here we have these bills on the calendar today. Maybe they are necessary. Maybe labor needs them. Maybe the plight of labor in this State is something frightful. Maybe they need to do away with that anti-injunction act in this first bill. Maybe they have to have the minimum wage of one dollar. I do not know. But it seems to me that labor is getting along pretty good in Pennsylvania, those who are lucky enough to have a job. If these bills pass now, I repeat—I said it on the floor the other day—we are saying to the employers of Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania is not a very healthy place for you. We are not putting anything on this calendar to help you.

Here is House bill 573 on this calendar. You promised to amend it, to clarify the sales tax, to give the poor manufacturer a little bit of a break here, some of them in the processing industries that are being crucified by the sales tax. But, no, weeks and weeks and weeks go by. You say you are studying it, amendments are going to be prepared, the bill is going to be passed over today, but, believe me, you have all these bills out on this calendar, which I am telling you will destroy what little favorable business climate we have in Pennsylvania.

To repeat what I said last week, we on this side have been fighting session after session to try to give the businessman a break in this State. You people have been trying. You have organized the PIDA; you have put $8 million into that fund and you are pleading all over Pennsylvania towns and boroughs to assist in this effort. You have a bill on this calendar today permitting towns and boroughs to put money into industrial development agencies. Then you heap on top of the employers of this State the worst abuse, the greatest calumny and the most terrible thing that you could imagine and then expect all of us to get behind the wheel to put people back to work. You just are not going to do it.

Here is this bill to rip out the right of an employer to get an injunction, a preliminary injunction, in a labor dispute. In four small categories you are allowed to get a preliminary injunction. The greatest of all is when there is a sit-down strike in a plant. What is wrong with a preliminary injunction in a plant when there is a sit-down strike, when a man's plant, his assets, are seized? There is nothing wrong with that. We need that protection in Pennsylvania today. You cannot show me where labor has been unduly harassed by it. These judges are wise men in Pennsylvania. When a request for a preliminary injunction comes before them, they require affidavits, they look into the pleadings, they make sure the bill contains a complaint, a cause of action, and, believe me, they are careful before they grant a preliminary injunction. It is a wonderful safeguard to the people of the State and to employers to have this on our books.

I can get a preliminary injunction against any of you people under the law today, if you are doing something that is restrainable under our equity rules. There is no restraint on me; I can get a preliminary injunction. And you can as citizens. But, no, in this particular instance we say, as far as labor is concerned, you cannot file a bill of complaint, you have to have a hearing, you have to do this, you have to do that, before an injunction can ensue. All this time goodness knows what will be happening.

I say it is wrong, in my opinion, for you to do that which you are proposing in this particular bill.

Pennsylvania needs industry. We have to put these 506,000 people back to work. And today, instead of taking our time on these bills, we should have about 25 bills on this calendar to bring business here, to make jobs, to build roads and factories, and do all the things this State should be doing, instead of taking these backward steps that are discouraging business from locating in Pennsylvania.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will very briefly reply to some basic points of the entire argument dealing with overall labor program.

There is no question that it is easy to talk in general terms, but it is important to be specific. You talk about building roads and the PIDA Program. These cost money and you have to provide taxes. This we do. This we believe correct, and we will take this battle to the people of this Commonwealth in determining that. We also will take, as we have in the past, our statement that the Democratic Party has done just as much, or more, for business in Pennsylvania than any other previous ten administrations. We will say to you that in this budget of the Commonwealth we have seen that the tax climate of this Commonwealth is more favorable today than it was under the Republican administrations and it will continue to be favorable on a fair basis both to industry and to the consumers. In a short period of less than six years, this Party that I represent has enacted sales taxes which are consumers' taxes, and we have fought down the line to see that everyone pays a fair share. We have done this in making the climate favorable in Pennsylvania, and this we honestly believe.

These individual bills that deal with the so-called labor package here are not bills that will, in any way, wipe out a segment of people who are now employed or that it will possibly deter new industries from coming into this Commonwealth, which we so earnestly ask that they consider locating here. We intend to implement our PIDA Program in compliance with the Federal legislation that will be enacted in Congress in the very near future, by the final agreement between the House and the Senate on this important legislation.

The present bill 863 removes, as Mr. Johnson said, the preliminary injunction granted by the courts, that there are also two sides to a labor dispute, there is the side from the working man's viewpoint and from the management certainly. We are firm believers in the conference table for settling the problems of labor disputes. We are firm believers in major industries sitting at the conference tables with the Federal Government, whenever possible, assisting in labor disputes. By this piece of legislation we are asking that a hearing be held before a preliminary injunction is granted. This, of course, was Public Law of 1937, enacted in this House and Senate back in June of 1937, which we are asking to be removed from the books.

There is no question that the gentleman is correct in stating that this law has not been used too many times in recent years. This is true. But it is also true that it has been used in some cases, and it is also true that very likely it would be used in cases in the future. But would it not be well for the hearing to be held, the complete hearing on the injunction, before it is granted? This is our position and for that we ask. We ask that you support this piece of legislation to grant this right to labor all over Pennsylvania.

Mr. Speaker, some of the other bills we will debate more individually than this one and perhaps the gentleman will, in his overall rebuttal statement, speak on some other bills and I hope that no member will object to an overall statement in reply.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, just one word of reply to the gentleman. He states that they will put their record of establishing a favorable business climate against the Republicans any day in the week. I would say this, and everybody knows it, you have a favorable business climate in Pennsylvania today despite the Democratic Party. I will give you a few instances of some things that you have done in just the last few years in order to discourage industry in this State.

When we were in power in 1957 we had the House and the Senate and we came with the amendments to the sales tax so that in industry you would not tax foundations and we would clarify that which was directly in manufacturing, and we had a series of amendments to the sales tax which industry had to have because of persecution over in the Sales Tax Division. We passed them. They went to Governor Leader's desk. What did Governor Leader do? He called the House and Senate in here and in a Joint Session pleaded with us to take that bill off his desk. It was granting industry a little tiny bit of a break in Pennsylvania.

That same session, the capital-stock-tax bill, the tax on manufacturers' capital stock, when it left this House—that was in the 1955 session—and the Democrats were in power in 1955, the bill said that manufacturers shall forever be deprived of their exemption under capital stock. You know that bill hit the Republican State Senate, it languished there for a long time, and, finally, George Leader, after his Westinghouse decision and a few other things that were going on, and a few plants were moving out of this State, got religion and had the Republican State Senate amend the bill so that the capital-stock-tax exemption would be available after December 31, 1957. That was a Republican move over in the Republican State Senate.

I could go on and tell you about the excise tax you tried to put on manufacturers here during the last few years. I say that you talk out of both sides of your mouth. You are going to have to say to industry, we want you in Pennsylvania, we love you, there are a lot of breaks we are going to give you. Instead of talking about the great things you are doing, get some of these bills over here, and then they have to go to the Dauphin County Court and the State Supreme Court in order to get some relief. We are not giving industry the place it should get in this State. If we would, this State would prosper and the Department of Commerce would not have the job they have today. And I say that this package of bills today is a typical example. The story of these bills has gone out all over Pennsylvania and I am telling you that, so far as industry is concerned, it is not going to be a good thing, and, as far as the laboring man is concerned, it is not going to help him either. It is not going to help labor one bit whether this anti-injunction bill passes because judges today are pretty circumspect before they grant that preliminary injunction. But, to industry, to the people who count and who are spending the money, who are building the plants and are borrowing the money to meet payrolls, and so forth, they are the ones who say, "What are you doing to us up there in that General Assembly of Pennsylvania?"

Today you put on our desks this Joint Legislative Committee Report on Unemployment. I do not know whether any of you have looked at it or not, but it is a very revealing story on page 11. In the anthracite industry in 1950 there were 75,000 workers; today there are only 15,000; bituminous 85,000, now 31,000; railroads 132,000, now 79,000 workers; textiles 136,000 then, 73,000 now. There is a percentage drop overall, 53.7 percentage. We have to search our souls; we have to sit down, all of us, and try and right this picture to bring industry back into this State. We have everything—land, labor, capital, enterprise, wonderful transportation; we have money; we have natural resources; we have everything. We should give industry a welcome hand here and bring them in here and put these 57,000 people back to work. That is our job here in this session of the General Assembly as I see it.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, to quote the majority leader, it is easy to talk in general terms; but we must be specific. I want to be specific. I would like to interrogate the majority leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BOWMAN. Is it not true, Mr. Speaker, that one of the four categories under existing law in which a preliminary injunction may issue and which this bill would seek to obviate is the situation where the workers seize, damage, or destroy the employer's property?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, one of the provisions on a preliminary injunction is dealing with a labor dispute or where they seize property, or any other reasons.

Mr. BOWMAN. Let us take an example in specifics. Suppose a labor dispute arises and the employees take physical possession of the plant and begin to destroy or otherwise reduce the value of the plant. What possible remedy, if this bill passes, does the employer have under existing law to protect his property?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, of course, he has now the right for the preliminary issuance of injunction by the courts. This is on the so-called sit-in or sit-down labor dispute, but I say to you that labor is just a little more interested in operating the plants and they do not destroy property because labor today is deeply interested in operating and helping to operate that plant efficiently and they have so proven it in more than one industry in the last two years. But the man, or the owner, or the management does have the right to have the hearing immediately in the courts of the respective county in which the labor dispute is occurring.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, that was partially a speech and certainly was not an answer specifically to my interrogation, except the last statement. The last statement was, if I am quoting correctly, that the employer, if this law would pass, would have the right of preliminary injunction?

Mr. McCANN. No, sir. If this law passed he would have the right for a hearing in the courts of the respective county before the injunction was issued.

Mr. BOWMAN. And what is the approximate time that would take to get to issue?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, that would be by the determination of the courts, but they have acted very promptly in consideration of cases.

Mr. BOWMAN. Quite the contrary, Mr. Speaker. It is not within the jurisdiction of the court to speed up a procedure under normal injunctive process. There are rights in the defendant to wait 20 days before filing an answer, and, therefore, even under the best circumstances, 20 days can expire before any type of hearing can be held on an ordinary injunction.

The gentleman spoke, Mr. Speaker, of responsible labor organizations being just as interested as the employer in operating that plant. That I will concede. We are not dealing exclusively in this bill with responsible labor organizations. We are dealing with irresponsible labor organizations, if any exist; we are dealing with irresponsible workers, not represented by a labor organization.

You are giving them, by this bill, the same rights, without regard to their responsibility, as you are giving responsible labor organizations. Now I ask the majority leader, is it fair that under all and any circumstances this right should not exist in favor of an employer under any and all circumstances?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, first, I know of no labor organizations that are irresponsible, nor any of its leaders in any specific statewide, nationwide, or local industrial union in any area. Then for those who say there is no labor organization in the plant, there have not been any cases for the issuance of any preliminary injunctions in which there has been any destruction. There have not been any injunctions, preliminary injunctions, issued in any of those cases in recent times not represented by a union, not represented by a union or a local.

Mr. BOWMAN. I quite understand that.

Now let me ask the majority leader this question, Mr. Speaker: In his opinion, is a wildcat strike by a local of a responsible state or national labor organization irresponsibility or not irresponsibility, particularly when the national or state organization has asked the local to cease and desist from its activity and it refuses to do so?

Mr. McCANN. It is. It is a wildcat strike and the labor leaders have time and time again cautioned and directed a local union to cease and desist where a strike has been called, normally called, a wildcat strike in opposition to following the grievance procedure outlined in their contracts. And in many cases there are penalty clauses both on the local union and the workers themselves.

Mr. BOWMAN. Do I then understand the majority leader to feel that it is proper for a wildcat strike, conducted by a local, that the employer of that organization should not have the preliminary injunction procedure prescribed by the present law?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, there is no question that we are removing all of the preliminary injunction granted under this law, the law of 1937, and that the management would have the hearing as you stated, in the court of the respective county, before the injunction could be issued. But the unions have also, under both existing laws and on their own in contracts, tightened up pretty tightly wildcat strikes and will continue to do so, because they are interested in seeing that a plant operates through its grievance procedure outlined in the contracts.

Mr. BOWMAN. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, we are again faced with legislation which is applicable to all. This is not a question of law which will hinder or help either responsible management or responsible labor organizations, and, for the most part, fortunately, in these United States we have a large majority of both. However, in speaking of specifics we are not talking about the responsible groups, and I will admit there are irresponsible employers. I hold no brief for employers having 100 percent right and employees 100 percent wrong. I have never taken that position. But that is not the issue before us today. The issue before us today is, the rule of law applies with equal right and force to the responsible and the irresponsible, and, basically, laws are passed to control and provide for remedies and rights with respect to the irresponsible, not the responsible.

The majority leader himself has said and the minority leader has said that this particular act has not been used for the past several years, and I agree with that, but it is on the books. It is on the books to protect the employer, to protect industry, to protect business, not against the responsible labor organization, and again I repeat, most of them are, but it is there and it is properly there, in my opinion, to protect against irresponsible labor organization, whether it be local, state or national.

What about these wildcat strikes? They are condemned. The majority leader condemns them, but they exist and nobody here can gainsay that. They have quite a few, in my opinion, in these United States. We have a number of them in Pennsylvania. So the issue, therefore, is shall the wildcat strike, not approved by the national, frowned upon by the national, but nevertheless not controlled by the national organization, shall it be permitted to continue in these four categories and the employer cannot do anything about it? I say it is no, and I think this legislation which attempts to eliminate that right, which you and I as individuals enjoy with respect to each other's property, and to put irresponsible labor, not responsible labor, in a better position in the law than you and I are in, then I say it is poor legislation.

Thank you.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I will be very brief, but I would like to reply to some of the remarks of the gentleman from Dauphin made with respect to the repeal to this anti-labor act. He made reference to the fact that if this act were repealed it then would be necessary to give the party twenty days under the rules of court to file an answer. And during that twenty-day period all sorts of havoc would occur as a result of the employers' inability to get this preliminary injunction by affidavit.

Now it seems to me that in Pennsylvania and in most other States, I or any one else can commit the most heinous or the most atrocious crime short of murder and, after committing it and there is a preliminary hearing, I can be released on bail and there is nothing in the world except the usual processes and criminal laws to prevent me from going out and committing an even more horrible crime during that interim period between the time of the arrest and the time when the actual trial on the merits of the case takes place. In Philadelphia, or in other large metropolitan areas it might be one, two or even three years before I am brought to trial and in the meantime I am permitted to go throughout the Commonwealth and commit these crimes. Now it seems to me that if we are to repeal this bill, it should be for no other reason, than that we should say the labor unions—and it is admitted that the majority of them are respectful and law abiding—should have at least the right of common criminals. It seems to me, further, if we are to repeal this law, it should be for no other reason than because of desuetude; it is just not used these days.

I can remember the time when it was a favorite trick of employers who were no more interested in human rights of individual employees or labor unions to use this anti-injunction provision of the law to compel or to coerce employees and labor unions to concede to the terms set forth by that particular employer. There is no reason in the world why anybody should go in on the basis of affidavits and get a court to sign a preliminary injunction without giving the labor unions the right to present their defense on the merits. I have not heard any evidence today that there has been an abuse by labor and for that reason I think we ought to support this bill. I think it should rise above partisan politics. I think it is about time we try to help these labor unions and employees who are subject to and are members of labor unions, to permit them further to exercise a very important aspect of the freedom of speech guaranteed by both the State Constitution and the Constitution of the United States. And I therefore ask both sides to support this very liberal repealer.

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Speaker, in this package of labor bills which we are about to vote upon I told the Republican caucus today there are some bills that definitely I will vote on in the affirmative. I told them about this bill I did not quite make up my mind, that I wanted to study this legislation a little more before I made the final decision. I told them that I may vote for it, to put me in the affirmative, but I was thinking with some reservation as to what my final vote may be.

It seems to me that labor or industry should never ask to be put into any favored position. It seems to me that we as legislators could never vote for any group if we are going to favor them over other groups of citizens. Now, unless I misunderstand the present law of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, if a person were destroying my private property or your private property, you or I could go into the court of common pleas in our respective counties and get a preliminary injunction to stop him from doing so. But how long would this preliminary injunction last? I believe the rules provide that a hearing must be held in four or five days—I do not know which time limitation, but I will say four days—to ascertain whether that preliminary injunction will be dissolved or continued pending the final disposition of the merits of the case. Now I believe that is reasonable.

You say, or as the majority leader has said, that certainly labor organizations are now more responsible than they probably were perhaps ever in the history, and that is true. Labor has come a long way and we all are happy about it because they are a keystone of our Commonwealth and our Nation. But there is a possibility that you have irresponsible people, who act irresponsibly, not because they were always irresponsible but because of crowd emotionalism, because of owing to spy emotion and if given an opportunity to think a moment they would act in the manner that they are presently acting, say, for example, ripping down or carrying away or destroying some property of the employer because of a hot labor dispute.

Now, the employer remedy under present law, is merely to go in and get a preliminary injunction to prevent this particular irresponsible act for a period of four days. Then the court decides whether this injunction should continue or dissolve. Now, I do not think that is too harsh a rule to have placed upon any of our citizens in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. And, certainly, if it is true for the private citizens, it should be true for the labor organization or the industrial organization that is acting along in a labor dispute. I, therefore, am going to vote against this bill.

I wish I could vote for the bill but I have heard no compelling reasons on this floor to have my action other than I am going to take this afternoon. As I said earlier, there are labor bills, such as the minimum-wage bill, which I favor, and I will vote for those bills, but as for this particular bill, I think the present law has some merit to it. There may be some provisions that need to be changed, but certainly not the provision which says that if workers get unruly and begin to destroy plants, that industry cannot get a preliminary injunction which can only last four days under present law. I do not think that is too unreasonable.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, in reference to the previous remarks I would like to state that these situations that were mentioned by the gentleman from the other side are clearly situations that are protected by the penal laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Certainly we have laws in the code that permit an individual whose property has been destroyed to have a warrant issued and to proceed under the criminal laws to have him arrested and either in a summary defense before the minor judiciary or, if it is an indicted offense, he can be held for court and trial by jury. But all the situations that were mentioned, it seems to me, were adequately covered and we have assistant district attorneys in the House who are familiar with the criminal laws of Pennsylvania and they surely should know, and I am referring to men on both sides of the House. The employers in the situations mentioned, when they go into court, sign an affidavit and have these men arrested for destroying property. It is a police problem, not a problem for a court of equity on a preliminary injunction.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker, let us move forward and get away from the terrific and terrible conditions that existed and that the workingman had to bear before the National Labor Act was enacted. Let us get away from that old system of ours and look upon the workingman the same as any other man—big business, little business or any other kind of business. Give him a fair shake. That is what big businessmen always get if they have to go to court.

Let me give you a little experience of mine. The committee and I, representing the local group, were negotiating a contract with the president of the company and the general superintendent and we had settled all points except one. The president said, "Absolutely we cannot go along with that." I said, "All right, Mr. President, I want to make one request. If you are going to hire outside guards to guard this property, we want to do the guarding and it will not cost you a penny. These employees will protect this property. You know why? That is their bread and butter. They are here to make profits like you are making right now." "Just a minute," he said, "just a minute, I think we can settle this."

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to answer the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack.

The gentleman just made a statement on what is wrong with the criminal law? In other words, he apparently would advocate that if the workers got unruly because of crowd emotions that the employers could go out and have them arrested. I think it is harder to make criminals out of these strikers than to permit, under the present law, an employer seeking civil regress in a court of common pleas by asking an injunction and say, please boys, stop doing this until we all have our senses. He, under his theory of government, would say, issue 500 warrants for their arrest and make criminals out of these strikers. Certainly that is not in labor's interest.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 14 of today's calendar, bills on third reading, House bill No. 840.

POINT OF ORDER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman, rise?

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have examined about 15 desks and I do not find the bill in print on any desk.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The printer's number on this particular bill is 922. Certainly the bill should have been in print and on the members' desks.

Mr. BOWMAN. I looked faithfully, as I said, on over 15 desks throughout the House and I do not find the bill.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, could we check 836, printer's No. 918? Is it on the desks?

Mr. BOWMAN. It is.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection,

House bill No. 840, printer's No. 922, was passed over temporarily at the request of Mr. McCANN.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House bill No. 836, printer's No. 918.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 836, entitled:

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

NOT VOTING—5

Fetterolf,	Magee,	Murray,	Odorisio,
			Price,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Are we in position now with bill No. 840, printer's No. 922?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The bills have been sent for by the chief clerk.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I ask permission to turn to page 7, bills on final passage postponed. I call up House bill 363, printer's No. 1358.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. McCANN.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 363, entitled:

An Act requiring common carriers by railroad to man locomotives and trains with competent employes providing for the minimum number and qualifications of men so employed and providing penalties.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, we have heard some talk today about the Democratic Party promoting industrial development and one reference to profits of industry. I would like to point out what this bill will do so far as industrial development and the problems of industry in northern Pennsylvania. Possibly it would apply, likewise, to several other sections of the State.

We have a one-train industry in northern Pennsylvania. At the present time that industry is losing money; it has lost money in the past few years. The industry at times has been financed through private donations. On that particular railroad, presently, they have a crew of four men. It would seem that the addition of one man might not bankrupt a railroad, but I assure the members of the House it is my opinion that this railroad will be bankrupt if this bill does pass. Let's have a little consideration, a little feeling, for all the areas of the State. Let's have a little more than a point of view directed to one area. Consider that we like Pennsylvania as well as anyone else likes it. In fact, we would hardly trade our area for any other area whether in Pennsylvania or the United States. We require and need this railroad; we need it for our industries and for the economy of our area. I certainly hope the members of the House will vote against House bill 363.

POINT OF ORDER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Perry, Mr. Holman, rise?

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, none of us on this side of the House have this House bill either. I am wondering if the Democrats are the only ones who obtain these bills.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would like to inquire whether the members have this bill in their files?

For what purpose does the gentleman from Bucks rise?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, just to report that I do not think this is an isolated incident. I went to the chief clerk and stated that I did not have this bill in my folder either. I think it is occurring all too often.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The rule requires that the bills be on the members' desks before they are voted upon.

For what purpose does the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy, rise?

Mr. MURPHY. To speak on the bill when the Chair is ready.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman suspend for just a moment?

Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, please come to the desk?

Mr. McCANN. It is my understanding that some of the members do not have bill No. 363 on their desks. Is that right?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. That is the understanding.

Mr. McCANN. I will ask the chief clerk to take the necessary action to distribute the bills immediately. Are the bills on the desks now? Have 840 been distributed?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Has everyone copies of 840? Those who have not received copies, hold up their hands and copies will be provided.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection,

House bill No. 363, printer's No. 1358, was passed over temporarily at the request of the SPEAKER pro tempore.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House bill No. 840, bills on third reading, on page 14.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 840, entitled:

An Act prohibiting the sale transfer ownership possession and use of tear and noxious gas and tear gas guns providing for certain exemptions and providing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. O'DELL. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will one of the sponsors of this bill permit himself to be interrogated?

The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Welsh?

Mr. WELSH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. O'DELL. I have a few questions written down because I did not have a copy of the bill.

As I understand it, bank messengers would be exempt under this bill?

Mr. WELSH. That is right.

Mr. O'DELL. I happen to own and operate a jewelry store. In my store I have concealed tear-gas bombs. I also have for my protection, which I carry with me at times going to and from the bank and the post office, when I am in the process of carrying large sums of money, which has not been lately, a tear-gas musket.

Am I to understand, under this bill, I would be prevented from protecting my own personal property?

Mr. WELSH. No, you would not.

Mr. O'DELL. Where does it say in the bill I would not?

Mr. WELSH. This bill is used as a measure to protect when they are out on strikes, so they do not use tear gas of any kind, tear-gas bombs.

Mr. O'DELL. Where does it say in the bill that I would be able to carry it for my own personal protection?

Mr. WELSH. It does pertain to tear gas when transported to other property.

Mr. O'DELL. Where does it say in there that my wife would be able to use a tear-gas pistol or bomb, which I have, which she could use, but I hope she never has to?

Mr. WELSH. They are for her own protection.

Mr. O'DELL. In other words, this bill takes away from the people the right to protect themselves with tear-gas pistols? Would this bill not be taking some of the rights that we are sitting here and voting away from the people, week after week, in this House?

Mr. WELSH. I think if you will look at page 2, line 16, it will take care of what you are asking.

Mr. O'DELL. Page 2, line 16? It is talking about banks. I do not happen to be a bank. On line 8, page 3, it says: "No tear or noxious gas or tear gas guns shall be stored on any premises in the Commonwealth." I have on my premises, in my storeroom, tear-gas bombs.

Mr. WELSH. I yield to this gentleman.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Schaaf.

Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, I perhaps could answer the question posed by the gentleman from Erie, Mr. O'Dell.

I believe that his problem is covered by that part of the bill beginning on page 2, line 16, and, too, if you will, on page 3, again beginning at line 3.

For example, "nothing within this act shall prohibit the purchase or possession of tear gas by"—I am skipping part of it here—"any bank or trust company or any person, association or corporation lawfully engaged solely in the conveyance of moneys." And then if you will look at subsection 2 of that section it says "in the regular conveyance of money." And I think, Mr. O'Dell, perhaps that is your particular situation.

Mr. O'DELL. Mr. Schaaf, to take an example, you have a wife and several small children. Are there not times when she might wish she had a tear-gas pistol around the house, which is much easier to operate than a small gun? It is a pistol that a woman could carry. You know from personal experience we have had a lot of "mugging" in Erie lately. You could carry this in your hand and with a flip of the finger you could trigger it, and the gas comes out the end of the bomb. Now, I have one of these at home on my own personal property. We live out in the country. We are isolated a little bit from other houses.

Under this bill, would not I or my wife be prohibited from owning a pistol of this kind and using it for personal protection?

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman is correct in that the bill would prohibit such activity, but I think he misunderstands or does not appreciate the characteristics of tear gas. It is a noxious gas. It can do serious bodily injury. If the gentleman is concerned about the protection or desires protection of this type, I am sure that he can, if it is his desire, obtain the appropriate permit to carry a pistol.

Mr. O'DELL. It does not say so in the bill.

Mr. SCHAAF. I do not agree that it does not say so in the bill.

Mr. O'DELL. That you can get a permit to carry it?

Mr. SCHAAF. I did not suggest, Mr. Speaker, that you could get a permit to carry tear gas.

Mr. O'DELL. I misunderstood. I thought you suggested that I could get a permit to carry a gas gun of this type the same as I carry a revolver.

In other words, there would be no way of getting a permit to carry a tear-gas gun?

Mr. SCHAAF. No, Mr. Speaker, because as of this date, the use of tear gas is a lawful activity. This legislation proposes to make it an unlawful activity except under certain given circumstances, one of which would be, in your case, in connection with your business.

Mr. O'DELL. In other words, it would take my personal right away from me to protect myself or my wife with a tear-gas pistol?

Mr. SCHAAF. As I understand the legislation, that is correct.

Mr. O'DELL. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Apparently, if that is so, I would not be able to have it in my store, although I am not sure? It says "solely in the conveyance of valuables." I might be able to have this in my store.

There are thousands of other jewelry stores, loan companies, and different companies throughout the Commonwealth that do have these gas bombs on their premises. Many safes have these gas bombs in back of the combination and, when the combination is drilled, the gas escapes.

Now you are making a very fine point. You are trying to, because a few manufacturers might have gas bombs, but, again, in my estimation, you are taking the rights of the majority of the people away from them simply to protect a few people.

I think it is bad legislation. I think it is just another example, as I said before, of how we sit here week after week and vote away the rights and privileges of half our people in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

It is a bad bill and I ask members on both sides of the House to vote against it.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will one of the sponsors permit himself to be interrogated?

Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I am not a sponsor of the bill but I will be glad to try to answer the questions of the gentleman from Bucks.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Is it my understanding that you are speaking for the sponsors of the bill, Mr. McCormack?

Mr. McCORMACK. How can I say that? I do not know. I cannot speak for anybody. I will try to interpret the legislation.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, I will be happy to interrogated Mr. McCormack.

Is it my understanding that this is one of the so-called labor bills, one of the labor packages that we are going to vote on today?

Mr. McCORMACK. It is my understanding that it is. This has always been a bill that the advocates of trade unionism have wanted passed into law. Yes.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, would I be correct that the reason why organized labor wants a bill of this sort is that tear gas or noxious gases cannot be used in strikes or other labor disputes?

Mr. McCORMACK. I would be safe in saying that this is one of the primary purposes behind this bill.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman say that is only one of the primary purposes? Are there other primary purposes?

Mr. McCORMACK. No, I think as I said, that is the primary purpose behind this bill. I think the history of disputes between employers and unions has revealed that on many occasions employers have unjustly, in order to disperse and to deprive the union members of their freedom of speech, used tear gas to disperse them and to prevent them from their constitutional rights.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, I could not agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia more. May I ask him this question: Mr. Speaker, is it possible for a bill to be drafted which would cover that subject and that subject alone?

Mr. McCORMACK. It might be possible but you are getting into a lot of technicalities that, if you wanted to quibble about them, you would be able to do that. I think that since the primary purpose of this bill, although it is not spelled out, if we can establish legislative intent on the floor of the House, is to prevent unscrupulous employers from using tear gas against members of trade unions and individuals in seeking to exercise the right to strike.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman well knows that legislative intent is important only when there is ambiguity in the language of the bill which becomes law. My position is, I think this bill is entirely too broad but, if it covers what Mr. McCormack said it is intended to cover, I would be for it, I would speak for it, and I would do anything else to see that it was passed. May I ask further, Mr. Speaker, how does this help organized labor to prevent jewelers, such as Mr. O'Dell, from having tear gas either installed in the premises so that it goes off when a burglar tries to perform his illegal act or when a jeweler himself has one of these tear-gas pencils or pistols, how does that help organized labor prevent jewelers from having these things?

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, quite frankly, Mr. Speaker, and this is not a legal argument, the purpose of the bill is to protect not only members of the union in seeking to exercise their rights and privileges but it is also to protect innocent people who might be around union members who are striking.

Now, tear gas being a noxious gas can do serious bodily harm to individuals who are in no wise connected with a dispute between labor and management. I would say that is for the greater good and I think that is the area we should legislate on. I think the situation hypothetically put by the gentleman from Erie is an unusual situation and I think that it might be a situation that would be prohibited if this bill became law, but at the same time you must take into consideration the greater good.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, do I understand or interpret the gentleman's remarks to mean that, because we do not want tear gas used in labor disputes, we must prevent jewelers and all other types of store-keepers—it does not have to be a jeweler—from having tear-gas devices in their store to protect themselves against thieves?

Mr. McCORMACK. This is not a new piece of legislation; that has been kicked around for years and has never gotten anywhere because the Democratic Party has never been in the majority. It seems unusual to me that we should suddenly get a hypothetical situation and hear about it for the first time. I have jewelers and other merchants in my district who handle and store and transport valuables. They know about this bill. They have never asserted themselves. They never told me that it was bad and that it would hurt them. How many untold devices can you mention that would protect people in situations such as those mentioned by the gentleman from Bucks and the gentleman from Erie? You have burglar alarm devices. You have all kinds of protective devices to protect them in situations like this.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, I am trying to understand the gentleman from Philadelphia. Is he saying it is impossible to draft this bill so that it covers the use of tear gas in strikes and yet would permit what I think is a laudable purpose in trying to prevent robbery and thefts in places where valuables are kept, and they do not have to be jewelry stores? It can be any type of business establishments.

Mr. McCORMACK. The truth of the matter is, that the vast majority of the members of the legislature here today can truthfully say they know very few plants or stores or jewelers, or what have you, who use tear-gas pens or any other instrument to expel tear gas. I do not know of any and this is the first I have ever heard of it. I know a lot of jewelers. They do not use these devices. These are things that are in the past.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Philadelphia.

Mr. Speaker, it has been my position that when certain bills come up in this House which are supported by organized labor, that unlike some members of this House who, as soon as they hear that, are automatically against it, I try to read the bill, examine what it would do, what its intent is, and if I think that intent is laudable and sensible and intelligent, I quite often am found among those who vote in the affirmative. I have now read this bill over carefully and I agree with Mr. McCormack, the gentleman from Philadelphia, that if this bill were drafted to prevent the use of these tear-gas devices in labor disputes, I would be for that bill and I think the vast majority of this House would be for it. However, this bill is not tightly drawn, it is loosely drawn. The only intelligent interpretation I have heard today, and that was not on the floor of this House, that says that jewelry stores and other stores, where valuables are kept, would not be prohibited from using these devices, was language on page 3, lines 6, 7, and 8, where it says that "any person, association or corporation lawfully engaged solely," and I think the word "solely" is important, "in the conveyance," and the only word there is conveyance, "of money, securities or valuables." To me that is a description of an operation like Brinks or any other armored car organization. Some people argue that that covers any other business where money is transported. I do not think it is broad enough to cover those things. I think that this bill which is intended to be for labor is in effect for business. I do not think that the dangers of tear gas in stores and other business establishments is so great that we should outlaw it. I do not think that the bill as drafted is a labor bill. If it were, I would support it.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate one of the sponsors of the bill, preferably my colleague from Berks, Mr. McDevitt.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. McDevitt, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McDEVITT. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know, if this type of legislation is the forerunner to the registration and possible eventual removal of regular firearms from the citizens, individuals of the Commonwealth, which type of legislation might—

POINT OF ORDER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, rise?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the question brought up by the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Adams, is not germane to the bill nor a part of the bill. It is not a forerunner of any assumption that anybody can assume on anything. It is not a part of this discussion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The point of order is well taken. The gentleman will confine his questioning to the merits of the bill.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I read here in the bill that it will permit the use of the owning or having a tear-gas gun. I just wondered about the relevancy as to other guns concerned, but if it is not pertinent, has no relevancy, I will not intergoate Mr. McDevitt any further in the matter, but I will make a statement on the bill.

I had my calendar marked to vote "aye" for this bill when I believed it was just for the use of protecting employes on legitimate strikes, but in reading the bill and listening to the debate on it, I discovered what I am led to believe is infringement on the right of the individual to own a tear-gas gun and have it in his own home for his protection of his personal property. Apparently that is more than what is intended by some of the proponents of the bill, and until something is done to remove the private infringements that I believe are in there, I shall be forced to reconsider my original intention and vote against the bill.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate one of the sponsors.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will one of the sponsors permit himself to be interrogated? The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, will consent to be interrogated. Does that satisfy the gentleman?

Mr. PIPER. Yes, sir.

Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Philadelphia believe that a tear-gas gun is more dangerous than a regular revolver?

Mr. McCORMACK. The answer will have to be yes and no. If I can explain it this way. A revolver is more deadly or certainly just as deadly as a tear-gas gun, but at the same time its pellets can be controlled so that it is aimed specifically at the object to which it is directed, whereas in a tear-gas gun the gas is dispelled and scattered like buck shot.

Mr. PIPER. Would the gentleman say that the tear-gas gun would kill the person it was aimed at or will just diasable him?

Mr. McCORMACK. I have never known any deaths occurring from the use of tear-gas and I stand to be corrected on that. I am not so familiar with that, but I cannot say that I knew of any deaths.

Mr. PIPER. Therefore, it is only used as a means of disabling, is that correct?

Mr. McCORMACK. It is used solely as a means . . .

Mr. PIPER. . . . of disabling some other person.

Mr. McCORMACK. And to prolong the agony of the individual who happens to be in the area of the gas.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, would the police be allowed to use tear gas in order to flush out a criminal who had barricaded himself within a home in preference to a pistol that would kill someone?

Mr. McCORMACK. I believe the police have the right to use tear gas, yes, sir.

Mr. PIPER. According to the act, it says for the use of the Commonwealth or any association or corporation lawfully engaged solely or in the regular conveyance of moneys, securities, or valuables.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentlman yield? For what purpose does the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann rise?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to answer the previous question, if I may be permitted.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia yield to the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann?

Mr. McCORMACK. Yes, Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the question of the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Piper, the police would definitely, after passage of this law, still have a right to use tear gas, as they do now have that right under their own supervision and control.

Mr. PIPER. I cannot read that into the bill, Mr. Speaker. Would you please read me the section or part of the bill that gives them that right?

Mr. McCANN. It is not in this bill, Mr. Speaker. It is under the law which this Commonwealth has given to the Pennsylvania State Police or any police, local, municipal, city, borough, township police forces, as well as your Commonwealth of Pennsylvania State Police. Naturally you will not read it in there.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, will permit me to further answer that question—would the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, yield?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I believe that section 3, paragraph 2, clearly states that the sale of tear gas or noxious gas, et cetera, in the United States, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or any political subdivision for use in this Commonwealth is not prohibited, so under that section the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and political subdivisions thereof would not be prohibited from using it.

Mr. PIPER. Well, Mr. Speaker, if you read a little further, it says, "lawfully engaged solely in the regular conveyance of moneys, securities or valuables."

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, that is a question of statutory construction and involves a legal principle, ejusdem generis. The phrase "or in the regular conveyance of moneys securities or valuables" applies solely to any association or corporation lawfully engaged solely in such regular conveyance. That is a principle on which I am sure the lawyers, the legal draftsmen, will agree with me. Unfortunately, Mr. Bowman, who is a legal draftsman, is not listening now—

If the gentleman from Berks would yield for the purpose of my asking the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman, a question—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Piper, yield?

Mr. PIPER. I am through interrogating Mr. McCormack. If he will let me finish, then he may continue.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Berks, Mr. Piper, has the floor.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I am going to vote for this bill, but apparently the way it is written and the way I see it, it is only serving one purpose and it does not take out other purposes that I feel are necessary. I am not a lawyer, but I think the way this bill is written it may prevent our police departments from using tear gas lawfully when they have somebody they have caught ambushed within a house, who has a shotgun and can gain their way out no other way except by tear gas.

Thank you.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, desire to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman?

Mr. BOWMAN. I consent to be interrogated.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I just wanted to see if we could reach an agreement with respect to the language that the gentleman from Berks has mentioned, and I said that the phrase "in the regular conveyance of moneys, securities or valuables" obviously applies to any association or corporation; it does not apply to the Commonwealth or political subdivisions thereof under the usual rules of statutory construction. Would the gentleman agree with that?

Mr. BOWMAN. If I understand the question correctly, I do agree with that; however, with the permission of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, I would like to further comment on this point and other points.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, consternation seems to be compounded by confusion with respect to this bill. I will attempt in my own humble opinion to summarize what I believe this bill is to do.

The one thing that concerns me, which has not been discussed here, is the definition of noxious gas, and, if a noxious gas includes gases used by legitimate extermination companies, we are now prohibiting a whole industry from operating in Pennsylvania. I do not consider this to be a specious objection. I consider it to be a very real objection to this bill.

The second point I want to raise and which has been previously touched upon is this: This bill would prohibit, in my humble opinion, the possession in your own home of a tear-gas device of any kind, or auto parts dealers, jewelers, manufacturers, et cetera, et cetera. This bill would prohibit any person from choosing to use a tear-gas device as a protection against thievery or robbery, or what have you.

We have, in my opinion, another example of a bill with a laudable purpose but too broadly drafted. This bill, in my opinion, goes far beyond its original intent and should be defeated for that purpose. I ask that the sponsors of this legislation draft a bill prohibiting the use of tear gas in labor disputes or in labor negotiations of any kind. That bill can be supported by almost all of us. I think this bill goes much, much too far.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gelfand, rise?

Mr. GELFAND. I rise to a point of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. GELFAND. Is it within the province of this House, by debate, to establish the intent of a piece of legislation?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has been informed that it could be taken into court, but it would not be the determining factor as far as the courts are concerned. They would consider the debate on this floor in establishing the intent.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, would it be within the province of this House to determine that the use of tear gas or noxious gas as indicated within this bill is not in contravention of the constitutional provision which provides for the right of the citizens to bear arms in defense of themselves and this right shall not be questioned, and thereby make it possible for an individual, under that section of the Constitution, to carry a tear-gas gun for his own protection?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The bill can be amended any way that the membership of this House desires to amend it.

Mr. GELFAND. Then it is the opinion of the Chair that by mere debate which indicated such an interpretation this would not preclude the bill from being interpreted other than as I have just indicated?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is correct.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will one of the sponsors of the bill permit himself to be interrogated?

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCORMACK. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, on page 2 of this bill it says: "Nothing contained in this act shall prohibit." Then, beginning on line 16 it says, "The sale of tear or noxious gas or tear gas guns to the United States the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or any political subdivision thereof or to any bank or trust company for use in this Commonwealth . . ." Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, or anybody else, please point out to me where there is anything anywhere in this bill that would prevent a political subdivision, or a police official, a sheriff of a county which is a political subdivision of this Commonwealth from using that in dispersing wildcat strikes or any other type of a strike? Where is there anything in the bill which says that they cannot use it? This is to be limited only to the use by manufacturers in that kind of a situation.

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, Mr. Speaker, section 2, line 5, makes it unlawful for any person, partnership, association or corporation to sell, give, or transfer, and so forth. Now, if you are trying to read into this a prohibition against a political subdivision, I would say it is not there. If you are asking whether or not, if this bill becomes law, the police and the sheriffs and political subdivisions would be prohibited from use, I would say clearly that they would not be prohibited under this bill.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Then they could use it to break strikes, is that right?

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, I think that conclusion is definite.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I thought the purpose of the bill was to prevent that, even by the police?

Mr. McCORMACK. Police in political subdivisions are not in business for the purpose of preventing strikes. Strikes are protected under the Constitution of the United States as an extension of the freedom of speech.

Mr. TOMPKINS. The gentleman means the freedom of assembly?

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, I think . . .

Mr. TOMPKINS. Or both of them. Go ahead.

Mr. McCORMACK. So they would not be prevented from so using tear gas, and the purpose of the bill is to protect, not only strikers and trade unionists, but innocent individuals. If you want to make it broader to include political subdivisions, to include sheriffs and police, that is for you to decide.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I am asking the gentleman his interpretation of this section of the bill.

Mr. McCORMACK. I believe I have already answered the gentleman. It does not apply to political subdivisions, police and sheriffs.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Then the police of that political subdivision could use tear gas in breaking up a strike assembly or a picket line, is that right?

Mr. McCORMACK. I would say so, yes, sir.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I thought that was what we were trying to prevent?

Mr. McCORMACK. No, we are trying to keep it, not from the police or not from duly constituted authorities, but from other people not connected with political subdivisions.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Can you cite me an instance where a manufacturer of any kind has used tear gas on their own for this purpose?

Mr. McCORMACK. I could answer the gentleman's question in extenso, but I think . . .

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentlemen yield for a moment? For what purpose does the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, rise?

Mr. McCANN. Will the two gentlemen who have the floor, and rightfully so, consent to my making a motion to place it on the postponed calendar and draw the amendment immediately that confines it to the labor dispute?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I am entirely in favor of the motion, particularly so since the question has been raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia bringing in the Constitution. Now there is no severalty clause to this act at all. We cannot pass an act clearly in contradiction to the Constitution, so I would say, when you amend it, be sure that you are going to comply with the Constitution giving every person the right to bear arms to protect his own person and property, and such other devices as may protect it. I think that is a very important point.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, if I get the amendments drawn before we leave this House, may I have the right to insert them before we adjourn today for printing for tomorrow?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, these would be very, very important amendments and I hardly think they are amendments that should be inserted on a consent basis. I believe we ought to have a chance to look them over.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The bill could not be voted upon today. It would have to be amended and reprinted.

Mr. McCANN. The gentleman is objecting to the possibility of my inserting the amendments should I get them prepared.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is that the gentleman's objection?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, there has been a very spirited debate about this bill and what the bill does, and I believe that Representatives Williams, O'Dell, and a few more would be pretty seriously interested in those amendments. I do not feel that I can say, yes, you go ahead and put those amendments in with a slim house. I do not think I can do it.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I request permission to turn to page 7. I call up House bill No. 363.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. McCANN.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 363, entitled:

An Act requiring common carriers by railroad to man locomotives and trains with competent employes providing for the minimum number and qualifications of men so employed and providing penalties.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, for reasons stated pre-vously—last Thursday—I would urge the membership to support this bill. This is the railroad minimum crew bill of five members. I do not think we will go into at length the various safety measures and financial reasons for the bill at this time.

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, I had some discussion on this bill before the consideration of bill 840. I am sure at that time not too many were converted to my point of view. I do hope that they will consider the fact that in some areas this bill is not needed, it is not a safety measure. We have the Coudersport and Allegheny Railroad which is a one-train railroad with a crew of four now. Usually the train has three, four, or five cars. Any more than that is a big train, but there is absolutely no need for a crew greater than the four presently used. I am certainly sure that it is not a safety measure. The railroad itself, as I said before, is near bankruptcy; it is losing money; it is financed by private contributions; and I would personally like to see the bill changed so that such railroads would be eliminated. But if that could not be done, I would like to see the members of the House vote against the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, desire to be recognized?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I am not going to debate the bill further. I think the debate on this bill was very exhaustive the last time it was up, and I am asking the members on this side of the House to vote "no" on the bill.

Mr. AUKEER. Mr. Speaker, I just want to put into the record on the re-vote on this bill, the same section of the Public Utility Code that I read when it was first considered, and under that particular section of the Public Utility Code, the Public Utility Commission has all the power and authority that is absolutely necessary to protect the public and to protect the employees of any common carrier. With regard to safety, there is no reason for this bill to be out on this calendar whatsoever because there is ample law on the books today to give that protection which this bill seeks to do.

Mr. MURPHY. I am afraid that the gentleman from Blair is misleading us. As recently as 1958 the PUC attempted to effectuate those regulations upon The Pennsylvania Railroad. The matter was carried clear to the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth and the Supreme Court held that the PUC could not mandate those regulations and that is why we find this legislation necessary.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

NOT VOTING—4

Magee,	Murray,	Odorisio,	Price,
--------	---------	-----------	--------

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I just want to give this thought to the members. I was one of the greatest advocates of this roll call, along with others. The way I have seen it operate, I would be one of the strongest advocates to vote to rip it out. I think that it has made a travesty of this House.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. ADAMS. I rise to a question of personal privilege. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. ADAMS. In 1957 I cosponsored a bill to put in the electric voting system here, and I was a strong advocate of it.

Just a couple weeks ago, the majority leader made a statement here charging this side of the House with being unethical and tripping the switches back and forth and confusing the vote tally. If holding this machine open for a protracted period of time on legislation of this type and also what was done last Thursday is not unethical, I wonder what it is. And I would be the second to motion to rip out this machine when it is used for the purpose and the manner in which it is being used.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair does not believe that is a question of personal privilege. The gentleman will have to make those remarks under unanimous consent.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. FINEMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I think that when a member takes the floor of this House and makes some assertions he ought to be factually correct in the assertions he makes.

The gentleman is incorrect in two assertions. No. 1, the statement that he attributes to the majority leader did not come from the lips of the majority leader. I made the statement. And, secondly, I never said or imputed that those members who were switching their toggles at the last moment were members confined to the Republican side alone. I said "members of this House," and if the description fits the shoes of the gentleman, then perhaps it is a guilty conscience that is speaking today and nothing more.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. GAILEY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, in regard to those remarks of the minority leader earlier and those of the gentleman on this side of the House who just spoke concerning the delay, I think traditionally it has been the right of the leadership in the House, and that includes the floor leader as well as the whip, to discuss legislation during the process of the vote with the members on their side of the House.

The mere fact that we have installed a mechanical device, it seems to me, in no way should abrogate that right. They have the perfect right, and traditionally so, to attempt to persuade members on the floor of this House.

In the second place, Mr. Speaker, I think it ill behooves and ill becomes members of the minority party in this House to have consistently delayed legislation over the past several weeks of the session, using, of course, the fact that we, through illness, have been unable to muster our 106 votes for that legislation coming to a vote. I think it ill becomes them to raise a question about a delay which, in this case, is a matter of merely five minutes.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will call up on page 23, House Resolution No. 11, which will be debated at this point.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 11

The resolution was read by the clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 17, 1961.

For the past several years a large portion of our Federal tax dollars has gone towards National defense. President Eisenhower and responsible leaders of both major political parties have indicated that we must continue to spend a large part of our tax revenues for defense against communist aggression. In President Eisenhower's budget this year he is asking for a total of $47,39,000,000 for National security. This is 58c of every tax dollar for National defense.

On a State level, funds for aid to education have long been given a top priority. Education of our young people, not only in the ways and means of earning a livelihood but in modern day political activity, is an essential factor to be considered in order that we and our youth may survive. Governor Lawrence in his message yesterday asked that we appropriate a sum of $469,055,501 or 47.147c of every tax dollar for education. Every year we appropriate large sums of money to the University of Pittsburgh to help maintain this fine university. This year's appropriation is approximately 6 million.

If we continue to appropriate funds for education, we must be sure that these funds will be spent properly and will be so channelled as to aid and abet the American way of life and the high ideas and objectives of decent Americanism. To allow supposed educational activity to undercut the objectives of our total activity and for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to appropriate funds to institutions harboring leftists who preach pro-communist doctrines is a woeful waste of our substance. The tax money appropriated by this body for educational activities must be spent on education which is wholesome and beneficial to the community and not for the payment of salaries of pro-communists.

Resolved (The Senate concurring), That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint three members of the House and the President Pro Tempore of the Senate appoint three members of the Senate who together shall constitute a joint committee to make a through investigation of University of Pittsburgh, receiving State aid, to determine whether subversive doctrines are being fostered.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. McCORMACK offered the following amendments.

Amend resolution, page 2, lines 1 to 4, by striking out "Speaker of the" in line 1, all of lines 2 and 3, and "Senate who together shall constitute a joint committee" in line 4, and inserting: "General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Committee on Un-American Activities of the Congress of the United States."

Amend resolution, page 2, line 5, by inserting after "of" the.

Amend resolution, page 2, line 5, by striking out "receiving State aid."

Amend resolution, page 2, line 6, by inserting after "fostered" and to report its findings to the Pennsylvania General Assembly; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the chairman of the Committee on Un-American Activities and to the presiding officers of each House of the Congress of the United States.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, who will attempt to explain the amendments.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, very briefly, these amendments pertaining to this resolution and investigation would memorialize the United States Congress and the committee on the un-American activities of the Congress to take jurisdiction in this matter as there is a substantial dispute with respect to the question of un-American activities and to forward a copy to the chairman, and, if they investigate, to submit a report of their findings to the Pennsylvania General Assembly. Now, that is precisely what the amendments would do and the reason, of course, that I offer them is that they have the machinery set up to handle investigations of un-American activities.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it was my understanding that I would get a chance to explain this resolution before any amendments were brought forth. As far as this amendment, which the gentleman from Philadelphia wanted to introduce, saying this is a matter for the House un-American Activities Committee, it would be like carrying coal to New Castle. The House un-American Activities Committee has the file on this gentleman, and not only on him but on others from the University of Pittsburgh. They are very well acquainted with whatever is going on down here. I have the report right here from the chairman of the committee, Honorable Francis E. Walters, and I wish to explain my purpose for introducing this resolution. And I did it very reluctantly because I have a lot of regard for the University of Pittsburgh. I attended the University of Pittsburgh. I did not graduate, but I lived there on the campus of the University at eighteen years of age, when I enlisted in the army. I feel that this should be voted down, so that I be given the opportunity to explain to this General Assembly the material that I have received, and I want to say that I at no time solicited any of this information. It was sent to me voluntarily, with the exception of two pieces of material. I would ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, through courtesy, to withdraw his amendments until such time as I have a chance to explain my resolution. Will you withdraw your amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walsh, desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack?

Mr. WALSH. I would.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that this has been thoroughly explained time and again. I have no objection, of course, if there is no violation of the rules, to do all the explaining you want right now, but I had been asked to submit this resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. As the gentleman was asked, would the gentleman withdraw his amendments for the purpose of discussing the resolution?

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, Mr. Speaker, why do we not just vote on the amendment and, if it is defeated, then you can go ahead?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, rise?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say to the members of the House, this bill—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman yield for the moment? The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walsh, has the floor. Will the gentleman yield to the gentleman from McKean.

Mr. WALSH. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I realize this resolution has been on the calendar for quite a number of months and, of course, I was not the floor leader when it came out, but I just talked to Mr. Lippincott and he said that we have not caucused on this resolution. We intended to do it today but we went on other bills and tried to really get a lot done here so we could really move the calendar, nor have we seen the amendments before. Our caucus may vote for the amendments.

MOTION TO LAY RESOLUTION AND AMENDMENT ON TABLE

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that the resolution together with the amendments be laid on the table.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. HOLLIDAY. Will you please announce what we are voting on? There seems to be some confusion whether we are voting to table or whether we are voting on the amendments.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair clearly stated that we are now voting on the amendments of the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, to lay the resolution, together with the amendments, upon the table.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. A. W. JOHNSON and TOMPKINS and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walsh.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCORMACK. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman from Philadelphia to temporarily withdraw his amendment. No one in this Assembly knows anything about this resolution except what is on the paper. This is a serious matter. It is not a question of whether you are going to have five men on a locomotive or six men; this is a serious matter, affecting, I think, the security of our Country. I would ask, as a personal courtesy to me, that the gentleman withdraw his amendment at this time, temporarily.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I hate to be approached on an emotional basis because it is always distasteful to me to say that I will not do something because of a particular person's feelings. It is my strong opinion that this amendment should be adopted if there is going to be an investigation, and I am not saying whether they should or they should not. I know very little about it. I am just suggesting, by this amendment, that Congress has the machinery to investigate, they have the appropriation, they have the budget, they have the members, they have the attorneys, they have the staff, and, therefore, I think the bill can be debated with the amendment in here. There is no restriction. No one is raising any point of order. I am not going to raise any point of order; you can debate it all afternoon. Nobody is going to object. I will not raise any point of order.

Mr. WALSH. Will you withdraw it temporarily?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman has declined to withdraw his amendment. The question is on the amendment.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walsh.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, in my opinion, this is muzzling because I have had no chance at all to explain what is in back of this resolution. It has been on the calendar since January 17. I was very courteous, very patient, with the University of Pittsburgh, allowing them all this time to make an investigation. I feel that with the condition of the Country as it is today everyone here is vitally concerned with our Country and our Country's safety. I would like to be able to bring this out to you.

Under the rules of the House I am not allowed to talk on the bill; I am only allowed to talk on the amendment. I think it is unfair; I think it is a whitewash; and I feel, if I had a chance to explain my position, I think you people would agree with me that I have been very patient, I have been very fair. I have had no cooperation from anyone. It is not John Walsh that is at stake here; I feel that it is the security of the United States of America at the present time that we are fighting for.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, glancing at the amendment that we just received here, it would seem that if there is going to be an investigation made we can do it right here from this General Assembly. I am inclined, myself, to vote against these amendments.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack.

AMENDMENTS WITHDRAWN TEMPORARILY

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to be accused of muzzling anybody. I will withdraw the amendment temporarily. Go ahead.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is the sponsor of the amendment and has that right. Does the gentleman desire to withdraw his amendment? The gentleman withdraws the amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, I sincerely thank the gentleman from Philadelphia.

As I said before, I have been very fair. When I introduced this resolution on January 17, I did it at the request of quite a few students of the University of Pittsburgh, quite a few of the faculty, and quite a few of the past graduates of the University of Pittsburgh.

My purpose in introducing the resolution to include all State-aided schools in Pennsylvania is because I did not want to single out the University of Pittsburgh. As I said before, I have a lot of affection for the University of Pittsburgh. It is a fine institution, but you do not burn down the barn to get rid of a bunch of rats!

When this first came up and I introduced this, some of the faculty at Pitt, or to be specific, the chancellor said this man had fought with the Abraham Lincoln Brigade as a non-Communist. Number one, he said he had been decorated and had been in the United States Intelligence.

Number two, and I believed this, that perhaps he should be the first one to welcome an investigation; if he is clean he has nothing to fear.

I was told by a group of graduates who are now teaching thereon, I think they call them "fellowships" or some such name, and they pointed out to me that a lot of stuff is happening in the University of Pittsburgh. I wrote to the chairman of the House un-American Activities Committee, Francis E. Walter, and he sent me a file on this gentleman. As you all know, you can be a Communist in this Country and we cannot do anything about it. I am not denying the right of this man to be a Communist, although I do not admire him. But we cannot stop him from being a Communist and my sole purpose was that if we are going to spend millions of dollars for national defense, and if we are going to spend millions of dollars for education, we should know how that money is being spent.

I have been told by the American Council of College Professors, or whatever the name is, that we have no right to investigate what happens at the University of Pittsburgh. I say that we, as the representatives of the people of Pennsylvania, who are giving money to the University of Pittsburgh—I think this year it is something like $6 or $7 million and they have $31.6 million in exempt property on the rolls of Allegheny County and the city of Pittsburgh—I feel that it is our bounden duty to find out where our money is being spent.

As I said before, I did not go out and solicit this information. It was given to me voluntarily. I asked these people, "Why don't you go before the committee that has been appointed?" They said, "We have been before the committee and we have protested, with the result that the next year we came back we were not given our scholarship or the scholarship to teach." There have been several people fired from the University of Pittsburgh.

I am keeping in mind that Mr. Khrushchev says, "Your grandchildren will be raised under Communism." I have eleven, and God forbid that they have to ever be raised under Communism. I want them to be raised as I was raised, a free American, a God-fearing man, and I do not think they are teaching that at the University of Pittsburgh today. Understand, I am confining my remarks to our history department.

I have here a letter from one of the students out there: "I am writing this letter to commend you for the stand you have taken regarding Dr. Robert Colodny of the University of Pittsburgh. As I am a student at the University myself, I have been able to observe at close range the various twists and turns that this controversy has taken. I deplore the attitude taken by those misguided students and faculty members who assert that the legislature has no right to investigate this matter. Such a viewpoint is characteristic of those self-styled 'intellectuals' who look with contempt upon the general public and who dismiss love of country as 'mere sentimentality.' "

I am bearing in mind that the overthrow of South Korea was led by college students; I am bearing in mind that in San Francisco, where the House un-American Activities Committee met, they stormed them; I am bearing in mind when ex-President Eisenhower went to Japan, or when he wanted to go Japan he could not go because of the arising of its college professors.

Now, let's discuss some of the charges. Understand, I have not made an investigation. This stuff is coming to me; that is why I want you gentlemen to help me. It's dynamite!

The charge that this man was in Intelligence and was decorated; I had a letter—they were misguided, they sent it to the House office building in Washington, they thought I was a Congressman—"with great interest I read the editorial in the Pittsburgh Post Gazette, January 19, 1961, entitled, 'Fair Play for the Professor.' You are to be commended on your action and no apologies are needed to anyone. It may interest you to know that I lived on Adak Island in the same quonset hut with the then Cpl. Colodny and his bosom buddy Cpl. Dashiell Hammett (recently deceased), another character of knowledge but of questionable purpose.

"To the best of my knowledge Dr. Colodny's intelligence service in the Aleutians was confined to being an assistant to Mr. Hammett in the editing of the daily news sheet (The Adakian) for island distribution. It was my responsibility to supply Mr. Hammett and crew with statewide and Radio Tokyo newscasts for this publication.

"Outside of Mr. Hammett—Dr. Colodny was a loner. The rank and file did not care for his ideas and satiric comments." This was from Frank F. Carnes, ex-M/Sgt., of the Signal Corps, United States Army, the man who served with him.

Since then, I have learned from this investigating committee that their information was wrong. The man was never decorated and he was never in the Intelligence. Now as to the charge that he served with the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, and incidentally, gentlemen, this is on the number one list of the House un-American Activities Committee as being subversive and designed to overthrow the government of the United States.

As I said before, none of this information did I go out and look for. I was told that there was a radio broadcast made back in 1938 in Chicago. I gave this information to the committee investigating these charges, and, incidentally, I will tell you how that is working. It is a group of attorneys supplying information given to a board who, in turn, is going to turn it over to the chancellor, and I have been told that he is going to turn it over to somebody else, and that will be it. They have been telling me right along that I am going to get this investigation and we will have the report by the eighth of March, and no later than the middle of April. It is now the 25th.

One of the paragraphs in regard to this evidence I told them to go get. It is true that such evidence is quite important, but it is equally clear that it is a hidden value and practical utility are remedied in relation to our ability to verify the fact that the statement was made. Although we have made every possible effort to follow up this lead, we have had little success in doing so. The radio station has informed us that it has no record of it. All I did was drop a postal card to the radio station in Chicago asking them if there was such a broadcast made and if they had a transcript of it. Under date of April 7, 1961, from station WLS in Chicago, I got the transcript. They apologize for the condition of it because there have been so many copies made of it by the House un-American Activities, the Senate Securities Commission, or whatever they call it, the counterpart to the House un-American Activities Committee. I am not going to read all of this to you but here is part of it. This is an interview. If this is not true, Dr. Colodny would have a wonderful libel suit against the station, the New York Times, and every other publication.

The interview is as follows: "Dr. Colodny, suppose we start with you."

"I left Chicago on February 10 of 1937 with a party of 30 who held the same beliefs as I do."

The interrogator, John Baker, says: "Would you mind telling us what those beliefs are?"

"Dr. Colodny: Well, in brief, we're Communists."

Baker asked: "What did your being a Communist have to do with your going to Spain to fight in the army of the Spanish Government?"

"Dr. Colodny. It had everything to do with it. You see, here's what happened in Spain. In February, 1936, the people of Spain held an election in which they voted for a slightly more liberal government." And this goes on to tell about the government and what-have-you. I do not want to take all that time to read it.

Now, there is a very important passage in here that tells all about the fighting and how well he was treated by the Communists because he was a Communist, and there is a paragraph here, if I can find it—

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey, rise?

Mr. GAILEY. I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. GAILEY. I do not wish to be accused of muzzling the gentleman, but I have been listening to him attentively for the last 10 minutes and I fail to see that that which he has been telling us is in any way germane to this resolution that is before us.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will confine his remarks to the resolution before the House.

Mr. WALSH. The resolution is to investigate the un-American activities and teachings in the University of Pittsburgh, and here is one of the chief professors down there, he is down there now teaching.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair is trying to be as lenient as possible. The gentleman will confine his remarks to the resolution.

Mr. WALSH. How can I tell you just what this man is without giving the information?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. WALSH. He was asked:

"I should think the government of the United States might have something to say about permitting you to go to Spain or to any other country to join the army on either side."

His answer was:

"The government won't permit it, of course—but we went to Paris, and then were taken to Spain. So far as our passports were concerned, we were going to travel in Europe—not fight in Spain."

In other words, he falsified his passport.

I have here a letter signed by quite a few of the faculty, and I know it is getting late, but it says in here that they were more or less forced to go along with his prattle and prattle back what he said in order to pass, and quote out of his textbooks down there, and they gave them to me. Six of them are from the Lenin library and only one against Communism, namely, "The God That Failed."

I know this is serious and I think something should be done about it. I feel that we should go down there and talk with this committee they have down there. We will give them the information we have. Those people will not go before that committee and testify for fear of being flunked out, or, as I said before, for fear of not getting a scholarship, but they have promised that under subpoena they would appear before our committee and give this testimony.

It is for that reason I am asking that you create this committee to investigate. I feel there is something here, especially when our Country is at war. This man not only was active there, but he was also one of the leaders in this "Fair Play for Cuba."

The New York Times, under date of April 6, 1960, wrote that the Cuban revolution is nothing but an agrarian movement. It also says that the Cubans and the visitors in the island remain free in many respects, more so than do United States citizens. There are a lot of serious charges being made here. This is from the New York Times.

I do not have the eloquence of a Patrick Henry, or a Clay, or one of those other fellows, but back some time ago I think Thomas Jefferson said, "Eternal vigilance is the price of freedom." I feel that there is something here and where there is smoke there is fire. I feel it should be investigated. What is it going to hurt? We are not going to tear down Pitt. We are not going to execute anyone. We are just going to go out and find if our children, your children and mine, are being taught the American way of life or are being taught the communistic way of life.

I thank you, gentlemen, for your attention.

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, I think it would be in order that we compliment the gentleman from Allegheny for the obvious concern which he has for this problem, for the obvious effort he has put into it over the past few months, beginning last January. But so that the record is perfectly clear, Mr. Speaker, and on the basis of information which was given to me as a member of this House in January, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walsh.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walsh, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALSH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman inform us whether or not I am correct in my belief that this matter has been postponed until this time in order that authorities in Allegheny County and at the University of Pittsburgh could make an investigation of the charges similar to those which Mr. Walsh has told us about this afternoon?

Mr. WALSH. That is true, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SCHAAF. And would the gentleman inform us, Mr. Speaker, whether or not, to his knowledge, that investigation has been completed?

Mr. WALSH. I was told the investigation—understand this started in January, I have no staff to go out, I have enough here, enough evidence. I was told that it would be completed in the middle of April at the very latest and that I would have the report. I was told the committee would report their findings at the end of March. I have been told by the same sources that have been giving me this information that we will never get a report, that it is the intention of the committee—and they have told me this themselves—that they are turning over their findings to the Chancellor, Litchfield. I was told that a good while ago. This was perfectly o.k., as I thought that the chancellor would turn over their findings to this House. But I have been told that he is not going to do that, that the findings are going to be turned over to the House un-American Activities Committee. As I said before, that is like carrying coals to Newcastle. The House un-American Activities Committee has all this information. They cannot do anything about the man but decide he is a Communist, and our duty as people who are appropriating money is to see where the money is being spent. It is as simple as that.

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman be somewhat more precise? His answer raises several questions in my mind, and I would ask them of him, namely: Do I understand him correctly that Chancellor Litchfield has advised him that the report of this committee will be turned over to the House Committee on un-American Activities?

Mr. WALSH. I have never talked with Chancellor Litchfield. I have never had any communication with Chancellor Litchfield. I have had communications from a group of attorneys. If you wait, I will give you their names.

Mr. SCHAAF. No, their names are not material, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WALSH. Those are the communications I have had.

Mr. SCHAAF. Have you had communication with members of the committee which, as I recollect, consisted of three members?

Mr. WALSH. I had one communication. That was the one in which they told me they would complete their investigation by the end of March and the committee would report by the middle of April.

Mr. SCHAAF. Does the gentleman know for a fact whether the investigation has been completed and the report submitted to Chancellor Litchfield?

Mr. WALSH. I do not for the simple reason that I have not been out investigating. I have been leaving it up to them and I got alarmed when I found out that there was not going to be any report given to this House or to me.

Mr. SCHAAF. At any time, Mr. Speaker, was the gentleman informed or promised that a report would be given to him or to this House?

Mr. WALSH. That was the understanding. There was no report given to me. As I said, I had never had any direct contact with Chancellor Litchfield and there was never anything given to me, but it was my understanding that they would make their own investigation, and they asked for the right to make their own investigation, and, naturally, I thought they would turn over their findings to us.

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, can the gentleman inform us whether or not he intends to contact Chancellor Litchfield, or any member of the committee, or any of the trustees of the University of Pittsburgh, in order to secure a copy of this report for his use, if none other?

Mr. WALSH. I came to this House where this resolution originated to ask your help and advice. I cannot carry this ball myself. I need help. Johnny Walsh—what do I have? They could tell me that they do not even want to see me, but we as a committee from this House would have some standing.

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman and would like the privilege of making a statement.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is in order. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Erie, Mr. SchAAF.

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, I think it almost discourteous, and I realize that we have bandied around this word courtesy and discourtesy on many occasions, and some this afternoon, but I think it almost discourteous when, as Mr. Walsh has indicated, an agreement or understanding was reached last January, that he would be furnished with this information. I think it almost discourteous of this House, to act upon this resolution at this time in any way, in any respect. I do not think that anybody should get the impression or the interpretation that we, or that I, for that matter, approve of what Dr. Colodny has allegedly done, if, in fact, it is the truth, but I think there is an orderly way in which to proceed, Mr. Speaker, and consequently I would ask the members to vote against this resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis.

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, I ask the indulgence of the members of this General Assembly for a few moments. I do not take this microphone at any time lightly and I do not so take it this afternoon.

I am opposed to House Resolution 11 for three basic reasons. I oppose it firstly because it is impractical, I oppose it secondly because it is dangerous, and I oppose it thirdly because it is unnecessary.

Any statement that I make from the floor of this House this afternoon, I trust, will not impute, nor will any inference be taken of, any evil intent on the part of those people who are in support of this resolution. But I point out to the members of this House that there has never been any evil in the history of man which has not been justified by men of good faith. When men were torturing during the Spanish Inquisition in the Middle Ages, they were doing it under the guise of worshipping the one true God. When men shoot down and kill their fellowmen in war, they always do it for the noblest of reasons, and, I fear, Mr. Speaker, that unless we are cautious and careful this afternoon, for the noblest of reasons we may be led into an evil deed.

Mr. Speaker, I shall not say whether I believe the imputations which have been laid rather vaguely and waveringly against Dr. Colodny. I would not know Dr. Colodny if he were to be in the audience today. I would not know him if I met him on the street. I am as concerned as my learned friend, Representative Walsh, of Allegheny County, with the integrity not only of the University of Pittsburgh, but the integrity of the United States of America.

Down through all history, Mr. Speaker, there has been a conflict between two massive forces, especially in this Country, one force which is satisfied to maintain the status quo, to freeze things in the present design, to teach that only which has been taught, to refuse to admit the possibility or the desirability of change. There is a second force, led interestingly enough by the gentleman who my learned friend quoted, Thomas Jefferson, which at all times adhered, Mr. Speaker, to the basic principle of Americanism, that the theory and philosophy of democracy is sufficiently powerful to sustain all attack provided the people of the democracy are informed.

Mr. Speaker, this is the basic reason why we appropriate millions of dollars to our universities, millions of dollars to the University of Pittsburg, so that the people may be informed.

Now, I do not know what is being taught in the history department of the University of Pittsburgh. I did not have the honor of attending the undergraduate school there, but I am quite certain from my experiences in two different universities that what the professors are attempting to teach to their students is the skill of thinking.

I am equally certain, Mr. Speaker, that if this is what is being done, there will be some who will oppose this, for even in great universities there are people on the faculty and there are members of the student body who gripe when students are encouraged to think, who are suspicious when a man differs with their established point of view. In this, the latter half of the twentieth century, when a man so differs he is apt to find himself labeled as a Communist. In the thirties, he would have been called a Fascist. Each one in the lexicon of the ordinary person is a dirty word.

Mr. Speaker, I said that I thought this resolution is impractical, and I do. If we were to make what the resolution calls a thorough investigation of the University of Pittsburgh, we should have to have a complete staff of investigators, trained especially for this purpose, a staff of lawyers, a staff of clerks, which we do not provide in this resolution, and I do not know if we are even willing to provide them.

Secondly, I said that this was unnecessary. It is unnecessary, Mr. Speaker, for two reasons; it is unnecessary because in the middle of January Doctor Litchfield appointed a committee of three men, chaired by Mr. Philip Powers, who was the Director of Development at the University, Mr. Olson, Professor Olson, who was the head of the Department of Biochemistry, is the second member, I believe, and the third member, George Lockhard, who is an eminent attorney in Allegheny County and a trustee of the University. This committee, Mr. Speaker, has been meeting. I have been informed by Mr. Powers this afternoon by phone that they have had dozens of meetings and have made hundreds of investigations, that one-half of the summary report is now in Mr. Powers' hands and the other half will be in his hands within a few days, and that he intends to turn this report over to the chancellor, and that the chancellor has informed him that he, the chancellor, would turn over a finding of facts for the use of this General Assembly.

I said further, Mr. Speaker, that this resolution is not only impractical and unnecessary but it is dangerous. It is dangerous, Mr. Speaker, because right here this afternoon we have seen what can be done by the rather wavering and vague indictment against a man's activities with little or no evidence to support that indictment.

The newspapers will undeniably carry this story, and there will be undeniably many hundreds of people who will read it and say, "You know that guy is a Communist," and that ends their investigation right there.

I am reminded, Mr. Speaker, of the test that used to be made in the Middle Ages for witchcraft, and in using the term "witchcraft" I do not say particularly we are involved in a witch hunt. It simply occurs to me.

There once was a time, Mr. Speaker, when a community decided if a woman was a witch there was a simple test. She was taken to a bridge and thrown overboard into the water. If she sank and drowned, the community apologized and said she was not a witch. But if she floated, then the community burned her as a witch. Well, this is exactly what we may become involved in this afternoon. We say, or rather Representative Walsh says, that if he is clean he has nothing to fear. This is the same as saying to the woman who was thrown overboard, if you are not a witch, you will drown and you will be all right.

Mr. Speaker, I ask the members of this Assembly this afternoon to examine their consciences, which I am sure each and every one will severally do, to realize that they are here voting on something which is even deeper than an investigation of Dr. Colodny or of the University of Pittsburgh, that they are here as the elected members of this General Assembly, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth, determining for themselves and by their individual vote what it means to be an American, whether it means that because you differ with the majority you are to be suspect, whether it means a freedom to learn and a freedom to think, which, personally, I endorse, Mr. Speaker.

Thank you.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Donaldson.

Mr. DONALDSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walsh.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walsh, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALSH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DONALDSON. Both in Mr. Schaaf's interrogation and Mr. Irvis' speech we have just heard about the committee appointed by the chancellor to go into the matter of Dr. Colodny. Is it your understanding, Mr. Walsh, that the findings of that committee, as they are reported to the chancellor, will be made available to you and to the members of this General Assembly?

Mr. WALSH. Nobody told me but I noticed in the remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis, that he said the chancellor today said they would be made available to this General Assembly. That is the first I have ever heard of that.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Greene, rise?

Mr. McCANN. If I may, to clear the point only that was asked by the gentleman from Allegheny, I am in possession of a letter, signed by Mr. Powers, whom I knew many years ago as president of West Penn Power Company, before his present title. Other people of this House have received a similar copy. He said in that letter that at the completion of that report I will have a copy of the report sent to me by Mr. Powers, according to his communication.

Mr. McCormack tells me that the communication also indicates it will be sent to all members of this House.

Mr. DONALDSON. I thank the majority leader. I am sure that is what the gentleman wanted to know.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Speaker has just informed the Chair that has had a communication from Dr. from the chancellor that the report will be submitted to the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Mr. DONALDSON. If I may proceed, Mr. Walsh—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. WALSH. Just a minute. I did not hear what the Speaker said.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Speaker has informed the Chair that has had a communication from Dr. Litchfield that immediately upon the completion of the report, a copy of that report will be submitted to the Speaker of the House.

The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. DONALDSON. Mr. Walsh, are you now satisfied, on the basis of that information, the majority leader's statement and Mr. Irvis' statement, that a copy of the final report will be submitted to you and to the members of this General Assembly?

Mr. WALSH. I am, yes. This is the first information I had.

Mr. DONALDSON. Mr. Walsh, let me ask you this. When you were kind enough, and I think that you were kind, at the time you originally introduced this resolution to, in effect, give the University an opportunity to conduct its own investigation, what was your understanding as to the time when that investigation would be completed, the middle of March or the end of March, at the very latest?

Mr. WALSH. That around the 1st of April we would get the report.

Mr. DONALDSON. Did you say the 1st or the 15th of April? I did not hear you.

Mr. WALSH. Between the 15th and the 30th of March. I do not have the letter with me. The report would be submitted to us by the 15th of April.

Mr. DONALDSON. The 15th of April?

Mr. WALSH. By the 15th of April.

Mr. DONALDSON. This, of course, is five or six days after that date.

Do you believe, in your own mind, Mr. Walsh, that the final report of the chancellor, after the committee reports to him, will be completed very shortly? Do you believe that in your own mind?

Mr. WALSH. I could not say that. I do not know.

Mr. DONALDSON. Well, I happen to believe that. I think the gentleman has been most patient in giving the university a considerable time period; on the other hand, I think the university is taking that time because they wanted to do a thorough job on an important matter.

I am going to ask the gentleman now, if he will give this university, the chancellor of this University, an additional 30 days in which to file the report, with the understanding, if that report is not forthcoming by then, that we will roll this resolution. Would the gentleman, in effect, be agreeable to tabling this resolution for 30 days under those conditions?

Mr. WALSH. May I ask you a question?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Donaldson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALSH. What assurance can you give me that there will be a report of this investigation in 30 days?

Mr. DONALDSON. I cannot give you any definite assurance other than what I happen to firmly believe, that the chancellor will adopt that course of action. If he does not, Mr. Walsh, I will join you in going along with this resolution because I think that period of time is reasonable.

Mr. DONALDSON. I think that five days after the reports was supposed to have been in is a little premature. We have all waited in this General Assembly much longer than that for reports from our own committees.

Could you go along with tabling this resolution for 30 days with the hope that the chancellor's report would come in within that period of time?

Mr. WALSH. Let me clear something. This is the first time that I have been informed of the report. I have never been informed that we were going to get a report. This is the first time that the proposition has been made to me of giving 30 days. I feel that I have gone along with this; I have been patient this length of time. I will agree to go along for 30 days provided that this General Assembly serves notice on the University of Pittsburgh that we want that report within 30 days.

Mr. DONALDSON. I think, Mr. Walsh, that this little debate will be brought to the attention of the proper officials in the University of Pittsburgh and I do not know how we would formally serve notice on the University of Pittsburgh. I think, in effect, this debate would do that, and, if the gentleman would go along, and I am not going to do this unless he says that he will, either he would make the motion or I would make it, and I can assure the gentleman that I do sympathize with the gentleman. If the University does not furnish its report in 30 days, I will be happy to vote for his resolution. I think this problem is urgent. I think it is important and I think he has worked long and hard on it.

I ask the gentleman would he be willing to go along on that kind of a motion?

Mr. WALSH. I would, but I am skeptical, and I will tell you why I am skeptical. I have been promised that I was going to get this report. I have been told by the people who gave me this information that I was not going to get a report, but now they tell you that we are going to get a report.

I will agree to a 30-day extension provided that you, an alumnus of the University of Pittsburgh, ask them to get us this report in 30 days.

Mr. DONALDSON. I would be glad to ask them. I think the debate will serve to clarify all these respective situations in that regard.

The majority leader is at the microphone, I think, for some purpose, and I would yield to him if he desires, for the moment.

Mr. WALSH. I agree, but I would just like to make one statement.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is the gentleman finished with his interrogation?

Mr. DONALDSON. Not necessarily.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Donaldson, has the floor.

Mr. DONALDSON. I will yield to the gentleman, Mr. Walsh.

Mr. WALSH. Representative Irvis, the gentleman from Allegheny, referred to witchcraft, and I am reminded that as the twig is bent, so would the tree grow. And we might keep that in mind at all times.

I did not make these charges against Dr. Colodny. He himself gave an interview in which he admitted all this stuff. I am not out to try to persecute anybody or hurt anybody. The New York Times carried this story with his name on it. I am not trying to hurt Dr. Colodny. I would not know Dr. Colodny if I saw him. I do not know the man.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Allegheny desire to continue?

Mr. DONALDSON. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walsh, for his cooperative manner in this thing.

I am in agreement with him as to the urgency connected with this problem. I think, however, that the university should be given every reasonable opportunity to present its own report. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I am going to move—

I yield to the majority leader for the moment.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the majority leader desire to be recognized?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Donaldson.

The remarks I am going to say are not in any way connected to the majority floor leader of this House. This resolution was requested by the gentleman from Allegheny to be brought up for a vote today. I am surprised to note that he did not know of the report.

I will speak frankly as a Representative with a right to have one single vote on this resolution. I believe that either the gentleman from Allegheny should withdraw his resolution or, if he insists on a vote, I personally am going to vote against it, because I have faith in the committee designated by the University of Pittsburgh. That University cannot afford, nor can any university afford, to have this hanging over their heads and never finish the report.

I know only one of those three men of that committee. I knew him many years ago in Boy Scout activities, and I say to you that that committee will complete its work properly and present its report. I honestly say to this House, only as an individual member, that I firmly believe they will do the job that needs to be done, if such a job needs to be done at the University of Pittsburgh. I personally would rather vote on this resolution.

Either the gentleman from Allegheny withdraws it or we vote on it. The report, there is no question, will be presented to this House. It has so been agreed that it will be.

I personally will go by that report and I have no knowledge what that report will contain. I am confident that that committee will go into this and have gone into it in a very thorough, detailed manner.

I certainly am not speaking as a floor leader, but I ask that the resolution be voted on. I personally will vote against the resolution, awaiting the report of the University of Pittsburgh.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Donaldson.

Mr. DONALDSON. Mr. Speaker, apparently there has been some misunderstanding between the sponsor of the resolution and the University as to whether or not he would get a copy of the report. I think that has been clarified to everyone's mutual understanding. There has been some confusion about the timetable. I am confident the university is nearly ready to present its report.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, in line with the conversation I had with the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walsh, I will move that the resolution be placed on the postponed calendar.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has a commitment to the sponsor of the amendments. The Chair has agreed with the sponsor of the amendments that he would either withdraw his amendments temporarily for the purpose of conducting a debate on the merits of the resolution, and, following the close of debate, he will then offer his amendments. The Chair has that commitment to the sponsor of the amendments and therefore must fulfill it.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, that is the position we were placed in because the gentleman from Philadelphia withdrew, temporarily, his amendments. Therefore, the motion to lay it on the table or postpone it would not fall in that category, but the Chair must rule.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will not accept that motion at the moment.

Mr. DONALDSON. I will make the motion following the consideration of the amendments.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thanks the gentleman. Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis, desire to be recognized?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, just on this point: I can see no purpose whatsoever in delaying the vote on this resolution today. I stand with the majority floor leader in my faith that the committee of the University of Pittsburgh will do that which is right and proper and that we should no longer hold an axe over their necks, as this resolution has done since January 17th. I oppose any further delay.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack.

AMENDMENTS WITHDRAWN

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I think that the majority of the members are anxious to vote one way or the other on this resolution. Therefore, to save time, maybe I should withdraw the amendments premanently and we should vote on the resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, withdraws his amendments.

On the question recurring,
Will the House adopt the resolution?

MOTION TO POSTPONE

Mr. DONALDSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this resolution be placed on the postponed calendar.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the motion?

Will the House adopt the resolution?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I realize the debate has been extensive, but we on this side of the House have not caucused on this resolution. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Lippincott.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Mc-

Kean yields to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Lippincott.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, that may have seemed very funny, but I can tell you honestly that I am not in favor of McCarthyism and I do not know if this is a witch hunt or not. I do not know what really is behind this. We have not had a chance to discuss this in our caucus. We have not had a chance to discuss it with the members from Pittsburgh. We do not know how the other members from Allegheny County feel. I sincerely feel that we should have the right to talk about this in caucus. I am going to vote for this resolution if we do not have a caucus. If we have a caucus, I do not know what I will do.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For the information of the gentleman, that is not a necessary motion. We can take a vote without moving the previous question.

Mr. BOIES. Is it permissible to make one more remark on this?

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, there is a motion on the floor. I moved the previous question.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, it requires 20 members to move the previous question.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. KING filed the following reasons for his vote on House resolution No. 11:

Mr. Speaker, the happenings that I witnessed on the floor of this House points out to me the lack of awareness that we Americans have to the threat of Communism.

This evening this House refused to pass a resolution asking for the investigation of un-Americanism in the Universities of our great State.

As I sat here as a member of this assembled body the question that I asked myself was, where are the defenders of the American way of life, where are the men who will arise to debate with great oratorical ability and fervor the merits of some lesser piece of legislation, but refuse to stand up and speak out in defense of a resolution which asked only for an investigation of the possibility of undesirable people teaching our college students?

Mr. Speaker, I am a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, as was my father and brother. I now have two brothers enrolled at Pitt. This fact I am proud of and I hope to see my children become graduates of this great school. But my conscience cannot permit me to stand by in silence not knowing whether this great University is harboring people with un-American tendencies influencing the very minds of our youth who will some day be our future leaders.

I would like to take this opportunity as an alumnus of Pitt to ask our very able chancellor, Dr. Litchfield, to clear the air on this very serious matter as soon as possible, or as our distinguished Speaker of this House phrases it, "Let's dispel the fog."

If Communists are being sheltered in the halls of our great school in the name of academic freedom, then I say show them to the world for what they are and replace them with people who will instill in our precious youth the ideals of this great, yes, the greatest, Country on earth, the United States of America.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, this will be all the votes for today but there are committee announcements, reports from committee, and this House will convene at 10:00 o'clock tomorrow morning and we will go right straight through without caucuses on 32 bills that have been agreed to be voted on.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I said that many on this side are wondering why the resolution was called today, particularly when the majority leader had ruled that the University of Pittsburgh is going to file a report in a few days. He may have an explanation for it, I have an idea but I will not express it on the floor.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I would much prefer that he express his ideas, to show how wrong he is.

This morning the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walsh, arrived at the office and requested that House Resolution 11 be placed on the list to be taken up today. When meeting with the minority floor leader and the whip at 1:30 today, House Resolution 11 was indicated as a must by the sponsor of the resolution and that it would be called today. Then it was also brought on the respective calendars at this meeting long before any bills were voted.

Then following that, the Republican Caucus was held and House Resolution 11 carried an "X" on it from the meeting of the committee, which means it is to be caucused on because it will be before this House today.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the minority floor leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, to repeat, I say that the majority leader had a report that the University of Pittsburgh is going to give us a report on their investigation within the next few days. I do not think we should have taken the time of the House today with this lengthy discussion on this resolution.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THE GOVERNOR TO APPOINT A COMMITTEE TO ENCOURAGE THE DEVELOPMENT OF ADDITIONAL RESEARCH FACILITIES IN PENNSYLVANIA

Mr. DEVLIN offered the following resolution (Serial No. 49), which was read and referred to the Committee on State Government:

In the Senate, April 26, 1961.

A substantial portion of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has been declared an economically depressed area by the Federal Government due to its level of unemployment, which in March 1961 totalled 505,000, or more than ten per cent of its civilian labor force.

The development of new products and processes would result in the employment of more of the Commonwealth's citizens and give a greater diversification to the Commonwealth's industrial economy.

It has been demonstrated that other States of the Union have enjoyed substantial economic growth through industrial activity which has resulted from research and development programs in those States.

The Commonwealth has a great investment in facilities for industrial research with 345 industrial research laboratories which can utilize the skills and knowledge of 22,646 scientists and technicians.

By comparison, the State of California, which has received by far the greatest share of Federal Government research, has just 409 industrial research laboratories which employ 28,511 scientists and technicians.

Companies headquartered in California received experimental, research and development contracts totalling $1,484,500,000 during fiscal 1959 while those headquartered in Pennsylvania received only $231,800,000, or less than one-sixth the funds which were allocated to California-based companies.

As a result of this, among the 100 leading companies in government-sponsored research and development effort, in fiscal 1959, 17 are headquartered in California while only 6 are in Pennsylvania.

History has shown how research and development efforts contribute substantially to the general economy of the Commonwealth and the well being of its citizens; as witness the growth of atomic power activities from a two-man staff in Allegheny County in 1948 to a work force today of more than 5,600 in Pennsylvania, and additional thousands of jobs in supporting industries.

This atomic power organization has contributed major technological breakthroughs in the development of atomic submarines and the generation of electricity from the atom, which have advanced the well being of our citizens and the security of our Nation; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania endeavor to obtain a greater share of government research and development contracts in keeping with the potential of its laboratory facilities and scientific talent; and be it further

Resolved, That the Commonwealth, acting through its various agencies, encourage the development of additional research facilities in Pennsylvania and to place increased emphasis on research and development programs which would lead to the expansion and diversification of the Commonwealth's industrial activity; and be it further

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania request the Governor to appoint a committee of eminent citizens from the fields of education, science, technology and government to determine what steps should be taken to achieve the purposes outlined in this resolution; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee report its recommendations to the Governor and to the General Assembly as soon as conveniently possible.

RECESS

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request a ten minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a meeting of the Committee on Appropriations.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a ten minute recess of the Senate.

NAYS—1

Bell,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

HB 419—Read at length the third time and agreed to,
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Clinton, Senator Stevenson, on this bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Clinton, Mr. Stevenson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEVENSON. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I want to tell the Senator that I am not asking these questions in opposition. I am asking them for information.

Before this amendment was inserted in the township law, the township law read that no person shall be eligible to any township office unless he is a registered elector of the township from which he is chosen. This bill substitutes the statement confining the necessity for residence to the office of supervisor, assessor, auditor and tax collector.

My question to the Senator, Mr. President, is what other township offices are there which will be excluded from the necessity of residence by this bill?

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, there has been considerable argument as to whether the township solicitor, the township engineer and the township manager were included in the words "township officers".

This is to clarify the situation by spelling out the four township offices. A school director is an officer of the school district. An assessor, from the county point of view, is a county officer.

Mr. SEYLER. The assessor is included in this, Senator?

Mr. STEVENSON. Yes, but this is only for township purposes.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, are there any elective officers in the township who would not be required to be registered electors of the township, if this bill were passed?

Mr. STEVENSON. No, Mr. President. In each township there are, of course, two justices of the peace. A justice of the peace is a State officer.

Mr. SEYLER. How about a constable?

Mr. STEVENSON. A constable is a State officer.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, is it provided in another Act that a justice of the peace and constable must be registered electors of the township?

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, I cannot answer that definitely. However, this does not include anyone except the township officers, and these are the four who are the four important township officers. As I say, there has been a continuous argument. If you cannot find a solicitor in a township, he must come from another township. This is also true of a manager.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I am in sympathy with the exclusion of the solicitor, engineer and manager from the necessity of being residents. However, the thing that I was concerned with, and on which I wanted assurance, is the fact that by doing this we are not saying that a justice of the peace or constable may be elected without being a resident of the township.

Mr. STEVENSON. I am fairly certain, Mr. President, that they must live in the township. The justice of the peace, being a State officer, is elected in the township and he functions in the township. I am reasonably certain that he is a State officer.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman.

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, I have just been advised by counsel here that a constable is a court officer, which would be a county officer.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman for his answers. I will accept his assurance that the office of justice of the peace and the office of constable require residency in some other Act, because if that is not correct, it is my opinion this bill would remove the necessity for their being residents. I think those two should be residents of the township in which they are elected. However, I will accept the gentleman's assurance and on that basis, I am willing to vote for the bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

SB 533 and 534—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

HB 635—Read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that House Bill No. 635 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I object to House Bill No. 635, Printer's No. 1299, going over in its order for the following reason:

This bill came to the Senate on March 21, 1961, and has been on our Calendar since April 4. From that date until the present time, there has not been an amendment offered. There have not been any problems with this measure at all that I know of. These bills bring a great deal of revenue to the Commonwealth and are a great help to the airports and air terminals of the Commonwealth, which exist at both ends of Pennsylvania and some exist right here in the center of the State.

I do not know the reason why these bills are being held. Unless there is some really important reason for holding them, I feel they should be passed on Second Reading. I have gone along every week with these measures going over in order. However, this week, I am going to ask that House Bill No. 635 and House Bill No. 636 be moved up.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, I am vitally interested in these bills and I have been for a number of years. I have asked for certain statistics on these bills and I think I will receive them by next week. I am also studying House Bill No. 635 and House Bill No. 636, with the possibility of amending them.

For this reason, Mr. President, I would request that they go over in order until next week.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to point out to the gentleman that there has never been any objection raised by me, since I have been in the Senate, to anybody amending a bill on Third Reading. I would like to have these bills moved up to Third Reading so that when the statistics come over and if they meet with the approval of the people who have some objection to these bills being moved up, then we can expeditiously handle this matter. If the statistics come over and we find the bill to be in bad shape or form, I will be delighted to sit down with the people who are involved and try to work out amendments which will be helpful to everyone involved.

However, just to hold these measures and to continue dragging them along on the Calendar, I do not think is fair to the sponsors of the bills. I do not think it is fair to continue these matters indefinitely.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, does the Majority Leader know whether or not the Chairman of the Aeronautics Commission, the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, General Hay, has studied these bills?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I have no way of knowing that. The only time I was informed about that was when Senator Bell, who I believe is a member of that Commission and also who I believe knows General Hay, stated that he was going to take this matter up with him, and he told me that two weeks ago. We asked him to look into this matter and advise us.

Until this time, I have neither heard from General Hay nor anyone else telling me that he is either for or against these measures. I would assume that if he had some feeling about this, he certainly would have gotten in touch with me or, at least through the Administration, advised me that he is not in favor of these measures. Having not heard from General Hay or Senator Bell, I would assume that these measures are all right. If they are not, I am certain they would have brought it to my attention.

Mr. BELL. Thank you, Mr. Majority Leader, for saying "no."

To set the record straight, Senator Bell is not a member of the Aeronautics Commission and has not been since he stopped being a Member of the House on December 1, 1960.

Pursuant to our conversations earlier, I did take this up with the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania. Due to his extremely heavy schedule, I was unable to see him until last Wednesday. It is my understanding that this matter was to be taken up with the Aeronautics Commission and the Governor's Office.

I think it is only fair to the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania and to the Aeronautics Commission of Pennsylvania that this matter be held up until the new Adjutant General has a chance to talk to the Governor and examine these matters. You are dealing with the income of his department. As a Member of the Minority Party, I am in a funny position in fighting for the Administration. However, I think that the Adjutant General, who is a member of the Governor's family, should have the courtesy of having these bills held up until he has had an ample opportunity to study them.

Therefore, Mr. President, I ask everybody to oppose moving these bills up on the Calendar.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, as a member of the Aeronautics Commission, I want to say that I have not had an opportunity to meet the Adjutant General, who is the Chairman of our Commission. He has not contacted me and neither has the Executive Director.

However, I have some figures that make me feel that we are justified in passing these bills. In deference to my two distinguished colleagues on this side, Senator Van Sant and Senator Bell, and with the promise of The Majority Leader that the bills can be amended on Third Reading, provided there are some amendments offered, I would like to go along with the Majority Leader's wish that the bills go up to Third Reading and then give these gentlemen an opportunity to offer amendments.

It would give us an opportunity to check with the Aeronautics Commission and all of the people who are interested.

Mr. President, if I am not out of order, I would like to say that there is a movement in Pittsburgh to make Pittsburgh an International Airport. If it is going to become an International Airport, more and more jet fuel is going to be sold, and we certainly do not want to hurt the city of Pittsburgh in so far as it being an International Airport. Even though we reduce the tax, I am sure that the revenue is greater than it was during the last bien-nium.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, it is with great pleasure that I concur in the remarks made by Senator Pechan.

I want to thank Senator Bell for fighting for the Administration. There are a couple of other measures I would like to talk to him about also on which we can use his help.

I would like to also point out that if General Hay in any way has any reservations about this measure when it is on Third Reading, if he will make his wishes known to me, I will certainly extend to him—as I extend to every Member of this body—the courtesy of discussing it with him and trying to arrive at some amicable solution if we possibly can.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, in order to keep the record straight so that some of my loyal constituents in my county do not believe that I am too strongly in favor of some of the Administration's measures, I would like to suggest to the Majority Leader that we hold those talks in the open over these microphones.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, to be transcribed for a third reading.

HB 636 and 638—Read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON SECOND READING AMENDED

HB 678—The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection,

House bill No. 340, printer's No. 369,

was passed over temporarily at the request of Mr. McCANN.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 409, entitled:

An Act amending "The Borough Code" approved May 4, 1927 (P. L. 519), further regulating compensation to aged employees.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. May I interrogate some sponsor of this bill or the majority leader if he has information on it?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will one of the sponsors of the bill permit himself to be interrogated, or the majority leader?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, House bill 409 is a Local Government Commission bill sponsored by Mr. Hamilton, Mr. Wescott, Mr. Wilt, Mr. Kornick. This originated in the Local Government Commission.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KORNICK. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. POLASKI. Mr. Speaker, I will attempt to answer the gentleman's questions.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Erie, Mr. Polaski, has offered to accept interrogation. Is that acceptable to the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Well, whoever wants to take on interrogation.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides, as I understand it, for a borough employee to receive 50 percent of his regular wage after a certain age, including social security, I believe is the way the bill reads.

Mr. POLASKI. That is right.

Mr. TOMPKINS. My question is this: If his wage is $300 a month, he would then be entitled to $150 under the 50 percent formula. Supposing he receives also $50 social security allowance for that month, would he then be entitled to still receive the $150 from the borough, or would his 50 percent from the borough be reduced to $100 and then the $50 from the social security make up the difference to make up the $150? I do not understand the implications of the bill.

Mr. POLASKI. Mr. Speaker, he would receive $150 in total. He would not receive a separate borough pension and a separate social security. The social security would be included in the $150.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Then under the example which I cited to you, he would receive $100 from the borough, $50 from social security, which would make up this 50 percent allowance?

Mr. POLASKI. That is right.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I thank the gentleman very much.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer amendments to this bill. Before I send the amendments to the desk, I would like to have the members turn to page 7 of the bill, lines 13, 14 and 15. They will see there that this bill applies only to private hospitals, the non-profit hospitals, and excludes State institutions; it excludes the nurses in State institutions.

I have ventured here with trepidation to presume to amend a bill with such distinguished sponsorship and to throw my little javelin at the oratorical shield of the majority leader, who will probably oppose these amendments. It is my contention that whether or not you agree with the theory of this bill, with which I do not agree, if the bill is to pass, then it should not provide simply for a segment of the professional nursing front, excluding a segment that serves in the most undesirable of all, in State hospital settings. If the nurses in these hospitals, where you have the gentle nurses and where you have responsible boards, trustees, I doubt that the nurses in the State institutions are so adequately protected. This bill would authorize negotiations with hospital controls through union organizations.

Whether this bill is controversial or not depends upon the issue, and I have not supplied the members with copies because the issue is so plain. I have simply taken the bill and every place that it confines the operation of the bill simply to these private hospitals, I have included State institutions.

I have received a great many letters from the nurses in the private hospitals and the non-profit hospitals, some of them very sweetly couched. They say, please, will I not propose any amendments. Others say, we do not like the idea of amendments. I have received some communications from nurses' organizations that say, we insist the bill be passed without amendments. Then I have two or three communications from various organizations, local organizations, that say, we demand that this bill pass without amendments. The issue is very, very plain.

Personally, I do not believe that the professional people, the doctors, or the nurses upon whom the doctors depend, should negotiate through union channels. But if this bill is to pass, then I will say that we should not create one little cozy sect, nurses of an elite corps. It is the nurses in the State institutions who have to bear the heat and burden of the day, they have to deal with all kinds of people, all kinds of cases, and, goodness knows, with the gentle nuns and the boards of administration in the hospitals, if they have to have a union in order to get a square deal, then most certainly, these other nurses in the State institutions, who do not have such a happy lot, should have the same right.

It is pointed out that under the statute the nurses can present grievances under the law. That is all right, but if they need union protection in these private hospitals in order to present their grievances, then I say they need union protection clear along the line.

So, Mr. Speaker, I will take either a voice vote, if it can be determined, or, if it cannot be clearly decided, a standing vote, or a record vote. Personally, I would prefer a standing vote, but I would request that the respective floor leaders inform me as to which they prefer. Shall we have a standing vote, shall we have a record vote, or shall we have a roll call?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It is apparent to the Chair that a roll call has been requested.

Mr. ANDREWS. And a roll call will probably, therefore, be had. I send the following amendments to the desk.

All they do is, they provide that every time the bill limits the scope to the nurses in the private hospitals, these amendments simply provide that it should apply to all of the hospitals, State institutions included.

Mr. ANDREWS asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 2, last line of Title, by inserting after "employees": including State institutions.

Amend Sec. 4, page 7, line 4, by inserting after "includes": the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Amend Sec. 4, page 7, line 11, by inserting after "hospitals": including State institutions.

Amend Sec. 4, page 7, line 12, by striking out "nongovernmental."

Amend Sec. 4, page 7, lines 13 and 14, by striking out "the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

Amend Sec. 4, page 7, line 14, by striking out "thereof" and inserting: within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Amend Sec. 11, page 22, line 19, by inserting after "by": the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, as you know, on House bill No. 340, the gentleman from Cambria has spoken about the amendments that are now being offered. I bring to the attention of this House that nurses in State institutions are at the present time under executive orders, civil service in some categories, under civil service under other categories in the Department of Health, and have been for quite a few years under civil service in the health department hospitals and in the welfare hospitals since the inception of the executive order. Simply for that reason and that reason alone, I personally will vote against these amendments so we can vote on the bill if possible, in its original form.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Sullivan.

Mr. T. F. SULLIVAN. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, I too rise to speak against the amendments. I believe the previous Speaker stated, if I am not mistaken, when he first started to talk that he did not agree with the bill, yet he offers amendments to the bill. The nurses in private hospitals and State hospitals are already covered by executive order signed by George Leader in 1957. I ask the Members on both sides of the House to vote against the amendments. I feel the nurses are entitled to recognition and if we do not like the bill, let us debate it and vote for or against. Thank you.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I want to ask the sponsor just one question. I hate to have him come down again but I wanted to find out whether or not if these amendments were adopted—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ANDREWS. No lawyer's questions.

Mr. McCORMACK. Right.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. No lawyer's questions are permitted. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. McCORMACK. There was some discussion with respect to these amendments, that the domestic employes of all hospitals should be included in this arbitration bill. Now, I am wondering whether or not these amendments provide that domestic workers in all hospitals will also be subject to the bill?

Mr. ANDREWS. In reply I say that I did not desire to complicate the issue. In my opinion, those whose hearts bleed for the cause of the down-trodden or for those who serve in lonely places should start unionizing hospitals with the kitchen help or with the people who wipe the floors, with those who bear the heat and burden of the dirty work. There are labor leaders whose hearts bleed for the nurses, but they do not bleed for the people in the kitchen; but I did not want to complicate the issue. I believe if they are going to start to unionize hospitals, they should start at the bottom with the lonely laborer and go up to the top. But, I did not want to complicate the issue at this time.

Mr. McCORMACK. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. That is all I ask.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker and members of the House. I rise to oppose the amendments on the grounds that we know in the past amendments sometimes are to improve a bill or to make corrections in a bill. Then we have amendments offered to a bill to kill a bill as to its intent and purpose. Therefore, I am asking the membership to vote these amendments down and give us all a chance to vote for the original bill to give the nurses an opportunity to be human beings at their work. When a nurse is taking care of me in the hospital, I want her to be satisfied with her surroundings. I do not want her to be disgruntled at all times. I want her to have a say in the conditions in which she has to serve the sick. That is the important part of this amendment. I am again asking you to vote these amendments down and let us take the bill as it is.

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, I did not think there would be a time when I would rise on my feet to oppose the Honorable Hiram Andrews, but I am forced to this position by the amendments he has submitted to House bill 340. House bill 340, Mr. Speaker, in my opinion, would really place the nonprofit, nongovernmental nurses working long hours in a nonprofit, nongovernmental hospital of this Commonwealth on an even par with those nurses already working in institutions operated by this Commonwealth or under the supervision of this Commonwealth.

The nurses of the State-supervised institutions already have grievance machinery which they can and do use. The nurses in a nonprofit, nongovernmental institution do not have such machinery. That is the reason I think the amendments offered by the Speaker are unimportant amendments, amendments that would tend to weaken the bill rather than strengthen it, and, therefore, I oppose it.

I say, however, Mr. Speaker, that I concur with Mr. Speaker Andrews when his heart bleeds for the people who work in the lonely places, the forgotten places of the hospitals, my heart bleeds along with his. I think that probably we should do something to help unionize the people who work in the hospital kitchen, the girls who carry the trays, the orderlies in the hospitals, and I hereby go on public record in agreement with the Speaker and I offer my services to cosponsor with the Speaker any bills that he seeks to draw which would so unionize these forgotten and lonely people.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Sullivan, desire to be recognized again?

Mr. T. F. SULLIVAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, just to keep the record straight, nonprofessional employes in Pennsylvania hospitals are not excluded by law from joining the union. If they do not join the union it is not the union's fault. They have the right now to organize, if they want to. There are many hospitals in Pennsylvania that do have the nonprofessional people in unions. I agree with the previous speaker, we should try to do what we can. The job of organizing people under law has to be passed by the National Labor Relations Board vote. If these people do not choose to join the union, it is not the union's fault. They have the right, right now, to join the union of their choice if they so choose. Thank you.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lycoming, Mr. Whittaker.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WHITTAKER. I rise to a point of order, Mr. Speaker. Are we speaking on the bill or the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question before this House is on the amendments offered by the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

Mr. WHITTAKER. Will the gentlemen confine their remarks strictly to the amendments and debate the bill later?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. All of the debate to date should have been confined to the amendments. The question is on the amendments.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. IRVIS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, frankly I must admit my ignorance with respect to the grievance procedure provided by executive order for the State—operated hospitals and institutions and—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would like to inquire from the gentleman if the interrogation is on the amendments or on the bills?

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, they are so intimately related, Mr. Speaker, that it is impossible to separate them. I think they pertain to the amendments, the questions, and that it will better enable me to decide whether or not I should vote for the amendments.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. If the interrogation is on the amendments, the Chair will permit the gentleman to proceed with the interrogation.

Mr. McCORMACK. Under the grievance procedure, is there provision for the enforcement of the orders that should be made by a board of arbitrators?

Mr. IRVIS. I cannot answer that question, Mr. Speaker. I am not that familiar with the grievance procedure. I would have to guess and I prefer not to guess.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. I would suggest that if the gentleman from Philadelphia wishes an expert on grievance procedure, he better seek elsewhere. I do not claim to be one.

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, inasmuch as he has said we already have a grievance procedure for these employes, therefore we should not improve them by amending this bill, I thought perhaps if they were not included, if the amendments were not adopted today, that they would be on a similar status as nurses in other institutions. So, you are not able to say whether or not that is so, is that correct?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, I am not prepared this morning to give details on grievance procedure under civil service, if that is what the gentleman from Philadelphia is asking.

Mr. McCORMACK. The purpose of my statement was, that this bill 340, is it to set up grievance machinery?

Mr. IRVIS. Which machinery has already been set up with nurses in State institutions under, I believe, the executive order of Governor Leader, May 27, 1957.

That would be the extent of my remarks, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, my question is, whether or not they have the right to enforce any order of the courts, whether or not they would have the right to appeal to the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth in the event they were dissatisfied under the present grievance procedure?

Mr. IRVIS. I have already answered that, Mr. Speaker. I said I would not guess.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, if the State nurses have grievance machinery through executive order and not by law, it can also be removed by executive order. I think that the State nurses are entitled to the same consideration as the nurses in private hospitals, and if you are going to have legislation on the books for the nurses in the private hospitals, I think we should give the same consideration to the other nurses, and I rise to support the amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. ANDREWS and McCANN and were as follows:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Rules.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose recommitment of this bill. I think about every legislative trick in the book has been used to stop this bill from coming before the House for a vote. This bill was recommitted once and it was only through the courtesy of the chairman and members of that committee that this bill was reported back on the floor. This committee was a super-pickling committee. Now they want to put it in Rules Committee, which is a super-duper-pickling committee, so I would ask the membership of the House to vote against recommitment. Let this bill come to a vote. Let the chips fall where they may. If the bill falls or if it passes, that will be okay, but let the bill come to a vote. It is a good bill.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 665, entitled:

An Act amending the "Liquor Code," approved April 12, 1951 (P. L. 90), authorizing licensees manufacturers and their employes and agents to sponsor support or contribute to certain athletic contests or tournaments.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, House bill 665 has been caucused, of course, in both caucuses. This is an amendment to the Liquor Code in which the athletic contests or tournaments, the licensees, manufacturers, and so forth, may sponsor, support or contribute to these contests.

By the very virtue of the fact that we do not have this law, we have many worthwhile manufacturers, taverns, hotels and others who would certainly like to contribute to various little leagues and other leagues for which we need such great help to keep them going, because it is all on a voluntary contribution basis, and, since we do have people who are willing to help us in this field, I ask the membership of this House to support this bill as a most worthwhile cause, which would permit them to do this.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 694, entitled:

An Act amending "The Fiscal Code" approved April 9, 1929 (P. L. 343), appropriating certain moneys obtained through proceedings relating to escheatable property to the Department of Revenue for the payment of compensation fees and expenses.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, on this particular bill we have considered it in our caucus with what information we had at hand and it is our opinion that this is a pretty loose way of permitting money of the Commonwealth to be spent, even though it might accomplish a good purpose. There is nothing wrong with our system today of having appropriation committee appropriate money to run the Department of Revenue and provide them with the funds to do this job and for them to get this blank check that this bill would give to them, we feel is not good government and I am asking the members to vote against this bill.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, I rise to discuss this bill and request the members on both sides of the House to vote in favor of this legislation. The legislation in itself is rather a simply constructed bill and as a matter of fact, despite the statements of the minority leader, this bill, this legislation is good legislation because it leads to efficient operation and also provides the mechanics to obtain the most possible funds in the area of escheats. What we do at the present time is this, that when we appoint an escheater, the escheater brings action to recover moneys which rightfully belong to the Commonwealth under our escheat laws, he has no way of being paid except through an appropriation which is made from the General Fund. And oftentimes council for the escheater, the escheater and the informer have to wait at least two years before they can be compensated for the efforts that they put in and discovering the fund and the efforts and energy they put in to make it a realization. What this bill says is that the escheater and the informer would be paid up to 25% out of the fund that they create, so that they would be aware that they are going to receive compensation within a reasonable time after they create the fund, and from the very fund that they create. As a matter of fact at the present time, the reason for this legislation is this, we find it difficult and in many cases the Commonwealth loses funds that could readily be escheated to it because informers, attorneys and escheaters do not wish to undertake the efforts involved to obtain the acquisition of these funds because they are never assured that after long litigation they might not have to wait for years in order to be paid. What we do at the present time is work on estimates. We make appropriations based on what we think will be necessary to pay these people who under statute are entitled to be paid. And if estimates are inaccurate we have an insufficiency of funds to pay them, then we have to wait a couple of years, now because of the new process at least one year in order to provide funds for the operation of this aspect of the Commonwealth's business. It would be efficient operation and would work to the advantage of this Commonwealth in its acquiring tremendous amounts of money which would be readily available for this Commonwealth if we passed this type of legislation. It is good, it is efficient, there is no reason to vote in opposition to it. It creates no boondoggling, it creates no funds for political haymaking and it would provide for this Commonwealth something in so far as additional acquisition of funds which the Commonwealth needs. It is good legislation and should be supported by both sides.

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

Mr. GOODRICH asked and obtained unanimous consent to add additional sponsors to a bill to be introduced by him.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, in the debate yesterday on House bill 363, I believe it was, concerning the full-crew bill, it was stated by the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy, that I was misleading the House.

I want to set the record straight. I have never intentionally or unintentionally, so far as I know, tried to mislead this House. In the statement and what I read into the record pertaining to the particular section of the Public Utility Code I said that it has never been repealed or declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of this State. What was declared unconstitutional was the full-crew bill as it existed on the books for 23 years. I wanted to set the record straight on that.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The remarks of the gentleman under the question of personal privilege will be spread upon the record.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Adams, rise?

Mr. ADAMS. I rise to a question of personal privilege. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, yesterday when the House voted on House bill 970, printer's No. 1558, I had some business on the phone. Had I been here in the hall at the time, I would have voted "aye" on that bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the record.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, the members on the Republican side of the House have been wondering what time we will caucus next Monday. I would like to announce that our caucus next Monday will be at 2 o'clock, from 2 to 4, as usual. You will not receive a caucus letter, so we would like to have all Republican members present at our caucus at 2 o'clock Monday.

Mr. McCANN. May I interrogate the gentleman one moment while we are waiting for the members to come?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. I missed that. What's the battle all about?

Mr. McCANN. I would like to ask the gentleman if he believes in two hours he can caucus on all the bills that need to be caucused on, so that on Monday and Tuesday we could proceed to vote on bills without an additional caucus on Tuesday?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I doubt it.

Mr. McCANN. Could I recommend that you come and caucus at noon or 11 o'clock in the morning?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. We do a pretty good job in two hours. We have all the bills caucused now that you can pass today conveniently.

Mr. McCANN. I would like to bring to the gentleman's attention that there will be in position to vote almost $900 million worth of appropriation bills next Monday and Tuesday, $950 million, I believe.

I would like to recommend that you caucus on those bills that move from second to third reading to be in position to vote on them.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We will endeavor on Monday to try to cover the entire calendar. We have been doing a pretty good job of it.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. May I interrogate the majority leader?

The SPEAKER. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Will the gentleman please state to the House how many days we will be in session next week?

Mr. McCANN. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. There will be a four-day session for sure next week, right?

Mr. McCANN. Yes, sir.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Thank you.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. McCANN. We request permission at this time on the bill we spoke about, to turn to page 14, bills on final passage, to call up House bill 663, printer's No. 1497. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, has amendments which he wishes to offer.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 663, entitled:

An Act providing for the construction erection and maintenance of roadside rests adjacent to State highway routes * * * authorizing rules and regulations and providing penalties for violations thereof and making an appropriation.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Bill, page 5, by inserting between lines 7 and 8:

Section 10. No roadside rests shall be constructed or erected pursuant to this act, unless surrounded on all sides, except that side which fronts on a State highway, by at least six hundred and sixty feet of Federal or State-owned lands in which no commercial signs or other advertising media are situated, or authorized, or by privately owned lands, the owners of which have irrevocably agreed in writing with the Commonwealth that no commercial signs or other advertising media or commercial enterprises will be permitted thereon or within six hundred and sixty feet thereof without the written permission of the Commonwealth or by an area of at least six hundred and sixty feet, which is zoned to prohibit the erection of commercial signs or other advertising media or commercial enterprises thereon.

Amend Sec. 10, page 5, line 8, by striking out "10" and inserting: 11

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, who desires to interrogate the majority leader.

Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, are there not roadside rests constructed in the State of Pennsylvania which are surrounded by billboard advertising and other commercial enterprises, these being roadside rests which were erected before the act of 1957?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, there are roadside rests erected in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that were constructed in Pennsylvania prior to the law he speaks of in which there is billboard advertising around or near the roadside rests. This is correct.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, as a result of a bill introduced in 1957 by Admiral Davis of Forest County, was not a prohibition established in the law whereby billboards and commercial enterprises would not be within 1,200 feet of a roadside rest?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, that is the present law. He is correct.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Was not that legislation designed to improve the climate of roadside rests in rural areas?

Mr. McCANN. That was the intent of it at the time it was debated and voted on and approved in this House and the Senate, and signed by the Governor.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. If House bill 663 is passed as it now exists, will it not give the Secretary of Highways absolute power to establish a roadside rest adjacent to a carnival, if he so desires?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman, of course, could state that a roadside rest would be built adjacent to a carnival, provided, as he would put it, that under the existing law they could build it for $8,000, that it would be approved by the Highway Department and that the Secretary of Highways would agree to such a thing, to which I am sure the answer would be a blunt "no."

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. I am not asking what he would not do; I am asking what could he do under the law. Suppose the Secretary of Highways was not Mr. Martin or a Republican who happens to believe in regulation of billboards, and you had a man who believed in construction of billboards adjacent to roadside rests, could he do that if he so desired?

Mr. McCANN. Under the proposed law the answer, I think, would be correct in what you are assuming, except we must also debate the cost allowed in the proposed law, because he would be bound by the proposal that you speak of in limiting the roadside rest to not exceed $12,000. This must certainly be taken into consideration when we talk about the land, or the additional land, that would be required as indicated in your amendment to take care of that.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, the majority leader certainly does not believe that the Secretary of Highways is limited to $12,000 if it is adjacent to an interstate highway. I suggest that he reads Section 9 of the bill, which gives him unlimited power to construct a roadside rest for a million dollars. Is that not true? Look at the section and refresh your recollection.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I do not want the gentleman to confuse—

The SPEAKER. Will you clarify this for the Speaker? Are we now discussing the bill or are we discussing the amendments?

Mr. McCANN. I would like the gentleman to discuss the amendments.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I have to discuss the amendments because the amendments remove the evils of the bill.

The SPEAKER. I am just asking for information.

The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, for the gentleman's information and for the information of this House, a roadside rest which would be built on an interstate system would be under the United States Bureau of Public Roads' approval, in which the United States Department of Commerce would participate on a 90-10 basis, and it would also be a roadside rest that would be built under their specifications. Those specifications are entirely different from what we are talking about here. There is no question that the Secretary of Highways, with the approval of the Bureau of Public Roads, does have a right to build roadside rests on interstate highway systems in which the Federal Government does participate 90-10, but they also must have running water, toilets for men and women, commodes, septic tanks, safe public drinking water and many other additions that are not placed in our roadside rests.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. I will ask one more question before I debate the amendments. If you had a roadside rest which would cost $100,000, say, $90,000 for the Federal Government and $10,000 for the State government, can you point out any prohibition in the present existing Federal law which would prevent a motel from being erected adjacent to this particular roadside rest?

Mr. McCANN. Absolutely. Under the Bureau of Public Roads on an interstate highway system you can erect everything you want to as long as you own the property, except that the road, or the entrance, or the abutment of the property to the highway, the interstate highway, shall be fenced or closed from entry or exit to that area.

So if anyone would care to build a million-dollar motel next to a roadside rest, it certainly would be screened off, and, who would care to invest his money in that manner? I would like to know what businessman in this world that may be.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. I am glad you gave me that answer, Mr. McCann. I will ask you this question: Why was not a similar prohibition as to screening off put in this particular bill?

Mr. McCANN. I am trying to explain to the members of this House, you are dealing with a roadside rest law. We have in this Commonwealth the State highway system. Do not confuse this with interstate system. In every county you have the FAP, FAS roads, Federal-Aid Primary, Federal-Aid Secondary, 100 percent State.

The construction of roadside rests as proposed in this act refer to the State road system, not to the interstate road system. We are talking about the Secretary of Highways being authorized to build roadside rests on these roads, FAP, FAS, and 100 percent State, not interstate.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. That is all, Mr. McCann.

Mr. Speaker, I have been very much concerned about House bill 663, which I am advised is an administrative measure.

We struggled for over three years trying to pass House bill 560 which regulates billboards in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and we placed proper restrictions against the construction of billboards adjacent to interstate highways in order to get the benefit of some millions of dollars.

Now, what do we do since we have had experience since 1945 in this particular legislation? We say that we as legislators should abdicate our privilege to maintain and create standards of legislation. You say to us, trust Mr. Martin, but we are all human and, if Mr. Martin is not here, are we to trust Mr. X? What will happen under this type of legislation unless these amendments are passed? I want to be realistic. I reduced the prohibition against commercial enterprises and billboards to 660 feet.

These roadside rests are not going to be established in Philadelphia, Scranton, Altoona, or Pittsburgh; they are established so that we city residents can go out in the country and enjoy the sylvan beauty of Forest County or Pike County. When we get there are we going to have a repetition of the situation that now exists in northwestern Pennsylvania, that when you go to a roadside rest you are entirely surrounded by billboards, or you are entirely surrounded by a carnival, a situation which now exists in this Commonwealth.

I say to you, not referring to the interstate highway where you have no prohibition of $12,000, that we are opening the door to political chicanery, that it would be possible under this particular bill for people who have influence to have State roadside rests constructed adjacent to their motels, adjacent to the hot-dog stands or any other commercial enterprise in which they are interested. This is absolutely significant, and I say that sponsors of this bill were derelict in their duty in not at least providing that there would be an enclosure adjacent to this particular roadside rest. What is there to stop a man who leases on a legal lease? He can lease land from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania with the provision that he is to have the right to maintain and continue a commercial enterprise, not facing on the State highway, but in the rear of the roadside rest.

I am certainly of the opinion and I feel the same on this matter from all viewpoints, that the administration and its leader on the floor could not be serious in wanting legislation of this character to pass. We certainly would want to have a setup whereby business people would not be able to encroach upon a roadside rest. Therefore, in order to maintain the standards for which the Commonwealth fought for three or four years, in order to protect people, in order to protect the Commonwealth's investment and the taxpayers, and in order to prevent a repetition of what we had occur in connection with horse racing, whereby politicians got the benefit, and I say it is possible in this bill for politicians to get the benefit of commercial advantage adjacent to roadside rests, therefore, I say to you this is a matter which you, not only as Democrats but as Republicans, should vote for this amendment. If you do not vote for the amendment I predict that you will have a honky-tonk adjacent to the roadside rests in years to come, and you will regret it. I ask for a roll-call vote.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I ask that this House carefully study this situation. The gentleman said that we passed billboard legislation. That we did, and it is law. But, what did we say on the interstate road system? This was the decision of this House and Senate. Now then, on the road that he speaks of we have been under the present law as indicated since 1957. You would think that at this time we would be able to build a good many roadside rests, not only in Pike and Forest and other counties, but also in Allegheny County and Bucks, Chester, Delaware, and many other places where we want to build roadside rests. Why can't we build them?

No. 1, because we are limited to $8,000 for the purchase of the land to build, and build the roadside rest. Now then, the gentleman says that if we do this without the amendment the answer is that someone will build either a carnival, a motel, or some other item that will abut the roadside rest. When the roadside rest is built, before it is built, there is selected by the right of way engineer and the engineer in the Highway Department such a site for approval. Before purchase of the ground to build the roadside rest all those items are considered. He will say that after it is done they will build these items. The answer is a cold, no, because after they have purchased the ground for the roadside rest we are required, under our new law, to fence people off even on FAS, FAP. There has only been one roadside rest built in the Pocono area, in Pike County, on US Route 6, outside of a place called Hawley, I believe, Pennsylvania. That roadside rest is entirely surrounded by State forest and game lands and no other requirements are needed because the Commonwealth is the sole owner of all ground on opposite sides in every direction.

Why have there not been roadside rests built? Roadside rests have not been built because of the law that we passed in this House. Not that we do not want to build them, not that we do not want them built, not that we do not have sites to build them, except, number one, we cannot build them for the amount of money that this House and Senate stated was the amount that you would allow under the law. When you propose a roadside rest, you take that total amount of money out of the Highway Department and earmark it instantly for payment at that point.

I appeal to you people that if you believe roadside rests should be built in Pennsylvania, as we think they should, in fact, I am not firmly convinced that $12,000 is the proper ceiling, because I took time to check the construction of every roadside rest since 1957 to the present date, the number of places in which you have proposed roadside rests and could not build them because of two sections of this law. For this reason I am appealing to this House to, number one, oppose Mr. Goldstein's amendments. Strike that provision out. Why? Because this House, in its billboard legislation, saw fit that it shall apply only to the interstate system. It did not say secondary, primary, or 100 percent State roads. The other provision that you support the bill to give it an opportunity, as you did the '57 law, to see if we cannot build roadside rests in other counties. I say to you that if you, as members, are interested in roadside rests because they are important to both the people in your own county and the traveling public, that you will support this position in conformity with what we did in the previous law. If not, why did you not support the position of eliminating billboards on FAS and FAP and 100 per cent State roads? Your answer was, no; my answer was, no. Therefore, I think we should be uniform in the position that we adopted on one measure to enact into the other.

Now then, by the 660 feet that the gentleman proposed in these amendments, if you own a piece of ground along a State highway, we will say that a proposed new roadside rest may be three, four, five, six acres, take any figure you want. You own the ground. To buy that ground you know that you as the owner of the property are entitled to the proper value of that ground before the Department of Highways takes over. But if, with his amendments, you are going to propose to take over the same ground for roadside rests, then you must also take 660 feet more than the proposed roadside rest ground and pay to that owner of that ground its proper value, because you are prohibiting such an item as he proposes in this legislation. If you are limited now to $8,000 and you are going to raise it to $12,000 which I believe is still incorrect—it should be $20,000 or $25,000 for roadside rests tell me, if you owned the ground, and were buying the ground, and then put the prohibition in about the 660 more feet, then also build the road, build the driveway, build all the others items that go into that roadside rest, and you tell me how much of a roadside rest you think you can build.

I think this House is very intelligent. I think they know a lot more about things than people think they do and they can use their own minds to figure this out. I appeal to you honestly to oppose these amendments, favor the bill, and should anyone want to amend it to raise the $12,000 to $20,000 or $25,000, I believe it is a step in the right direction that we should have done years ago in this Commonwealth. For that reason, and I can state specific cases, if we want to debate these points today, of the proposed roadside rests in Lehigh County, in Chester, in Delaware in Bucks, in Allegheny, in Beaver, and in Lawrence and prove to you that we cannot build them because of the law you put on the Secretary of Highways, and for that reason I ask your support to move in this direction.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to be given permission to speak generally on the bill because the majority leader has not discussed the issue, the amendments. We have no quarrel with the increase of the amount from $8,000 to $12,000. We might be in favor of a maximum of $20,000, but that is not the issue.

I have been very much concerned about this matter and I have been in contact with the Secretary of Highways and I have a letter from Mr. Froelich who is the chief deputy secretary. I told him we live in a government of laws and not of men, and in his reply to me he said, if expedient now, I believe in your principle.

Mr. McCann, when he discussed the interstate highway system we recognize that it falls back upon congressional regulations which prohibit any roadside rest or similar thing unless it is fenced. Why not have this act amended so it will be fenced? I am trying to prevent people from abutting and encroaching upon the abutting land which they may own at a roadside rest. Mr. McCann is not serious in thinking that we are going to have a roadside rest in the heart of Allegheny County of any material character. I know of very little land of that type, but I say, what you are doing here is, you are now repeating the error that you made in 1955. Incidentally, the legislation is copied word for word from the act of 1945—rather—it is repeated in the 1961 act, House bill 663. When Governor Leader signed this bill as introduced by Admiral Davis he wanted to remedy an evil. Now you say we give carte blanche to the Secretary of Highways, no matter what his name is, and he can construct a roadside rest wherever he wants to, right next to a billboard, right next to a carnival, right next to a hot dog stand.

Mr. McCann is wrong in his argument that we declared it a matter of policy when we passed the billboard legislation that we would limit that only to interstate highways. We are not talking about billboards adjacent to state highways generally; we are talking about billboards adjacent to roadside rests, and I say there is something wrong about the bill. You can hold a roll call; I am going to debate the thing. I do not buy it. This is an important issue and I repeat again, I cannot understand why Mr. McCann would not try to remedy this thing by having some provision against having enclosures adjacent to roadside rests, and I ask the majority leader for his consent to be interrogated again. I will ask him one question.

The SPEAKER. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Would the gentleman consent to have this bill held over so that you could put into the bill a provision that there should be enclosures adjacent to roadside rests, so that the people who go to the roadside rests cannot become the victims of individuals who own commercial enterprises adjacent thereto?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is asking me to hold it over for a specific reason so he would try to work out an amendment on an enclosure. I think the gentleman should know emphatically that he should have worked carefully with this. Have you ever checked in your own county on one they proposed and why they could not do it? Not because of billboards, not because of this or that, but by the amount of ceiling money that is allowed by law. The same way in my own county except that the highway department does not select or choose such sites and you leave the discretion in the highway department. Even though you press for such a roadside rest, they will not grant it.

I would like to vote on your amendment. I spoke honestly about opposing them and I would like to vote on the amendments that you have offered, and then if the gentleman feels that he has merit on his side of the situation, we could then probably vote on the bill, one way or the other. I honestly would like to do something that would permit the Secretary of Highways to build roadside rests that we need built so badly in this State.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Well, as I say again, I do not want to harangue everybody and repeat, I have no objection to the increase of the ceiling. I have given this some thought. I do not have the administration forces behind me to give me every detail, but I try sincerely to learn about a bill, and when Mr. McCann frankly states that the regulation on Federal highways would prevent commercial enterprises, I do not see any reason why we shall not have the same standards in the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. COMER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose these amendments. Mr. McCann, in his argument, pretty well covered the field. Mr. Goldstein mentioned a letter he received from the Deputy Secretary of Highways Froelich on April 20. What Mr. Goldstein did not mention was the contents of the letter. I will not take up too much time of the House, but I think they should know the contents of the letter. It says:

April 20

Dear Mr. Goldstein:

Here, for your consideration, are the arguments of the Department of Highways relating to H. B. 663 as it pertains to the erection of advertising devices.

As you know, the present roadside rest law (Public Law 479 of 1957) permits construction of roadside rests at a maximum cost of $8,000 provided there is a permanent billboard restriction for 1,200 feet on both sides of the roadside rest. The goal of this Act is commendable, but in practice it has not worked out. In the four years since enactment of this Act, the only roadside rests which we have been able to build under its provision have, of necessity, been located in public land areas such as State Forests. Our Roadside Development Unit has diligently searched for a site, other than on public lands, which would qualify but has been stymied in all instances because the necessary releases within the 2,400 feet distance could not be obtained without exceeding the maximum cost permitted.

There are other parts that go on in this lengthy letter, but I believe Mr. McCann covered practically every one of them. It has been impossible for the highway department to secure these sites, and there is one other point I would like to mention that has not been put in the record, in all instances where the department has gone in and built 46 roadside rests, there is only one roadside rest in Lackawanna County, on Route 611 south of Scranton, where a commercial device was placed. The department immediately placed a tree line completely blocking the view of this so-called hot dog stand. The department makes every effort to place a rest where there will be no commercial activities adjacent to the roadside rest. In the event commercial enterprises or commercial signs spring up abundantly in the area adjacent to roadside rests, the department plans to either fence the roadside rest completely, thus blocking access to enterprises, or to plant tree lines to block signs of commercial enterprises. I think the department has in the past shown its ability to cope with this situation. I think Mr. Goldstein's amendments are not needed or necessary, and I ask members on both sides of the House to oppose the amendments.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

ANNOUNCEMENT

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to announce that there is a very important meeting of the General State Authority at 2 p. m. It is rather important that as a member of the Authority the Chair be there. I will ask the gentleman from Armstrong to preside. They have voted on the amendments.

Mr. HELM IN THE CHAIR

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The chair recognizes the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it is with some reluctance that I rise to oppose this bill. I am very much in favor of roadside rests; I always have been. I recall back, I believe it must have been, in '55, when a bill was introduced to change the amount to raise the amount from, I believe, $3,000 or $3,500 at that time to $7,000 or $7,500 and objections were made then to raising the amount and it was moved back. I was very much surprised to see in the present bill that the amount would be $8,000. So I am going to read into the record my objections to this bill. Although, as I say, the plan of roadside rests is very laudable, too my mind, and I certainly am in favor of them if they were being built under the proper circumstances and under the proper supervision and under the proper cost. In addition to what I read into the record, I will be forced to vote against the bill since these amendments of Mr. Goldstein went down. If for no other reason than that, I would vote against the bill. Now, Mr. Speaker, I desire to read into the record my opposition to the bill and why I am voting against the bill.

House bill No. 663, providing for the erection and maintenance of roadside rests adjacent to Pennsylvania State highways, and I do not mean by that interstate highways, is a good bill and laudable in its principle.

However, I believe the bill goes much too far in several of its provisions.

Mr. Speaker, it is rather hard for me to talk at times when there is audible conversation going on around me. I do not try to do it when anybody else is speaking.

1. First of all, Mr. Speaker, it grants permission to the State Highway Department to contract for the erection of such roadside rests with independent contractors. This, in my mind, is entirely unnecessary. These roadside rests, as many of them as have been built in Pennsylvania, are an accommodation measure to our traveling and touring public both inside and outside the State, and have heretofore generally been built by employees of the State Highway Department, including all sanitary and other facilities of said roadside rests, and using in large measures lumber taken from State-owned land at little, if any, cost to the taxpayers of the State. Those conditions still exist today. They can and should be built again by the highway employees and could be built at substantially less cost than if contracted for outside of the State Highway Department.

2. The maximum cost of said roadside rests is raised from $8,500 to $12,000, an increase of $3,500. This, in my humble opinion, is entirely unnecessary and would be a waste of taxpayers' money.

By these provisions in the bill I do not believe that the taxpayers' money in Pennsylvania, and particularly in view of the raise in gasoline tax just recently passed, and which I voted against, is being in any sense protected or guarded. In fact, it would make it possibly, and not only possibly but probably, a very considerable waste of taxpayers' money.

In my opinion there are more than ample employees in the State Highway Department, if they would be put on an efficient working basis, to have ample manpower and skill to erect such roadside rests, without it being necessary for any outside contracting and at very considerable costs less than the maximum set forth in this bill. In fact, it is my opinion that they could be built for less cost than the maximum in the existing law, $8,500. And, Mr. Speaker, nothing that has been said on this floor today has changed my opinion one iota in regard to what I have already read.

Therefore, it is with great reluctance, in view of the foregoing, that I am forced to vote against this bill unless the bill is corrected to conform with my thoughts, ideas, and opinions which I have expressed. That is my privilege. Roadside rests are laudable. Many more of them should be built to attract more tourists into the State and to provide for accommodations, not only for our own State people, but also for the tourists who we are attempting to attract into the State and to use and view the great scenic wonders of our State, which are exceeded by no other State in the Union. But it should be done with the utmost economy and with the most savings possible to the taxpayers of the State, and in no way should such a measure be passed that would make it possible, and no doubt probable, for a waste of the taxpayers' money through a much greater expenditure for the erection of such rests if it was done by the State Highway employees themselves on an efficient working-day basis and with the full utilization of the man hours of the State Highway employees and the arts and skills which are possessed by such highway employees.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I may speak often but I do not speak long, so I ask your indulgence. It seems to me that this bill serves a very laudable and high purpose in that it is for the benefit of the traveling public and tourists in Pennsylvania, and I think for that reason such a bill is desirable. But judging from the debate on the amendments it would appear to me that it is the desire of the House and also the highway department to erect these roadside rests away from commercial enterprises. Now, section 5 of this bill raises the ceiling to an unlimited amount, but it provides that in no event shall the Secretary of Highways spend or commit more than $12,000 in State funds. In the event that the roadside rests cost more than $12,000, there is a provision in section 5, for the Department of Highways to acquire or, and I quote, "Either fiscal material or labor gifts or donations from local groups, commercial or institutional, towards construction and construction costs." Now, it seems to me, and I might be interpreting this incorrectly, that this provision is a built-in provision for commercial enterprises to induce the Department of Highways to erect roadside rests adjacent to commercial enterprises. If I am wrong, I hope to get a correction on the record. Now, I will be finished in just a second.

I would think that if I owned a chain of motels and I was desirous of having a $25,000 or a $35,000 roadside rest adjacent to my premises, in order to attract business, that under this act I could lease or give my adjacent land to the Commonwealth and have the Secretary of Highways erect a roadside rest thereon and get the State to subsidize me to the extent of $12,000, and that any amount above that I would contribute so that I would have a beautiful and elaborate roadside rest adjacent to my string of motels. Now, that is the question that concerns me, whether or not this section would permit that and, if not, I would like to be corrected.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia is most incorrect when he says that the section is built in for that purpose. I will give you examples of why it was written in.

Let us take a chamber of commerce. I can quickly name one, in the Johnstown area, for example, and I think Mr. McNally was a part of it, when the chamber of commerce tried to provide land and funds to help build the roadside rests, to the Secretary of Highways, and still they cannot do it at $12,000. This surely would not work an advantage to you in buying so many acres of ground to put your carnival up and then you would give a part of it. That would be good, the Secretary of Highways would accept it; then he would build the tree barrier or the fence barrier right around it and, if you are willing to give it for that purpose, God bless you.

Mr. McCORMACK. That is a good explanation, if the gentleman will answer my question. May I interrogate the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. I just want to ask whether or not it is the intention in this bill to indicate that by commercial you mean this is restricted to nonprofit groups, or whether the chamber of commerce is a commercial group?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I could not answer whether the chamber of commerce is commercial or nonprofit or in the noncommercial group. It would be my honest opinion that a chamber of commerce would be nonprofit, and certainly the people and the directors of the chamber of commerce, would represent all types of people in a community. I could not answer your question with respect to the technical point that you have asked, but I do believe that the gentleman is well aware that that position would not fit.

Mr. KISTLER. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the majority leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. KISTLER. Mr. Speaker, would enactment of House bill 663 permit unlimited construction in the number of roadside rests?

Mr. McCANN. House bill 663, as proposed, would permit the Secretary of Highways to construct unlimited numbers, that is right. The present law is 134 roadside rests, two per county, I believe.

Mr. KISTLER. Mr. Speaker, would the money for the construction of these roadside rests come from the gasoline tax funds?

Mr. McCANN. It would come from the highway money, which I believe is gasoline tax, as well as license plate money, which is motor license funds turned over to the highway department, that is correct.

Mr. KISTLER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Mr. Speaker, somewhat apologetically I, also, would like to interrogate the majority leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Mr. Speaker, it is my understanding that this bill confers the power of eminent domain, the power to condemn, upon the Secretary of Highways for the purpose of roadside rests, is that correct.

Mr. McCANN. That is correct, sir.

Mr. A. M. LEE. The bill also contains a limitation of $12,000 on the amount that can be spent for the acquisition, construction, and so forth, of a roadside rest?

Mr. McCANN. That is correct, sir.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Now the problem is, Mr. Speaker, suppose that property is condemned by the Secretary of Highways for this purpose, and suppose ultimately the board of view awards more than $12,000 in damages to the property owner, where do we stand? Where does the Commonwealth stand, and where does the owner stand?

Mr. McCANN. A very good question. The answer is simply this: Roadside rests are not handled in that manner. If a piece of ground proposed for a roadside rest cannot be agreed upon as to the figure in the first agreement, with the Department of Highways' men estimating its value with you as a property owner, it now stops and ends right there because of the law. The whole question would be that it would get to the point where it would eventually end in court, and the answer is, no, because it could happen that it would exceed the law. Therefore, no roadside rest is in any way past that stage, or ever proposed, until the property owner, you as a property owner, agree that your land is worth so much and that you will turn it over to the Commonwealth.

Mr. A. M. LEE. But, Mr. Speaker, it is my understanding that from the plain terms of this bill it confers upon the Secretary of Highways the power of condemnation?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, it does, but I say to you that you have a law which deals with a ceiling in an overall construction, and to the Department of Highways that right is granted. But now if you, as a property owner, do not agree upon the value, that stops the entire roadside rest, because the court could award more and it would exceed this law and the Secretary of Highways would be in violation of the law. Therefore, no roadside rest moves past that stage.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Mr. Speaker, it is apparent that I do not understand the nature of the power of eminent domain which is conferred by this bill. Eminent domain is for the purpose of taking land without an agreement.

Mr. McCANN. That is right. There is no question that you do understand the law of eminent domain.

Mr. A. M. LEE. There may be a question on that.

Mr. McCANN. Now then what I am trying to say to you is, when you are dealing with the highway, you of course, can proceed to get to the figure that even the courts will award. In a roadside rest project, the eminent domain law applies, certainly it does, but, now then, you have a law which deals with a ceiling. When the Department of Highways comes into your property under that law and you do not agree because it will go to court and could exceed, the Highway Department stops instantly and no roadside rest project is moved any farther.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Then, Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman explain to me as to why the power of eminent domain is in this bill, because if the only way it can be acquired is by agreement, there is no sense in having that power in this legislation.

Mr. McCANN. Yes, there is, Mr. Speaker, and I certainly can explain it.

Let us take a roadside rest that is pretty well known as to the cost of building a road in that area off the highway. Depending upon the terrain it can be figured by the highway department engineers very carefully. Now you have a law of $8,000 ceiling. Say you proceed and the difference is a matter of $1,000 or so for the land. The eminent domain provision gives the Secretary of Highways power. You as a property owner want $4,000 for your land; the Highway Department says your land is worth $2,500. By going on to that provision, adding $4,000, if the court would award the highest total, they must calculate the balance of what it would take to construct a roadside rest. They have not moved on any of those projects, Mr. Speaker, because of the figure. They would move on some which the court could settle and still be in compliance with the law at $12,000.

Mr. A. M. LEE. But again, Mr. Speaker, I still do not understand the explanation that the majority leader gives. What I am talking about is the situation where no matter what the limit is, $8,000, $12,000, and property owner may want more than that limit and the highway department less, and in that instance it is possible that there may be an award of more than the limit.

Mr. McCANN. That is what I am saying, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Was the gentleman saying that as long as the property owner wants a figure less than the limitation then the Secretary would use the power of eminent domain if there could not be an agreement?

Mr. McCANN. Yes.
Mr. A. M. LEE. Then my answer to you is that every property owner who does not want his property taken will set a figure above the limit and he will just stop the condemnation, so the power is no good.
Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, you are taking an assumptive position in an opposite situation from which most roadside rest requests come in to begin with.

Roadside rest requests for consideration originate with various State organizations in an area. They have always been helpful in this, but I again bring to your attention that you must figure that it is the total cost of the project—total cost. Certainly there are some who would object to their ground being taken over, and they would ask a figure that they in their opinion believe to be correct, and the highway department disagrees, but the figure they are asking and the figure that the highway department believes should be paid, plus the balance of what it would take to build that roadside rest, could not exceed $12,000, as proposed in this bill. If it went to court and the court awarded under eminent domain the figure that the gentleman was asking who owned the ground, taking that highest figure, plus the amount it would take to build the roadside rest it could not exceed the proposed law. That is why the eminent domain provision is important in there.

Mr. A. M. LEE. I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, but I am still not convinced on the gentleman's explanation because I still think it is a defect, in some measure, in the bill. Let me make my position clear. As far as the limitation is concerned, that does not particularly concern me, because I also would like to see roadside rests built. As I understood it, the majority leader, in connection with Mr. Goldstein's interrogation, said that these roadside rests are not being built for two reasons at the present time. The first is the $8,000 and the second is some inability to acquire this 1,200-foot easement.

I would only say to you that my own position in connection with this legislation is, that if we have to raise the limit above $12,000, I would be in favor of that, but I still feel most strongly that the 1,200-foot provision should be in there, and I would be willing to raise the limit even further in order to make it possible to acquire these things, plus the easement that would protect them from commercialization and billboard advertisement. Thank you.

Mr. DOWN. I will be glad to discuss the bill with either one of them.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Foerster.

The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Foerster, yields to the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PETROSKY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, the new members indicated on the board represent departments that are vitally concerned with certain phases of the waters of the Commonwealth. The objective of the proposed bill is to provide for a more concerted effort in the protection of the waters of the Commonwealth, so that there shall be an adequate supply for the citizens of the Commonwealth, the needs of agriculture and the needs of industry and commerce.

The engineer member is primarily one that serves in an advisory capacity. He will continue to do so, although not being an actual member of the board. Incidentally, this increase the board from five to seven, and, of course, rather than going into an eight-member board, the gentleman that is the engineer will continue, as I have indicated, in an advisory capacity.

There is no need as a member of the board for the engineer to be on it as such.

Mr. DOWN. I cannot understand the reason, actually, for eliminating the engineer. I know in Pymatuning Lake, in my district, the Mercer-Crawford District, the engineer is a member of the Water and Power Resources Board and controls most of the activity regulating the water, and so forth, and I agree with you that, most likely, he would be there in an advisory capacity. But I see no reason for eliminating him from the Water and Power Resources Board, or even increasing the board. And I do not know why the Secretary of Internal Affairs should be put on the board.

Mr. PETROSKY. For a very specific reason, because the Secretary of Internal Affairs' offices are concerned with water problems as related to the particular bureaus in that department that deal with water in relation to geological surveys, and so forth, that they compile statistics on. I think you can recall just two years ago the water bill, and so on, that emanated from that department. They have a major operation in the waters of the Commonwealth in their present jurisdiction and they should be on this policy-making board. This, of course, as I indicated, is through the advice of the engineers.

Incidentally, this is in agreement with all departments concerned.

Mr. DOWN. Is the administration in agreement with the Department of Forests and Waters?

Mr. PETROSKY. This is in agreement with Forests and Waters, with Agriculture, Internal Affairs, and all the departments concerned.

Mr. DOWN. I have no quarrel with that, but I am against the elimination of the engineer as a member of this board.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman raised the question about the engineer. The engineer, the person he speaks of, is now a member of the board under the present law. The engineer falls under the Department of Forests and Waters dealing with the same situation now. The Secretary of Forests and Waters is a member of the Water and Power Resources Board. In increasing the board to seven and adding the two we spoke of, the Secretary of Internal Affairs and the Secretary of Agriculture, I think there is no question in your mind why they should be considered as a part of the board. This, of course, would be the only change of what is now the law, eliminating the engineer who is a member of the board and who is a part of the Department of Forests and Waters. However, the Secretary would still be a member. This is an important move in trying to give the Water and Power Resources Board the thinking of all these and, particularly, Agriculture from the view point of all the farm ponds and everything else dealing with water and under the Agriculture Soil Conservation Act, and Internal Affairs, dealing with all the authorities which are concerned with water, as well as the geological report and Water Well Drillers' Act, which makes a report of all the water drilled in all the wells in Pennsylvania. This would make a better board, in the opinion of many people.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I want to enlighten the membership of the House that this is only one of two bills that appear on our calendar. I do not want to discuss them at length. However, as the majority leader has indicated, these are very important measures in behalf of the welfare of all of the people of the Commonwealth.

The companion bill that appears on the final-passage calendar is House bill No. 1191. In the event you would want a full discussion, inasmuch as I have discussed amendments to 1191 with several members of the other side, I assumed we were possibly in an area of agreement and I wanted to conserve the time of the House and take up the entire package. I will, in the event that the House would want me to, go into detail, for I would like to see House bill No. 1179 run, and then again House bill No. 1191, which takes in this field of protection to the people of the Commonwealth on the water question in the event that we are ever faced with an emergency in this area.

If there is any further need of discussion, I will continue. However, I will be happy to take a roll call in the event that the membership on both sides of the House feel that there are proper measures to be acted upon at this time.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

SENATE MESSAGE

SENATE RESOLUTION SERIAL No. 111

The clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 13, 1961.

The act of June 4, 1901 (P. L. 431), commonly referred to as the "Mechanics' Lien Law," was enacted subsequent to the adoption of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in 1874 and in as far as the provisions thereof are not divergent from preexisting law, is not in violation of Article III, Section 7, of the Constitution as a special law. However, many sections and amendments to the act have been held unconstitutional by our Supreme Court.

There is great confusion with respect to the construction and application of the act and the General Assembly requires for its use comprehensive factual information relating to the laws concerning mechanics' liens so that they may be codified, simplified and clarified in keeping with the constitutional limitations, as to their construction and application; therefore be it

RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring) that the Joint State Government Commission be directed to study the laws relating to mechanics' liens with a view of codifying, clarifying and simplifying such laws; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the General Assembly, its findings and recommendations, together with drafts of legislation necessary to carry its recommendations into effect.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

Let us pray.

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, as we are assembled together this day, we recognize and acknowledge Governor Lawrence's proclamation designating this May 1, 1961 as Law Day.

We thank Thee for the wonderful system of jurisprudence which we have. We pray that as Senators and Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, we may be wise and conscientious in the making of the laws.

O God, who has commanded that no man should be idle, give us grace to employ all our talents and faculties in the service appointed for us that whatsoever our hand findeth to do, we may do it with our might.

O Almighty God, the Fountain of all wisdom, Whose statutes are good and gracious and Whose law is truth, we humbly beseech Thee for the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and especially for their Senate now assembled, that Thou wouldst be pleased to direct and prosper all their consultations to the advancement of Thy glory and the safety, honor and welfare of Thy people; that all things may be so ordered and settled by their endeavors, upon the best and surest foundations, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, may be established among us for the years to come.

Grant that having the mind opened to behold things invisible and unseen, we may, in heart, be inspired by Thy wisdom and, in work, be upheld by Thy strength.

Bind us together this day in the brotherhood of service, in the Name of Him Who came not to be ministered unto, but to minister and to give His life a ransom for many.

Amen.

SENATE RESOLUTIONS

CONGRATULATING THE WILLIAM PENN FRATERNAL ASSOCIATION ON ITS SEVENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. STASEY offered the following resolution (Serial No. 50), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, May 1, 1961.

The William Penn Fraternal Association, a legal reserve life insurance association, will celebrate its seventy-fifth anniversary on May 28, 1961, at the Penn-Sheraton Hotel in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

The parent organization, or the old Verhovay Air Association, was founded February 21, 1886, in Hazleton, Pennsylvania, by thirteen coal miners who were immigrants from Hungary. At the present time, the association numbers nearly ninety thousand members and, although known as the largest and most widespread of the Hungarian-American societies, it does not restrict its membership to those of Hungarian ancestry alone, but can proudly point to thousands of persons of other national backgrounds among its membership.

The present name of the society, William Penn Fraternal Association, was adopted in 1955 when the Verhovay Fraternal Insurance Association, a later name of the Verhovay Aid Association, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, since 1926, merged with the second largest Hungarian-American Society, the Rakoczi Air Association of Bridgeport, Connecticut, a society almost as old as the Verhovay and dating back to April 13, 1888, to become the very progressive fraternal insurance society it now is and shall be.

The society has consistently engaged in many praiseworthy activities and endeavors, such as educational and cultural pursuits, patriotic contributions to the war efforts during the two great world conflicts, assistance to displaced persons and refugees, participation in community events, and cooperation with other fraternal societies.

Most important of all of its activities, the William Penn Fraternal Association maintains a real and progressive march in its life insurance, accident, health, hospitalization and other insurance programs, and is unique in its rigorous application of its slogan, "Insurance with a Heart"; therefore be it

Resolved, That this Senate of Pennsylvania hereby congratulates the William Penn Fraternal Association on attaining the seventy-fifth anniversary of its service to the community in the field of insurance, and the fine spirit of community enterprise it has shown in participating in various noteworthy activities and endeavors; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Mr. Julius Macker, President of the William Penn Fraternal Association, 436 Fourth Avenue, Pittsburgh 19, Pennsylvania.

BEST WISHES OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO THE CITY OF WILLIAMSPORT ON ITS FIRST ANNUAL COMMUNITY ARTS FESTIVAL

Mr. CONFAIR offered the following resolution (Serial No. 51), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, May 1, 1961.

From April 30 through May 7, 1961, the City of Williamsport, Lycoming County, Pennsylvania, is celebrating its First Annual Community Arts Festival.

The purposes of the Annual Community Arts Festival are two-fold: First, to assist the youth of the area in gaining a knowledge of the fine arts and to aid them in planning careers in the various fields of art; and second, to emphasize and make known to the general public the many cultural advantages which the Williamsport area has to offer. Each day of this week-long celebration is devoted to a different aspect of the arts, including music, literature, crafts, visual arts, dance and drama. In addition to numerous fine displays and exhibitions, nationally known speakers in every field of the arts will discuss and present lectures on their specialties. The major social event of the festival, the Beaux Arts Ball, will be held on Thursday evening, May 4th.

The splendid planning and foresight of the Williamsport Chamber of Commerce and the financial assistance of the Junior League of Williamsport, coupled with the unselfish efforts of numerous individuals, have produced an event which is, indeed, worthy of our praise. It is our firm belief and expressed hope that this celebration will be of lasting benefit to Williamsport and to all those who observe it or take part in it; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania hereby extends its very best wishes to the city of Williamsport for a successful celebration of its First Annual Community Arts Festival, and expresses its admiration and respect for the individuals and civic groups who have labored so diligently and capably to make this outstanding event possible; and, be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Mr. Bernard Taylor, General Chairman of the First Annual Community Arts Festival, Griets' Publishing Company, 208 West 3rd Street, Williamsport, Pennsylvania.

NAYS—0

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

SB 231—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, Senate Bill No. 231, which is the bill presently under consideration, is a bill that would extend for another two years action which the Legislature of Pennsylvania took two years ago, which would bring up to a minimum of $1,800 the retirement income of school teachers who have retired in the past when teachers' salaries were at such a low rate that the retirement income they have enjoyed has been lower than that figure of $1,800.

I think most people here will agree with me that certainly this is a worth-while level at which to maintain the incomes of these people who have given so many years of faithful service in the schools of the Commonwealth.

In addition, it also includes those people who retired due to disability rather than the normal course of retirement.

I think, therefore, Mr. President, that this is a very worth-while bill which deserves the support of all of the Members of the Senate.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I concur wholeheartedly in the remarks of Senator Seyler on this bill and, particularly, the portion referring to the disability annuitants who are now included in the bill.

By way of some explanation, in 1959 when this bill was first passed and extended for just two years, we found that certain actuarial objections entered into including disability annuitants. Those have been cleared up and the bill will now benefit those people who certainly deserve it.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—49

Bell,	Kalman,	Murray,	Stevenson,

GUESTS OF SENATOR CHARLES R. WEINER
PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, at this time, I would like to introduce a group of women from the city of Philadelphia. They are here for the Democratic Convention and are under the leadership of a former House Member, who is now a Council woman in the city of Philadelphia and the President of the Democratic Women of Philadelphia, Mary Varallo.

I would like for the Chair to introduce this group of ladies to the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair, on behalf of the Members of the Senate, recognizes and appreciates the presence of the Democratic Women of Philadelphia. We hope you will come back again. It looks like Philadelphia Day here today.

Will the group kindly rise? We certainly welcome you.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. LANE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, as you probably know, commencing last year, a committee was created by the General Assembly to work on the problem of unemployment in Pennsylvania and to make recommendations on our findings to the Members of the House and of the Senate.

As you know, last week, our committee filed our report with reference to our recommendations. At this particular time, Mr. President, I am about to offer a bill, on behalf of Senator Wagner, Senator Weiner, Senator Flack and myself, appropriating $100,000 for the purpose of creating an Employment Emergency Fund, in order that should there be an economic catastrophe in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, I feel that the Governor should have the power to have these funds in order to alleviate the distress which might be created due to the fact that some of the large industries might shut down inadvertently and the Governor should have that power.

While I have been explaining this legislation, I am informed that Senator Kalman also would like to be a co-sponsor of the bill. If so, I present the bill to the gentleman for his signature.

Mr. President, in addition to that, I have legislation, on behalf of Senator Flack, Senator Weiner, Senator Wagner and myself, which will amend the Public School Code of 1949 by granting power to the State Board of Vocational Education to establish, operate and maintain programs for the training of the unemployed in Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, during the course of our hearings, I believe the Senate would like to know that it seemed to be the unanimous opinion of a great number of the experts that a part of the answer to the unemployment program in Pennsylvania is the retraining of the unemployed. We were informed that at this particular time, we have a number of colleges and vocational training schools which are doing a mighty good job in this particular field. We feel that it should be a State-wide program in its entirety. Therefore, on behalf of the sponsors mentioned, I am about to introduce such a bill.

In addition, Mr. President, on behalf of the sponsors which I mentioned before, we want to appropriate the sum of $50,000, as a pilot plant, to the Department of Commerce for the purpose of accelerating technical research for the development of new products in Pennsylvania.

The committee feels, Mr. President, that this is the proper department to which to appropriate these funds as they have operated P.I.D.A. in a very efficient manner, and we know very well that they will apply themselves in bringing about technical research for the development of new products here in Pennsylvania.

Also, Mr. President, on behalf of the sponsors that I named before, we will introduce a bill which will empower the Department of Commerce to also lend capital funds for the establishment of research facilities and make loans wherever possible for this particular field.

On behalf of the same sponsors, Mr. President, our last bill authorizes the Department of Commerce to aid political subdivisions in the purchase of land for industrial parks.

We have found during the course of our hearings, Mr. President, that in a great number of cases throughout Pennsylvania it is absolutely necessary that we create industrial parks. The thought in mind was that once the local industrial development authorities have that power, which they will receive from the Department of Commerce, we will have industrial land available for industry. That being the case, we feel that they should have the right to set up an industrial park program. This has been quite successful throughout the Commonwealth. We feel, also, that this will expedite the re-employment of the good citizens of our Commonwealth.

Mr. President, I also have another piece of legislation which I will probably introduce tomorrow which will complete the augmentation of the recommendations of our report.

Thank you very much.

APPROVAL OF SENATE BILLS

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communications in writing from His Excellency, the Governor, advising that the following Senate Bills had been approved and signed by the Governor: SB 31, 77, 79, 134, 138, 139, 153, 174, 185, 188, 189, 303, 313 and 314.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

MEMORIALIZING THE PRESIDENT AND CONGRESS TO PROVIDE ADEQUATE FUNDS TO THE UNITED STATES ARMY CORPS OF ENGINEERS FOR THE NECESSARY SURVEYS AND PLANS FOR A NEW CANAL BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA

Messrs. SESLER and ROONEY, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 116), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, May 1, 1960.

Whereas, the United States has assumed an obligation with its good neighbor, the Government of Canada, to contribute its full share toward the successful operation of the St. Lawrence Seaway-Great Lakes Shipping Route; and

Whereas, The only existing navigable facility connecting lakes Erie and Ontario is the Welland Canal which has been sorely pressed to meet the increasing demands of shipping; and

Whereas, The construction of an alternate ship canal would make a major contribution to the security of the United States as well as Canada, because:

(1) In the event of breakdown or destruction of the existing Welland Canal, the commerce of the entire Great Lakes area of the United States and Canada west of Lake Ontario would be denied access by water transportation to the St. Lawrence Seaway and international shipping lanes;

(2) It would provide a more secure inland route for the movement of iron ore in the event of war;

(3) It would ease the strain on congested rail facilities and east coast ports in the time of emergency; and

(4) It would allow the construction and repair of ocean-going vessels in the more secure areas of the Great Lakes; and

Whereas, The construction of the canal would contribute greatly to the prosperity of commerce, industry and agriculture, not only in those States bordering the Great Lakes, but throughout the entire Nation; and

Whereas, The commerce of the lake ports of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania would be increased by the benefits accruing to the St. Lawrence Seaway-Great Lakes Shipping Route; and

Whereas, The construction of the canal would stabilize employment, provide job security and expand job opportunities; now, therefore, be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby respectfully memorializes the President and Congress of the United States immediately to provide adequate funds to the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers for the necessary surveys and plans for, and to initiate the construction of, the canal, as foresaid; and, be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted as follows:

To the President of the United States;

To the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States Congress, and to each member thereof from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania;

To the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania;

To the Secretary of Commerce of Pennsylvania;

To the Chairman of the Port Authority of Erie;

To the Governors and State Legislative Leaders of the States of New York, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

SENATE RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATING THE PENNSYLVANIA FORESTRY ASSOCIATION ON THE SEVENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF ITS FOUNDING

This record includes the creation of the Department of Forests and Waters; the reforestation program; the recreational facilities on our public lands; is the leading spokesmen against littering, vandalism and other outdoor abuses. The Association for the past two years has been sponsoring a good outdoor manners educational program; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby commends and congratulates the Pennsylvania Forestry Association on this the seventy-fifth anniversary of its founding. This Association is also to be commended on the outstanding job it has done with conservation in this State. Its record is one of the best in the Nation; be it further

I have a letter and a telegram here. I will not bore the House by reading it, but I would like to have it spread on the record.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the record.

Does the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Isaacs, desire to be recognized?

Mr. ISAACS. I do, Mr. Speaker.

I would like to interrogate one of the sponsors of this measure.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Luty, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LUTTY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, at a right-angle intersection, four-ways, suppose four cars approach the intersection at the same time, all protected by stop signs. Which car has the right of way?

Mr. LUTTY. Mr. Speaker, the one on your right.

Mr. ISAACS. The one on whose right? There are four of them stopped there, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LUTTY. On your right.

Mr. ISAACS. That is what I was afraid of, Mr. Speaker. I thank the gentleman for his good answer and I would like to briefly debate the bill.

Mr. Speaker, during the 1959 session by an act of the General Assembly, approved by the Governor, we outlawed four-way and multiple stop signs.

I believe the original purpose was that a stop sign was to have one thruway. I think that was a very good reason. When we allowed multiple stop signs, in the territory where I live at least, they sprang up like mushrooms; they impeded traffic and in some political subdivisions every street was blocked off. I think they are a bad thing and I believe the lawyers in this House will agree that one of these intersections is a veritable no-man's land, and I would pity anyone who has an accident in one of them.

I think there would certainly have to be contributory negligence; somebody would be violating a law or somebody would be failing to yield the right of way. If the traffic at an intersection is so important that four of them are needed, then I think we should have a stop-and-go light. I ask the members of the House to oppose this measure.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Berks.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I do not know how many members of this House have arrived at an intersection when it has four stop signs, traffic is heavy and you have a line of traffic in four different directions. The first car is thinking about pulling out, the fellow from the other side is hesitant, and nobody knows who should go first. The first thing that happens is, there is an accident in the center of the intersection. I have seen these four-way stop signs in operation and they have only caused more accidents.

May I suggest to the members that we vote this bill down, and if a stop sign is needed, use a traffic light to control traffic at an intersection such as have these four-way stop signs.

Mr. LUTTY. Mr. Speaker, in the city of Pittsburgh it just works the opposite. We have eight locations where, before we put the four-way stop sign into effect, we had anywhere from four, nine, eight, three, six, two accidents. Now we come to where we have no accidents at all in many cases. But this proves the contrary, where you have the four-way stop signs, you do not have the accidents. This is a measure to prevent the accidents. You can imagine if four people hit this intersection at one time, with no stop signs and everybody went ahead, there would be many more accidents. I have about three pages from our traffic engineer to prove the necessity of this, which I will not take the time to offer.

Mr. KAMYK. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this bill and I ask the House to vote for House bill 392.

This is a "may" bill. If the four-way stop signs do not work out, then the municipality should not have them, but it so happens that in the city of Pittsburgh it has been working out very well to have the four-way stop signs, because when four cars driving from different directions all stop and hesitate, naturally after that one of them moves carefully, it is better than having a collision of two speeding cars. Those corners are such that there is not a large amount of traffic at all times from the two different directions. So it is a proven fact in the city of Pittsburgh, and I understand other municipalities throughout the Commonwealth, that the four-way stop signs are a safety precaution, and I ask the House to support this bill because it is a "may" bill and does not affect any municipality where it does not work out.

Mr. WILLARD. Mr. Speaker, I thought this was a non-controversial bill, and I desired to have a letter spread on the record. I would like to have you reconsider that now and have permission to read this letter. I think it is a very important letter.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is entitled to read it or file it for the record.

Mr. WILLARD. I will read it, Mr. Speaker.

This letter is addressed to me. It is from the Cunningham Funeral Home in Grove City.

Dear Sir:

I have just received news today that a bill is going to be introduced in the legislature probably next week in regard to the State Highway Department removing two stop signs at the intersection of legislative routes No. 208 and No. 258 located in Springfield Township, Mercer County, and known as London Crossing, but more recently tagged "Slaughter Corners" by our populace and many out of state drivers. This disturbs me no end.

Please permit me to go back a few years with some statistics which have been sent to Harrisburg many times and for which we finally got action with the four-way stop signs we now have.

I am a Pennsylvania licensed funeral director located in Grove City, Pennsylvania, and also one of the different firms rendering ambulance service to our community. Statistics will show that our service answered emergency calls to this crossing on an average of four accidents per week and as high as three in a single day. Many fatalities have occurred also that our firm has personally handled. Something had to be done.

With the aid of Mr. Floyd McClymonds, then editor of our Grove City Reporter, and now with the Albion, Pennsylvania, newspaper, these statistics were gathered along with petitions carrying hundreds of names from our community and sent to Harrisburg with a plea for action. This we received pronto and for which we are very grateful. Since these four stop signs were erected we have not had one single accident at this crossing in the past several years. Surely, this is proof positive that our community can and will contribute to the Highway Safety Program of our Honorable Governor, David L. Lawrence.

Now, we learn that someone thinks the State Highway route should go straight through with no obstruction. Well, all we can say to this "So Does the Mail Truck" but what happens if he is caught in the middle of this intersection?

We have operated ambulance service to hundreds of our citizens for the past twenty-six years and have received citations from our insurance company for not having or causing a single accident, but tomorrow may be the first at this very crossing if left unprotected. God forbid.

I ask you again, Mr. Willard, to do everything humanly possible and to enlist the cooperation of your constituents to make no law or amendment that will tend to carry out the present slaughter on our highways, but to prevent same. All we ask is that these four stop signs remain as in the past and again, we will be ever grateful.

Very truly yours, H. Glenn Cunningham.

Mr. Speaker, I would request the members on both sides of this House who are interested in Highway safety to support this House bill 392. Thank you.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I do not know too much about a four-way stop sign, but in the city of Monessen we have a six-way stop sign and until we had this we had quite a few accidents. Since that time I do not think we have had an accident there. I just give that for the information of the members of the House.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, the only comment I have to make is that when you have no stop signs, then all persons approach an intersection with equal right. They all feel as though they have the right of way. The same thing would apply if you have four stop signs on the same intersection. All persons would approach the intersection with the same right, feeling they have the right of way, and thereby take it. I feel there should be a definite right of way given, that there should be one through way and two stop ways and then we will not have confusion on who has the right of way. Therefore, I oppose this bill.

Mr. KISTLER. Mr. Speaker, Camp Hill Borough, along with many other municipalities in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, needs four-way stop signs in the vicinity of schools to protect the little children crossing the highways at these points. I therefore ask the members on both sides of the aisle to support House bill No. 392, being especially mindful of the little children, not necessarily the confusion of the adult drivers who have every right in their judgment to proceed at the proper time. Thank you.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say one or two words in support of my colleague's position, Mr. Isaacs, and to substantiate what he has said.

One of the reasons for prohibiting four-way stop signs in 1959 was because of the number of small municipalities, each being jealous of its own right to erect stop signs, would create these monstrosities by each putting up stop signs at a certain intersection where two municipalities joined. I can personally say that it did create quite a monstrous situation if you were trying to drive from one place to another in our county. I think this is very bad legislation.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say just a few words in the interest of this bill.

I wonder if those who have been talking against this bill have ever come to a four-sign street. I have a lot of times, and the old word "courtesy" has not left us after all. We all stop and the first one who arrives there proceeds first, then the others go through, and I have not seen an accident. Even at the Pittsburgh airport, where traffic is continuous, there has not been an accident there yet. This is only helpful to us people who forget the word "courtesy."

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 728, entitled:

An Act amending the "Elevator Regulation Law" approved May 2, 1929 (P. L. 1518) changing the definition of "elevator" and regulating the repairing and renovating of elevators requiring permits and fixing fees for permits, inspections and certificates.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Columbia, Mr. Strausser.

Mr. STRAUSSER. Mr. Speaker, it is not my intention to talk against this bill, but I do think we should have a little more clarification of a portion of the bill.

In my opinion, Pennsylvania has the most stringent and best elevator code of any State in the Nation. I am sure none of us would want to change this.

This, Mr. Speaker, I consider quite a technical bill and, in order to try to clarify a portion of it, I would ask whether one of the sponsors or some technical man would permit himself to be interrogated for the purpose of clarification.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Morley, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MORLEY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STRAUSSER. Mr. Speaker, I understand this is considered a department bill. Will the gentleman tell me whether that is correct or not?

Mr. MORLEY. That is correct.

Mr. STRAUSSER. Mr. Speaker, I wonder if the gentleman knows—this is not any attempt to embarrass anybody, the gentleman or anybody else—it is simply an attempt to clarify the definitions.

Now, this definition has been changed to add in addition to a regular passenger elevator, freight elevators. Now under the act, in fact, all apparatus used in lowering or raising certain personnel, materials or equipment, is that right?

Mr. MORLEY. That is correct.

Mr. STRAUSSER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman tell me or can the gentleman tell me what the intent of the present bill is? First, before I ask the question, Mr. Speaker, the new material includes all sorts of "apparatus so long as such hoist or other apparatus raises or lowers personnel, materials or equipment or other goods or cargo between two or more floors of any structure, that is, a vertical lift or line. I ask the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, in the bill does it make a difference between floors?

Mr. MORLEY. I do not understand the question. The difference between floors?

Mr. STRAUSSER. Yes.

Mr. MORLEY. It does not.

Mr. STRAUSSER. Thank you. In other words, any lift whether a floor is three feet four inches above another floor or six feet eight inches above another floor, or whatever the difference, this definition would include any such distance. Is that correct?

Mr. MORLEY. It would, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STRAUSSER. That, Mr. Speaker, is understandable because you have trucks unloading cargo and men to run the hydraulic lift and the lift raises it to the next floor level.

Now, further on, Mr. Speaker, in line 7, or line 8 on page 3, that is exempting coal mines from the act or from the definition, the new material "up or down slopes whether natural or artificial if the length of the slope exceeds fifty feet." Now, Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman, in his opinion, does this portion or this sentence pertain to mines or does that apply to any slopes or ramps whether they be in mines or anywhere else?

Mr. MORLEY. Of course it exempts coal mines, and it seems to me as though it applies to all slopes either in coal mines, outside of coal mines, and so forth, metal mines, and also would include portable conveyances on construction projects. It seems all inclusive outside of coal mines.

Mr. STRAUSSER. Thank you. That is what I thought, Mr. Speaker.

I would further ask the gentleman, in his opinion, any piece of equipment used then to transport a cargo from one floor to another, up a ramp, the ramp being more than 50 feet, would that piece of equipment be considered an elevator under the act?

Mr. MORLEY. I do not think so. It does not appear to me that equipment of that type would be included under the act.

Mr. STRAUSSER. I would further ask the question of the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, under this section of the bill could a piece of equipment used in raising or lowering of repairmen who are working on utility wires be classified as an elevator if the wires were more than 50 feet off the ground?

Mr. MORLEY. It could under this act.

Mr. STRAUSSER. I further ask the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, under the personnel, the part of the bill that refers to raising personnel, could a scenic railway in an amusement park be classified as an elevator under this bill.

Mr. MORLEY. Some of the equipment in recreation areas could be.

Mr. STRAUSSER. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I thought that the amendments offered and adopted would definitely clear up the objectionable part of this bill. And as I said before and will repeat, in my opinion, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has the best elevator code in the United States and I would hate to see this bill or any other bill change it.

I wonder if the majority leader might consider laying this bill on the table or delaying action on it until other amendments could be offered.

Mr. HELM IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Would the gentleman like to interrogate the majority leader.

Mr. STRAUSSER. Yes, sir.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STRAUSSER. Mr. Speaker, after this interrogation I wondered whether the majority leader might consider tabling this bill or delaying action on it until such time as it could be either amended or clarified? I feel that this bill now in its present form will more or less make a ridiculous act out of our present elevator code. I am firmly convinced that we have an excellent code and I would hate to see this code be deteriorated in any way.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I certainly will consent to cooperate in any way that the gentleman wishes, but I would like to ask the gentleman, was he not in a series of conferences for better than a week in which the amendments presented to me bore his name and initials as approving that this would make the bill correct?

Mr. STRAUSSER. Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether it was a week, but it was for several days, and I must say that I had full consideration and cooperation from the majority leader and the people on his side. But, in going over this bill over the weekend, Mr. Speaker, I frankly got confused and when I saw the definitions, contradictory sections of this under the definition part of the act, I made up my mind that I was going to clarify it on the floor before we vote on it. I find no fault at all with the major repairs' part of this bill; it is good; they need to be inspected.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, before I consent to the motion, will the gentleman give me some idea of how long it will take at this point to offer the amendments that he has in mind? Could it be done within the next couple days?

Mr. STRAUSSER. We certainly will try, Mr. Speaker.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 819, entitled

An Act amending "The Fish Law of 1959" approved December 15, 1959 (P. L. 1779), regulating the sale of bait fish and changing the period for which purchased fish bait, fish or fish bait may be sold or held in possession.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we would appreciate it if Mr. Breth on the other side would explain this bill as it is now amended.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRETH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed. The gentleman has been asked to explain the bill as it has been amended.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to be technical, but there is a technical point involved in this particular bill.

We all know that fishermen use bait, and bait can be anything, but under law there are two kinds of bait. There is fish bait and bait fish. I think this is, perhaps, the matter that needs to be understood in this particular bill.

Fish bait would be something like worms; bait fish would be minnows. Now, under the present law the Fish Commission has power to regulate the sales of fish and fish bait, but not bait fish. Are you still with me?

All right. Therefore, a part of this bill is inserting bait fish into the act, along with fish bait. The other part of the act changes the period in which fish bait, or bait fish, which is being sold by a licensed seller, can be held by the fisherman who buys it.

In other words, if I bought a certain number of bait fish, and held them for a while, under the present act I can keep adding to those and adding to those. As the Fish Commission here says, they could catch the prohibited bait fish from streams and other areas and add them to it and still show a purchase certificate. Therefore, by extending the period from six days to 15 days that fish bait and bait fish can be kept from the date that they are sold will give the Fish Commission direct control.

Do you want me to go into the problem of control?

In many of our streams there is a limited amount of food available for fish. In certain streams the Fish Commission can regulate the taking of those particular kinds of food which feed the fish that are normally in the stream. Therefore, the fisherman is not allowed to take them out of the stream, although he can purchase them from a licensed propagator, a licensed seller, who raises them himself and offers them for sale. To make sure that the dealer is protected in this act we have exempted in lines 14 and 15 the length of time that a dealer can hold bait fish and fish bait. In other words, a dealer will buy 5,000 minnows. To limit him to 15 days, maybe he would only sell 2,000 in 15 days and he is stuck with the other 3,000. So by re-including in the act, except in the case of bait fish or fish bait which may be held in possession by a dealer until disposed of, makes this act workable by the Commission and workable by the dealer and it is fair to everyone.

I hope you will all see fit to support it. It is especially requested by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission to clarify that particular part of the act.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Clearfield permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRETH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman to turn to the bill and direct his attention particularly to line 13 on page 2.

Mr. BRETH. This bill has not been printed exactly. Do you mean the line below 13 or above 13?

Mr. AUKER. It seems to be line 13. It starts with the word "except" in the brackets.

Mr. BRETH. All right.

Mr. AUKER. Under those brackets the way they are, and I again refer you particularly to the brackets on page 14 where the words "and purchasers" is bracketed out, does that take the purchasers out of this bill entirely?

Mr. BRETH. No. If you will read the bottom of the bill which is in the act as of now, you will see that this bill would be a disservice to the dealers as it was originally introduced, because it made the dealers subject to the limitation of 15 days. Now by bracketing the "dealer" back in and again bracketing out "and purchasers," you regulate the person the Fish Commission wishes to regulate.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman. I raised the point particularly because I raised that point myself and I was wrong in thinking that the purchasers were out of the bill. I wanted to clarify that for everybody, the purchasers are not out of the law.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Let us pray.

Almighty God, in Whom the whole family of heaven and earth is named, we, Thy children, born of Thy great earthly family, acknowledge Thee to be our God, Creator of our bodies and of our spirits and bountiful Benefactor of our lives. As such, we worship Thee.

O Thou, Who are strong and mighty, we beseech Thee to make us strong in Thee. Give us strength of body that we may do our work well and cheerfully, and bear the burdens of others. Give us strength of mind that we may fearlessly accept Thy truth and faithfully hold to it. Give us strength of heart that we may love Thee with all our powers, and love our neighbor as ourselves. Increase our faith that we may trust in Thy promises. Give us patience that we may, with our Lord and Master, be made perfect through suffering, knowing that all things work together for good to them who love Thee.

O God, Who, by Thy providence, didst lead our forefathers to this good land wherein we found liberty and freedom to worship Thee, we beseech Thee ever to guide our Nation in the way of Thy truth and peace, so that we may never fail in the blessings which Thou hast promised to that people whose God is the Lord. ### COMMENDING THE FIRST CATHOLIC SLOVAK UNION OF THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA

Mr. STAISEY offered the following resolution (Serial No. 54), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, May 2, 1961.

The First Catholic Slovak Union of the United States and Canada, known as the "Jednota," will hold its 34th triennial national convention during the week of August 27, 1961, in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, with delegates attending from most of the fifty States in our Nation, to commemorate the founding of the Union seventy-one years ago.

The loyal members of the Slovak Union stand firmly against alien influence seeking to diminish or destroy our American institutions and democratic form of government and they have made many sacrifices for liberation of their Slovak kin and those of other enslaved nations.

The Jednota, the largest body of free people of Slovak origin and descent, numbering more than 103,000 members, has an exemplary and enviable record throughout its seventy-one years of existence, of fostering and perpetuating as a heritage the vigorous support among its members and their neighbors of the principles of freedom and brotherhood which has made America a great Nation.

The Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania takes this opportunity to extend greetings and encouragement to the "Jednota" and to the delegates attending the convention, for exemplary support and promotion of the principles of freedom and brotherhood; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That this Senate of Pennsylvania extends its welcome to the delegates at this 34th triennial national convention and commends the First Catholic Slovak Union of the United States and Canada, the "Jednota," on the occasion of this convention and celebration of its seventy-first anniversary; and be it further

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

SB 332—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I am going to vote "no" on this bill because it will interfere, to a great extent, with the collection of the income tax in Philadelphia.

There are a great many people who avoid the payment of taxes for no good reason, and the only way the money can be collected from them is by a notice in the form of a warrant to appear before a magistrate, where they can be fined $100. Then they come through and pay their tax.

It will serve no good purpose to pass this bill, and I am asking my colleagues to vote against it.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I am amazed at the statement of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Silvert. This is not wiping out a remedy to arrest a person by warrant.

Under the wage tax ordinance in Philadelphia, if they would proceed by warrant, we would not have this bill. Under the collection of the Philadelphia wage tax, they have a very ancient remedy that is being used. This is known as arrest on a capias. This is known as civil arrest. It goes back to the ancient days when if a man did not pay a debt, he would be arrested on civil arrest and thrown into debtors' prison.

Philadelphia today is a progressive city. In Philadelphia, if they seek to put a man in prison, in cases like this they should proceed with a warrant. This is only a bill to wipe out an outmoded method of civil arrest under a capias.

We are living in 1961, not 1761, and it is entirely unjust to seize a man, throw him into prison under a capias, and perhaps give him a hearing or sometimes he does not get a hearing and he perhaps stays in prison.

I am not going to delay the Senate on this matter. However, I want to emphasize that this bill is to erase the right to arrest a man on a capias—a civil arrest—for non-payment of taxes.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would say that the gentleman's point is well-taken, especially when he says that Philadelphia is a progressive city. I heartily agree with that.

I would also join him if he took the same view in matters arising out of tort cases, which can be started by the same method in this Commonwealth. If we had a bill doing away with all types of capiases, in any kind of action, I would say that is the way to go about it and I would agree with that.

The only problem we have here—and one of the reasons that I object to this—is based on the fact that you have to spend the money of other taxpayers in pursuing some of these people by numerous letters and by leaving notices at the homes of these people. The net result is that you cannot get them unless you actually go and get them at which time they will sit down and discuss with the tax collector what is needed.

In order to help not only the city of Philadelphia, but the surrounding counties which benefit from the largess that results from Philadelphia's progressivism, we have to provide the tax funds to do so. I am sure the Senator, who comes from a surrounding county, would want this to continue because there are many areas that surround the city of Philadelphia, such as Abington, which dump their garbage and their sewage into the Philadelphia setup and we take care of this problem for them. For that to continue we need money and, unfortunately, this is one of the ways we have to get it. It may not be the most equitable tax and it may not even be the best tax. However, it is one that has persisted over the years and must continue unless we find some other way of doing it.

It might be that this measure is a little bit harsh. However, I know of no easier way to bring these people in and collect the money from them, or at least get them to do correctly what they should be doing.

We are hoping to remedy this situation. There is a bill presently in committee which we hope to report to the floor very shortly which will allow the employers, who do not now do it, to deduct from the employees' paychecks. Perhaps this will do away with the entire proceeding and perhaps we will not need this form at all.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, in reply to the Majority Leader, I want to say that a capias writ can be obtained merely because a man has not paid his wage tax or for owing the tax. In other words, under the capias proceedings, you can put a man in jail for not having paid taxes. That may appear to be just to the gentleman from Philadelphia, but I do not think it is. I think if we put everyone who has not paid taxes in jail, we are going to need an awful lot of additional jails.

If there is an element of fraud involved, such as not filing a return or falsifying a return, there is adequate remedy under the criminal proceedings. However, this business of putting a man in jail for not having paid his taxes is something that stinks to the high heavens.

I can give you an example of a man from New Jersey, who was an employee of the Philadelphia Navy Yard and who had not paid his taxes. This man was an engineer and a Sunday School teacher. The only thing was that he had not paid his taxes. There was nothing about not filing a return or falsifying it. He had not paid his taxes. The sheriff of Philadelphia County went to the Philadelphia Navy Yard and had this man brought to the front gate. He was put into the paddy wagon, taken to Moyamensing Prison, thrown into a cell on a civil arrest, and it was not until three days later that his family found out where he was.

Mr. President, that is what I am striking at. I am not striking at the orderly collection of taxes. As I look around this Chamber and elsewhere in the Commonwealth, I know there is many a person who has not paid taxes, and God forgive us if we ever see the day when everybody can be put into jail because they do not pay their taxes.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I have heard the gentleman's heart-rending tale, and I am sure there are some facts in it that are true, except for one thing. They never use this proceeding unless there has been a long history where they have tried to reach this man, where letters have been written, and where numerous people have called upon him and asked him to do this thing.

If you are not going to have an orderly procedure and people are not going to be concerned that there is a way of getting to them if they do not do what is right, we might as well do away with our police force, our jails, our courts and the whole system that we have. People are not going to obey authority unless there is some way to exert that authority.

In the case that the gentleman mentioned here, I am sure that they just did not go and get him and throw him in jail. I am sure there must have been a number of attempts made to reach this gentleman. I am certain there must have been a number of letters written to him which he chose to ignore.

There were pictures in the Philadelphia newspapers of these people who refused to pay taxes and refused to come to terms with the tax collector, and there was nothing else they could do except go out and get these people bodily.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I will come back at the Majority Leader and say there might be a little bit of truth in what he said. However, there is a little bit more in what I said. This civil arrest, or this business of locking a man in prison under an ancient capias proceeding for not having paid his taxes, has happened in many cases.

Frankly, Mr. Majority Leader, if I questioned whether or not I owed taxes to the city of Philadelphia and I had complied with the various formalities so there was no question of fraud, the city of Philadelphia could write me an awful lot of letters and I would not come in and pay. If I did not owe the taxes or if I did not have the money to pay the taxes, you would send an awful lot of letters to me.

The point of this whole thing—and it is probably taking too much of the time of the Senate today—is that this Senate today must put the stamp of approval on the right to throw a man in jail for not paying taxes on a civil arrest remedy, such as a capias.

GUESTS OF SENATOR MARTIN SILVERT
PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, may we delay consideration of the Calendar for a minute in order for me to present to the Chair and to the Members of the Senate a group of ladies from the 22nd Ward of the city of Philadelphia? They came here yesterday and are here today in order to witness the induction of the new Auditor General, Mr. Minehart. The ladies are seated to my left. They are here under the leadership of Mrs. Dorothy Taylor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Thank you, Senator Silvert.

The Chair, on behalf of the Members of the Senate, is happy to greet you and welcome you to the Senate. We trust that you will find this to be an interesting afternoon.

Will you please rise?

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. VAN SANT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, on July 19, 1951, an Act was signed by the then Governor of the Commonwealth, increasing the penalties on sports bribery charges, affecting not only the participants in the sports, but also the bribers. It is quite obvious in the last ten years that the penalties are not severe enough to serve as a warning to rattlesnake fixers and young college men who are lured by fancy figures.

For that reason, Mr. President, I am about to introduce a bill to establish a minimum penalty. Evidently, the present penalty of up to a $10,000 fine and up to ten years in prison throws no fear into the athlete nor the briber.

For that reason, I am introducing this bill which will establish minimum penalties in these cases, with the sincere hope that we can wipe out the dastardly events such as occurred recently in the City of Brotherly Love, Philadelphia.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. VAN SANT, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 600, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 24, 1939 (P. L. 872), entitled "The Penal Code," providing a minimum penalty provision for bribery in athletic contests and soliciting or accepting bribes in athletic contests.

Which was committed to the Committee on Law and Order.

Messrs. DEVLIN, WEINER, STAISEY and RIPP, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 601, entitled:

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. LANE. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, if I may, I would like to make an observation. We are now under the dateline of May 2, 1961, and we have planned on adjourning sine die about June 15, 1961.

It appears to me that we are being confronted with a stalemate, as far as the problem of public education is concerned. Last week, we had the experience of losing a resolution which would have created a bipartisan committee to work on this major problem which surely is not political.

I would like the Republican Members to know—this is not going to come as a surprise—that sometime next week, we are going to offer, from this side, another resolution for their consideration. In my opinion, this resolution should not be rejected by the Republican Members. We are trying to do a job for public education at this Session of the General Assembly. I feel that delay is fatal. We must do the job and we must have your support. We must have your help because we may have the name, but we do not have the game in so far as the Majority is concerned.

Therefore, Mr. President, I feel that should the Republican Members take an arbitrary viewpoint again next week, any failure on our educational program will be the responsibility of the Republican Party in Pennsylvania.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I wish to point out to the gentleman that there is a great deal of difference between saying it and doing it. There is no question in the minds of anyone, either in this Chamber or outside of it, that as far as responsibility is concerned, the gentleman who has talked upon the resolution and his colleagues who voted for it are offering it—or, as they say, will offer it—only for the purpose of ducking responsibility. In so far as we are concerned, Mr. President, there is no question that there will be plenty of assistance. It is always available by way of advice and by way of votes for any good educational program which may be offered. We will be very happy to assist in the preparation and promulgation of such a program.

In so far as the bipartisan committee, which resolution was defeated in this Body and which the gentleman said he will again offer, I believe that they do have a sufficient number of votes on that side to pass such a resolution. However, be that as it may, I will now say that if they will consider a possibility of offering a resolution for a bipartisan study committee, with the proviso that the bills, upon completion of the study, will be delivered to the Presiding Officer and sent to the proper Committee of the Senate, then we may give it some further consideration.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, in listening to the Minority Leader's speech, I was wondering whether he was not working both sides of the street. He takes one position with reference to the resolution and he indicates that it is a foregone conclusion that the Republican Members are not going to support our resolution. He then states that we have sufficient votes on this side to pass such a resolution. I am wondering whether the Minority Leader would elaborate just a little bit and inform us whether he will give us sufficient votes in order to pass the resolution. If so, we will be very happy to cooperate.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, my only answer to that is what I said before. Last week, on this some subject, I said that if the gentleman is ready for a coalition government, we stand ready to cooperate 100 per cent.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I am not going to say very much more. However, the proof of the pudding is in the eating. It seems to be a foregone conclusion that they are going to oppose the resolution and we are going to give them the opportunity again to vote it down.

SENATE MESSAGE

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION Serial No. 116

The clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, May 1, 1961.

Whereas, The United States has amended an obligation with its good neighbor, the Government of Canada, to contribute its full share toward the successful operation of the St. Lawrence Seaway-Great Lakes Shipping Route; and

Whereas, The only existing navigable facility connecting lakes Erie and Ontario is the Welland Canal which has been sorely pressed to meet the increasing demands of shipping; and

Whereas, The construction of an alternate ship canal would make a major contribution to the security of the United States as well as Canada, because:

(1) In the event of breakdown or destruction of the existing Welland Canal, the commerce of the entire Great Lakes area of the United States and Canada west of Lake Ontario would be denied access by water transportation to the St. Lawrence Seaway and international shipping lanes;

(2) It would provide a more secure inland route for the movement of iron ore in the event of war;

(3) It would ease the strain on congested rail facilities and east coast ports in the time of emergency; and

(4) It would allow the construction and repair of ocean-going vessels in the more secure areas of the Great Lakes; and

Whereas, The construction of the canal would contribute greatly to the prosperity of commerce, industry and agriculture, not only in those states bordering the Great Lakes, but throughout the entire nation; and

Whereas, The commerce of the lake ports of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania would be increased by the benefits accruing to the St. Lawrence Seaway-Great Lakes Shipping Route; and

Whereas, The construction of the canal would stabilize employment, provide job security and expand job opportunities; now, therefore, be it

Resolved (The House of Representatives concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby respectfully memorializes the President and Congress of the United States immediately to provide adequate funds to the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers for the necessary surveys and plans for, and to initiate the construction of, the canal, as aforesaid; and, be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted as follows:

To the President of the United States;

To the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States Congress, and to each member thereof from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania;

To the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania;
To the Secretary of Commerce of Pennsylvania;
To the Chairman of the Port Authority of Erie;
To the Governors and State Legislative Leaders of the States of New York, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Ordered, That the clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The inability of chairmen to secure quorums is a matter that deserves the attention of the leadership in the House and the attention of the members of the House as a whole, if the leadership is not able, operating through the chairmen, to provide quorums when committees meet. It should be as important that members attend committee meetings as that they attend these sessions. Committeemen who do not want to serve on committees should not be permitted to comprise the complement of the committee.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the reason some committees did not have quorums was because there were too many committee meetings in which the same members were involved. The attendance was good at some meetings but they could not be at two at the same time.

The SPEAKER. This is not the only time that committees have failed to meet because of the lack of a quorum.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. McCANN

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 1121, entitled:

An Act repealing the act of May 26, 1949 (P. L. 1846), entitled, "An act fixing the salaries of State mine inspectors under the jurisdiction of the Department of Mines and the expenses incident to their office."

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. KORN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. KORN. asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 1, first to fourth lines of title, by striking out all of said lines and inserting:

Amending the act of May 26, 1949 (P. L. 1846), entitled, "An act fixing the salaries of State mine inspectors under the jurisdiction of the Department of Mines and the expenses incident to their office," further regulating the salary of mine inspectors.

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, lines 1 and 2; page 2, lines 1 and 2, by striking out all of said lines and inserting:

Section 1. Section 1, act of May 26, 1949 (P. L. 1846), entitled, "An act fixing the salaries of State mine inspectors under the jurisdiction of the Department of Mines and the expenses incident to their office," amended October 24, 1955 (P. L. 743), is amended to read:

Section 1. The salary of mine inspectors under the jurisdiction of the Department of Mines and Mineral Industries of this Commonwealth shall be [eight thousand five hundred dollars ($8,500)] nine thousand six hundred dollars ($9,600) per annum, together with the necessary expenses incidental to the performance of their duties under the law, which money shall be paid in the manner now provided by law.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Korn, to speak on these amendments.

Mr. KORN. Mr. Speaker, these amendments do two things: Number one, they retain the right of the legislature to set salaries of the mine inspectors; number two, they raise the salaries of mine inspectors by $1,100.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose the amendments on two basic grounds.

In 1959 this legislature passed an act increasing the salaries of mine inspectors and the said act was vetoed. In 1960 and 1961 the Department of Mines and Mineral Industries called all of the bituminous mine inspectors of this Commonwealth together in a meeting here at Harrisburg. In that meeting the mine inspectors themselves voted to support the bill as it now is, in which the mine inspectors properly would be placed under the executive branch, or under the Secretary of Mines and Mineral Industries, for the purpose of salaries. This amendment, if it should carry, will automatically carry a direct veto and I will oppose the bill.

Since the bill was agreed to by those involved, all the bituminous mine inspectors in this Commonwealth, I urge the membership of this House to oppose the amendments offered by the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Korn, so that we may vote on the bill as agreed to.

Mr. KORN. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Rovanske, rise?

Mr. ROVANSEK. Mr. Speaker, I rise to speak against the amendments.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in order.

Mr. ROVANSEK. Mr. Speaker, had I known in the Committee of Mines and Mineral Industries that there were going to be amendments inserted in this bill, we would never have brought this bill out of committee. This is a direct insult to the committee. The majority were present and agreed with the bureau of mines that the bill be brought out the way it is now. I have to voice my objections to this amendment.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, may I say, of course, that under parliamentary procedure any member of this House has the right to offer amendments to a bill. It was my understanding that the amendments would not be offered, but I am ready for a roll call and agree to a roll call on the amendments.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Knecht, rise?

Mr. KNECHT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the majority leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. KNECHT. Mr. Speaker, the majority leader stated that a meeting of the bituminous mine inspectors was held, but he made no mention of the anthracite mine inspectors. I just wanted to ask him if the wishes of the anthracite mine inspectors were inquired into.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will correct my statement, since I am from bituminous. A meeting was held of all the mine inspectors in the Department of Mines. I am from the bituminous region and, when we voted on 1121 originally and it fell in this House, I was informed by my own mine inspectors in my own county that they had participated in the meeting in which the Secretary of Mines presented to all the mine inspectors this proposition, and they, in turn, evidently voted for and chose this. I should not have said all mine inspectors. I was only in contact with the Department of Mines' Mr. Evans as to the meeting. I was in contact with the mine inspectors in the bituminous mining industry as to their direct participation in the meeting.

Mr. KNECHT. Your answer, then, is that both the bituminous and the anthracite mine inspectors have approved this bill?

Mr. McCANN. It is, sir. They were both in that meeting.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. KORNS and McCANN and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this bill. I oppose it on the principle that today, by passing it, we will be surrendering more of our legislative power to the executive branch of government. I think it is a poor excuse to pass a bill for the reason that a group of mine inspectors met in Harrisburg and told the Secretary of Mines and the mining industry in Pennsylvania that we would rather be under the executive branch of government. That is why I oppose this bill.

We have demonstrated in the past that we can set the salaries of the inspectors in our mining industry, and I believe from things that I see going on on Capitol Hill that it would be much better for members of the legislature to keep the control of these mine inspectors right where it has belonged for many years, here in the legislative branch of government.

That is why I oppose this bill, and I do not think any group of individuals should take it away from us.

Mr. KORNICK. Mr. Speaker, I rise to speak in favor of the bill. Not only the mine inspectors, but the coal industry, the people themselves, are in favor of this bill. You have the same law in bill 1222, which revised the entire coal mining code. Therefore, this is an agreement or understanding between industry, labor and departments. You just passed here about a week ago legislation giving the mine inspectors and first-aid instructors the same privilege. Therefore, I cannot see you pass two bills that try to kill another one. After all, this is an agreement or understanding reached by industry, labor and departments, so I would ask all the members on both sides of the House to vote for this bill.

Mr. ROVANSEK. Mr. Speaker, I have been working in the coal mines for nearly 32 years and I believe, for the information of the members, that since a certain segment of the industry has agreed that this bill should be passed in its original form so that we would have more efficient inspection of our mines and that people would be more competent under the supervision of the Secretary of Mines, who is the sole custodian of those laws, therefore, I am in support of this bill the way it is and I ask a favorable vote on this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

NOT VOTING—11

Eshback,	Mihm,	Prendergast,	Riley,
Fetterolf,	Monroe,	Price,	Royer,
Jim,	Murray,	Reidenbach,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 216, entitled:

An Act to define, license and regulate resident and non-resident auctioneers and apprentice auctioneers in this Commonwealth and revising, consolidating and making the law uniform thereto creating the State Auctioneers Commission *** and providing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. McCANDLESS and ZIMMERMAN asked unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 6, page 6, line 16, by inserting after "Instruction": except that such license need not be obtained by any person conducting an auction or sale at auction of the equipment, livestock, household goods and real property of an individual farm or the household goods and real property of an individual home or household.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. VERONA. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose these amendments and I ask for a roll call.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Butler, Mr. McCandless.

Mr. McCANDLESS. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the members of this House support these amendments for this reason: This bill, in its original form, I think, is a violation of the rights of an individual. If these amendments are not put in, it is not a good bill. I ask the support of these amendments because we have been passing a lot of bills that take away the individual rights and freedoms of our people, and I think that these amendments are reasonable and right. We need this amendment.

Mr. BOIES. Mr. Speaker, I oppose the amendments to this bill, because it is the same old argument we have every time we try to license anybody, or control anybody, by legislation, we are imposing on individual rights, we are doing this and that and the other thing. The bill as it is presented is a good bill, and on its merits I ask the members of the House to support it, because this amendment is strictly introduced to destroy the bill, and for no other reason.

Mr. O'DELL. I should like to interrogate Mr. Verona.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Verona, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. VERONA. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. O'DELL. Mr. Speaker, this is really a lengthy bill and I admit that I have not read the bill. I should like to ask a question. As I announced last week, I happen to be a retail jeweler. If I wished to close out my business and conduct my own auction sale in my own store, could I do so under this bill?

Mr. VERONA. No, sir.

Mr. O'DELL. I would be prohibited from conducting my own auction?

Mr. VERONA. Yes, sir.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Westmoreland, Dr. Maxwell, rise?

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, we are not debating the bill.

The SPEAKER. The question we have before the House is on these particular amendments.

Mr. O'DELL. I believe the amendments, as I understand them, would give that right to the particular individual, to the farmer, or to the merchant to conduct his own auction.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is inclined to believe that the question asked is basic and fundamental in determining an attitude on the amendments.

Mr. O'DELL. Mr. Speaker, I understand that these amendments would put into the bill the fundamental right of every American to conduct his own auction.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman asked a simple question which, in the opinion of the Chair, should be answered yes or no. It is vital to the point at issue.

Mr. O'DELL. Well, then, the answer is yes; these amendments would give that right to the individual?

The SPEAKER. The Chair is not answering. I say the question can be answered yes or no. I mean not to lead to any debate.

Mr. O'DELL. Well, Mr. Speaker, I do not wish to pursue the matter, but I would like an answer to the question, do these amendments give the right to the individual to conduct his own auction? Perhaps Mr. McCandless would answer that.

Mr. VERONA. I answered the question, Mr. Speaker, the amendments would give him the right to conduct —

Mr. O'DELL. Let me get this right, the amendments as offered by Mr. McCandless would give me or any merchant or individual the right to conduct his own auction sale?

Mr. VERONA. That is right, sir.

Mr. O'DELL. Well, then, I will ask members on both sides of the House to vote for these amendments.

Mr. BOIES. All I want to do, Mr. Speaker, is reiterate the statement, that if you are going to license people to do something under the State law, what is the sense of passing a license bill if you are going to allow anybody to do it? Now this amendment is simply introduced to wreck the bill, and I ask the members to vote against it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Schaaf.

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, I think that the membership of this House should not be confused by the proposition which my good friend and colleague, Mr. O'Dell, presents. I think that, specifically, when you are auctioning off goods, you are not dealing in the ordinary course of business. I question whether Mr. O'Dell would, in his judgment, participate in the auctioning of his own goods. I am sure that he would not. I think the danger inherent in any auction is that you have almost a promiscuous sale of goods, the origin of which is uncertain. And, therefore, I think that this bill is a good piece of legislation and these amendments will strip it of its really good purpose.

Mr. McCANDLESS. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say that what I have heard from proponents of this bill as to what the intention of the bill is, it certainly is not in line with what these amendments would prevent. I would say that if I wanted to have a sale on my farm and I am capable of doing the auctioneering, I do not want a bill in here that is going to prevent me from doing it. I am capable of auctioneering my own stuff off, too.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Erie, Mr. O'Dell.

Mr. O'DELL. Mr. Speaker, still speaking on the amendments, Mr. Verona, would you tell me—the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Schaaf, said I might not be competent to auction off my own business—would you have to hire a professional auctioneer to auction off church boxes at a church social?

How far does this go—taking away our rights?

Mr. VERONA. No, providing he does not get paid for the auctioning.

Mr. O'DELL. How about a volunteer fireman auctioning off articles at the fire hall?

Mr. VERONA. If the auctioneer does not receive pay, no.

Mr. O'DELL. I am not talking about an auctioneer; I am talking about an individual.

Mr. VERONA. No, an auctioneer should conduct the auction.

Mr. O'DELL. An auctioneer does the auctioning?

Suppose a fire company that I belong to has a few items to sell to raise money and we do not want to pay an auctioneer?

Mr. VERONA. The auctioneer would naturally do that free of charge for all charitable organizations.

Mr. O'DELL. That would be quite a departure from regular procedure.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. VERONA and TRUSIO and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 524, entitled:

An Act authorizing the taking and use of notes by jurors during any trial.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House bill No. 577, printer's No. 622

was passed over at the request of Mr. McCANN.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 667, entitled:

An Act requiring the Department of Forests and Waters to issue camping permits for camping in State parks and providing for the term thereof.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MURPHY asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 1, second line of Title, by inserting after "term" and renewal

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 1 by striking out "shall" and inserting: may

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 2 by inserting after "thereof" but not more than twenty per centum of available camping area and facilities in each park shall be made available for renewal applicants.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have a word on these amendments. I had been pressing my button to be recognized before they were passed.

The SPEAKER. The chair will always retreat when the gentleman from Blair attacks. We will recognize the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker.

Mr. AUKER. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman what these amendments do? Many of us are very vitally interested in this bill one way or the other.

The SPEAKER. Will the sponsor of the amendments consent to be interrogated by the gentleman from Blair?

Mr. MURPHY. Yes, Mr. Speaker, I shall.

Mr. AUKER. I would just like to ask the gentleman what these amendments purport to do, how they change the bill?

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inform the gentleman from Blair that I am glad he is interested in this bill.

Mr. Speaker, by these amendments I am attempting to remove an objectionable portion of the bill. Right now it would permit the entire camping area to be used by renewable applicants. This is objected to by the Secretary of Forests and Waters. I am, therefore, limiting the amount of space that may be used by renewable applicants to, (1) residents of Pennsylvania, and, (2) to 20 percent of the available camping space available in each State park.

Mr. AUKER. May I ask the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, if these amendments have been cleared with the department? I am in favor of these amendments, but I would just like to know if they have been cleared with the department?

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I have not cleared any of my legislation or amendments with any departments, administrative or otherwise, at this session.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, then, so that we can clear the record, as I understand the gentleman's amendments, they will limit the camping permits, and that means permits to camp in these State parks, for the entire season that the parks are open to, first, residents of Pennsylvania, and, second, that only such seasonable camping permits will be available to 20 percent of the entire park area. Is that correct?

Mr. MURPHY. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. AUKER. That is all, Mr. Speaker. I thank the gentleman.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to call to the attention of the members that they are not sending sufficient copies of the amendments to the desk. Eight copies are required, and, when they send less, it ties up the mechanism here on the desk. I have instructed the reading clerk to be very careful when the amendments are sent up to see that there are eight copies. We cannot consider the amendments at all unless there are eight copies with which to deal.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I believe the members have only been receiving eight copies and by the time they give a copy to Mr. McCann and myself that only leaves them six. I believe the reference bureau and the various agencies should be notified to make ten copies of all amendments so there will be eight copies left.

The SPEAKER. It also would be a good idea to get ten because maybe once in a while the newspaper gang wants a peep at what is going on. I would not know. They are never very curious about important things, but minor matters they might want to investigate.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, they have been peeping a little bit too much lately.

The SPEAKER. No, they just fish in mud puddles; they do not fish in the lake.

The Chair requests the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Helm, to preside.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 942, entitled:

An Act amending the act of October 21, 1959 (P. L. 1345), entitled, "An act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies with the approval of the Secretary of Public Welfare and the Governor to convey 153.91 acres more or less of land in Bensalem Township, Bucks County ***", authorizing the conveyance of four appurtenant easements; authorizing the sale of less than all of the said tracts ***.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Gallagher, permit himself to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Gallagher, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GALLAGHER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Will the gentleman inform the Speaker whether or not we passed a bill similar to this in the 1959 session?

Mr. GALLAGHER. Yes, we did.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Was that bill signed by the Governor?

Mr. GALLAGHER. I believe it fell in the Senate.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Did the gentleman say the bill fell in the Senate?

Mr. GALLAGHER. That is my understanding.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. I believe the gentleman is incorrect. He will find that this bill has been signed into law by the Governor.

However, does the gentleman know whether or not a deed or deeds have been executed between the Commonwealth and the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission as a result of that act in 1959?

Mr. GALLAGHER. No, I do not know.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, before I interrogate the gentleman from Bucks any further, perhaps I have the wrong man. Does the gentleman know the purpose of House bill 1220?

Mr. GALLAGHER. Yes, I do.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Would the gentleman tell me the purpose of House bill 1220?

Mr. GALLAGHER. Mr. Speaker, it exchanges properties from one department to another in the Commonwealth and it is tied into a package with the bill, as I believe was passed today, allowing the sale of land in Somerset County.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, I understood the gentleman to say this bill authorizes the transfer of land between two separate departments of this Commonwealth. I would appreciate it if the gentleman would tell me what those two departments are.

Mr. GALLAGHER. If the gentleman will allow me to get the bill, I will read it.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Please do.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman care to interrogate me about the bill?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, I would be very happy to, if Mr. Gallagher will relinquish his position at this point.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Gallagher, yield to the majority leader?

Mr. GALLAGHER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that the majority leader has a different answer to the last question I put to the gentleman from Bucks?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am going to be rather frank. The gentleman knows the answer to each one of those questions. He met with the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission and the Deputy Attorney General of this Commonwealth. The gentleman knows why the act that was passed two years ago could not be signed. If the gentleman does not want this act passed concerning Bucks County and Somerset County, he can say so and we will vote "no" now.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. I would like to say that I do not want this act passed. I have discussed the matter with the gentlemen from Somerset County. I realize that the purpose for Somerset County is a laudable purpose, that they intend to convey certain land presently owned not by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania but owned by the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, a separate body which is not responsible to this House, not responsible to the citizens of Pennsylvania, but only to its bondholders. They desire to obtain certain land in Somerset County. They are going to use it for a good purpose and that makes sense to me. However, that land can be purchased from the turnpike commission and I think that is the proper way to approach this.

I will accept the majority leader's suggestion that this bill not be passed, and I would ask everyone to so vote, if there is a vote on this bill. If there is no vote, if it is just going back into committee, that is fine.

I would, however, like to have the opportunity to explain my reasons for this position.

Number one, this bill was passed and I think all of us, or most of us—well, I will say all of us—were derelict who were here in 1959 not to realize the great disparity in the value of the land that was being conveyed in my county of Bucks to the turnpike commission in exchange for State land. This is not an exchange between departments. All too often we have what I term "swaps" between departments. This was not such, and this bill is not such. This is an exchange between the Commonwealth, let us call that the taxpayers, and the turnpike commission, and let us call that the bondholders, because there is a difference. We were exchanging far more value of State-owned land in Bucks County for far less value of land in Somerset County. This was a disservice to the taxpayers of Pennsylvania.

I wish to compliment and commend the Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for realizing this great disparity. I wish to point out that, although the Attorney General realized the disparity, her memorandum either arrived at the Governor's office too late or it was disregarded by the Governor because, despite that memorandum, the bill was signed in 1959.

Now, I would like to point out several other things. This land in Bucks County is worth thousands and thousands of dollars. It is at the intersection of U. S. 1, the major north-south highway in the eastern part of Pennsylvania, and its intersection with the Pennsylvania turnpike. Recent sales of land in that area have indicated values as high as $25,000 per acre. There is a four-acre tract included within this bill, which I believe and am informed by members—let up put it this way, employees of the turnpike commission—is valued at $100,000 for these four acres. I am reliably informed by a member of this House from Somerset County that the entire 109 acres in Somerset County has probably a maximum value of $40,000. I would like to point out that for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to sell or dispose of excess land to the public, or to anyone who is interested in purchasing it, it requires, as I understand, an act of this House. So there is scrutiny of any land transaction between the State of Pennsylvania and any private citizen.

However, this does not hold true for transactions between the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission and a private citizen. The turnpike commission is sui generis; it is a thing unto itself; it is unlike any other thing, as a matter of fact, in Pennsylvania. It is much like an authority, but it is not exactly like an authority. It can sell at public sale, it can sell at private sale, it can sell on negotiated bid, it can sell any way it likes.

I would like to point out that this land in Bensalem Township adjoins—I do not say it is the same land, but it adjoins and abuts upon one of the proposed sites for a harness racing track. I would like to point out that the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission at this time has 5,000 acres of excess land which could, and I think should, be sold to interested people so that it can be put back on the tax rolls of Pennsylvania.

I think we are fortunate in that we have discovered that an act of this House was, in my opinion, an erroneous act in 1959. I think we can remedy that by not passing House bill 1220. I assume in the absence of the passage of this bill that this transaction, which is an unfair transaction, between the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission will not go through. I thank the majority leader for stating that we will not pass this bill.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, could I interrogate the gentleman from Somerset County, Mr. Stiteler?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Stiteler, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STITELER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Stiteler, tell me if he is in favor of this transaction as far as Somerset County is concerned?

Mr. STITELER. I am.

Mr. McCANN. Is the gentleman in favor of the intention for which the land is to be used in Somerset County?

Mr. STITELER. Yes, sir.

Mr. McCANN. Will the gentleman tell this House what the plans are for Somerset County regarding this ground?

Mr. STITELER. In that connection, I would defer to Mr. Korns who is more familiar with it than I am.

Mr. McCANN. I am sorry, I did not know which legislative district or area.

May I ask Mr. Korns of Somerset, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Stiteler, yield to the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Korns?

Mr. STITELER. I will, sir.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Korns, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KORN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Korns, will you inform the House of the intended use of this ground in Somerset County and if you are in favor of this program.

Mr. KORN. I am very much in favor of this program.

No. 1, this bill passed the House and Senate in the last session and was signed by the Governor. The Secretary of Commerce formally met with the industrial development council of Somerset County and presented them with the land. However, when we inquired about a deed to this land, the justice department ruled that there shall be certain amendments to the existing law.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman inform the House if this is not an industrial development in Somerset County by which they hope to bring additional industry into Somerset County?

Mr. KORN. It is.

Mr. McCANN. In the opinion of the gentleman would this land be valued far greater in its potential use in the end than possibly could be realized for acreage at this point?

Mr. KORN. Mr. Speaker, the bulk of this land as it is now is dormant. It is used for no purpose at all. Some of it is now being used for pasture by the Department of Welfare for the Somerset State mental institution, but it is not necessary.
